RAISE CHICKENS BY MASS PRODUCTION

they remain until 8 weeks old, at which age the cockerels weigh from 2 to 2½ pounds, the pullets 1¾ poonds, and are rendy for market. At ten weeks they will weigh 2¾ pounds on an average.

These chicks never touch the ground. The batteries in which they are raised have tiers of cages inside of all-steel frames. Each tier has its quota of chicks. The floor of each tier is meshed wire, size of mesh depending upon size of chicks. All droppings go through the mesh onto a metal floor which is an endless belt which may be turned with a crank to allow cleaning at the end. Thus the chicks never come in contact with the droppings. Each tier is equipped in two sides with feed and water troughs.

Heat for the starting and finishing rooms is furnished by oil-burning furnaces equipped with electric fans which provide air circulation. Room temperature is maintained at 75 degrees, and humidity, an important factor in growth and health, at 70.

Korth's blood-tested parents stock provides all eggs for hatching purposes and no other eggs are hatched in the incubators. This precaution prevents inrouds of disease from untested stock. The blood test reveals pollorum and typhoid. Reactors are always removed from the farm, insuring disease-free stock.

Feeding is an important factor in raising of chicks. For broiler production, especially prepared feed producing soft meat is fed. For laying stock, feed which produces eggs is fed.

Sanitation is another important item. Floors are washed down daily and batteries are hand-washed every time chicks are transferred, using a strong sterilizing solution. The place smells like a hospital operating room.

Korth's plant has a weekly capacity of 500 chickens, in and out, a yearly capacity of 26,000. Seventy-five tons of feed is required yearly to take care of the chicks raised.

The plant is an interesting place, one Charlevoix can be proud to have as a local institution.

This Isn't Buffalo Or Boston--But

There Is Real Need For This Modern Bank

It takes a lot of money to keep the wheels of exchange turning in the large cities. In the great money marts like New York and London the need of money is tremendous.

Even in our own community it takes a lot of cash and credit to keep the business wheels going around. The need is supplied by this modern, community-serving banking institution.

Knowing the community, we are always in a position to serve the normal banking requirements of local individuals and businesses. We have connections, too, that enable us to serve the large and unusual financial needs arising in this community.

ANGLERS ASKED REPORT MARKED TROUT

SEEK DATA IN RAINBOWS RELEASED 4 YEARS AGO

Thousand Fish With Dorsel and Adipose Fins Removed Were Released in Lake Charlevoix

With the trout fishing season but a few weeks away, Charlevoix county sportsmen are again requested to be on the look-out for marked rainbow trout.

A letter to the Charlevoix Sportsmans Club from Albert S. Hazzard, director of the division of fisheries, department of conservation, is quoted as follows:

"The trout season again approaches, and I would like to suggest to the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club that the posters advertising the marked rainbow trout be distributed among the boat liveries and sporting goods stores around Lake Charlevoix. If any appreciable number of marked trout have survived, they should begin to appear in the catch this year.

"Two marked fish have been reported to date. One was captured in June, 1938, at a size of approximately 17 inches. Svar Svenson caught one in Round lake harbor last fall weighing slightly over three pounds. No others have been reported."

Conforming with the above request, the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club asks all fishermen to watch for these marked trout and if one is caught to report it at once. The dorsal and adipose fins of about 1,000 rainbows were removed before the fish were released in Lake Charlevoix. The marking was made as a means of checking the growth and migratory habits of the fish and any reports will greatly assist in this endeavor.

LOW COST LEAD FORMS CHEAP LAWN PROTECTION

Method of Application Explained by Michigan State College

Lowest cost lawn insurance in history is possible in 1940. Lead arsenate, a useful gardening and lawn poisoning substance, is the cheapest it has ever been.

Which leads Professor E. I. McDaniel of the entomology department of Michigan State College to recommend treatment of old or new lawns. Six potential pests can be eliminated, any one of which usually is a swear word agitator to the average home owner.

Treatments vary for old or new lawns.

For an old lawn, Professor McDaniel suggests three treatments at times when the lawn is being rolled. Each time the treatment should consist of 2½ pounds of lead arsenate to 1,000 square feet of lawn. For better spreading, the treatment is mixed with a bushel of dry dirt or sand and then watered in well. Application times on an old lawn are spring, August and a subsequent treatment the following spring.

On new lawns a different attack is used. Before seeding, an application of 10 pounds of the lead arsenate to 1,000 square feet is distributed and worked into the topsoil. This is sufficient for four to five years of protection from white grubs which eat bluegrass roots, from the grubs of rose beetles or rose chaffers, earthworms, ants, some of the cutworms and sod webworms.

NURSERY STOCK BUYERS WARNED ON PURCHASES

Should Insist on Certificate of Inspection When Buying Stock

Purchasers of nursery stock should insist, for their protection, that it be accompanied by a valid certificate of inspection, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. With an exceptionally heavy volume of plants and shrubs moving this spring, the department warned that attempts may be made to dispose of inferior, uninspected nursery stock.

"Under the provisions of the insect pest and plant disease act," Ag. Commissioner Elmer A. Beamer pointed out, "it is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell or give away any nursery stock such as strawberry, raspberry or other bramble fruit plants, perennial flowering plants, trees, shrubs and vines, either nursery grown or wild, without first having such stock inspected by an authorized inspector and a certificate issued by the department of agriculture, indicating that plants have been duly inspected and found to be apparently free from dangerous insects and contagious diseases.

"When purchasing nursery stock be certain that it is accompanied by a valid certificate of inspection, as this is your assurance that the stock has been officially inspected and it is issued for your protection."

AND ASSOCIATE DEALERS

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By Your Congressman
Frad Bradley
11th District Michigan

Economy was good medicine in January when this Congress convened. The President, in his message on the state of the union, proposed certain economies which left much to be desired, because it still left the budget over two billion dollars out of balance, and new taxes were recommended as a means of keeping the federal debt within the 45 billion limit. But it was a step in the right direction.

The House of Representatives seemed more than willing to accept the nation's No. 1 problem, deficit spending, and its appropriations committee proposed to go one step further by making certain reductions in spending which would avoid additional taxes at this time. In passing the agricultural appropriation bill the House accepted these reductions. But the bill went to the Senate, and there the economy tide turned when the measure was passed with 212 millions added to the total.

House Joins in Spree

Last week the House went on a spending spree of its own. The medicine that was taken in January was no longer good medicine. It added $50,000,000 to the CCC appropriation, raising the total to $280,000,000 and it voted an additional $17,450,000 for the NYA, raising the total to more than was available for this agency for the current year. In each instance the appropriation exceeded the amount recommended in the President's budget.

The House action is just the first step in the enactment of these budget items. But it does indicate the new trend and final passage may be expected to carry the larger sums, and likely other appropriations still to be acted upon will also be raised.

Early in the session, I predicted that economy would be thrown out the window, that the recommendations for reductions were intended as gestures to satisfy the public demand to reduce the deficit spending. Congress always votes more money in election years.

Public Pressure Applied

It is interesting to note how public pressure is applied on Congress to continue the spending spree. While a large majority of citizens agree with Mr. Roosevelt's campaign declaration of 1932 that—"Most liberal governments are wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy," they are not in agreement as to the manner in which reductions shall be effected. Organized minorities each favor some particular federal spending activity and when there is a move to reduce its cost, a howl of protest is raised.

The CCC budget is a part of the Labor Federal Security Bill now before the House. I have received letters, telegrams, telephone calls, pleading that provision be made to continue all of the CCC camps now being operated. Every other congressman is prevailed to in the same way. And so the agency is granted the money it needs to operate and the bill is passed with this higher amount, the 1500 camps will be continued.

Now the $50,000,000 involved in the CCC increase is a large amount of money, but not when it is weighed against the thousands of millions included in the budget as a whole. But other sections want other increases, for farm subsidies, for housing, for dozens of other activities now financed by the federal government. And when the public demand for increases for each of these is satisfied, the budget will have been thrown out of balance for another two to four billions, this to be added to the national debt of over 42 billions.

One northern Michigan editor hit the nail on the head when he wrote recently:

"The CCC incident serves to give an idea of the difficulties confronting congressmen when they make a sincere effort to reduce taxes. Everyone wants economy, but there are always some who dislike losing the benefits of public spending. The people also must shoulder some of the blame for government extravagance."

Talk Rehabilitation

Two weeks ago, I wrote that I had arranged for a conference to discuss northern Michigan's rehabilitation. It was time, I wrote, to emerge from just talking about the problem and find ways and means of doing something about it. Well, last week several congressmen, at my invitation, met with executives of various government agencies, including Forest Service, Farm Security, Soil Conservation, Work Projects and some other agencies. M. W. Torkelson of Manistique, chairman of the Northern Lakes Regional Planning Committee, attended the conference. An effort was made to agree on a workable program. Some progress was made, I sincerely believe. For instance the Work Projects representative outlined the manner in which projects might be developed for the national and state forests, ways to help low-income farmers, to supplement their present earning power, were considered, as well as farm land clearing. I regret that the program has not yet reached that stage of development where it might be outlined, but I shall discuss it further in some future article.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Give High Value to Hen Manure

Just to settle an old argument, the plant food values of stable and hen manure are compared by Ray Conolly, field manager of the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association and stationed at Michigan State College.

Hen manure is twice as valuable as stable manure, if it is properly used and fortified with daily additions of super phosphate to preserve the nitrogen and to make a complete fertilizer of the droppings.

One ton of fresh stable manure contains 1500 pounds of water and 500 pounds of dry matter. The dry matter contains 28 pounds of fertilizer, eight to ten pounds of nitrogen, the same amount of phosphoric acid and six to eight pounds of potash.

Fresh hen manure is but 50 per cent water. Air dried hen manure contains an average of eight per cent water, 1.83 per cent nitrogen, 2.05 per cent phosphoric acid and 1.02 per cent potash, twice the amount of plant nutrients found in stable manure.

Hen manure usually receives less care than other farm sources of fertilizer, even though the poultry droppings are easy to handle. For a flock of 100 hens, the only precaution is to add daily four pounds of 16 to 20 per cent super phosphate to absorb the liquids and preserve the nitrogen. The result is a complete fertilizer with about a 1-5-1 formula. If hen manure is applied to the land, half as much is ample. The application should be plowed under and cropped for three years before that land again is used for a poultry range.

APPETITES BEG FOR FOOD VARIETY

Most families welcome new hot dishes that will tempt at the end of winter th. jaded, end-of-the-winter appetites. And members of the home economics staff at Michigan State College have some ideas for main dishes that will bring a touch of spring to either the noon or evening meal.

Eggs are down in price now, so it's an especially good time to plan meals around them. Cheese is another favorite that will bring variety into meals at low cost. Fish suggests many unusual dishes, and both fresh and canned fish is available—thanks to quick freezing and rapid train transportation. Nuts, too, offer a pleasant surprise when they appear in the main dish for dinner or supper. Thus ea on, peanut, wa nut and pecans are especially comfort.

Your suggestion from the federal bureau of home economics indicate different types of main dishes that will make use of these foods. A fluffy, golden-brown soufflé is hard to surpass. Or, if you're in a hurry, omelet, offer another excellent way to use eggs. Cheese, flaked fish, vegetable pulp or ground meat can be added to either the soufflé or the omelet to make them worthy of their ranking as main dishes.

Croquettes are especially suitable for a hot lunch or supper dish, and they're just as good for dinner. Make the croquettes with chopped nuts, flaked fish, eggs, or cheese—and the usual "binder" of thick sauce and "mixer" of mashed potatoes or cooked cereal. Or, if you'd rather not bother with deep-fat frying, you can use fish or nuts in a baked loaf.

As a finishing touch for croquettes and loaves, serve them with a well-seasoned sauce. Depending on the main ingredient of the loaf or croquette, you may choose an egg sauce, tomato sauce or plain white sauce.

FORESIGHT

The ability to prepare for a situation before it arrives is what we know as foresight. And it is surprising how many of the worries and headaches of afterthought it saves. The man who makes it his business to discount emergencies is seldom caught unawares.—Grit.

Cutting of most of Michigan's basswood trees has resulted in a scarcity of basswood honey, considered a great delicacy. Other forest trees and shrubs important for honey production are sugar maple, wild red raspberry, wild cherry, honey locust, black locust, bush honeysuckle, pear, staghorn sumac, blackberry, willow and tree lindens.

It occurs to me that we have about reached the point where we should liquidate the National Labor Relations Board and amend the law which that agency is using to destroy business. — Representative Eugene Cox (Dem., Ga.).

Sugarin' Time

Sap flowing in maple trees signals spring's arrival and returns tidy income to many Michigan "sugar bush" owners. Total value of Michigan maple products, last year, was $218,000, highest since 1931, with 387,000 trees tapped, 17,000 pounds of sugar and 104,000 gallons of syrup produced.

Cat Likes Bright Lights

Hubbardston—For three nights in a row, a local farmer discovered a light he was sure had been turned off was still burning in the barn. On the fourth night he learned that a kitten, playing with a dangling switch cord, had been turning on the light.

Youngster is Hero

Marion—When his mother discovered the roof of their home was blazing, nine-year old Gernld Helmholdt jumped out of bed and grabbed a pail of water. Bare-footed and still wearing his pajamas, he climbed from a shed to the roof of the house and calmly put out the fire. He then went back to bed and was soon fast asleep.

Trees Go; So Does Farm

Leland—Sixteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olson planted two spruce trees on their farm near here. When she died 12 years ago, Mrs. Olson asked her husband to care for the trees. Later he moved to Ludington, but refused to sell the farm, making frequent trips to it to carry out his wife's last wishes. When, on such a trip this winter, he found only roughly chupped stumps of the two trees, he sold the farm.

Blood Donors Organize

Merrill—Local Knights of Columbus have organized a group of blood donors among their membership. Under the voluntary plan, blood will be provided without cost to persons needing transfusions and who are unable to pay for them.

License is Unpopular

Iron River — Although Michigan has no special license plate numbers this year, there is one combination that the local bureau manager would like to get rid of. It is TH-13-13. The plates have been issued and returned three times.

"Meanest Man" Dupes Boy

Mason—Termed "another meanest man", an itinerant "nlvertising" man victimized a local high school youth recently. He asked the boy to oversee addressing of envelopes and delivery of samples and nlso tu endorse a check. When the check bounced, the boy was out $20.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading-room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Unreality" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, April 7.

The Golden Text (Jeremiah 3:23) is: "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (I John 2:15): "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 21): "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns nway from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit."

The man who made time stand still for 60 years. His nnme was Baron Ballysnne and, from the days of Queen Victoria until his recent death, he refused to admit that the world was changing. Read about his strange existence in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

LANSING LETTER

on the 1940 national rampaign; it's not going to be a walkaway for the Republicans no matter whom they nominate for president at Philadelphia next June. And Michigan faces a strenuous fight too.

Hence, the importance of the young voters.

When we chatted with him at Lansing, Thomson explained apologetically that he had been up half the night taking care of a sick cow at his farm near Jackson. "I had a chance to sell her last spring," he said, "for around $315. Last night we lost her, so I'm not feeling any too happy about it."

Balance of Power

"Yes, I believe that every citizen should take a personal interest in politics—not only on the primary or election day, but the very next day and every day in the year. This notion that politics is something tainted and besmirching—a thing to be ashamed of and apologized for—such an attitude can never encourage good and honest government. The next day after an election should find the voter just as interested in politics as he was the day before.

"In my experience, I have found that upstate state politics are cleaner as a rule than every-day business. Of course, I can't speak for Wayne county as I have lived upstate all my life.

"Young voters under the age of 40 years hold the balance of power if they would only use it. It was the young voter in his twenties or thirties who brought about the New Deal. Tests show that the average person of 40 years or more was about equally divided between the two parties, and, if anything, he was inclined to be conservative rather than liberal.

"Remember, the Republicans have not won a national election for nearly 12 years. The young voter, 31 years old, has never known economic normalcy in this country. Since he came of legal age, he has always seen or heard of relief rolls, work project signs, and other indications of unemployment. To him this economic subnormal condition has been normal.

"Consider also the vast expenditure of relief money during recent years. (Federal allotments to Michigan totaled $417,143,503 within the past five years). We have what is equivalent today to professional reliefers. In England the second generation is now on the government dole. Heaven help us if we have to come to that in this country! A few reliefers even confuse relief with pensions. They actually believe they are going to receive public assistance indefinitely. You and I know that relief is only a temporary substitute for jobs, that our great challenge is to find work in private industry for the millions who are now unemployed."

Old Age Pensions

The Republican state chairman feels that "America's biggest calamity" is our young people today who are unable to find work.

It is this class of citizens from whom prisons, hospitals and asylums draw most of their inmates, and Mr. Thomson believes that idleness has been an important contributing cause.

But what can be done to help youth economically?

"I was just over to the governor's office this afternoon discussing this very problem," said Thomson.

"The span of life has increased in recent decades. We have more old people today, fewer young people. Life insurance statistics tell us this. Undoubtedly a helpful solution would be to put more persons on old age pensions, and this our state administration is trying to do in 1940.

"An ideal way to handle old age pensions would be to lower the age limit when business was bad and jobs were scarce; raise the limit when we were enjoying prosperity and jobs were plentiful.

"Every person who is retired at 60 or 65 from work would be replaced by a younger person.

"I believe it was Congressman Blackney of Flint who called attention to the large number of unnaturalized persons who live in the United States today, many of them at good paying jobs. It is estimated that we have 8,000,000 aliens here today, of which 5,000,000 entered this country legally and the remainder illegally.

"American industrial concerns are beginning to require that an employee must be an American citizen."

Thomson's Formula

The 1940 campaign formula, as indicated by the Republican state chairman, include the following points (of course there are others):

Interest more young voters in the Republican party and its principles.

Increase the old age pension roll as rapidly as possible, possibly lowering the age limit when unemployment is widespread and by having the local rolls certified by local committees. This would take persons of retirement age from employment rolls; their jobs could be taken by younger persons.

Restore economic confidence by a sane administration at Washington. This would create jobs in private industry, lessen the need for relief as a temporary substitute for employment. It should be every citizen's business to take daily interest in politics, to contribute financially to his party, and to vote on election day.

P. S. In the near future we will present interview with Charles S. Porritt, Democratic chairman.

That Super-Winter! Science Blames Volcanoes

Writing in The American Weekly with the April 7 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, Harold O. SPEARING LEGAL IN NON-TROUT STREAMS

Designated Species "Rough" Fish May be Taken Until May 15

The spring spearing season on non-trout streams beginning now in lower Michigan permits the taking of six species of rough fish—carp, suckers, redhorse, mullet, dogfish and garpike. In lower Michigan the season runs until Mny 15. Stream spearing of the same six species is permitted in the upper peninsula during the month of May.

Spearers taking these fish during their upstream spawning runs should consult their local conservation officers to learn which streams and parts of streams are open to spearing, and on which of the open streams jacks or other artificial lights may be used.

Dip netters for suckers, mullet, smelt, carp, dogfish and garpike also may learn from conservation officers which local streams are open to dip netting and what other regulations prevail. Dip netting has been legal since March 1, and continues in season until May 15, except in designated smelt waters, where it is permitted until May 31, for smelt only.

ST. MARY'S PERISH COUNCIL ORGANIZED BY CATHOLIC WOMEN

The members of the St. Mary's Catholic church have recently organized a parish group, an affiliate of the National Council of Catholic Women, to be known as the St. Mary's Parish Council. The president of the group is Miss Mary Margaret Orlowski and the secretary-treasurer is Miss Florence Gibson.

The first meeting was held March 27 and the following committees were appointed: committee on N. C. C. W., Mrs. Herbert Campbell, Mrs. Elmer Barber, Miss Gibson and Miss Orlowski; committee on study clubs, Mrs. Clinton Cooper, Mrs. Frank Oleksy and Mrs. Irving Hallett; committee on libraries and literature, Mrs. Harry Bingham, Mrs. Hugh Mayne, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton, Mrs. Ernest Robinette and Miss Mae Bracken; committee on press and publicity, Miss Frances Martin, Mrs. Edward Golden, Mrs. Charles Hamlin and Mrs. George Haggard; committee on hospitality, North side—Mrs. Joseph Foster and Mrs. Joseph Howard; valley and west end—Mrs. Earl Miller and Mrs. Peter Gallagher; south side—Mrs. Tom Bacot, Mrs. George LaBlance, Jr., Mrs. Herbert Campbell and Mrs. Phillip Lemieur. The advisory board for the group includes the officers of the St. Mary's Alter Society and are Mrs. Percy Moran, Mrs. Joseph Foster and Mrs. Louis Orlowski.

The first meeting of the various committees was held Monday evening, April 1, at the home of Miss Mary Orlowski. Miss Orlowski explained the duties of the committees, the aims of the organization and the need for such a council in the smaller community. Following the business session refreshments were served by the hostess.

Two Fire Alarms Monday

The city fire department answered two fire alarms Monday. In neither case damage resulted. A morning blaze, extinguished before the department arrived, was caused at the Richard Farmer residence by a gasoline range. A blazing pan of grease was cause of the afternoon fire at the home of Mrs. Louise Elston.

when I saw him come down State street hill and back the fire truck into the old fire hall alongside the court house. Apparently Charlie got so used to backing into that hole in the wall that he just done it subconsciously. And whnt with a fine new fire hall, too. Tsh! Tsh!

Probably Clayton Smith, Barnard youth, satisfied a boyhood ambition while on a 3-months visit in California. He visited a number of big league baseball training camps, talked with a number of players including the famed Benny McCoy, Grandville youth who sky-rocketed into fame last winter. Enroute home Clayton visited Pike's Peak and other points of interest.

The Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Mary Margaret slipped out into Lake Michigan to get a "feel" of things Tuesdny morning after laying in winter quarters. "According to Capt. Leroy Allers, owner and skipper, it will be some little while yet before ice conditions at the Beavers permit the run to start. In the meantime Rudy Pekrul is continuing to provide airplane service. He's transferred operations to the airport since last week's thaw. Isn't going to take a chance on goin' through the ice like he did last year.

Frederic Fechheimer, well known Charlevoix summer resident, keeps track of us local folks up here during the winter through the Courier. His interest in not missing an issue is attested by the fact he's having March 27 and April issues sent to Charleston, South Carolina, and is due at April 10 and 17 to New York City, following which he said "I'll probably see you on Don Clothier's dock." And as I suspected it would be, his letter was written on the stationery of some tarpon fishing club down in Florida.

Our first thaw of the winter last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It was not so good Sunday, a little better Monday and still more improved Tuesday. A lot of snow disappeared alright, but there's a whale of a lot more got to go if we're going to be able to get to our favorite trout stream by April 27th without wading snow.

Heard of lots of folks going to the smelt runs at Boyne City and East Jordan, but so far haven't found anybody who got any smelt, as usual. Guess it can't be the fish that draws the crowds. Always said Loeb creek, at the proper time, was the best place to get them, anyway.

Perhaps no one thing has stirred up more excitement locally in a long time than the recent depredations of a bald-headed eagle, believed one of a pair nesting at Big Rock Point on the Waller farm. Citizens were mildly surprised when the big bird killed a seagull on Round lake harbor recently in sight of numerous people on Bridge street, but they were astounded Friday by a report from W. H. Wallace that the eagle had snatched up a dog from the vacant lot between his own and the O'Neil residence on Belvedere avenue. Mr. Wallace did not see the eagle actually capture the dog, but saw it winging away only a short distance from the ground with the animal grasped in its talons. It is believed the eagle, which of late has been seen almost daily soaring over the city, is the same one which a week ago Sunday frightened a buck deer onto Lake Michigan ice floes, from where it was rescued by Dale Bradley and Bob Bergman. Strangely enough, the eagle has been conspicuous by its absence since last Friday's incident. In the meantime, however citizens were becoming alarmed over the safety of their pets and parents over the safety of their children.

STATE REPORTS PLENTY TROUT FOR FISHERMEN

Plant During '39 Was Six Million, Including 400,000 Legal Fish

Trout fishermen pointing for the season opening April 27 can plan on catching some of the 6,700,000 trout liberated in Michigan trout lakes and trout streams in 1939. More than 400,000 of them were keepers—of legal size to keep if caught—when they were planted.

Plantings last year which bolster this season's natural trout supply, were made up of more than 3,110,000 brook trout, 2,390,000 brown trout, and 1,200,000 rainbow trout. The total weight of these plantings exceeded 80 tons—more than half, by weight, of all kinds of fish planted in all waters in 1939.

BEAVER ISLAND MAIL BOAT IS TAKEN TO SHIP YARDS

Leaving here Sunday in charge of Capt. Leroy Allers, owner and operator, the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Mary Margaret, has been taken to Two Rivers, Wis., for scraping and painting before beginning the season's operations.

LAKE TROUT REARING IS UNDER WAY

780,000 FRY IN TROUGHS AT LOCAL HATCHERY

Anticipating Planting at Length of Around 3 Inches Will Take Place in July

A lake trout rearing progrsm is under way at the Charlevoix hatchery of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, following transfer of fry from the Oden state hatchery.

Lige Geer, hatchery superintendent, stated today that 780,000 fry, 6 weeks old and averaging in length about 1¼—inches are occupying the hatchery's batteries of rearing troughs. Approximately 200 pounds of beef liver is required to feed the fish. They are given an average of 28 pounds per day.

Barring unforeseen difficulties, the fish should be ready for planting around July 1st. They are expected to reach a length of around 3 inches by that time.

In addition to Mr. Geer and Dan Potter, regular hatchery employes, Harold Newman has been engaged.

This season will mark the second year of operation of the local federal hatchery as a rearing unit. Prior to changes making it a rearing unit, the hatchery was a hatching unit. The fry now in the process of rearing to fingerling stage, was hatched at Oden from spawn taken by local and other Lake Michigan commercial fishermen last fall.

TWO SHALE FORMATIONS IN COUNTY CONTAIN OIL

Two shale formations underlying Michigan, as well as the Michigan coal formation, contain oil, but not in commercial quantities. Antrim shale specimens from Alpena and Charlevoix counties yield four to nine gallons of oil per ton. Working the deeper Collingwood shale was attempted at Collingwood, Ont., in 1859, when seven to eight gallons per ton were obtained by distillation of the crushed shale for two and a half hours.

MERCHANT-POLAR BEAR GAME FRIDAY

FEATURE CONTEST CLOSES LOCAL BASKETBALL SEASON

Contest Between Charlevoix Merchants and Former Polar Bears Expected to be Thriller

Present and former Charlevoix independent basketball team stars will match their ability in a feature contest scheduled for Friday evening, April 12th, at the high school gymnasium.

Marking the close of their 1939-40 season, the Charlevoix Merchants, current protectors of Charlevoix's independent basketball laurels, have booked a game with the once-famous Charlevoix Polar Bears, a team which in years not so distant, cleaved a glorious path in northern Michigan competition.

Thus the days when the combination composed of Deun Davenport, Floyd Brown, Glenroy Ikens, Ray "Stub" Kipke, "Bill" Supernaw, Howard Davenport and Carleton Ikens flourished mightily will be relived briefly (perhaps too briefly) on the local court Friday night.

That the former stars will have an advantage in weight is admitted, but whether they will be short of stamina and ability are subjects for conjecture. Regardless of these doubtful matters, it is a good gamble that the game will be an interesting one to witness.

There will be no preliminary game, the feature contest opening at 8 o'clock.

Editor's Note—Local drug stores, anticipating pressing demands, have ordered an extra supply of liniment.

CANCER EDUCATION CAMPAIGN STARTED

TWO MEETINGS ANNOUNCED BY COUNTY ORGANIZATION

Lectures by Dr. Wallace Chapman at Barnard Grange, April 12; Local Community Room April 17

Marking the initial steps in an educational campaign in Charlevoix county designed to acquaint the public with facts concerning cancer, two meetings have been scheduled under the direction of Mrs. Neil Kreighoff, of Boyne City, county captain of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for Control of Cancer.

The cooperation of Grange organizations has been enlisted in the campaign and, as a result, a meeting is to be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning, April 12, at Barnard Grange hall for members of Barnard, Maple Grove and Marion Center granges. A social hour will follow the lecture.

The second meeting for this section of the county will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, April 17, at the community room in the city hall. All townspeople are urged to attend this meeting.

Dr. Wallace Chapman will deliver lectures at both of the meetings above outlined. The subject, "Facts and Fallacies About Cancer," will be presented with the help of illustrative slides, movies and a life-like wax model of the human body.

Working under the slogan, "Early Cancer is Curable; Fight It With Knowledge," the Women's Field Army Against Cancer, a volunteer educational organization, is being built throughout the country under the auspices of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Its goal is to save lives from cancer by replacing blind fear with knowledge and by showing men and women what they can do as individuals and as part of an organized movement to control this disease.

DAM DEER CREEK TO CONTROL LEVEL DEER LAKE

Boyne City Rod and Gun Club is Sponsoring New Project

The Boyne City Rod & Gun Club voted last Tuesday night to use available funds to construct a dam in the outlet to Deer lake so that the level of the lake could be controlled.

It is well known that many of the big pike that frequent the lake during the summer have been swimming down stream into the Deer creek dam near East Jordan and causing considerable damage to the trout and it is thought that the dam will do much to improve the trout fishing in Deer creek as well as make for better pike fishing in Deer lake. Many of the fishermen living arnund Deer lake are in favor of the project.—Boyne Citizen.

Banquet Held at Charlevoix Hotel, Interesting Program Following at City Hall Community Room

The annual banquet of the Shakespeare Study Club, at which husbands of members are honored guests, was held Thursday evening, April 4, at the Charlevoix Hotel.

About fifty persons were seated at tables decorated with white and yellow snapdragons and daffodils in cut glass bowls, and tall yellow candles in low crystal holders. Covers of the programs, with the hand-painted bust of Shakespeare done in gold on purple paper, were painted by Mrs. Paul Maier.

Mrs. E. J. Edwards, president of the club, welcomed all the guests and introduced Mrs. Pat Hawley, who led the songs between banquet courses.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Freda Shupeck, was given at the community room of the city hall. A one-act comedy, entitled "Wives-in-Law", with such talent as Mrs. Charles Bellinger, Mrs. Paul Maier, Pete Hallett and Pat Hawley in the cast, was the highlight of the program and won much applause. The radio games supervised by Mrs. Shupeck and Robert Bridge, were also highly entertaining.

William J. Froberg, connected with the public relations division of the state highway department as tourist lodge supervisor at New Buffalo, will be the principal speaker of the evening and, in view of his experience in resort promotional efforts every citizen interested in resort work should make a special effort to attend.

Contacting these visitors, Mr. Froberg has learned many things they like and dislike about places they visit. He has rightfully been called Michigan's "official greeter."

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Congratulations to the Boyne City Rod & Gun Club on their plan to dam the outlet of Deer lake to control the lake level and prevent pike from migrating down Deer creek. Now if East Jordan's sportsmen will join the movement with a project to clear the Deer creek power pond of pike, they will have taken the most important step toward providing this region with what is potentially one of the finest German brown trout ponds in northern Michigan, not to mention a very valuable asset to East Jordan.

Complying with a written request, Bob Fochtman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Fochtman, has been added to the Courier family of readers. In his letter, Bob said: "Since joining the army, I have sort of lost touch with the home town. Even though they keep us fairly busy, I still have time to wonder what is happening in Charlevoix. At the present time I am in the Air Corps technical school at Chanute Field." Bob's address is 11th School Squadron, Chanute Field, Illinois.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Is anything wrong with the Michigan party system?

James Thomson, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee has concluded that while the system is good, it could be improved. In fact, he proposes specific suggestions for changes in the state laws governing the selection of committee delegates and nominees. These changes he believes would obviate the need of large campaign contributions or assessment of political employees.

"Jim," the genial farmer-chairman of the Michigan Republican party, draws a line between party organizations and government. His philosophy of the whole matter is old-fashioned.

PLAN RECONDITIONING OF GRAVEL TRUNKLINES

State Purchases 300,000 Tons of Materials for Ready Use

Preparations for reconditioning Michigan trunkline highways following the spring break-up were in full swing this week despite a heavy snowfall through southern central Michigan.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that the problem this year would again be most severe on gravel roads. He said that 300,000 tons of new gravel would be used in patching these roads when the break-up is over. He explained, however, that the surfaces themselves are not damaged by the break-up but the difficulty is caused by failure of subgrades.

Engineers explain that under normal conditions moisture drains down through the soil to its normal drainage channels. The moisture which results from surface thawing, however, has no way of escaping because the ground underneath is frozen. Ditches along the highways will drain some of this water.

To combat the effects of spring thawing, maintenance men are concentrating attention on keeping ditches open and free of obstructions. In some cases holes are bored down through the subgrade to permit more normal drainage.

'41 LICENSE PLATES MAY BE SHORTENED

Decrease to 12 Inches in Length is Now Being Considered

Michigan's automobile license plates, which this year awakened the ire of many motorists because they were unusually large, probably will be smaller next year.

The plates this year are 14½ inches long, and one ingenious person computed that the increased wind resistance cost motorists hundreds of thousands of dollars. At a meeting at Southern Michigan prison, which makes the plates, three members of the secretary of state's staff agreed to reduce 1941 plates to 12 inches. No change was contemplated in the width.

The decision is not definite as yet, and neither has the color of next year's license been determined.

SPONSOR NICKNAME CONTEST FOR FORD USED CAR DEALERS

The state of Michigan and some Ohio counties will be included in the limited $1000 "Nickname Used Car Contest" being sponsored this week by "Dearborn Branch" Ford dealers. By midnight of April 11, ten used car buyers will each be $100 better off, according to D. D. Harris, chairman, of Lansing, Michigan, who describes the contest as follows.

"To enter our Nickname Contest all the used car buyer has to do is to give the car he buys a nickname. People have nicknamed their cars for years—such names as 'Betsy', or 'Elmer', for examples. We want to encourage used car owners to think up better nicknames for their cars than 'Betsy', or 'Elmer.' So we are giving 10 prizes of $100 each by April 11, for the catchiest nicknames. The names may be descriptive—'Lansing Liner', for instance—or funny or serious. Our judges are Hon. John L. Carey, Mayor of Dearborn, Michigan; Gordon Kingsbury, director of advertising courses at Wayne University, Detroit; and G. D. Gettins, automobile editor of the Toledo Blade, Toledo, Ohio.

"Of course," said Karl Erber, "there's more to the Nickname Contest than a desire to improve car nicknames. We Ford dealers want to impress the public with the fact that this time of year is the best time to buy a used car, when the selection is largest and prices are low. We think it's well worth $1000 to us to get action now from people who are in the market but are putting off buying for no particular reason."

THE GOVERNMENT LOSES AGAIN

The federal government loaned money to home owners and here is what has happened:

In the three years of lending operations, HOLC made 1,017,827 loans. That phase of its activity ended June 30, 1936. At the end of 1939 full payments had been made on 65,000 mortgages. The corporation, however, had taken over close to 240,000 homes, had sold 80,800 and still held title to the rest. The original loans had averaged almost exactly $3,000, but on the homes sold after foreclosure the government had an average loss of about $1,000. Many borrowers, of course, had made no real effort to keep up payments. The present accumulated deficit is about $60,000,000. What it will be eventually depends on the market trend in real estate. Foreclosures are still being made at the rate of 400 a month, and sales of foreclosed homes at the rate of 4,000 a month.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Recent Extension Events Attracted Great Interest Throughout County

The first three days of last week saw a large number of meetings and demonstrations on various subjects of interest to rural folks. In fact, eight meetings were held that attracted considerable interest. Several occasions marked the conclusion of projects that have been directed through the winter months.

Dairying With Hays

Of all of the dairy authorities in the state, none is better known or of greater reputation than Jim Hays. He was the main speaker at Boyne City on Monday night, April first, when Howard Lytle, vocational agricultural instructor, finished the night school classes with a light banquet.

During the winter months a series of ten classes were held on the subject of dairying. Mr. Hays, in his usual witty manner, touched upon the high spots of dairying. Ask anyone in attendance how they enjoyed his presentation of the subject matter.

On Tuesday afternoon, in connection with the Boyne Falls agricultural day, Jim Hays spoke on "Mistakes That Other Dairymen Make." His remarks kept the large audience of parents and students in an uproar but the main things to consider in profitable dairying were gotten across to the dairymen and will be remembered. Each year the patrons of the consolidated school are invited in for an all day session featured by a wonderful banquet at noon and a most attractive program touching upon the more important interests of farm families.

On Wednesday night, April third, Thomas Thacker, vocational agricultural instructor at East Jordan, had a fine group of fifty young men and parents present at their final event of the winter months. In this case, a splendid group of young men, recent graduates of the high school, have been studying dairying in a series of fifteen night meetings. Mr. Hays, by mentioning the mistakes that neighbors make, presented the practices and methods to adopt for best results.

Building Septic Tanks With George Amundson

On Wednesday, April third, George Amundson, specialist in agricultural engineering, discussed septic tanks and water systems to two farm groups, one at Charlevoix and the other at Boyne City. The Charlevoix group met in the new city building and the Boyne City group met in the library. Mr. Amundson very expertly discussed the principles and construction of septic tanks. By having a model tank to demonstrate with and colored slides, he showed the various steps in the construction of a tank. Apparently, from the response, a great many more septic tanks and water systems will be installed in the county than there have been for many years. Farmers are more and more interested in having the modern conveniences that years ago were not at their reach. Now, with the opportunities that are present with the use of electricity, great attention is being given to equipment and installations that make farm life more enjoyable.

Conservation With Welsh

Charles Welsh, of the state department of conservation, showed moving pictures on conservation subjects at East Jordan and Walloon Lake on Tuesday, April 2nd. A new film, on the essentials of conservation, was shown for the first time in this section. The first reel, developed in cartoon fashion, showed the relationship between air, water, and soil in such a way that even a young student could understand. The second reel was on archery and the various stages in the development of this popular sport. The third reel entitled "The Red Poacher," certainly illustrated the damage from forest fire. It very nicely showed how the conservation department, through its highly efficient personnel and modern fire fighting equipment, prevents great losses from fires. The deer yard study, supervised by Mr. Walcutt at East Jordan, has been greatly interested in this study and is accomplishing excellent results.

GOD'S TRUST

Michigan will soon take on its new coat of spring and then follows summer. The countless thousands of tourists will again be coming to enjoy the glorious beauties of our state as their summer playground. We must be good hosts, and being good hosts will mean much more than just seeing how much money we can make from their visits. It will mean actually that we must feel glad within our hearts that God has endowed our home state with these wonderful natural beauties and proud we can be hosts to these many tourists who come here to really enjoy themselves. If we are good hosts we will be rewarded materially as well as being the possessor of the knowledge we have not failed in our trust.

PICTURE BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR NUMBER OF EXTRAS

1,230 Alone Took Part in Atlanta Scenes of "Gone With the Wind"

Filming of "Gone With the Wind," opening April 26 on the Palace Theatre screen, established an all-time record for employment of Hollywood extra players.

Twelve thousand days of employment were given to bit players and extras during filming of "Gone With the Wind." The largest number to appear in a single scene was 1230, who represented the residents of Atlanta and soldiers of the Union and Confederate Armies in the spectacular destruction of many parts of Atlanta at the time of burning of the arsenal.

Eric Stacey, assistant to Director Victor Fleming, was in charge of the extras. He originated an elaborate chart system by which to establish their positions so that each player would be able to return to his exact position on the set after a scene, either to re-play it or to proceed with new action.

Little Confusion

"If any douht existed as to the intelligence and ability of Hollywood extras," he said, "this picture dispels it. Our people performed like well-trained soldiers. We had comparatively little confusion and almost no dissension. More important, they sensed the feeling of the story and every one of them became an integral part of the scene. It was the greatest demonstration of extra ability and unity in Hollywood history."

Raymond A. Kline, production manager at Selznick International, with Charles Richards, the casting manager, also confronted the most complicated task they had ever met. It was necessary to retain four cashiers with the company to pay off within thirty minutes after discharge each day. Otherwise, under Screen Actors' Guild regulations, anyone whose check was delayed would be entitled to two hours overtime.

Many War Veterans

Hundreds of the male extras were veterans of the World War, and there was a sprinkling of Spanish-American War vets, so that the military tactics, from squads right to left-front-into-line, were executed professionally.

"We required a considerable lot of the men to be good horsemen," said Stacey. "I think we used almost every ex-cowboy and cavalryman in this part of the country. One of the most famous of the cowpunchers was Yakima Canutt, who played the part of a renegade in the reconstruction scenes."

In preparation three years, "Gone With the Wind" was produced by David O. Selznick, with Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland in the starring roles, and an outstanding cast of featured supporting players.

MAY WE HELP YOU, PLEASE?

"Service with a smile" and excellent service, too, will be the lot of Michigan tourists who are lucky enough to be served by any of these lovely girls when the season rolls around. Living together in a resident work project operated by the Michigan National Youth Administration in cooperation with the City of Charlevoix and the Board of Education, 30 unemployed girls are receiving training in home management, office and library assistants and resort work. Skilled help is much in demand in Michigan's resort centers, and placement from NYA projects of this kind to hotel and resort jobs was almost 100% last year.

RESORT WORK INTERESTS GIRLS AT CHARLEVOIX WORK PROJECT

With the coming of the spring thaws, Michigan turns its attention once again to its second largest industry — the tourist business — and hotel proprietors and resort owners start their annual search for skilled help to cater to their guests during the summer season.

Seeking the efficient and courteous service that tourists demand, many proprietors will look to the resident work project of the Michigan National Youth Administration at Charlevoix to meet their needs.

During the winter, 30 unemployed girls have been enrolled in this project, instituted by the NYA last fall, gaining experience in various types of service work. Courses in resort and hotel work are presided over by an experienced instructor. Girls receive preparation for jobs as chamber maids, hostesses, housekeepers, and cooks.

When this project was set up by the NYA in cooperation with the city of Charlevoix and the board of education, it was organized along the lines of similar projects operated successfully by the NYA and the State Board of Vocational Control last summer. Michigan youth were trained to fill jobs in the resort industry where previously a marked shortage of skilled help had forced employers to import labor from other states.

Intensive four week training was provided at Dowagiac, Ludington, Benton Harbor, Charlevoix, Traverse City, Manistique, and Grand Haven. Of the 200 youth receiving training in these courses, almost 100 per cent were placed in various service jobs.

In addition to receiving experience in resort work, the girls at the Charlevoix project have been engaged in a training program that includes general course in home management. Foods, sewing, home furnishing, and child care are included in this training.

SIGN OF SPRING— GREENS-ON-TABLE

When it comes to food, early vegetables are among the first harbingers of spring, explain home economist members at Michigan State College.

First among these vegetables are the wild greens, dandelion and sorrel in many places. In other sections there are water cress and cowslip, or pokeweed and milkweed. Lambs quarters, purslane, field cress and many others appear on the list of greens in some localities.

When you get the greens into the kitchen, cut off the roots and wilted leaves, if they have any. Then wash the greens thoroughly through several changes of water. Always lift the greens from the water, to let the sand fall to the bottom.

When the greens are used raw in a salad, most of the food values are retained, but be sure to wash them quickly and put them in a cold place to become crisp. Don't soak out the food values by letting the greens stand in water.

If the greens are to be cooked, put them in a covered saucepan. If the pan is thick enough for them to cook slowly, use just the water that clings to the leaves and have a very low fire under the pan. Cook until just tender. Otherwise, cook the greens quickly in a small quantity of salted boiling water. Leave the cover on the pan until the greens are wilted, and then remove the cover to finish cooking. Season the greens lightly, and dress them with butter or other fat, bacon, or bits of salt pork, fried crisp.

Panning is another good way to cook greens, especially those with a pungent flavor. Melt some fat in a skillet and add the chopped greens. Cover the pan to keep in the steam, and cook slowly until tender. A little flour and milk or cream may be added, if desired.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Testimony Wednesday evening of each month at 7:15 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, April 14.

The Golden Text is Isaiah 57:21: "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Bible: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits; who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies" (Psalms 103:2-4).

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 525): "Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or harmful, He did not make,—hence its unreality.

WORLD'S WORKSHOP

The glory and power of printing is not in the past. Its influence in the present makes it a powerful conservator of human progress. It is the hand-maiden of all the arts and industries, and a most effective workman in the world's workshop, to polish and refine the civilization of the age.—Carlyle.

AT THE MOVIES

"Northwest Passage" Comes to the Screen with Star Cast

Bringing to the screen Kenneth Roberts' adventure novel which was the largest selling book in the nation month after month, "Northwest Passage" opens at the Palace Theatre Saturday, April 13, with Spencer Tracy starred and Robert Young and Walter Brennan in leading featured roles.

Filmed entirely in Technicolor, and made after six weeks of work in the wilds of Idaho and several weeks of studio filming, "Northwest Passage" is reported to be the greatest story of physical fortitude ever attempted by the screen.

Following the novel which first ran in the Saturday Evening Post before becoming a best-seller, the picture tells the story of a courageous, hardy band of Rogers' Rangers who in 1756 set forth on a secret mission to wipe out a village of marauding Indians. Among the Rangers are Robert Young as Langdon Towne, a young artist, and Walter Brennan as Hunk Mariner, a seasoned woodsman. Battling against unbelievable odds, the Rangers lug heavy boats over mountains, trek for days through treacherous swamps, cross a river torrent by forming a human chain, a tank and wipe out the Indians and then start a marathon forced march home. Their ranks depleted by Indian attacks and forced to eat lizards and owls, they fight their way back to safety.

The picture is believed to afford Tracy, Academy Award winner for the past two years, his greatest screen role. It is reported it will skyrocket Young to stardom and gives Brennan a role comparable to those which have twice won him awards for best supporting roles of the year. Also featured in the cast are Ruth Hussey and Nat Pendleton. The picture was directed by King Vidor of "The Citadel" fame.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Whooping Cough

The frantics of spring exert a compelling influence on almost everyone at this time of year. Lost in admiration of these new beauties it is easy to forget that certain diseases also put on a special display with the coming of warmer weather. One of the worst of these spring diseases is whooping cough.

Of all the diseases with which the health department has to deal whooping cough is one of the most difficult to control. This is because it is extremely communicable, and also because it begins so innocently—like a common cold. It is during this early mild period when it is spread most readily. One should always view with suspicion a cold which brings with it a cough that is worse at night. After from one to two weeks of preliminary coughing, the true "whoop" begins. This may last seven or eight weeks, but the disease is usually not so communicable after the early weeks.

The dangers of whooping cough are greatest in children under three. In these ages it causes more deaths than diphtheria and scarlet fever combined. Between the years 1921 and 1935 in the city of Baltimore it was shown that in infants with whooping cough one in every ten died.

Recent studies have shown that this deadly disease can be prevented in a high percentage of cases. To do this parents must take their infants to the family physician for a series of simple treatments. This is recommended at about the time the baby is six months old.

If whooping cough does overcome, proper treatment is necessary. A physician must be called at once, and his orders carefully followed. Visitors are kept away. It should never be forgotten that whooping cough is a most serious disease.

Makes Real Fire

Vassar—A cottonwood tree recently cut on the John Bearss farm would make a real bonfire. Too thick to be cut with a saw, the tree trunk had to be notched with an axe before it could be felled. The trunk and main branches contained 22 cords of stove wood.

Pike Was Hungry

White Cloud — Rowland Hawley caught a two-pound pike that must have had a giant appetite. When he cleaned the fish, he found inside it 13 minnows. There were 20 blue gills, two wall-eyed pike, two black bass, and nine unidentified fish.

Mail is Costly

Ferndale — A firm in Bangkok, Siam, bought a setting of 15 hen's eggs from a local man, and paid more for postage than for the eggs themselves. Eggs cost $10, and air mail postage cost was $34.10.

Herd is Hard Hit

Mendon—When a herd of 26 young cattle wandered onto railroad tracks near here recently, a train struck one. After reporting the accident, the train continued. When it had gathered full speed it again ran into the herd, hitting 16 cows, of which 15 died.

New Social Event

Sebewaing — A new social event was held here when Mr. and Mrs. Barney Rothfuss were tendered a surprise housewarming recently. They were presented with a flock of chickens and several bags of feed. The local newspaper termed the party a "chicken shower."

No, Polly Doesn't

Edmore — Polly want a cracker? Not the parrot owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Brooks. What he wants is a finger. That's probably why the bird bit Tom Huyck, local farmer, on the right hand as he was feeding it. Huyck was treated for infection.

Has Older Skates

Olivet — When an Eaton county man revealed last winter that he owned a 54-year-old pair of skates, he met some competition. Walter Grant, Kalamo township farmer, has a pair of ice skates used by his father that are 70 years old, and another pair he used himself as a boy 60 years ago.

Finds Fire is Handy

Northport — Walking home from work, Harold Marsh heard the fire siren and wondered where the blaze was. Arriving home, he was surprised to see the fire truck turn into his own yard. A cookstove had caught fire. His wife, who put out the blaze before firemen arrived, suffered minor burns.

Should Men of 50 Fight Our Wars?

Colonel William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, famous World War veteran who won the coveted Congressional Medal, knows war not only from his own service but also from the sidelines during the Italian invasion of Ethiopia and the Spanish Revolution.

As a result of his experiences, Colonel Donovan offers some startling predictions and convictions concerning military preparedness. Read why he believes that older men should bear the brunt of hardships and dangers of battle. His article appears in This Week, the colorgravure magazine with Sunday's Detroit News.

political parties," he said. "History has proved that we should have at least two major parties. It is all based on the theory that a public officini is an employee of the unit of government which he serves, and that the closer the official is to the people the more apt he is to reflect public opinion in the conduct of public affairs."

Selecting Delegates

"It must be understood that party organization is a distinct and separate function from government, although a public official may be a member of the party.

"As the function of a party organization is to win elections, it is quite apparent that satisfactory administration of public affairs by the party in power is an absolute necessity. My conception of government is that the best party policy is to do the job well while the party is in power.

"Consequently the selection of ward and precinct delegates who will attend the county convention should be given close scrutiny. Likewise, the selection of delegates from the counties to the state convention should be approached with a view of selecting persons who have the interest of the entire public at heart.

How Nominees are Chosen

"You are probably well aware that the governor and lieutenant governor are selected by direct primary vote of the people, while other elective state officials are selected by these party delegates who attend the state conventions."

How are these delegates picked?

"The town and ward delegates are selected for two-year terms by direct vote at the September primary election. Following the primary election, the delegates meet in county conventions which in turn elect delegates to the state convention. Thus the state convention is not held until close to 30 days prior to the general election itself, permitting only a very short time for perfecting party organizations and raising of campaign funds.

"In the first place, the primary election in Michigan is held at such a late date (September) that it does not give more than 30 days of actual working time for formation of party campaign organization. I believe that perhaps a slightly longer period might be desirable in order to acquaint the voting public with campaign issues and with the qualifications of the nominee although this period should not exceed 60 days."

Mr. Thomson indicated that a primary election early in August would be preferable over the present time in September.

Who Picks Committees?

Who selects the ward and precinct committees?

"In Michigan the ward and precinct committee members are selected ordinarily by county chairmen and county secretaries of party organizations," the Republican leader explained.

Who selects the county chairmun?

"After the primary election, the party nominees meet and select the county chairman.

"This method results in a loss of interest after the November election is over and the nominees for office who have selected the county chairman have either won or lost. I feel that if the township and ward committee members could be elected in the same manner as is used for election of delegates to the county convention, it would promote a wider interest in party affairs and result in a more wholesome, attitude looking toward a better public opinion.

Campaign Contributions

"The haste of a campaign conducted in 30 days quite obviously makes it necessary that campaign contributions be forthcoming in sizeable amounts. Could the campaign be spaced over a longer period of time then smaller and more numerous contributions could be made available. These smaller contributions cause the contributor to take the attitude that he is a stockholder in the party organization and thus the party will receive the moral as well as financial support. Large campaign contributions sometimes prove embarrassing after the campaign has been won. The most notable example in recent years was the substantial contribution by John L. Lewis of the CIO to the Democratic National Committee which precipitated introduction of the Hatch bill and the new amendment now pending before Congress.

"The most desirable method of financing a political party would be small contributions by individuals without the odium attached to assessment of political employees. This could be accomplished if sufficient time elapsed between the primary election and the November election to enable enough approaches for individual contributions.

"The work of soliciting party contributions could then be largely entrusted to local party organizations. They (committee members) would not feel that if they were elected for a term of two years their value to the party was ended after the November election.

"This change would prove, I believe, very acceptable to party organizations of either major party as the number of members of the state central committee—four to each congressional district—does not afford enough personal contacts in each district to promote proper organization work.

Convention Reforms?

As for county and state conventions, many suggestions have been advanced to insure responsive action. Among these are: 1—Require that the county chairman preside as chairman of the county convention; 2—Require that the list of official delegates to the state convention be transmitted to the state central committee by the county chairman within five days after the county convention.

(Mr. Thomson said he had heard of these suggestions which are aimed at eliminating "boss control" of county and state conventions, but he made no personal comments as to whether the reforms will be desirable or undesirable.)

Party Responsibility

Thomson's theory of political organization has been to decentralize party responsibility—get it as close to the people as possible.

With that objective in mind, the state central committee organized the Republican county officers association consisting of all county officers who were elected on the Republican ticket.

In addition to this a more recent organization has been the Republican county committee officers association which comprises the chairman, vice-chairmen, and vice-chairwomen, secretaries and treasurers of Republican county committees.

At present time the chairman of the Republican state central committee is serving as president of the county committee officers' association. These additional organizations have resulted, Thomson reported, in correlation of organization activity "the effectiveness of which has been shown in results of recent elections."

"No Dictatorship"

"It is my opinion," concluded the Republican state chairman, "that among people of Michigan and other states of the middle-west there is a desire for return of some sort of party responsibility.

"I feel that this is particularly true among us who expect to vote the Republican ticket in 1940. Our government is based on existence of political parties. It has been successfully tested by balances obtained through the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government.

"Individualists are bound to become provincial in their administration of public affairs.

"Individuality in executive capacity leads to dictatorship and we wish nothing of this sort in our United State of America."

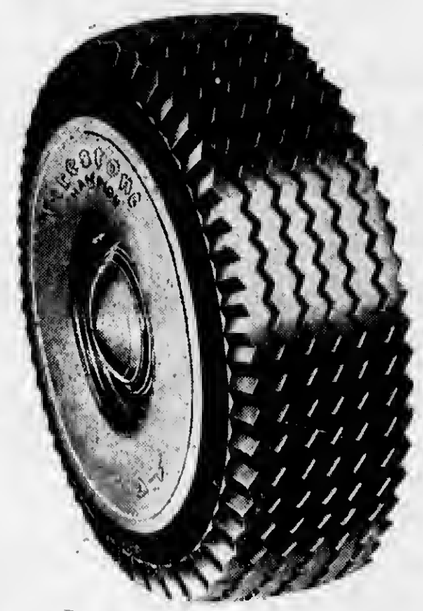
Wherever You Drive You're SAFER on New Firestone Champions

The Only Tires Made with the New Safety-Lock Cord Body and New Gear Grip Tread

On any roads, in any car, in any weather, you are safer on Firestone Champion Tires. And here's the reason:

The Firestone Champion Tire is different, entirely new. Designers swept into the discard all conventional tire building patterns. They created a revolutionary new type of cord body—and an amazingly safe, new styled tread design.



STRONGER CORD BODY

The new Firestone Champion Tire is built by an entirely new method in which each and every component part of the tire is locked and interlocked into a super-safe, inseparable unit of amazing strength. This is accomplished first by the use of a completely new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock" in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to assure cooler running and provide greater strength. Then, the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves, are securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping which provides amazingly greater strength. And greater strength means greater safety.

MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE

The new Safety-Lock cord construction provides the extra strength needed for the use of the new, thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip tread which delivers remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design—it has more than 3,000 sharp-edged angles which grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and assure a safe stop.

Firestone LIFE PROTECTOR the Tire with a Tire

This amazing new Firestone development makes a blowout as harmless as a slow leak.

Should a blowout occur the exclusive Firestone Safety-Valve holds sufficient air in the inner compartment to support the car until it is brought to a safe stop.

Drive in today and let us equip your car with the extra non-skid safety and blowout protection provided in a new set of Firestone Champion Tires—the only Tires that are Safety-Proved on the Speedway for Your Protection on the highway.

WHO READS NEWSPAPERS?

A recent Reader Survey by Guy Thomas Buswell of the University of Chicago for the Carnegie Foundation disclosed these significant facts:

91% of all adults read newspapers regularly.

41% read magazines regularly.

34% read many books.

As circulation records testify, the newspaper goes into more homes today than at any time in history. It offers the most effective and economical path to retail sales.

prepared advertisements and had them published and on the street within six hours from the time the giant liner Queen Elizabeth appeared off New York harbor on her dash from England. As a matter of fact, officials of the Socony-Vacuum Co. held the published advertisement in their hands as the liner steamed up Hudson river. It was smart advertising, the caption "Maker of Mobilgas and Mobiloil Labricate the Queen Elizabeth," and the speed with which it was done revealed the miraculous system the modern newspapers employ.

See where a statistician estimates it takes five million automobiles to transport American anglers to their fishing grounds on our lakes and streams, and that reminded me that three weeks from today (Saturday) providing I'm alive and the boss is willing, I should be in one of those five million cars heading for a trout stream. And inasmuch as 3 weeks from today is April 27th, and the way things look now the woods will be full of snow, streams out of their banks, etc., it's only a logical conclusion that the legislature moved the trout season opening the wrong way when they set it ahead to the last Saturday in April. Setting the opening on a Saturday was alright in order to give the city dwellers a full week end, but the Saturday should have been the second in May.

Boyne City continues to get nation-wide publicity on its Smeltania, good, bad or otherwise. The latest bit comes from the oat-pourings of Louella Parsons, Hollywood tongue-wagger, who said: "The national magazine article on Smeltania, Wis., has put a bee in Bill Keighley's fedora. In Smeltania is a little settlement built entirely of ice where an impoverished little group of people live in houses and fish for smelts right through the floor. They are Wisconsin's 'Grapes of Wrath' problem. Although eligible for relief they are too proud to accept charity and formed this amazing ice settlement where they live and almost make their living—about a dollar a day. The fantastic settlement has so intrigued Director Keighley that he has flown up there to find out the possibility of a movie." Luella, it seems, would do well to check up on her geography as well as guard her use of the word "fantastic."

More basketball laurels for Keith Carey, former Charlevoix high and present Alma College star! At the request of The Detroit Free Press, twenty college coaches, voting in a poll conducted by that newspaper, placed Carey fifth in a list of outstanding college basketball players in Michigan of the 1939-40 season. Not so bad considering players for the University of Michigan, Michigan State College, University of Detroit and other large educational institutions formed the competition. Carey was topped, in order named, by Calihan of Detroit, Rae of Michigan, Aubuchon of Michigan State and Zebroskie of Detroit Tech.

There weren't any "first robin" stories this year. These welcomed harbingers of Spring just showed up sort of sudden-like and are now heralding the arrival of down for us daily. Heard and saw the first myself last Sunday, but others have reported their presence even earlier. And speaking about the season, we're not so bad off this year as some of the more impatient might have us believe. A year ago last Monday there was ice in Lake Michigan as far as one could see, and on the 12th of April the ground was completely covered with snow.

That basketball game Friday night between the Charlevoix Merchants and former Polar Bears should be interesting. A lot of folks are going to go out of curiosity, just to see how much a tip-top team can "slip" in a few years.

Events in the offing bring to mind the near approach of the closing of schools and summer. The senior class play is scheduled for April 19th, the boys and girls are already talking J-Hop, scheduled for May 24.

Sportsmen are anxiously awaiting the annual smelt run at Loch creek. At the present time the mouth of the stream on Lake Charlevoix is ice-bound.

R. J. McDOWELL GAVE ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Selling Charlevoix as Resort Topic for Interesting Discussion

R. J. McDowell, director of merchandising for the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club held Tuesday evening.

The speaker forcefully impressed upon the business men that they were now selling to a market on wheels. The natural opportunities of Charlevoix as a resort city were lauded highly, and the need for a plan for selling the visitors on the idea of making this their resort headquarters was explained.

To overcome competition, the speaker said that Charlevoix must make itself so courteous, so satisfying to the wants of the vacationist that they will stay, and also request their friends to come. The necessity of finding out what the customer wants and furnishing it regardless of whether the seller thinks it is needed or not were brought forth. Satisfy those you have, and others will come, and it is always more profitable to make a customer than a sale.

DICKENS CLUB BANQUET FINE AFFAIR

CLOSED CLUB YEAR LOST WEDNESDAY EVENING

Members Entertained Husbands and Guests at Annual Function at Home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lewis

Members of the Charles Dickens Club held their twenty-first annual banquet, with their husbands as honored guests, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Lewis on Wednesday evening, April 10th.

Tables set for 52 were daintily decorated with yellow and blue candles and bowls of daffodils and forsythia. The lovely place cards painted by Mrs. Floyd Fessenden and Mrs. Earl Young also carrying out the club colors, were yellow butterflies resting on blue cards.

Following a delicious dinner prepared by the menu committee and served by their husbands, Mrs. Harry Ladd, the club president, gave the welcome to the guests.

Mrs. Clinton Cooper, vice president, who has acted as president during Mrs. Ladd's absence this winter, thanked the host and hostess and committees. A resume of the work done by the club members during the year was given, also an interesting history of the club. Mrs. Cooper's original poem "On Characters of Boz" cleverly brought to mind many of the beloved Dickens characters.

Mrs. J. C. Dissette, chairman of the program committee, then called on Mrs. Rollie Lewis to introduce the master of ceremonies, Clair Webster. Under his leadership the husbands of club members entertained their ladies with a Hill Billy skit.

Arthur Wexstaff, S. W. Mower and J. C. Dissette made up the orchestra of real mountaineers. R. F. Sloan as Grandpa Coy, played his part exceptioonally well, while Archie Livingston, as the fasciouting maiden, Gracie Martin, brought the "feudin" to a hilarious end. The Coys and Martins proved themselves real actors and could well grace any vaudeville circuit.

INCREASE IN FISHING LICENSES IS EXPECTED

Sales in '39 New High Record—Wer Conditions May Bring Hike

War in Europe, its effect on prosperity at home and on the tourist business, are factors which may largely determine whether Michigan again will license a record number of fishermen this year. According to latest figures of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, Michigun leads the nation in number of licenses issued.

Nearly complete figures for 1939, announced by the conservation department, show 858,302 licenses of all classifications issued last year. This total, a record, topped the 855,037 licenses issued in 1938, which mark was a high for that and preceding years.

BEST WAY TO INSURE SATISFIED TOURISTS

W. J. Froberg, Board of Commerce Banquet Speaker, Told Ways to Please Vacationists

The proper manner of handling tourists visiting Michigan generally, and Charlevoix particularly, was stressed Thursday night at the board of commerce banquet held at St. Mary's school hall by William J. Froberg, supervisor of the state highway department tourist lodge at New Buffalo.

Such phases as courtesy, hospitality and cooperation were cited as all important in gaining the good will of the tourist. As "official greeter" of the thousands of vacationists making their first contact in Michigan at the New Buffalo lodge, Mr. Froberg has been in a position to learn their likes and dislikes and used this knowledge in offering constructive criticisms.

Mr. Froberg pointed out harmful results of falsely advertising festival attractions which failed to live up to publicity, citing particularly smelt festivals held prior to the spring spawning "runs" this year.

The meeting drew a capacity attendance. E. J. Edwards, president of the board of commerce, acted as toastmaster, introducing Mayor Robert Bridge and City Superintendent Don Herrick, who gave short talks, also visitors from Boyne City, East Jordan, Ironton and Petoskey.

Following organization and disposal of routine business, the 72nd annual spring session of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors adjourned last Wednesday afternoon.

The election of James R. Dean, of Boyne City, as chairman, and appointment of committees for the 1940-41 year was announced last week.

An appropriation of $4,000 for welfare relief during the months of May and June was approved by the board, making a total of $15,300 for the period starting last October.

A proposal to grant $500 for a contemplated WPA project designed to provide construction of a building to house rest rooms and toilets at the Ironton ferry carried by a 16 to 9 vote. The money will be made available if federal approval is given the project. The county road commission and Evcline township are expected to share in financing the construction.

A plan instituted by the Charlevoix board of commerce to issue a folder with the map of Charlevoix county on one side and maps of Charlevoix, East Jordan or Boyne City on the other side of as many copies as each city desires, won support of the board's advertising committee. Upon the committee's recommendation, an appropriation of not to exceed $175 for 10,000 copies, providing also the inclusion of Walloon Lake and Beaver Island, was voted for this purpose, also $60 for repainting the Charlevoix county road sign at the junction of US-131 and M-66.

CLARE McGHAN AWARDED A DAIRYING SCHOLARSHIP

Michigan State College Award in Recognition for Outstanding Work

Clare McGhan, Charlevoix, is receiving the praise of his many friends upon having been awarded a state scholarship because of his outstanding work in the 4-H Club dairy project. This scholarship is paid by the State Board of Agriculture and amounts to fifty dollars in his freshman year and forty-five dollars in his sophomore year upon the proper academic standings.

This is a fitting climax to eight years of participation in the 4-H dairy club program. To show that Clare is putting his knowledge to practical application, he and his father have a herd of Jerseys that averaged over four hundred pounds of butterfat this past year.

We are highly gratified in having this high award come to Clare and trust that it will be of great assistance in his regular four year course at Michigan State which he expects to start this fall.

ACHIEVEMENT DAY A GREAT SUCCESS

OVER 800 PERSONS ATTENDED BOYNE CITY EVENT

4-H Club Members Named on County Honor Roll Chosen by A. G. Kettunen, State Club Leader

(By R. C. Mellencamp)

The 4-H Club Spring Achievement Day, held in the Boyne City gymnasium last Friday, April 12th, was greatly enjoyed by an enthusiastic audience of over eight hundred people from all sections of the county. The exhibits were so numerous that two displays had to be placed on the stage itself. The arrangement was most attractive with the clothing club articles being pinned to white sheets as a background with the handicraft articles placed on tables in the foreground.

The quality of work was somewhat better than any other year. Outstanding among the handicraft articles was a buffet made by Glenn Trojanek of East Jordan. Glenn spent over two hundred hours in the construction of this article. Other beautifully constructed articles were kitchen cabinets made by members of the East Jordan club and two large book shelves made by Franklin Mascho, Charlevoix. Also, a boy's wagon, complete with a rack, made by Sharon Crego, Boyne Falls, was wonderfully constructed. The clothing displays of both the Boyne Falls and East Jordan schools were the largest in this project. In the East Jordan display, the party gowns made by Betty and Margaret Strehl, of East Jordan, aroused a great deal of favorable comment.

The big feature of the afternoon program was the style revue in which 127 girls participated, each wearing the dress she had made as one of the requirements. The revue was divid-

BASEBALL, TRACK PRACTICE OPENED

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET TO BE HELD APRIL 26

First Baseball Game to be at Harbor Springs May 3 — Conference Track Meet Here May 11

Charlevoix high school's spring athletic activity opens Friday, April 26th, with an inter-class track meet at south side athletic field. The initial contest of a 6-game baseball schedule will be played at Harbor Springs on May 3rd. Other games are scheduled with East Jordan and Petoskey.

Over forty candidates for baseball and track reported to Coaches Ray Kipke and Stewart Coleman at the initial session Monday afternoon. Although veterans were not overly plentiful for either sport new-comers of exceptional promise could be spotted in the group warming up for the first time weather permitted practice.

Five veterans of the team which placed third in west division conference competition last year reported Monday. They were Ernie Nowland, catcher; Bub McGhan, shortstop; Ken Wilson, 3rd base; Don Stevens, first base and pitcher, and Max White, a fielder. There were 22 candidates out.

The field of competition in the western class C division is narrowed this year to Charlevoix and Harbor Springs. Boyne City and East Jordan will not compete as heretofore, either in baseball or track. Harbor will not have a track team.

Stewart Coleman, track coach, had four men reporting who were members of the squad which last year won the class C conference meet and placed second to Frankfort in the regional. They were Kenneth Stuley, ½ mile; Jim Martin, mile; George Light, in the dashes, and Ernie Nowland, shot putt. Likely new-comers in track include Novotny, Hallett, Stewart, Livingston, Bergman and Kohler.

Charlevoix's track schedule opens with an inter-class meet on Friday, April 26. The conference meet will be held here May 11. Schools signifying intention to compete so far are Mancelona and Onaway.

SHOT AT RANDOM

Smelt are running Loeb Creek and perch are biting in Round lake! Catches the early part of this week have been good. No smelt in Stover, Barber or Wood creeks yet, though.

Hound dogs running deer in Marion township are scheduled for abbreviated careers if the temper of a group of farmers in that section is any indication. Due to recent depredations, several have promised to shoot on sight the next dog found running deer. Only just recently four hounds badly mangled a deer near Lake 26. The animal's life was saved by some timely shooting at the hounds. Owners of hounds allowed to run at large are warned to keep them out of that section if they value the animals.

The trend is definitely towards tidying up for summer throughout the city and business places are not lacking in this respect, either. In case you have not noticed, there's a fine new soda fountain and waist-high counter at Curtis Pharmacy; a new, modern, attractive store front at Campbell Boot Shop; Mart Block's AG store is making some wonderful improvements; Dr. G. H. Saltonstall's new clinic on Clinton street is undergoing the finishing touches which go

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The state official was gloomy.

"How can you expect the average citizen of Michigan to become concerned over political parties and bosses when he lacks sufficient income to maintain a decent standard of living?" he asked.

Here was a challenging statement. Although the official had been a lifetime Republican, the remark smacked familiarly of the New Deal—the "ill fed, ill clothed, and ill housed" one third of our total population.

We expressed healthy skepticism.

"What do you consider a decent standard of living?" we replied.

The official explained, "I have it on the authority of an endowed foundation that a small per cent of residents in the average Michigan county can afford medical or dental treat-

Wool is Still Good

Frankenmuth — An out of town customer recently brought a wool mattress to a local mill to be washed and carded. Although it has been in this country nearly 100 years, the wool was as good as new after it had been renovated.

FORD DEALERS to give Ten $100 Prizes in the NICKNAME

Used Car Contest Closing April 25th

The map shows the entire State of Michigan and the following counties of Ohio: Allen, Auglaize, Defiance, Fulton, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Logan, Lucas, Marion, Mercer, Ottawa, Paulding, Putnam, Sandusky, Shelby, Union, Van Wert, Wood, Williams, Wyandot.

BUY YOUR USED CAR FROM ANY FORD, MERCURY, OR LINCOLN-ZEPHYR DEALER IN THE TERRITORY SHOWN ON THE MAP BY MIDNIGHT, APRIL 25, AND YOU'RE IN THE RUNNING FOR A $100 CASH PRIZE!

Ten $100 cash prizes! Ford dealers are REPEATING their big $1,000 Nickname Contest. New car sales are still going up fast and used cars are coming in just as fast. These trade-ins must be cleaned out in short order. So Ford dealers are handing out another $1,000 to used car buyers —and slashing prices too!

Read the 3 Simple Rules. Make a down payment and YOU'RE IN! All you do is to nickname the car you buy, write that nickname on the post-paid Entry Card, and mail it! Read car nicknames which have already won $100 apiece. Another ten $100 prizes will be awarded in this week's Contest. See your Ford dealer today!

Follow these 3 Simple Rules

1 See any Ford, Mercury, or Lincoln-Zephyr dealer in the territory shown on the map. Pick out any used car in his stock. When you've made your down payment, the dealer or his salesman will give you a certified, self-addressed and post-paid Entry Card.

2 Write or print on the card a nickname for the car you bought, using not more than five words. Mail the card. It must be postmarked not later than midnight of April 25.

3 The ten best nicknames as determined by the judges will each be awarded a $100 cash prize within a week after the contest closes. Decisions of the judges will be final. In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded. The judges are: Hon. John L. Carey, Mayor of Dearborn, Mich.; G. D. Gettins, Automobile Editor, Toledo Blade; Gordon Kingsbury, Director of Advertising Courses, Wayne Univ.

NEW TRACTOR SHOWN BY NORTHERN AUTO CO.

Tests Show Remarkable Performance for Ford Equipment

The Northern Auto Co. now has on display the new Ford tractor recently put on market by the Ford Motor Co. The machine is powered by a 23-horse-power 4-cylinder motor.

It is claimed by the Ford Co. that the unique Ferguson down-draft hitch gives the light machine more traction under heavy loads than other tractors of greater weight. In a recent demonstration at Cheboygan, it made its way up a steep grade with two 14-inch plows in action after a truck had refused to make the climb, and, in fact, after the tractor itself had proven itself unable to make the grade without plows engaged.

U. S. HAS HALF WORLD TOTAL OF TELEPHONES

Statistics Reveal 15.4 Out of Every 100 Persons Have Phone

There are sixteen times as many people outside the United States as within it, yet this country has nearly one-half of the world's total of 41,090,347 telephones. Outside the United States, on the average, only every 100th person has a telephone, while within the United States there is about one telephone for every six people — 15.4 telephones for every 100 of the population.

There is more telephone wire in the United States than in all the rest of the world—nearly 4,000 feet of wire for each man, woman and child, compared with only slightly over 200 feet of telephone wire per capita in the remainder of the world.

In the United States, the average per capita use of the telephone amounts to 223 calls per year; elsewhere it is only about 16 calls. At present, more than 1,000 telephone calls are completed in this country per second, or more than 91,000,000 calls per day.

POLICE INVESTIGATING RECENT ELLSWORTH FIRE

Suspect Incendiarism in Blaze at Tony Shooks Grocery Store

Fire, which is believed to have been of an incendiary nature, was discovered in the Tony Shooks store in Ellsworth about 12:30 last Tuesday night but did slight damage to the stock and building.

Melvin Rood, in passing by the store saw flames oozing from the walls on south side of the building and gave the alarm. The volunteer firemen who first arrived on the scene state that apparently kerosene had been poured on the walls and stock and fire set to it. It was discovered before the flames had gained headway and was soon extinguished.

According to reports this is the third time in a year that fire has broken out in this grocery and state police are investigating the conflagration.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Curing Tuberculosis

Truth makes its way through the world with laggard step.

Despite the repeated declarations of this column and other sources of health information, medical advisers are continually receiving queries as to the efficacy of this or that drug as a cure for tuberculosis.

According to Dr. J. A. Myers, president of the National Tuberculosis Association: "In our campaign against tuberculosis, we have found no drug which is of value in destroying these germs in the human body." That is a concise statement revealing the limits of our therapeutic knowledge at the present moment. Eventually, perhaps as in the cure of syphilis, we may have in our power such a preparation as potent as salvarsan, used in the cure of syphilis. Everyone exhibiting a positive reaction to the tuberculin test will receive one or more injections of the drug and recovery may be assured.

But, until that longed-for day arrives, we must depend on the defense mechanism of the body to lend whatever aid is possible. This mechanism is unusually able, unaided, to wall off the germs of primary tuberculosis, acquired from others. The individual appears to be quite well and no germs escape from his lungs. But the still living bacilli constitute a threat, and months or years later, should the individual again become infected, the primary organisms join forces with the new invaders and a serious situation develops. The germs entrench themselves in the holes or cavities in the lungs, multiply and later escape to menace all who come in contact with the carrier.

It is during this secondary outbreak, with which the natural defense mechanism is unable to cope, that the body is most in need of aid. Drugs may be employed to relieve pain, decrease cough and overcome insomnia, but they exert no curative action. Surgery, where indicated, and complete rest along offer promise.

If tuberculosis is found to be progressing in the kidney, it may be advisable to remove the whole organ. If the disease is discovered in a bone or joint, it may be assured of rest by being placed in a cast. If the disease is confined to one lung, this is rendered immobile by artificially collapsing it. This is accomplished, when possible, by introducing air into the pleural cavity in as great amount and as frequently as may be required. When necessary, a part of the bony chest wall is removed over the diseased area and the wall and lung allowed to collapse simultaneously. In either case, the multiplication of the germs is stopped and scar tissue is encouraged to form in the diseased area.

The tuberculosis problem is a complex one for the reason that, even though the disease may be halted in the victim, he is able to communicate the germs to others for a long period after his treatment has begun. It is likely that most primary cases are started from just such contacts. Were all, who have reason to suspect they are infected, to report to health authorities, for tuberculin tests and prompt treatment, the disease could be eradicated as nearly as it is being eliminated from the cattle herds of the country.

To delay or to resort to self-medication with worthless drugs is to invite death and encourage the spread of the disease to others.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:15 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, April 21.

The Golden Text (Matthew 20:28) is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matthew 5:16): "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 202): "The scientific unity which exists between God and man must be wrought out in life-practice, and God's will must be universally done."

FOOD FACTS IN A NUTSHELL

Romans Ate Salads

Salads are not the invention of 20th century faddists. They have been used since early Biblical days. The Romans enjoyed lettuce—lactuca, asparagus—asparagus, Onions and garlic were cultivated by the early Egyptians.

Vitamins for Bread

Still in the experimental stage, but an idea for the future for those who want to get all their necessary vitamins in a hurried breakfast is canned grapefruit juice added to bread-dough before cooking.

South American Delicacies

Our exotic neighbors, the South Americans, are furnishing new gastronomic delights to add to the kitchen store of fruits and vegetables. Included in the long list now available for American homes are chayote, a pear-shaped tropical squash, which tastes like a vegetable marrow when boiled or baked; papayu, a melon-like fruit; and plantains, that banana-like fruit that can even be added to soups and stews. It is all part of a "good neighbor" program.

BALD EAGLES NESTING IN FOUR PLACES IN REGION

Sixty-Seven Nests Within Border of Michigan Are Reported

Bald eagles, nesting in four places within a 15-mile area in the Grand Traverse bay region, have been seen from the air recently by Walter E. Hastings, conservation department photographer, flying with Col. Floyd E. Evans, state board of aeronautics director.

Three nests were occupied. The fourth is lined and ready for occupancy.

Hastings submits the nature note with the additional information that almost never are eagles' nests found closer than 20 miles from each other. He adds that reports have been supplied him of 67 similar nests within Michigan's borders and that he has located, in all, some dozen of them.

STATE WILL EXHIBIT AT TROUT FESTIVAL

Conservation and Highway Departments Planning Features

A large group of state exhibits will be one of the highlights of the 1940 Kalkaska National Trout Festival.

Arrangements have been made for various state departments to exhibit displays during the festival and among those who have already signified their plans for exhibiting are the State Department of Conservation, the Michigan State Police, the State Highway Department, and private firms who manufacture fishing tackle, outboard motors and other types of sportsmen's equipment.

Plans for the festival, which is to be staged April 26 and 27, are rapidly taking shape, Mr. Kramer stated, and this year's event is expected to top the festivals of previous years by a wide margin.

Sales for the month were the highest recorded since April, 1937, comparison of the figures showed.

"Did You Lose Your Census?"

Arthur "Bugs" Baer, one of America's best known wits, writes on the country-wide quiz, in The American Weekly with the April 21 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. The famous American humorist suggests that, if you manage to survive the snoopy questions, now is the time to go in training for the next census.

ed into three different classes: Cotton, sports, and wool and party groups. In the style revue the girls came upon the stage in groups of ten with each girl walking forward, making a complete turn, and then going back to her place in the line. No doubt the appearance of Margaret and Betty Strehl, of East Jordan, wearing their party dresses and with male escorts, made a big hit as indicated by the spontaneous applause.

Other numbers in the afternoon program were as follows: The address of welcome by Supt. F. K. Killian; the response, by Sharon Crego, Boyne Falls; invocation, by George Hemmingway; musical numbers, by Clyde Smithingale, Boyne Falls, Doris and Warren Reynolds, Boyne Falls; and talks by Wm. C. Palmer, school commissioner, Orville Walker, District 4-H Club agent, Miss Lois Corbett, assistant State Club leader, and A. G. Kettunen, State Club leader. From ten to twelve in the morning the guests were entertained at the Boyne City theater with a regular moving picture program. Every seat was taken, which means that close to 600 enjoyed this program.

In the competition, the outstanding club members were placed on the county honor roll from which the delegates for the Gaylord Club Camp will be selected. In the handicraft project the following were the recipients of this award:

S'MATTER POP— Ya Can't Lose Pop on Deduction Work By C. M. PAYNE

Keeping Faith with Those Who Read the Famous Book

By VICTOR FLEMING
(Director of "Gone with the Wind")

So far as I know, no one has come forward to claim the championship for rapid reading of Margaret Mitchell's truly dramatic novel, "Gone with the Wind." It is difficult for me to imagine anyone completing a careful digest of the book in less than twenty-four hours of actual reading time. Mr. David Selznick and I sought to get all of the memorable events of that book into an evening of screen entertainment. As it turned out, the story is told in three hours and forty-five minutes of film.

Novels have been converted into screen fare before. A screen director knows that film pace and rhythm can cover much ground which took dozens of pages in a book. That pace I knew would play a major role in our story and I was prepared for it. But I didn't realize that into my hands had been thrust a virtual Bible of Southern life with a string of "Don'ts" a mile long.

Whatever problems we had on "Gone with the Wind" were inconsequential alongside of that matter of creating a story to satisfy the world's greatest pre-sold critical audience any film has ever had. Miss Mitchell had told us what would be authentic and we had to duplicate it. We had no authority to heighten any situation or minimize any other. We couldn't change simply for effect. We were not making a picture to please an author or a cast of characters. Our thought had to be on a public which was rabid on the subject.

So out the window went a major part of the experience-proved dramatic inventions we know. Imagination is a fine thing in entertainment, but accurate transfer of life is another thing. We all know that if we make a picture showing a miner at work, we must be sure to employ a real miner who will have our miner character acting and talking like a miner. We do that to satisfy a really small part of our audience which will know whether we are right or wrong. Yet here we had not a minority but a vast majority of our audience in the position of critical experts.

Down to Reality

I went to work on "Gone with the Wind" with the headaches of pure imagination from "Wizard of Oz" still ringing in my ears. I had felt that picture was quite a problem, but now I began to see something Utopian in an audience which didn't know what a Munchkin was, nor how an Emerald City might look. I was down to the hed rock of reality, with millions of voices shouting, "Hew to the line, mister."

Any important period picture has its headaches. You can't use sixty principals and nine thousand supporting players without realizing you've been through the mill. Nor can you fail to appreciate the responsibility of a motion picture which has accumulated a million working hours from those who helped make it real. They tell me we shot 1,350,000 feet of negative. Now that it's all done, the figure doesn't surprise me.

Editor's Note: "Gone with the Wind" will be shown April 26-29, inclusive, at the Palace Theater.

FORD DEALER NICKNAME CONTEST SUCCESS; IS NOW BEING REPEATED

The Ford Dealers' Used Car Nickname Contest, closing tonight at midnight, has proved to be so popular that it is being repeated, according to D. D. Harris, chairman. The second contest will end at midnight, April 18, says Mr. Harris. As in the first contest, the ten best nicknames given by used car buyers to the cars they buy from Ford dealers, will each win $100 cash prizes. The judges will be the Honorable John L. Carey, Mayor of Dearborn, Michigan; Gordon Kingsbury, director of advertising courses at Wayne University, Detroit; and G. D. Gettins, automobile editor of the Toledo Blade, Toledo, Ohio.

"We were agreeably surprised at the cleverness of the nicknames submitted in our first contest," said Mr. Harris. "In fact, it seems the custom of car naming, so prevalent a few years ago, is being revived thru the nickname contest. It was gratifying to note how few 'ordinary' nicknames, such as 'Bluebird,' or 'Bessie,' were submitted. In any case we were practically forced to repeat our $1000 contest because of the enthusiasm which nickname aroused. Incidentally, the contest has served as a reminder that this is the best time of the year to make a used car purchase, when Ford dealers' stocks offer a wide variety of makes, models and body types."

ment. The depression has reduced standards of living. The average family must deprive itself of proper medical and dental care simply for the reason that its income is too small to afford professional services. And as for hospital service, the same family is wholly incapable of meeting emergency bills.

"Such being the case, and I am convinced that it is, how can you expect Michigan citizens to become excited over who runs our government. A handful of astute political leaders can organize an entire county and do as they please. The voter is indifferent, and the reason is found in economics rather than politics."

America in Nutshell

We called the state official's attention to the new medical and hospital service now being offered to Michigan citizens of moderate incomes on an easy-pay insurance plan.

Low cost medical and hospital care is now available to Michigan people who otherwise might not be able to afford a doctor or a hospital, we pointed out. It was a socialized solution to a general condition which President Roosevelt had dramatized in fireside chats and messages to Congress.

"All right, let's leave out the doctors and hospitals," the official continued.

"Consider than these facts on incomes during 1935-36 brought out by some experts at Washington"—he produced a booklet from his desk—"the bureau of labor statistics, bureau of home economics and the National Resources Committee. These figures were presented to the Temporary National Economic Committee (the monopoly-investigating body) by Dr. Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics.

"We find that 4,000,000 families, or 14 per cent of the total number of families in the United States, had an average income of only $312 in 1935-36. Eight million other families, or 25.5 per cent of the total, had an average income of $758 per year.

"About 7,000,000 families, or 23 per cent of the total, had an average income of $1,224. The annual average for all families was only $826, or $69 a month. Furthermore, figures showed that 14 per cent of all American families had an average income of only $312 a year and were spending only $1 per week per person for food."

"What's the answer to all this?" he said with finality.

How Michigan Ranks

When you want the answer to an unusual problem, you summon an expert, someone who is a specialist in his field.

So we turned to Dr. H. S. Patton, head of the economics department, Michigan State College at East Lansing. Here was an unprejudiced person who could shed light on Michigan's place in the national income picture.

"Who said that Michigan was hard up?" he snapped.

"Michigan ranks eighth of all states in point of per capita income. It leads all states in the middle-west, according to 1937 income tax reports compiled by the national income section of the bureau of domestic commerce at Washington, D. C. The Michigan average was $675 for that year, 92 per cent of the income level for 1929. When you realize that the price index has declined close to 18 per cent during this period, the result is that Michigan citizens had a greater purchasing power in 1937 than in 1929."

And 1937 was the year of the famous sit-down strike at Flint and elsewhere. Surely, compared with 1939, times were not so good then as they are today!

First in U. S.

On March 22 the Associated Press reported that income tax collections for the first 20 days of March showed an astonishing increase of 81 per cent in Michigan.

In fact, the lake state leads the entire country.

Factory payrolls at Detroit and environs in Wayne county lead all other counties in the United States. Despite the removal of 35 factories from Detroit in 1939, new industrial plants and expansions have exceeded this loss by a tremendous margin. The total of new or enlarged industries was 226. Automobile production is at a near-record peak; employment is within nine-tenths of the 1937 high index of 112.3.

Part of this Wayne county prosperity is traced to United States and European Allied army orders.

That the same picture exists elsewhere in Michigan is indicated by income tax payments, an accurate gauge of purchasing power.

More Comparisons

Now for some more cold figures—better read them slowly.

The average per capita income in Michigan was $675 for 1937.

According to the 1935 census of business and industry, the average per capita of retail sales was $287. This was the amount spent for every person in the state at retail establishments for food, clothing, and other commodities including automobiles and household appliances.

Compare these figures with those for nearby states.

In Indiana the average per capita income was $494; retail sales per capita totaled $241.

Illinois: Income, $643; retail sales, $285.

Ohio: Income, $625; retail sales, $294.

Pennsylvania: Income, $586; retail sales, $259.

Go across the Mississippi river into the breadbasket states, and you find these retail sales per capita; Iowa, $263; Kansas, $238; Nebraska, $261; Missouri, $261. Oklahoma is down at $181; Arkansas $130; Texas $221.

Southern states are way down in per capita income and retail sales.

Far west states are way up—California ranking fifth in income ($837) and $410 in retail sales.

Eastern states are also in the prosperity income column — Delaware second with $923; New York fourth with $869; Connecticut sixth with $737 and Rhode Island seventh with $692. Michigan was eighth, the income average per capita being $675. (These figures include payments for relief, soil conservation and subsidies in general).

Michigan Well Off

Another accurate source of information regarding Michigan is the Consumer Market Data Handbook, 1939 edition, compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce. It gives an economic picture of every county in the state and its leading cities and towns.

We find that Michigan retail sales totaled $1,388,240,000; that an army of 163,278 persons were employed in retail stores and were paid $152,323,000 in wages; that 59 per cent of our citizens own their own homes; that automobiles exceed 1,200,000 and radios 1,122,000; that Michigan agriculture furnished a livelihood for 840,514 persons on farms worth $826,261,000 at an average value of $4,205.

What's wrong with Michigan—if anything? Well, you can come to your own conclusions. For us, the above federal figures are quite convincing.

If Michigan citizens are indifferent to government, as exemplified by political parties and leaders, then it is for reasons other than economic. The state official, gloomily surveying the national scene, had obviously overlooked his own state and its green pastures.

WHY BEER IS THE BEVERAGE OF MODERATION

Beer's alcoholic content is very low... lower than any other alcoholic beverage. That is why it is called "the beverage of moderation." You are not likely to get in trouble if you stick to beer.

"AS ALWAYS," NEWSPAPERS FIRST!

Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors knows the value of newspaper advertising.

Here is the testimonial of F. A. Bercud, advertising manager, in outlining the 1940 advertising plans for his company:

"As always, newspapers are carrying the bulk of the campaign because of the opportunity they afford to tie in the local dealer and also because of their extreme flexibility. This newspaper schedule will account for about 60 per cent of our appropriation and will entail the use of 2,000 newspapers in 1,500 cities.

"With Pontiac sales during the past year up 63 per cent against 45 per cent for the industry as a whole, we are setting a high pace for 1940 with the largest introductory campaign in history, representing a gain over last year's expenditures of some 22 per cent."

just a little ways further towards making it the finest in northern Michigan; the Careys are making a double apartment out of the store building on South Bridge street formerly occupied by the Curtis Market; Carl Bogart is building two apartments as an addition to his place at the corner of Bridge and Lincoln; that new Rexall electric sign on the Central Drug Store; interior alterations at Fessenden's; dressing up of the display windows at Bergeon's. Great going!

I believe we have all learned to look for the original and unique from Earl Young and I'd venture the guess the series of advertisements he has started, the first of which appears this week, will be no exception.

AS OTHERS SEE IT—

"Charlevoix people should be loudly and freely complimented for the stand they took in deciding to abandon their spring perch catching carnival that has taken place when perch come out of the Great Lakes and become so plentiful in Round lake, a considerable body of water almost in the heart of the city, and are taken on hook and line by the thousands, as people come from all over Michigan and some from outside our state, to enjoy the perch fishing. The carnival was abandoned because Charlevoix people, realizing the perch are about ready to do their spawning at that time, might better be allowed to spawn and thereby propagate and multiply the perch family than lessen the supply by destroying them at reproducing time." — Cheboygan Observer.

A year ago Monday, April 16, 1939, the first boat made its entrance into Round lake harbor from Lake Michigan. Quite a contrast in view of the fact boats have been operating for several weeks this spring.

While they will never give Charlevoix the fame the Dionne quintuplets did Callendar, Canada, triplet lambs born to a ewe sheep owned by "Cappy" Hooker are almost as rare a product of nature. One out of five ewes will give birth to twin lambs, it is understood, but triplets are an unusual occurrence. Inasmuch as nature didn't make nursing provisions for three lambs, the smallest of the triplets is being bottle fed.

Acknowledge herewith expression of appreciation from Mrs. Howard Bennett for publicity given Flint-Charlevoix Club party in this publication. Mrs. Bennett also said: "Personally I want to thank you and your paper, too. We look forward to its arrival every week. I took several recent copies with me to the party and many availed themselves of the opportunity of reading the 'old home town news'." Such expressions of appreciation make your efforts worth while.

The Boyne Citizen chided this writer a little for commenting about the Petoskey Transportation Co. Str. J. B. John being ice-locked at Boyne City. So long as they don't try to burden me with some of their Smeltania and smelt dipping racket, I'll struggle along under the load.

Yeh, there was some ice in Lake Charlevoix, alright. The J. B. John took 14 hours to come down from Boyne City, Monday, passing here around 2 o'clock on her way into Lake Michigan. The ship pulled away from Boyne at midnight Monday, it is understood, and bucked heavy ice all the way out.

Round lake harbor has had an unusually large quota of migrating ducks this spring. Large flocks of Golden Eyes, Bluebills, Whistlers, Scaups, Teal and Mergansers have been taking advantage of the open water for several weeks to rest on the northward flight. They have provided an interesting study for lovers of bird life.

Unless the weather takes a radical change before April 27th, many trout fishermen will need snowshoes to reach their favorite waters. Attempted to drive into White's Headquarters on the Jordan river last Sunday and found the road blocked with three foot of snow. In fact, snow has barely started to recede on the north side of hills where the sun cannot get at it. Such conditions mean high, roily water, provided you can get to the streams at all.

"KNOW MICHIGAN" WEEK LAUNCHED AT BANQUET

Charlevoix Sent Group of Six to Grand Rapids Meeting Friday

Charlevoix was represented by a delegation of six at the "springboard" dinner launching "Know Michigan" week activities at Grand Rapids last Friday evening.

Headed by C. S. Webster, Charlevoix county chairman of the campaign, the group included Mayor Robert Bridge, E. J. Edwards, president, Don Herrick, secretary, Earl A. Young and H. I. Ochs, directors of the board of commerce. The meeting drew an attendance of 540 persons, representing nearly every west Michigan county.

Theme of the meeting was aptly described in the remarks of John C. Ketcham of Hastings, former member of congress and principal speaker, who said: "Go away from this meeting and boost strongly and consistently for Michigan — more than you ever have before. There is nothing the matter with us, as one of our great industrial leaders has said, that can't be cured by brains, energy and a spirit of good will."

A representative of each county was given an opportunity to speak before the meeting. Mr. Webster stressed the Venetian boat parade, one of Charlevoix's colorful summer events.

FISHING GROUPS HELO MEETINGS

AIRED VIEWS ON INDUSTRY AT TRAVERSE CONFERENCE

Ten District Organizations Formed in State for Future Action — Willis Cross Heads Dist. 2

Little definite progress appears to have been made at a two-day conference held Thursday and Friday at Traverse City by representatives of sportsmen's groups, commercial and trolling interests and fisheries experts for the purpose of remedying the alarming decrease of commercial fish in the Great Lakes, particularly Lake Michigan.

More than a dozen men attended the meeting, which was arranged and presided over by F. Granger Weil of Port Huron, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Michigan. Several of the persons present were members of a special committee headed by Mr. Weil which is seeking to gather and compile information which will later be turned over to the organization for consideration and the mapping out of a program of action.

Nomerous subjects, many of them controversial, were discossed at the meeting after Mr. Weil had briefly explained the background of the movement and the purpose of the conference. Lynn Hoxie of Traverse City, representing the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, spoke on the trollers' viewpoint, and proposed keeping certain areas in Grand Traverse Bay for use by trollers exclusively. Theron Darrow, Traverse City commercial fisherman, suggested that a longer closed season on lake trout be instituted as a means of halting the depletion of fish. Mr. Darrow proposed that the closed season extend from October 20 to November 25th.

Dr. John VanOosten of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries stated that in his opinion both commercial and trolling regulations are needed. He emphasized that uniform regulations governing fishing activities for each lake of the Great Lakes must be placed in effect, so that Wisconsin and Michigan fishermen will be abiding by the same law.

At a meeting Thursday evening, District No. 2 of the Michigan Fish Producers' Association was formed. Some 61 commercial fishermen representing Lake Michigan ports, were present. In all, 10 districts are being similarly organized. Willis Cross, local commercial fisherman, was named district president, Otto Anderson of Manistee, secretary-treasurer, and Edward Carlson of Northport, counselor on the state board.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

In case you weren't aware of the fact, those boats poking around in the ice on Lake Charlevoix last Sunday, were having their bottoms cleared of n winter's accumulntion of moss.

Seems Harold Lamb wasn't mentioned as one of the star performers at the Dickens Club annual banquet a couple weeks ago, so we'll hasten to make amends. Dressed as a Russian Count or Duke or something, he gave some selections on the accordian, much to the amusement of the assemblage. Without betraying any confidences or indicating lack of appreciation, we also want to explain that the news item telling of the event was contributed, so how was a poor fellow to know whether or not all worthy of mention were mentioned.

Have heard some pretty caustic complaints regarding the small number of business men attending the recent board of commerce banquet. The remarks followed the line of thought that it is the local business man who benefits most from promotional efforts of the board of commerce, thus such individuals should show more interests, perhaps, than their contribution of tax money to support of the organization's activi-

MAY 1 IS LAST DAY FOR FARMER SIGN AAA PLAN

Final Notice is Made by County Office at Boyne City

Charlevoix county farmers have until May 1, to sign their 1940 AAA farm plans. The farm plan shows the soil-depleting acreage allotments, the soil-building goal and the maximum payment which can be earned by each farm through cooperation with the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Farmers who intend to cooperate with the farm program sign their farm plans, indicating that they want their farms inspected this summer to determine performance.

Up to April 20, 800 farmers in Charlevoix county had signed their farm plans. This number represents 61 per cent of all the farmers in the county.

All farmers who plan to participate in the 1940 AAA program, but have not as yet signed their farm plans, should call at the county AAA office, in Boyne City, at once.

CAUTION WITH GRASS FIRES IS REQUESTED

Ask Persons Call Fire Dept. Before Setting Fires in City

Due to the danger of grass fires spreading out of control at this season, Fire Chief Charles Marshall has requested that all persons planning to build grass or rubbish fires within the city limits call the fire department first.

Numerous alarms have been answered during the past week to extinguish grass fires and, while no serious damage has resulted, the danger is always present and a call to the department will facilitate handling such emergencies.

Mr. Marshall also pointed out that those living outside the city limits should call the conservation department lookout tower, Boyne City phone 71, before starting fires. It is pointed out that a few acres of grass burning under close guard may appear like an uncontrolled fire to the tower look-out.

PICNIC TABLE PLANS WITH HIGHWAY MAPS

State Highway Department Will Provide New Service

The state highway department this year will provide every user of an official department map with plans for construction of a picnic table identical with those in roadside parks.

Exact plans and specifications for the tables are being printed on the reverse side of the highway maps which will be distributed free this spring. The map will not be ready for distribution until some time in May.

The roadside table designs are being made available to the motoring public in deference to a constant demand for construction blue prints. Through past tourist seasons, the department has been asked by out-of-state tourists to furnish plans for the roadside tables which they found peculiar to Michigan highways.

Designs for the tables originated with the department. They are built of white pine and white cedar, and more than 3,000 of them will be scattered along the 9,000-mile trunk line system this summer.

OUTLOOK IN DOUBT FOR OPENING DAYS

HIGH, ROILY WATER LIKELY TO GREET FISHERMEN

No Special Trout License This Year; $1 Fee for All Persons Over 17 Years of Age

Trout fishermen will be wise not to set their hopes too high for the opening days of the fishing season which begins Saturday, April 27, and runs through Labor Day.

From all reports the season is going to be backward this year for continued cold weather has retarded thawing of snow in swamps and protected hills through the trout country. If warm weather prevails thru the days immediately prior to the opening flood water is bound to make streams and rivers high and roily. The combination of high water, fast flow and late development of aquatic life, both plant and insect, is everything but ideal for good fishing. The old argument again pops up, that the season opens too early. This may be true for the fly fishermen, but not for the plunkers.

Weather conditions have the pond and lake fishermen worried, too, for as late as last Sunday many such favorite fishing places were ice-locked. Thus the universal prayer is for warm weather, and at once.

Observers who have visited along many of our more popular trout streams during the past few months say they have seen plenty of trout and most of them have been "keepers." This was expected for the newly planted fish of 1939 had a fine winter with plenty of open water and food and the plants last year were unusually heavy.

This year there is no special trout fishing license, a general license costing $1 for all residents covers all fishing and must be possessed by all persons over 17 years of age. However, the wife of a fisherman gets permission to fish without charge through a special identification card issued at the time friend husband buys his license, provided it is requested.

Non-residents are charged $2 for the season and the wife 50 cents for the same privileges granted residents.

The daily creel limit remains at 15 in one day and in possession. This means 15 of one species or in the aggregate. The attempt to increase the possession limit during the last legislative session failed. All brooks, browns and rainbows must be at least seven inches long. Fishermen are asked that smaller fish should be handled carefully with wet hands and returned uninjured to the water if possible.

Lakes Open, Too

There are about 100 inland lakes designated as trout lakes that also open on April 27. The complete list is found in the digest of the fishing laws given every license buyer when he makes his purchase. Most of these are brook trout waters.

STATE FERRIES BEGIN ON REGULAR SCHEDULE

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Like the old admonition "hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water" is the 1940 move of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League.

Hang your hat at the roadside inn, but don't take a drink.

It's the rural roadhouse and tavern, subject to local control of the township board and the county sheriff, which is the target of the Michigan drys' new initiatory petitions, now being circulated in the southern counties of the state.

As a rallying point for temperance forces, the proposed law would prohibit sale of all alcoholic beverages in unincorporated areas. It would end the prevalent "oasis" now thriving in township areas just beyond the limits of many incorporated towns

Again, the judges will be the Honorable John L. Carey, mayor of Dearborn, Michigan; Gordon Kingsbury, director of advertising coures at Wayne University; and G. D. Gettins, automobile editor of the Toledo Blade.

"We were agreeably surprised at the unusual interest which our Nickname Contest aroused," said Karl Erber, manager of the Northern Auto Co., local Ford dealers. "Our first three contests, of a week's duration each, proved to be so popular that Ford dealers are glad to invest a third $1000 in prizes. In most of the comments which we have received so far, people have complimented us upon the simplicity of the contest. There are no puzzles to solve, essays to write, or questions to answer. All the contestant needs to do is to write a nickname for the car he buys, using any number of words up to five. The ten best names win checks for $100 each.

This Was No Bull

Freeport—It wasn't a bull, but a cow that fell on Henry Yoder recently, painfully bruising him. He was leading the animal past an old well pit when she became frightened. A moment later Yoder was at the bottom of the eight foot hole with the cow on top of him.

Bird is Unlucky

Cole—A night-flying bird snatched 12 cups from men in a nearby lumber camp, but the 13th was his undoing. It belonged to a conservation officer, and attached to it was a hook at the end of 15 feet of rope. The officers fired four shots, and believed the bird was hit once. The bird has not returned since.

PICKLE PRICES ARE HIGHEST IN 10 YEARS

Charlevoix Pickle & Produce Co. Announces Market Increases

The Charlevoix Pickle & Produce Company, which operates stations in all this northern Michigan area, has just advised farmers of a second price increase, bringing prices for 1940 to the highest levels in ten years.

In the sixteen years the company has operated, it has paid farmers of this area many thousands of dollars for pickles, as well as many thousands of dollars to local labor. Many Charlevoix farmers have received excellent cash returns from their pickle crop, year after year. It is an important crop to a farmer, because here it requires no outlay even for seed, and because the cash from it comes along in August and September when many other crops are still growing. The company has always paid its growers spot-cash in full at every delivery, even through the depression years.

Charlevoix and surrounding area are particularly blessed with the right kind of soil for growing pickles, a sandy loam. This year the company has emptied many of its tanks and they are accordingly contracting a heavy acreage.

With 1940 prices the highest in ten years, the pickle crop naturally stands out prominently when compared with present prices of many other farm crops and commodities. The company also provides its contracted growers with the very best seed obtainable. In down state areas and in other states, most pickle companies charge growers for seed, but this has never been done here, seed being given free.

Growers for the Charlevoix company are also given a bonus of 10% extra in free sugar at local stores, on each of their 4th, 8th, 12th, and 16th deliveries. Many farmers here have received liberal quantities of this free sugar on their pickle deliveries in recent years.

The company has an advertisement announcing prices in another part of this week's issue.

FAMOUS MOVIE FILM OPENS 4-DAY STAND FRIDAY AT PALACE

"Gone With the Wind," which opens Friday at the Palace Theater, is undoubtedly the most faithful filmization of a novel in Hollywood history. It is Margaret Mitchell's great story of the Old South without deviation and practically without elimination. After this has been recorded little more need be said as an unqualified recommendation for the picture. Millions of readers consider the novel one of the greatest stories of all time; a faithful filming of that story must of necessity make the picture one of the greatest of movie history.

Screen patrons and lovers of the book will want to know only one more thing: what about the characterizations? They are perfect, from Scarlett and Rhett down to the tiniest bit. Every character lives as Miss Mitchell made him and her live in the book. This is a tribute to the production genius of David O. Selznick and the brillian direction of Victor Fleming, who has never failed in an assignment, and to the players themselves.

Clark Gable is, of course, the perfect Rhett Butler. Technicolor enhances his personality, which already is the most amazing personality the screen has ever known. His work is the best of his whole career. Equally brilliant is the work of Vivien Leigh. How any living girl can so closely resemble Scarlett and duplicate that fictional character in temperament and action is astounding. Miss Leigh does all this and more. She turns in one of the screen's greatest performances. She need not be said to be "going places." She is the screen's newest star. Leslie Howard is more than perfect, if such can be possible. Olivia de Havilland has never done greater work and it is difficult to see how she can ever top her Melanie role. Thomas Mitchell is outstanding as Gerald O'Hara. Hattie McDaniel emerges as the greatest actress the Negro race ha sever known. Barbara O'Neil, Ona Munson, Laura Hope Crews, Carroll Nye, Harry Davenport, Alicia Rhett, Rand Brooks, Evelyn Keyes, Ann Rutherford, Butterfly McQueen, Oscar Polk, Victor Crane, George Reeves, Jane Darwell and Everett Brown are all brilliant performers.

Cameramen on "Gone With the Wind" have given the screen the most amazing sustained photographic splendor cameras have ever achieved. Many of the scenes are breath-taking. In fact, this can be said of every detail of the picture. "Gone With the Wind" is truly a picture where the use of superlatives is woefully inadequate. To see it is an unforgettable experience; to miss it will be a tragedy in the life of every film lover.

For Lands' Sake!!!

Had no idea the few words last week about the new shoe-store front would raise so many questions. . . . . "Why should I say anything about it?" "Did Don help pay for my ad?" "Will I give some space to anyone else?" Sure thing! Anything that is going to make the town look better is worth talking about. I think the biggest improvement of the street this week, or in fact for many weeks, is that Meyer Levinson is taking out the quarter-century-old backgrounds in his store windows. Best windows on the street, and they can be such show places. Speaking of places: I have the lovely little Cody cottage on Park Avenue, all furnished and right next door to "Cookies" for sale at only $2500.00. In my opinion this is a real buy. Call me up if you would like to see it.

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR TULIP FETE

Twelfth Annual Festival Opens at Holland on May 18th

On the calendar of spring there is perhaps no more strikingly colorful event than the eight day celebration the Dutchmen annually hold at tulip blooming time at Holland, Michigan.

Initiated twelve years ago by the suggestion of a high school botany teacher, this Tulip Time Festival now offers three million tulips and three thousand costumed and wooden-shod Hollanders as its attraction.

Tulip Time officially opens Saturday, May 18th, with a ceremony in which the Dutch Burghers actually scrub the main street of the town. They volunteer by hundreds in response to the call of the Burgemester and Gemeenternud (city council). The latter are garbed in their official robes, unchanged since the seventeenth century when Rembrandt Van Ryn placed so many of them on canvas. The scrubbers dress as did their forefathers from the shores of the Zuider Zee; "klompen" and all!

The tulip blooms are located in mass plantings on floodlighted bulb farms just outside the town and along the curbs on an eight mile circuit of city streets. Busses are scheduled for trips over tulip lanes and to bulb farms. Program innovations this year include a floodlighted Music Festival featuring the University of Michigan band and the reproduction of a Dutch cattle "Market" on downtown streets. This is sponsored by the National Holstein-Friesian Association.

Although the influx of visitors totals well over a half million, the fete is still conducted in a non-commercial manner. "Rides," street booths, hawkers and other carnival atmosphere will be conspicuous by its absence when the Dutch celebrate.

STATE LACKING FUNDS TO MEET ITS PAYMENTS

County Weight Tax Allocations Probably to be Pro Rated

The Auditor General's office is approximately $3,000,000 short of sufficient funds to meet county weight tax allocations, salary vouchers and school payments, due April 15.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown explained that the state will undoubtedly meet the $4,500,000 school aid payment and the $1,000,000 salary schedule without difficulty but will have to pro-rate weight tax allotments to counties to protect its $11,500,000 cash balance.

Vouchers for return of weight tax collections aggregating $14,979,481 to counties have been forwarded to Brown by the State Highway Department.

DOCTORS WILL HAVE REFRESHER COURSES

Northern Medics to Attend Petoskey Meeting on April 26th

Continuous and rapid advance in medical science is sending back to college for further training this year nearly half of the practicing physicians and surgeons of Michigan, according to the Department of Postgraduate Medicine of the University of Michigan.

Of a variety of "refresher" courses offered both at the University and in the larger medical centers of the state, the most popular is expected to be those included in the annual extramural series. Approximately 1,200 general practitioners register for these lectures extending over the period from April 8 to May 3. Speakers have been selected from the faculties of the University of Michigan, Wayne University and the profession of the state. No fees are charged.

The four day series will be given every Monday in Saginaw beginning April 8; every Tuesday in Kalamazoo and Battle Creek alternately beginning with that in Kalamazoo, April 9; every Wednesday in Flint and in Mt. Clemens; every Thursday in Grand Rapids and in Jackson and Lansing alternately beginning with that in Jackson, April 11. Physicians and surgeons of upper Michigan are to attend similar courses offered on Fridays, beginning with those at Manistee, April 12; Cadillac, April 19, Petoskey, April 26 and Traverse City, May 3.

WATER LEVELS LOWEST NOW IN 5-YEAR PERIOD

General Deficiency Show by Conservation Dept. Report

A five-year low for the ground water table of northern lower Michigan — which means low levels for many lakes, and deficiency for some wells—exists now, the geological survey of the conservation department reports.

Since 1935, in cooperation with the CCC and the U. S. geological survey, the department has kept a monthly check on the water levels in about 100 wells in Roscommon, Crawford, Otsego, Kalkaska, Missaukee, Montmorency, Presque Isle, Cheboygan and Charlevoix counties.

Present low levels are a little more than half a foot below the 1939 low point. Normal spring rains may be expected to maintain the level of lakes which have inlets draining adjacent watershed. So-called "spring fed" lakes, with neither inlet nor outlet, are dependent entirely on the surrounding water table, and decline with it.

The record drought of 1930 and succeeding dry years caused even Lakes Michigan and Huron, to drop five feet. Changes in the ground water reservoir take place slowly, the effect of a wet season not becoming apparent until the following year. Since records have been kept, the maximum fluctuation from year to year has been about one foot.

CITY "BUYMANSHIP" BEING STUDIED BY CHARLEVOIX WOMEN

Taxpayers in the average town of Charlevoix's size can save from 10 to 15 per cent of the municipal budget by adopting centralized or cooperative purchasing, according to the current study program of the National Consumers Tax Commission of which Mrs. E. J. Edwards of Charlevoix is local chairman.

The study program, called "Centralized Purchasing—A Key to Lower Taxes," points out that even a small town whose budget runs only $10,000 or so a year can save from $1,000 to $1,500 annually by wise buying while savings are proportionately greater for larger places.

Although the NCTC does not recommend employment of a full-time purchasing agent for cities whose purchases total less than $200,000 annually, smaller communities may employ a part-time expert or take advantage of the savings made possible by cooperative buying in which several communities band together to buy in quantity lots, the commission says.

Chief advantage of either system is the centering of buying authority and responsibility with a resultant "elimination of habits of looseness, extravagance or downright theft" the program asserts.

As an example of potential savings through careful supervision, it cites Norwood, Mass., which saved $3,430 in a single year simply by taking its cash discounts. Other economies totaling many times the $1,600 salary paid the part-time purchasing agent were also made in this city of 13,000.

The study program is being used by NCTC units in 5,000 cities and towns as part of the tax reduction organization's 1940 program of municipal economy. Mrs. Arlie L. Hopkins, of Bear Lake, national committee member, and Miss Leetha McGee, of Detroit, state director, are co-leaders of the 168 units in Michigan, while Mrs. Melville Mucklestone of Chicago, a past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, is president of the NCTC.

OBITUARY

New England lost a valued friend this week when Albert W. Goddard passed away Tuesday, April 9th in Orlando, Fla.

He was born in Ludlow, Vermont 52 years ago and was typically Eastern. He was a member of the Holmes Lodge in his native city.

At the time of the World War he enlisted and trained with the 76th division of the 302nd Field Artillery. Later he went to France and became Regimental Sergeant Major. After the Armistice he returned to Boston and was Steward on the Boston Floating Hospital and the Gridley Restaurants.

It was in the hotel business he felt most at home. He has operated hotels in Ludlow, Vt., Lincoln, N. H. and Woodstock, Vt. In 1929 Mr. Goddard built the Hotel Franconia at the entrance of the Franconia Notch and has managed it successfully since.

He has made additions and improvements until it is now the newest and most modern hotel in the White Mountains.

In March of 1925 Mr. Goddard married Mrs. Mabel Nichols of Charlevoix, Michigan. This winter they returned to Florida as usual but Mr. Goddard was not well. He was dignified, quiet, and reserved, had traveled extensively and was well known among hotel men and had hosts of friends.

Funeral services conducted by Dean Melville E. Johnson of St. Luke's Cathedral were held in Orlando, Florida, Thursday, April 11th.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Brome Grass Mix Requires Tricks

Now that Michigan farmers are accepting the idea of mixing smooth brome grass and alfalfa for an ideal pasture growth, these same farmers are finding need for knowing how to get the two types of seed sown.

Studies by C. M. Harrison, pasture specialist at Michigan State College, indicate some of the problems and what is known of their solutions.

Seedings of about eight pounds of alfalfa seed to an acre are customary. Farmers usually plan on spring or summer seedings. Brome grass can be sown at a five to seven pound rate with full seeded grains, but that means sowing separately from the alfalfa. After full sowing, the alfalfa can go in the following spring.

Experience indicates best preparation for both seedings is to have a firm, clean seedbed, fertilized and limed as required for alfalfa.

The next logical step is to figure out how and when to seed the brome grass. An even distribution is difficult because the seeds are light, flat, and wing tipped, weighing only 14 pounds to the bushel. One method and probably the easiest is to mix with oats for better distribution, remembering not to cover the brome too deeply in drilling, and watching the drill box to keep the brome evenly mixed as it feeds out.

The smooth brome is slow to start. In the first year the mixture in the pasture probably will not be more than one-fourth brome, says Harrison. In the second year this likely will increase to 50 per cent and later as the alfalfa thins out the brome grass should fill in the vacant spots normally taken over by June grass or annual weeds.

AT THE MOVIES

New Frank Morgan Comedy a "Field Day" for Pets

Fifty-three varied pets, including a penguin, two deodorized skunks, a trained monkey, dogs, cats, parrots, canaries, squirrels and other animals completely surrounded Frank Morgan in his latest screen role, that of the amiable pet shop proprietor who winds up as a public hero in "The Ghost Comes Home," hilarious comedy opening April 30 at the Palace Theatre.

Laurel, Hardy Get to Oxford in New Film

Hal Roach's "A Chump at Oxford" which is slated to begin a premiere engagement at the Palace Theatre on April 30 through United Artists release, is rated as the funniest and most hilarious comedy yet to co-star Laurel and Hardy, the screen's leading pair of funsters.

Among the players listed in the supporting cast are Forrester Harvey, Wilfred Lucas, Forbes Murray, Frank Baker and Eddie Borden. Alf Goulding directed "A Chump at Oxford," and Hal Roach, Jr., acted as associate producer.

"French Without Tears" Started Laugh Vogue

"French Without Tears," which has now been made into a movie following its long Broadway run, and which will open May 3 at the Palace Theatre, has been hailed as the play which taught the doleful theatre critics how to laugh again. It came on the New York scene at the close of a season of plays that had nothing but tears. It is credited with having restored pure nonsense to its proper place on the stage.

The proper light touch in the acting has been entrusted to a cast headed by Roy Milland and Ellen Drew. Janine Darcey, a Parisian importation, has a featured role. Other principals include Jim Gerald, David Tree, Roland Culver, Guy Middleton, Kenneth Morgan, Margaret Yarde and Toni Gable.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Probation after Death" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, April 28.

The Golden Text—(Psalms 138:8) is: "The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me: thy mercy, O Lord, endureth forever: forsake not the works of thine own hands."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Col. 3: 23, 24): "And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men; Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance: for ye serve the Lord Christ."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p 254) "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path."

"Pennies from Heaven." A mysterious "Angel" showers a Missouri town's citizen with hundreds of dollars every week. Who is he? His beneficiaries are not sure they really want to know. Read about this strange case in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

and cities which license the serving of beer and wine but not liquor.

Gov. Luren D. Dickinson was the first person to affix his signature to the petitions. Incidentally, the governor said that R. N. Holcaple, former superintendent of the anti-saloon league and a candidate for Republican nomination for governor, possessed "executive ability" and has been a "good Republican" although most capital observers believe Dickinson will get the party's nomination for re-election.

Plugging Tax Leaks

More efficient collection of state taxes is sought by a legislative study committee headed by Rep. F. Jack Neller, Battle Creek, leader of the "Young Republican" group in the legislature last year.

Michigan's taxes are collected today by 14 state departments.

Auditors duplicate time and expense in field trips whereas a centralized system would enable one auditor to check on tax payments for a dozen departments. Furthermore, these employees are apt to be political appointees, unprotected by civil service as to tenure of office. Since "turnover" is high, inefficiency is inevitable.

Since collection of state taxes by 14 departments is unbusiness-like, Representative Neller's committee has concluded that it is costing taxpayers between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 in lost revenue annually. This seems to be an optimistic smount, but experiments by the state sales tax department have demonstrated that each $1 in cost of additional tax auditors have produced, so far, $10 in additional revenue to the state. Undoubtedly, the state is losing many millions in taxes for no other reason than lack of auditors permits tax claims to go unpaid by time defaut.

No Control on Spending

At present the budget director lacks legal powers to curb overspending by a state department.

In fact, a state department may exceed its legislative appropriation (which combined with anticipated revenues forms the budget for operating expenses) with impunity. And the budget director has no weapon other than that of public opinion to see that the department keeps within its allotted appropriation.

For example, a department head wants to add more employees on the payroll or incur new expense which would exhause his annual budget. The budget director is helpless legally to prevent the ambitious official from exceeding his appropriation. Actually, the director has a powerful weapon in the form of public opinion. What state official cares to defy an economy-minded budget director? Gus Hartman, Michigan's hard-boiled director of the budget, has wisely relied upon newspaper headlines to keep spending officials in line.

He has also intimated to friends that the legislature should prohibit departments from exceeding their appropriations and should hold department heads liable to prosecution for failure to keep within their financial allotments.

The legislative committee concurs in this recommendation which is held essential if state government is ever to achieve a pay-as-you-go basis.

Sales Tax Troubles

The sales tax trouble in Detroit is a timely illustration of how the present system lacks business efficiency, it is pointed out.

For example, the Detroit and Lansing sales tax offices have been dual set-ups, each managed independently of each other. Political appointees were the rule rather than the exception. For several years, regardless of the administration in power, the Detroit office has been deficient in number of auditors; tax claims have accumulated to an appalling extent.

At the urgent request of Walter Reddy, sales tax administrator, Budget Director Hartman has repeatedly increased appropriation for hiring of more auditors to investigate contests and collect the unpaid taxes.

At the attorney general's office it was announced recently that accounts due for payment totaled 17,000. On March 1 the uncollected claims totaled $6,950,000.

Hence the need so the legislative committee concludese, of a centralized tax collection department, well manned with competent auditors. Other members of this legislative group are Senators George P. McCallum, Ann Arbor, and D. Hale Brake of Stanton, and Reps. James B. Stanley of Kalamazoo and Robert N. Sawyer of Monroe. To reinforce such a centralized office, the auditor general's office would audit the books of all departments.

"Chiseling Competitors"

A virtual breakdown in the collection of the sales tax is a possibility in the future, however small it may appear today, unless the state can give protection to merchants that the tax is being collected efficiently and without favor.

Retail druggists have indicated to the Michigan Retail Druggists' association that they are prepared to collect the tax, but they do demand protection from "chiseling competitors" who pay no tax.

Efficient collection of this and all other state taxes would go a long ways in appeasing the taxpayers, if the legislative committee's recommendations have the merit they appear to have.

ties. In other words, that Charlevoix should not be a "Let George Do It" town, but rather one where everyone gets behind the wheel.

And while on the subject of the board of commerce and, without reflection upon or any thought of discrediting former officials of this organization, want to remark that "Ed" Edwards as president, and the directors of the present board, are doing a mighty fine job of promoting Charlevoix's interests. This group meets at the city hall at 7:30 every Tuesday night. They welcome anyone to attend their sessions, present ideas and in any manner show interest in the work they are doing.

Can't remember as far back as the time Charlie Marshall didn't get an awful "kick" out of a gang of kids, and if you ever saw him in his glory it was last Thursday night when he rounded up about a dozen and brought them to the Legion's pancake supper. Charlie mothered them just like they were his own, and you should have seen the pancakes disappear.

After several nights of famine, caused by bright moonlight, according to sportsmen who claim to know, heavy dips of smelt were made Monday and Tuesday nights from nearby streams. Loeb, Stover, Barber and Woods creeks produced several bushels of fish. And seeing smelt offered for sale in local markets last week at 3c a poond made me think of Mrs. Don Clothier's statement that they wanted 39c a pound for them in Florida last winter.

Well boys, and some girls, too, Saturday opens the 1940 trout fishing season, an event several hundred thousand sportsmen have been waiting a year for. While snow conditions checked on a trip last Sunday were much more favorable than a week previous, weather during the remainder of this week will determine success or failure the opening day. Expect to be among those opening the season at 12 midnight this year, and between you and I, am worrying no little regarding whether or not the ice will be gone from one of those sink-hole lakes south of Onaway. The lake was ice-locked the last I knew. "Hec" McKinnon, East Jordan's famous trout fisherman, has promised to take me to this private lake of his, and, were it not for the fact he's as much as guaranteed I'll take the limit, including some 2-pounders, perhaps, I'd think twice before putting in the whole night. And just as a precautionary measure, I'm going to take an ice spud along. Here's luck to the rest of you guys!

Acknowledge herewith a written expression of appreciation for publicity given by this publication to Boyne City's smelt festival from Eleanor C. Naylor, secretary of the Community Council of Boyne City. We gave such publicity unsolicited in generous amount for several weeks prior to the event, both for Boyne City and East Jordan festivals, in a spirit of community cooperation, and the fact that we had almost given up hope of having our efforts acknowledged detracts none from satisfaction such an expression of appreciation brings. This item is written in the tone used as a means of saying bluntly, perhaps, that newspapers do render services which too often are never acknowledged. The role of "giver" can work both ways and the interests of Charlevoix county, or all northern Michigan, in fact, will be better served if such a spirit prevails among communities.

A report Monday from a reliable source gave assorance that the grading of the relocation of M-66 from the corner opposite the Loeb Farm barns, southeast to a jonction with the present route south of Ironton, would be completed this summer. The relocation will cross Loeb Farms and follow an almost straight southeasterly direction to a point south of the George Hanson farm.

According to an article in a recent edition of a Fort Myers, Fla. publication, our Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Trayte were hosts recently to none other than Greta Garbo, glamorous star of the films. In his statement to a reporter regarding the incident, Mr. Trayte said: "She (Garbo) was so nice about my wife's cooking that I didn't tell anyone she was here. It was last February. A uniformed chauffeur came into my office and asked for a private cottage. He said the party with him did not want any publicity. I promised. Then in walked Greta Garbo without any dark glasses. She wanted to spend the night and drive down the Tamiami Trail in the morning in the hope of seeing a real, live alligator. She came here from Daytona and was going to drive back up the west coast. Miss Garbo was very soft-spoken but insisted that we prepare a meal for her in her cottage. I said we didn't serve meals but my wife offered to cook supper and breakfast. We served Miss Garbo canned tomato soup and she complimented my wife fur cooking such fine soup. She left in the morning."

Referring to a visit to the Charlevoix municipal electric light plant after an oil sample, E. G. Wright, representative of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, paid high praise to the plant's maintenance in a letter to W. H. Wallace. The communication, in part, is quoted as follows: "I was very appreciably surprised at the immaculate appearance of this power plant in general and as I mentioned to Mr. Smith, from whom I secured the sample, the only power plant I have ever seen to compare with yours in cleanliness and efficient appearance is in the Ford Motor Company here in Detroit. Your town certainly has something to be proud of in this power plant." I would personally like to add to Mr. Wright's remarks that any of Charlevoix's municipal utility plants will be found in the same condition every day in the week.

SENATOR BISHOP LAUDED FOR FAIR AID SUPPORT

Was Active in Bringing About Legislative Appropriation

Otto W. Bishop, of Alpena, 29th district senator, is highly complimented by officials of the Michigun Association of Fairs for his cooperation in sopport of a legislative appropriation for 1940. The letter, signed by H. B. Kelley, secretary-treasurer, follows:

"We are very pleased to advise you of the efforts put forth by the Honorable Otto W. Bishop, state senator representing your district, who was responsible in a great measure for the appropriation granted 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers and Fairs by the little legislature at a meeting held in Lansing, April 11th.

"We were positive you would be pleased to learn of the cooperation given us from Senator Bishop in securing these necessary funds. If this subsidy had not been forthcoming, it would have meant the curtailment and possibly the entire elimination of the educational work that has been carried on for the past several years for the boys and girls of our state, who number over fifty thousand individuals actively engaged in the different projects."

Harry Mnson, Georgia Krchak and Sanford Matchett are to plan and purchase refreshments for the Junior Farm Bureau meeting on May 20.

That is a special night because O. Walker is to show us pictures of the trip west with Clare McGhan and Lawrence Ecklund.

Elsie Hilton told of the many ideas which the girls had during their hour of panel discussion. Chuck Cellender told how the boys "broke colts," "grew hybrid corn" and "produced extra apples."

After giving Clifford Struthers and Chuck Cellender the job of special investigators, the meeting closed with games.

BLOSSOM FESTIVAL TO HAVE PAIR OF QUEENS

"Miss America" to Join the Festival Queen at Benton Harbor Event

Visitors to the Blossom Festival in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, May 5 to 12, will see not one queen but two.

Miss America—the western hemisphere's foremost queen of beauty—will take a leading part in the 1940 Blossom Week festivities. She is Miss Patricia Donnelly of Detroit, who was selected at the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant last summer as the loveliest of all American girls. Miss Donnelly has graciously accepted an invitation to come to southwestern Michigan this spring to join in the Blossomtime celebration.

Miss Donnelly will be at the Liberty theatre in Benton Harbor the evening of Monday, May 6, when the Queen of Blossomland will be chosen.

When the Blossom Queen receives the symbol of sovereignty that makes her ruler of the Blossom Empire, it will be Miss America who will officiate at her coronation, and who will bestow the crown, at the annual Coronation ceremonies, Tuesday night.

The annual Blossom Ball, in the Shadowland pavilion in St. Joseph will have Miss America as its guest of honor, and she will take part in other Blossom Festival events during the week.

Resignation of A. L. Fitch as City Attorney Accepted—Numerous Matters Disposed Of Numerous matters of civic interest were handled by the city council at Monday night's regulnr session.

A. L. Fitch terminated two years as city attorney for the administration of Mayor Robert Bridge by resignation adopted by the council Monday night. His successor and names of other appointive officials will in nll likelihood be presented for council approval at the next meeting.

Floyd A. Supp, president of the Kiwanis Club, presented a proposal for the installation of additional recreational facilities at East Park. Embodied in the suggestions, turned over to the parks committee for consideration, was setting out of shade trees, installation of additional shuffle board courts, installing of umbrellas and other facilities to make the park more attractive to summer residents and tourists.

Defeat nf a motion instructing the city attorney to draft an amendment to the present liquor ordinance making it legal to dispense spirits in the business district

A request before the council for permission to sell spirits in the business district met defeat when a motion instructing the city attorney to amend the existing liquor ordinance to permit sale of spirits outside of the present zoned area was voted down. The present liquor ordinance zones the city in a manner prohibiting sale of liquor on Bridge street and a confined area surrounding it.

Unfavorable response met a request by the Boyne City common council asking regulations be adopted setting the closing hour for beer taverns at 12 midnight instead of 2 p. m. as at present. Charlevoix's status as a summer resort and the fact two taverns operate just outside the city limits would be favored by such a ruling, were governing factors contributing to the council's decision on the matter.

The council designated the week of May 6-11, inclusive, as annual "Clean Up" week.

A resolution expressing appreciation to the Public Works Administration for its aid in making possible the sewage disposal plant, city hall and electric light extension program was adopted.

Charlevoix's annual clean-up week will start Monday, May 6th, and continue through Saturday, May 11, and as long thereafter as is necessary for completion.

Through proclamation hy Mayor Robert Bridge, that period is designated for the annual "Clean-Up" week. Health and fire officials and citizens generally will conperate in this effort to properly "dress" up the community for the summer season and, incidentally, maintain this city's slogan, "Charlevoix-the-Beautiful."

The immediate purpose of clean-up week is to clear yards, alleys and vacant property of all refuse, rubbish and garbage piles, thus reducing fire and health hazards and giving the city a neater, cleaner nppearance.

Leo Allard, street commissioner, asks citizens to place rubbish in substantial containers at the street curb or at convenient places in alleys to be picked up by truck. SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

I fished from 12:01 to 11 a. m. on Saturday, from 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Sunday. Score: 6 fish. I learned two things that I am now sure of, viz: There are plenty of d—n fools like myself, and that a minister-fisherman is no exception to the angler's inclination to be careless with the truth. The private lake I was taken to by "Mac" McKinnon was about as private as a tourist camp over a midsummer holiday week end. Fifteen carloads had pulled in before we arrived at 7:30 Friday night and they kept on coming until morning. The dozen or so sink-hole trout lakes east of Vanderbilt all presented the appearance of a regatta. The temperature was of mid-winter variety. I don't know how close to zero it was, but I do know it froze two inches of ice on our water pails, froze the water pump in the trailer despite the fact we had a fire all night, froze over our minnow pails, froze our lines to the pole and everything else exposed. Our party had the only shelter outside of an automobile and I'll venture to say thirty people, men and women alike, sat around open camp fires waiting for the season to open at midnight—which all goes to prove the first thing I learned. The number of people who knew about this so-called private lake, which I

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

It's a giddy merry-go-round!

First, Michigan farmers are given instruction in better crop methods and better soil management practices. They are told to turn under green crops for manure, keep soils covered in winter with legumes and winter wheat and winter rye, keep hillsides and knobs covered all seasons in order to lessen erosion and conserve fertility, and increase acreage production thrnugh the use of fertilizers and select seeds.

Result: Forty-four of Michigan's leading crops showed a better average ranking in 1939 than they did in 1938. While losses occurred in national ranking for acreages, there were actual gains in national ranking for production — and that meant growing more food on less land.

KNOW MICHIGAN WEEK SUCCESSFUL IN STATE

Educational Campaign Believed to Have Reached Millioos

Know Michigan Tourist Week, the educational program designed to bring home to Michigan people the growing importance of the tourist and resort business in the economic life of the state, ended April 21 a great success. More "pre-season" interest in the tourist business than ever before has been manifested all over the state, according to J. J. Bachunas, general chairman for the observance.

"Credit for the sucess of the observance must be given to the 100 or more people who served on the county committees of the 27 counties of West Michigan," Mr. Bachunas said. "They have been at work since the first of the year preparing for this week."

During the week a score of meetings widely scattered over the state brought a tourist week message home personnlly to more than 2500 persons.

The Fact Finder broadcast, over seven Michigan stations and six Ohio stations, telling of Know Michigan Week and of the recreational advantages of the state, is estimated to have a listening audience of five million persons.

A motion picture feature, Discover Michigan This Year, that was shown by many of the Butterfield Theatres of the state, is estimated to have reached another quarter of a million movie goers.

It is impossible at the present time to make an estimate of the number of newspaper and magazine readers who were reached with the story of Know Michigan through special articles prepared fnr them.

Know Michigan will continue to be a part of the program for many communities that are organizing Tourist Information clnsses to study the recreational advantages of the state and their particular region so that they may be better fitted to handle requests for tourist information.

Four Trees for Nickel

One nickel pays the cost for four trees in nursery prnpagation and transplanting to land, it is estimated by the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture. That cost, however, is based on large scale operations in forest service nurseries and reforestation on national forest lands. In 1939 there were 125,000,000 trees set out on 131,707 acres.

LOOK FOR RECORD YEAR STRAITS OF MACKINAC

Traffic First Three Months of 1940 Up 50% from Last Year

Indications of another record breaking year of traffic service at the Straits of Mackinac were reported this week by the state highway department.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that reports from the Straits for the first three months of 1940 revealed a 50 per cent increase in the number of vehicles transported over the same period of 1939. The increase was even greater for passengers with a 66 per cent boost on the records.

The total vehicles transported during January, February, and March of 1940 was 15,573 as compared with 10,395 during the same months of 1939. For passengers the figures were 20,543 during 1940 and 12,983 during 1939.

The department is now operating two boats at the Straits on the spring schedule of trips each hour-and-a-half from each side. The first trip is at six a. m. with the last trip at nine p. m. The ice-crusher Sainte Marie leased by the state has operated for automobile traffic during the winter months.

WPA SPONSORS TO HOLD 'OPEN HOUSE' MAY 20-25

Will Invite Communities to Visit and Inspect Work Projects

Joining with city, county and state governments, Work Projects Administration supervisors thuout Michigan will hold "Open House Week" May 20 to 25, Abner E. Larned, state WPA administrator, announced today.

Residents of every community in Michigan where WPA projects of the professional and service division are operated will be invited to visit these projects personally and see for themselves how they are operated, Mr. Larned said.

"I want to make it plain that WPA doesn't claim all the credit for what's been done during the past four and one-half years," Mr. Larned explained. "We share the responsibility with the local governments which plan and sponsor our projects and put up most of the cash for materials and equipment. The WPA pays the wages nnd manages the program."

Luncheon clubs, civic groups, chambers of commerce, and church organizations will be among the special groups invited to take part in the program, Mr. Larned said.

BOUNTIES ON PREDATORS CONTINUE TO DECREASE

Five wolves and 209 coyotes bountied fnr $3,725 in the first quarter of 1940 indicate continuance of a trend toward a lower take of these predntors. In the first quarter of 1939 bounties were paid on three wolves and 298 coyotes, and in the first quarter of 1938 the take was five wolves and 297 coyotes. The present scale of bounties has been in effect only since the middle of 1937.

Congress has a lot of business on hand, it is true. But not enough to keep in session after the big political gabfests begin in June.

STATE REDUCED RELIEF FUNDS TO ALL COUNTIES

Charlevoix County Allotment for May Relief Work is $750

County relief officials face the prospect of a period of sharply curtailed financial aid from the state government.

Only $547,000 will be distributed to the 83 counties and the city of Detroit for May Relief—a reduction of nearly $300,000 from April expenditures and less than half of the amounts distributed by the state in January and February.

In allocating the $547,000, the commission bowed to the wishes of Emerson R. Boyles, legal adviser to Governor Dickinson, by spending the money over the entire 83 counties. Under the formula developed by the commission, 11 counties would have been without state aid.

The commission earmarked $260,750 for Detroit but Commissioner Louis C. Miriani contended that if the state "went 50-50" with the city, as it has done with counties, the allotment would have been much larger.

Allotments for May by counties include: Antrim, $1,240; Charlevoix, $750; Cheboygan, $1,240; Emmet, $1,000; and Grand Traverse, $1,800.

GRANGES MEET

Mr. and Mrs. Triplett and Mr. Bush of Antrim county were judges and finally selected Mrs. Martha Lewis of Maple Grove Grange for first place; Miss Jean Black of Marion Center for second place; Mrs. Carl Clark of Boyne River for third place. The posters were in charge of Anna Warner.

Mrs. Hazel Murray of Barnard had charge of the program which was as follows:

Hardy; selection, Mr. Clark; remarks, Mrs. Beatrice Lamkins, member of Michigan State Grange, H. E. committee; remarks, B. C. Mellencamp, who in turn introduced Mr. Naylor of Shaw-Naylor who spoke on the refrigerator locker system and exhibited frozen fish, meat, berries and ice cream; remarks by Rep. D. D. Tibbits.

The scarf and pillow set from Deer Lake was won by James Nice.

Two members were given the fifth degree.

The next meeting will be held with Boyne River Grange May 25, 1940.

He who sits down on the road to success and awaits a free ride is sure to be left, for nothing permanent is gained unless it is earned.

For Lands' Sake!!!

Difficult to understand some things! One of the fellows at the gas station told me he was reading this LAND SAKE spot before looking at the rest of the Courier. Always look at Alley Oop before the war news, myself. But the part I could not quite get was he told me his wife was cutting out this part of the paper each week and keeping it. She sure must be looking for some Real Estate or watching for a chance to call me on something I say. Either way, I am ready. Yes, and also ready to help rent your cottage again or let you in on some of the unusual Real Estate buys right now. Ask Me!

Getting Ready

In a few days, 135 towermen will be testing, painting observation towers from tops of which, during months to come, they will survey more than 17,000,000 acres of Michigan forest lands. The towermen are the "eyes" of Michigan's efficient forest fire fighting organization which, in recent seasons, has held losses in fractions of one percent. Above photograph was taken by W. Neal Hale, the conservation department's towerman at the Plainview fire tower near Allegan.

Writes Extra Role

Gladstone—When eleven students tried out for the 10 parts in a senior class play titled "Second Fiddle", Director Keith Campbell didn't want to make any of the aspirants a second fiddle. Result, he write a brand new role into the play for the eleventh character.

Skiers Wear Swim Trunks

Gaylord—Two local youths took advantage of winter's last snow to set a new style in skiing attire. Wearing only swimming trunks, boots and a smile, the two skied down winter sports park hills, said it wasn't cold as long as they kept moving.

Logs Disappear

Mt. Pleasant—P. F. Geech of Clare is wondering how nine black birch logs he planned to use this summer disappeared from his land in Arthur township. He told police the road to his land was almost impassable. The logs were 8 to 12 feet long and 18 to 24 inches in diameter.

Outshines Robin Tales

Bangor—Here's a tale that outshines the whole batch of annual "first robin" stories. Early this spring, a park superintendent reported observing flocks of red-winged blackbirds, horned meadow larks, bluebirds, a marsh hawk, and a blue racer snake. He also saw a robin.

Impromptu Butchering

Portland—The end gate fell out of a trailer in which three hogs were being transported to Ionia and so did the hogs. One hog received a broken back, so it was butchered on the spot. The other two were loaded into the trailer and the trip was resumed.

Hen Gets Colorful

Holly—A white leghorn hen owned by A. L. Maye expressed herself colorfully recently when she changed her egg-laying style. Instead of the usual white or brown or speckled variety, the chicken laid an egg nearly the color of a rubin's egg.

Home Rests on Stump

Plymouth — Excavators making room for a new theater found a stump nearly five feet in diameter beneath a home built before the Civil War. A basement was under part of the house, and the stump of the big tree was under the floor in the front of the residence.

Bird Crashes Home

Parma — A large cock pheasant startled Mrs. Roy Brewer when it flew through the glass in the front door of her home. After a brief chase through the house, the bird was captured and released, apparently unhurt.

SWAT THE FLY BEFORE HE FLIES.."

It takes an entomologist to figure out that it's almost a useless gesture to swat flies or to hang up sticky flypaper.

At least C. B. Dibble of the Michigan State College staff says it is far more important to prevent breeding of flies than it is to wave a swatter. Of course he admits that once they are inside the house or barn then swatting or spraying has some merit.

If given opportunity, a new batch of flies will appear every three days from April 1o November in Michigan, according to Dibble.

Trash or decaying organic matter is responsible for most flies. So now is a good time to do some cleaning up as a blessing for both household and barnyard, the entomologist reports.

Straw stacks ought to be capped so that they shed water, for moisture is one of the necessities for rearing new crops of flies. Manure should be hauled frequently and spread thin so that it is dried quickly. Garbage ought to be kept covered, or if buried, should be a foot under the soil surface.

Milkhouses, barns, and other buildings ought to be screened if possible. Dry feed lots help control flies, for if wet feed lies around on the ground a breeding place is set up for flies. Dibble recommends a feed lot that can be washed off if refuse collects.

So that is his recipe for fewer flies. Cleanliness, he promises, is far more important than flypaper, traps or swatters. One other pointer is that the use of lime in refuse is not a preventive, but that a sprinkling of borax will prove effective.

John Lenosky Also Member of East Jordan 4-H Handicraft Honor Roll

Last week we listed the members who were on the special East Jordan handicraft honor roll. Due to an oversight, John Lenosky's name was not on the list. Therefore, we wish to correct this mistake. John is an honor member due to his excellent work in fourth year handicraft during the past year.

Because of the size of the articles and the number of hours spent in their construction, a special honor roll was developed for the members of the East Jordan Handicraft Club.

Following is a list of these East Jordan boys who have done such fine work during the past year.

First year—Robert Trojanek, second year — Bruce Woodcock, third year—Bernard Sturgell, fourth year —Francis Kaley and John Lenosky, fifth year—Mason Clark and Glenn Trojanek, sixth year — Eldon Richardson.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the lesson sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 5.

The Golden Text (Proverbs 10:29) is: "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright: but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Galatians 6:7,8): "Be not deceived, God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

Corrective passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 391): "It is error to suffer for aught but your own sins. Christ, or Truth, will destroy all other supposed suffering, and real suffering for your own sins will cease in proportion as the sin ceases."

TAXPAYERS' DUTIES

Taxpayers associations are being formed every day throughout the country. They are made up of men and women who have come to the tragic realization that they—Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen—have got to take an interest in how and where their tax dollars are being spent—or it won't be many more years before they may lose that privilege.

This year it is a truth that we all must work 14 weeks for the government in order to share our separate burdens of taxation. Those 14 weeks represent more than one-fourth but not quite one-third of your working year. Twenty-five years ago we worked less than two weeks or not quite one-twenty-sixth of a year, to pay our taxes. What has happened to cause this tremendous increase in the size of our tax burden, is being made a study by thousands of citizens throughout the country.

For years as the burden increased by leaps and bounds it made little or no difference to the majority, for it had not actually affected their incomes. Today it does. And today it is a vital question to our future welfare. We must face the issue now and do our share toward building those fortifications against its re-occurrence. We can do this better when banded together in local tax associations where we can strike at the curse more directly because of our familiarity with our local needs and will know when they are exceeded.

Join your local tax study group immediately—and start doing your share in this work.

THE RESULT OF GREED

Most of the trouble in the world comes from greed.

Germany now knows that.

A generation ago the German empire was strong and prosperous. It had population, land, food and trade. Germany said that it was the best in the world. Not satisfied with its own good circumstances the rulers of the Germans reached for more. Now they have less.

With both nations and individuals selfishness has its inevitable result.

Office supplies of any description may be obtained quickly through this office. Charlevoix Courier.—Adv. 3tf

THE TIME HAS COME

The question now is "What is my brand of Americanism? Am I a gimme American or am I a giving American?" The latter is the philosophy of our founding fathers. The former is the New Deal brand which has left its mark on countless United States citizens.

In our federal government we have a record of bureaucratic spending and extravagance which will drain the incomes of generations yet unborn. But most of us say "We want ours, let the other fellow take the cut, he eliminate his job."

Our congress has rubber-stamped extravagant plans, magnificent projects, carpeted federal building at a World's Fair, donated millions to unfinished dams and Florida-bridge and we have said, "What does it matter? We got a new federal building out of the pork barrel, so we should wink at any extravagance elsewhere. Our need was real, so we have to endure the 'impractical' planning elsewhere to get ours."

We have laughed at presidential wit even when it lashed the "nine old men," the balance wheel of our federal government.

And when every principle of the party has been forsaken, many of us cling to the New Deal with partisan grip, fooling ourselves that its leadership represents our beliefs.

We have applauded national leaders and officials who deliberately fomented class hatreds, who preached pity for the laborer and hate for the employer, any employer (rich or poor).

We are becoming proud of our governmental dependence and we are passively allowing the government to mollycoddle us with federal aid projects, destroying our American initiative to face our problems as individuals with courage and a will to win.

We have allowed an opportunist government to take voting advantage of large labor groups controlled by radicals who would undermine our government and destroy our liberty.

We have displayed the weakest national character in generations. Have we done so through ignorance and short-sightedness in seeing things as they are? Or have we lost the fundamental character which alone will maintain these United States?

This year of 1940 will show what kind of Americans we are. The presidential election will find us either rubber-stamp New Dealers or Americans with backbone enough to restore a people's government where there is now a politicians' paradise.

Having thrown away our market for foreign goods, trebled our national debt, wrecked business, jolted taxes, and left millions jobless, the Washington government now holds itself competent to save a stupid, muddled world.

MACHINE POLITICS

We heard a speaker the other night who quite volubly expressed himself against anything in the coming election in Michigan that even came close to smelling like the New Deal. Meaning, of course, the probable candidacy of Pat Van Wagoner for the governorship.

We believe the same way. And after good mature thought we are stuck with what must be a sad truth to many in the state by now—just who are we going to elect to that office?

Our present batch of officials were hand-picked by a Republican machine and no more good can be said of one machine than another. Our present executive, of course, has not had much of an opportunity to do anything for he has had to exert his efforts toward fulfilling another man's contract. He is admittedly an old man and undoubtedly it would be a wise move to insist we have a younger man take over the reins.

Our choice then must be made outside the pale of both party machines, or rather at least outside the inner circle of both major parties. It is inconceivable to believe Van Wagoner can be defeated in his party if he decides to run. Therefore it is up to the Republicans in Michigan to begin thinking about the convention and what they are going to do when they have a chance to act.

Another cut and dried slate like the last one simply won't do. It's no better than the Democratic machine's output. So the people themselves better be fully prepared to take over this job and do it right for a change. —C. B. Kelster.

"THEY SAY"

The most frequently quoted authority on earth is: "They say." One hears it so often that he hardly notices it.

Yet, if one inquires who "they" may be, he may or may not obtain a satisfactory answer. "They" may be somebody who is not an authority, or nobody in particular, therefore just gossip.

"They say" is not accepted in courts—in depositions, in proceedings of any kind which require facts, or by reputable newspapers. Even in conversation it should not be satisfactory authority.

And, all for the simple reason that statements attributed to "they" are discounted by both those who use them and those who hear them, so unreliable is the authority even if it actually exists.—Frank B. Craig.

Germany reports a coal shortage, so even Hitler can't fuel all of the people all of the time.

Sure Signs Of Spring

Spring is here when motorists dig out the road maps and lay their plans for seeking the "open road," and sailors the country over begin their annual "fitting-out" activities, preparing sleek water craft for the first jaunt of the season. Here Skipper Ted Skinner begins operations under the watchful eye of Miss Tony Clark, who motored down to the boatyard in her new 1940 Chevrolet.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Tuberculosis Begins

Nothing seems to interfere with life and the success of young people more definitely than tuberculosis, but youth is careless, often uninformed and has a tendency to defy the law of survival of the fittest. A correspondent writes us the following story to illustrate this point, and to show how tuberculosis begins.

"Boy meets girl and they have a good time for about six months when the girl experiences a sharp pain in the chest; pleurisy. The sputum and x-ray pictures show definite tuberculosis. The girl is sent to a sanatorium for cure or arrest of a serious case and the boy visits her at the hospital each evening, including week ends.

"Is the boy liable to catch the disease from the girl? Should not the young man have examinations to determine whether he has the disease? Is he capable of spreading the disease to his brothers and sisters?"

The answer to all these questions is "yes." Many cases of tuberculosis begin in this manner. As long as three or four years may elapse before the boy develops a well-advanced case. In this instance the young man should report to his family physician without delay for an x-ray study of the chest and if this is negative a subsequent x-ray should be taken every six months. All other contacts of the girl including parents and brothers and sisters also must be seen by a physician for similar examinations.

Tuberculosis is not spread in sanatoriums because the patients are quickly taught to protect those who care for them. The disease is spread solely through the scattering of sputum.

We must remember that there is a hospital bed available for every person in Michigan who has tuberculosis, that facilities are waiting to examine all contacts of open cases as in the above story. The Christmas seal sale each year testifies to the interest and sympathy of all citizens of whatever creed or station in life in stamping out the disease entirely.

It remains only for those who suspect they may have the disease to take advantage of the best that science has to offer because Michigan is second to no state or country in the skill with which this problem is handled.

Strange aftermaths not foreseen by the Ouija's inventors. Supposed to contact the spirit world, the mystic gadget kept the living and dead Fuld brothers apart, caused all kinds of trouble, even murder, in other families, but is credited with good deeds, too, such as transmitting ghost literature and finding lost music. Read about this strange case in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

The latest health figures show that a woman's life expectancy is four years longer than that of a man, and this despite the fact that it takes her ten years longer to reach the age of 40.

TAX DELINQUENT MERCHANTS MAY BE FINED

The state board of tax administration has taken under consideration a resolution under which no sales tax licenses will be granted to any taxpayer who is delinquent in his tax obligations on June 1.

AT THE MOVIES

"Gulliver's Travels" on Screen in Color

The animated cartoon once again comes to the fore as a medium for bringing a full-length story to the screen with the release of "Gulliver's Travels," Paramount's lavish Technicolor production, which opens May 5 at the Palace Theatre.

So firm a hold has the full-length cartoon taken on the movie industry during the past two years that Paramount gave "Gulliver" the most elaborate production of any other picture that company has made in several seasons. It has been in work at the Max Fleischer studios at Miami, Florida, for nearly two years, represents the efforts of several hundred skilled artists and was budgeted at just twice the cost of the ordinary "big" motion picture!

There are few children or grown-ups in the United States—or in the entire world, for that matter—who are not thoroughly familiar with the story upon which the Technicolor picture is based.

"Of Mice and Men" Ranks as Dynamic Film Triumph

No one who had read the book when it was first published, ever expected to see John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" appear as a film. It was too daring a subject, treated with a stark reality that was unheard of in films. And yet a film version, true to the very spirit of Steinbeck's finest novel, opens May 8 at the Palace Theatre and proves once again that the screen is more powerful than the printed word.

"Powerful" described "Of Mice and Men" accurately. Directed by Lewis Milestone with his genius of getting the most out of his material, "Of Mice and Men" brings with it a cast that is, without exception, unusually excellent. Burgess Meredith, Betty Field, Lon Chaney, Jr., Charles Bickford, Roman Bohnen are the top names in this cast.

Wise men take comfort in the thought that the world is still unfinished, that what we see is not the completed product, but only the raw material. We create from these materials. The question for us is, what is the best use to which we can put them?

Top rating was achieved nationally by cherries, late strawberries, late celery, field beans, peppermint and spearmint, and cucumbers for pickles.

Peach output moved from eleventh to fifth place; alfalfa seed, tenth to fourth.

What About Surplus?

Second, agricultural production under stimulation of better practices has resulted in an increasing surplus.

That's where the state department of agriculture enters the picture with its program to inspect and grade Michigan food products, to educate the consumer to the superiority of Michigan products through advertising and thus to absorb any surplus without resorting to ruinous low prices which would be below cost of production.

Another government agency which is helping to move surplus farm production is the Surplus Commodities Corporation, a federal organization. Supplementing the state relief allocations of the state welfare commission to county welfare commissions are federal allowances of surplus food commodities.

The Surplus Commodities Corporation also enters the Michigan market and buys carloads of surplus food for shipment to other states for supplemental relief use.

A third activity of this corporation is now in operation at Grand Rapids where food stamps are available to persons on relief for purchase of designated surplus commodities in lieu of direct distribution of these commodities from food depots. Persons who receive orange stamps for purchase of food also receive free 50 per cent more in blue stamps which can be used only for purchase of surplus commodities.

It is another subsidy, of course, financed by the federal government to help both the needy and the farmer.

So far, the food subsidy scheme has had an amazing degree of popularity.

Farming Advance

The advance in farming has brot revolutionary changes.

Mechanization has forced more than 1,000,000 farmers to leave American farms in a recent period, according to Dr. Alexander, head of the Farm Security administration. (Recall the exodus in "Grapes of Wrath"?)

Yields of corn in the ten corn belt states were, in the years 1936 to 1939, 22.8 per cent above the 1929-33 average.

Yields of cotton lint are 35 per cent greater per acre today than they were 10 years ago.

According to the secretary of agriculture, "One hundred and fifty years ago it required 19 people living on the land to support themselves, and 1 person in town. Today 1 person on the land supports himself, 3 people in town, and 1 overseas."

And yet, if government statistics are to be believed, farmers comprise 25 per cent of our total population, yet they receive only 11 per cent of the national income. With a European war shutting off part of normal exports of food overseas, the surplus problem together with the lack of farm-industry parity prompted the United States senate recently to appropriate $85,000,000 for food stamp subsidy as part of a $951,834,000 appropriation for farmers through parity payments (212 millions), soil conservation checks (438 millions) and so on.

Civil Service

That civil service may become an issue in the 1940 state campaign was previously indicated by Democratic leaders who defended the Murphy civil service act and deplored the Republicans' revision of this act.

Another straw in the wind is seen in the action by the Michigan Merit System Association which took a first formal step last week to write civil service principles into the state constitution itself.

If 165,000 signatures are obtained to petitions, Michigan voters will have the opportunity in November to approve or reject an amendment creating a non-salaried, bi-partisan civil service commission of four members each appointed by the governor for eight-year terms and automatically assessing 1 per cent of the state's aggregate payroll for personnel administration.

Whereas approximately one-half of the state's salaried workers were removed from civil service classifications by the 1939 legislative act, the proposed amendment would permit only two exempt positions "for each elected administrative officer and each department, board and commission."

Retail Grocers

At the annual convention of the Michigan Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers Association at Lansing, Attorney-General Thomas Read declared that the time has come when Michigan citizens must choose between economy through elimination of "some of the less essential state functions" or increased taxes to pay for "more from your state government."

Read echoed statements made by Governor Dickinson when he said that pressure groups who "browbeat legislators for special favors" were responsible for further centralization of power at Lansing.

Retail grocers and meat dealers voted to support the food stamp plan, referred to earlier in this column.

Gains by independent retailers were shown last month in reports to the federal department of commerce from 22,988 independent stores in thirty-four states indicating that sales in March were 23 per cent above those in February, 1940, and 6½ per cent greater than in March, 1939. The number of independent stores increased 190,000 between 1929 and 1935.

"WELL, I LOOKED INTO THE COSTS OF ADVERTISING" Says Bank President*

"There's a Lot of Misinformation About Advertising Costs . . ."

"I am for any movement that brings down the cost of living for the public. But I am opposed to being fooled by anyone—particularly by those who accuse me of being duped by someone else. I like facts! So, having heard so much about what I have to pay for the advertising of things I buy—how much of my money pays the advertising costs of goods—I looked into the matter, and I got a lot of facts. Here are some: For oranges selling at 25c a dozen, the advertising cost was 3/10c. For cigarettes selling at 13c a pack, the advertising cost was ½ of one cent. For an automobile selling for $1000.00, the advertising cost was about $12.00. For a breakfast food selling at 15c a package, the advertising cost was 1/5 of a cent. The average cost of advertising for a dozen different kinds of products I discovered to be under 2% of the selling price to the public . . . Advertising has increased the distribution of goods, and has made mass production practical by making mass selling possible. It has thus increased competition, forced the quality of the products higher, and brought selling prices to the public down lower . . . I, therefore, reject the criticism of those who condemn Business for spending so much on advertising. I reject the criticism because it is misinformed and deceptive. Business does not spend proportionately high amounts for advertising; it spends proportionately little—and what it spends enables me to get better goods for less money."

was led to believe was something exclusive, proves the second. Even Dent Newville and Clare Staley were there. Would have been about as much privacy at a smelt run. One fellow, who fished from midnight until 8 o'clock, had ten trout, the largest catch noted. Others had from none to three. A lot didn't get any.

Sunday's poor luck must have been my lack of ability, for Nick took 12, Keith had 10 and numerous other fishermen I met had fair catches on the Jordan, despite the fact standing room was nt a premium. I hear Bill Fessenden got five trout weighing 5 pounds and Earl Miller done as well. Otherwise, nothing much to report.

"Dor" Young inaugurated the mackinaw trout trolling season by taking a 12-poundr Sunday from Lake Charlevoix, I am told. Also, the number of boats out on Round lake and at Ironton indicates the perch run must be improving. Another week should bring the spawn season fishing to its bright.

And I want to remind all you fellas who are lucky enough to catch an over-sized brook, rainbow, German brown or mackinaw trout, also bass, that Staley Hardware Co. is offering some mighty nice prizes for the largest fish caught this summer.

Note in last week's Congregational church notes an item which read, "Beginning May 5 the service (at Ironton) will begin at 10 a. m. and will continue until November 1." Maybe I shouldn't say so, but that sounds like a mighty long service to me!

Pleas by the conservation department that sportsmen be careful of fire in the woods were justified Sunday by an incident on the Jordan river. A campfire spark ignited tinder-dry grass nearby and in less time than you could count ten a forest fire was under way. Present-day efficiency of the department's fire fighting forces was also demonstrated by the fact that in a little over an hour the fire was under control after burning over about 20 acres. It seemed only a matter of minutes before conservation officers were on hand with portable water containers equipped with pumps, hand shovels and other equipment. Fishermen in the area numbering perhaps thirty were recruited to fight the blaze and the fire, potential destroyer of maybe thousands of acres of game cover, was subdued. If you have never witnessed the speed fire spreads thru a tinder-dry forest, you have missed an awe-inspiring sight.

-FLASH! Ernie Kibbe took the limit of trout Sunday. Seeings how all were German brown except one, will bet they were taken from Boyne Falls power pond. Ernie wouldn't tell. Understand "Cy" Marshall had a hand in it too.

A photo of Charlevoix's new city hall occupied the front cover of the April issue of the Michigan Municipal Review. Don Herrick is responsible and it is a nice bit of publicity.

Editor Al Weber of the Cheboygan Observer is sure a spit-fire when it comes to expressing his opinion of certain subjects. He called a group of 50 or more individuals who recently accompanied conservation officers to over-browsed deer areas near Alpena "would-be" sportsmen because they were interested enough to see first hand conditions confronting our game management officials. Then he wallops the daylights out of the conservation department for not buying feed for the starving deer. Personally, I think Al over-emphasized both points.

Levinson's display window improvement certainly should not go unmentioned and I'm no little interested in how Earl Young is going to finish up that attractive, enlarged office building of his.

The trout in the East Park pool are spawning right at the present time, and if you'll go down there and have a look you will find out why the expression "Poor Fish" was originated.

And in closing, would say: My idea of the sweetness of revenge is a chiropractor giving an adjustment to the dentist who pulled the wrong tooth for him.

Harry Gebeau has got his name in lights! It's a new neon sign "Si" Powers installed on the front of Harry's store on East Lincoln. Saw it clear from Dixon avenue Tuesday night and rushed home thinking my own place might be on fire.

NORTHERN CLASS C FIELD MEET MAY 11

THREE SCHOOLS TO COMPETE HERE SATURDAY

Officials Named for Annual Conference Event—Charlevoix is the Defending Champion

Preparations are under way by local school athletic officials for the fourth annual Tip O' Michigan class C conference track and field meet, scheduled for Snturday, May 11, at south side athletic field.

At least three schools will participate, compared to five last year, according to Stewart E. Fideman, Charlevoix track coach. Charlevoix will defend its title against Mancelona and Onaway, it is expected. East Jordan and Boyne City, competitors last year, dropped track activities this spring.

Charlevoix last year nosed out Mancelona by a margin of 56½ points to 50. East Jordan was third with 34.

According to present plans, qualifying for dashes, hurdles and broad jump, and finals in the pole vault and shot put, will be held in the forenoon, starting at 10 o'clock. Finals in other events, ten in all, will be held in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Officials named for the meet are Coach Earl Brotherston, Boyne City, starter; Dixon of Boyne City, and Klpke, of Charlevoix, judges; Harry E. Bingham, Charlevoix, clerk and scorer; Abe Cohen, East Jordan, and Max Smith, Charlevoix, assistants.

SEVERAL FORESTRY PROJECTS STARTED

EXPECT TO PLANT 100,000 PINES IN THIS COUNTY

Projects of Schools, Farms, Boyne Rotary and City Groups Included in Report

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Never before has there been so much interest in setting out young pine seedlings and transplants as is taking place at this time.

Approximately 7,000 seedlings are being set out by the Melrose township unit, Boyne Falls school, and East Jordan school 4-H clubs. This is the third year that these schools have cooperated in this project and already these young trees that have been previously planted can be seen from the rnadside.

Twenty thousand four-year-old Red Pine transplants will be set out by approximately 30 different farmers, either this week or next. The Charlevoix county road commission has cooperated very niecly in this program. These trees are to he planted parallel to the highway throughout the county nnd will afford considerable protection from wind and snow as they mature. Farmers are setting the trees out with certain definite recommendations and are receiving credit in the soil conservntion program.

Boyne City will set out fifteen thousand pine seedlings in a municipal forest. The property has been surveyed and when completed it will be in the shape of a huge wheel emblematic of the Boyne City Rotnry Club that initiated this project several years ago.

It is expected that around fifty thousand trees hnve been ordered by farmers throughout the county to reforest land too rough or too hilly for general agricultural crops. In innny cnses the land is light and somewhat infertile and not adapted to any other purpose.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors nnd ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community.

They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders, who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly. To quote a familiar saying, it means that we are "of the people, for the people and by the people".

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Grasshopper Control Program Being Developed

The plans for carrying on the county-wide grasshopper control program were formulated at a recent meeting of the agriculture committee, representing the board of supervisors and C. E. Dibble, insect control specialist from Michigan State College. Mr. Dibble stated that prospects for a large number of grasshoppers were about the same as the previous year and the weather conditions would largely determine the increase in numbers.

Briefly, the same program will be followed this year as last with the material being mixed only at the Boyne Falls station. The materials used will be the same as last year and the labor and management of the station will be under the supervision of Joseph Topolinski, supervisor of Boyne Valley township. Already each supervisor, as he makes his assessments, will be making the sign-up of farmers who would like to use the poison bait to protect their crops. It is hoped that each farmer will officially request sufficient bait to protect his grass and hay acreage. In other words, the quantity of material that can be furnished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for this purpose depends entirely on the number of requests and the number of acres signed up so let's have a good sign-up and be guaranteed that, if we do have a heavy infestation, we will have the necessary materials to combat this pest.

If you have not already signed up, it will be a good plan, the next time you see your supervisor, to make the official request. It is expected that the money on hand from last year's campaign will be ample to take care of the needs this year.

Quarantine Proclamation in Regard to Bang's Disease Announced for Charlevoix County

Very recently quarantine proclamations, regarding Bang's disease, in Charlevoix county, have been posted in every township throughout the county. In all likelihood, some cattle owners will misinterpret this proclamation and become worried about its effect on cattle.

In the first place, the proclamation does not in any way stop the movement of cattle within the county or from other counties, in this district, into this county. This is due to the fact that all of the nearby counties have been accredited on the same basis as this county and have less than one half of one per cent infection. Neither does this quarantine prevent the removal of or exportation of cattle from this county elsewhere. However, it does prohibit, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, importing cattle into the county from counties in the state that are not accredited unless accompanied by a certificate of health furnished and officially approved by the State Commissioner of Agriculture showing such cattle to have been subjected to and to have passed an officially recognized test for Bang's disease within thirty days prior thereto.

It can be readily seen that this quarantine is a great protection to cattle already in the county and will not cause anyone any inconvenience whatsoever. In fact, we welcome having this quarantine as it will protect this entire district from having infection brought in by buyers and shippers of cattle. After all this expense in cleaning up the disease in this county, it certainly would be illogical to allow cattle to be shipped into the county without being accompanied by a clean bill of health. On the other hand, it does not prevent the interchange of cattle within this accredited district and within the county itself.

Gracie Allen Tells How to Get Along With a Family

America's wackiest (and prettiest) presidential candidate, Gracie Allen of the radio and screen, believes that the United States should be just one big happy family. Then, she hammers home some laugh-provoking examples that did the work right in her own circle of relatives.

Be sure to read this entertaining article by one of the outstanding laugh-makers of today. Her article appears in This Week, The Detroit News Sunday Magazine.

MORALE

We Americans use the word "morale" without clear definition of its meaning. For instance, we speak of the morale of nations embroiled in war.

So using the word, we refer to confidence, courage, and determination. But there is another and more important element in the meaning of the word—sense and responsibility, of which we lose sight.

And in our own ease during the years of depression we lacked a sense of responsibility to our country and to ourselves which compelled our government to assume responsibilities it never should have assumed in the first place.

Individually, we should have discharged these responsibilities and avoided the confusion of ideas of government that now exists.—Frank B. Craig.

AT THE MOVIES

Reconstructing Locales of Tom Edison's Boyhood

Hollywood's production wizards turned back the calendar 80 years to reproduce almost to the last hitching post the main section of the town of Port Huron, Michigan, as it appeared in 1860 for scenes in "Young Tom Edison," starring Mickey Rooney at the Palace Theatre, May 11-13.

Because of the biographical importance of the story, dealing with the life of one of the greatest Americans, extensive research was necessary. Old photographs and maps supplied by the Grand Trunk Railroad were used as the principal basis upon which Harry McAfee, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer architect, designed the town.

Supporting Mickey Rooney in "Young Tom Edison" are Fay Bainter, George Bancroft, Virginia Weidler and Eugene Pallette. Norman Taurog directed.

New Chan Film

The newest adventures of the incomparable Oriental sleuth come to the screen in "Charlie Chan in Panama," the latest of the 20th Century-Fox thrillers, featuring Sidney Toler in the title role, which opens May 14 at the Palace Theatre. Featured with him in the cast are Jean Rogers, Lionel Atwill, Mary Nash, Sen Yung, Kane Richmond, Chris-Pin Martin, Lionel Royce, Helen Ericson and Jack LaRue. The film shows Chan on the trail of a devilish plot to sabotage the Panama Canal.

"Farmer's Daughter" is a Gay Rural Romp

One of the screen's gayest story ideas, embellished with the antics of Martha Raye and Charlie Ruggles, and further aided and abetted by a top-notch cast will be delivered—and delivered — at the Palace Theatre May 16-17 when "The Farmer's Daughter" curtsies.

Martha Raye holds down the title role, but there's no holding down Martha. She's in there swinging with both arms and a set of famed vocal chords that get over two grand numbers.

A total of 564 more cars was carried by Michigan State Ferries across the Straits of Mackinac during the month of April than were carried during a corresponding period a year ago, according to figures released by the Michigan State Highway Department.

Traffic carried across the straits up to and including April 27, was 6,929 vehicles for this year, while during a similar period in 1939, 6,365 vehicles had been carried across the straits. According to Arthur DeLoreia of the ferries office, northbound traffic durlag the month was heavier than southbound traffic.

FOUR PIANO CONCERT SCHEDULED AT TRAVERSE CITY, MONDAY, MAY 20

Music lovers who last May enjoyed the four piano concert given in Traverse City will be pleased to learn that a similur concert has been scheduled to take place at the Central High School auditorium, Traverse City, on Monday, May 20.

New numbers include the Concertino for three pianos by I. Phillipe, played by Mesdames Littell, Hendryx and Rosser. This number has been played in public only once before, by the pupils of Dorothy Miller Duckwitz of Detroit, an associate of Phillipe, who is a director of the Paris Conservatoire. There will also be novelty numbers, a paraphrase of the Three Blind Mice being one; and two Arensky numbers.

The four pianists are Mrs. Hermione Hendryx of Lee's Point, Suttons Bay; Mrs. Le Ora Willard of Beulah; Mrs. Agalea Greilick Rosser and Mrs. Pauline Shoup Littell of Traverse City. This ensemble has been described as the only one of its kind and most unusual, the words being those of Miss Annabelle Comfort, music critic of the Etude Magazine, who heard the summer concert last year. It has already been scheduled to open the concert series at Interlochen Music Camp on Sunday, June 23.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY INCREASES AD BUDGET; 75% PAPERS

Standard Oil Company of Indiana will increase its advertising budget for 1940 nnd place nearly 75 per cent of it in newspapers. Advertisements now starting state that Red Crown gasoline is the 2-to-1 favorite of midwestern motorists, C. S. Webster, Charlevoix Standard agent, announced today.

A total of 1,713 newspapers with a combined circulation of about 14,000,000 will carry the advertising in 13 states in the middlewest in which the company markets. This includes 492 dnlly papers and 1,221 weekly papers, of which the Charlevoix Courier is one.

"Newspaper advertising will he the backbone of the Standard campaign, because everybody buys gasoline and oil—and everybody reads newspapers," Mr. Webster said. "Newspnpers are read everywhere—on the farm, in the office, in the factory and at home. They have a chance to do their selling in all sorts of places nt all times of the day—a silent force, constantly at work," he explained.

"It's 2 to 1 for Red Crown" will be the theme of the Standard spring and summer advertising campaign for gasoline which begins today. Large illustrations with comparatively little copy will explain the 2-to-1 sales leadership of Red Crown over all other gnsolines.

There will also be newspaper advertising featuring the fact that Standard's Iso-Vis motor oil is the favorite among midwestern motorists.

The Charlevoix Chnpter of the American Red Cross has already shipped 30 wool dresses, 15 sweaters and 15 coats for the use of the civilian populations of the war-torn arens of Europe. Through an agreement reached with the German government, much of this has gone into German occupied territory.

The National Red Cross headquarters has nsked that the Charlevoix Chapter provide 5 men's sweaters, 5 women's sweaters, 10 children's sweaters and 5 layettes before June 5, according to Mrs. C. A. Leslie, roll call chairman, of Boyne City. The layettes are now being cut out hy Mrs. O. D. Sayles, of Boyne City, nnd the committee composed of Mrs. R. F. Sloan, of Charlevoix, Mrs. O. K. Hagerberg, of East Jordan, and Mrs. Leslie, are anxious to hear from volunteers who will undertake the work of finishing the layettes or the knitting of the sweaters. Materials for the sweaters will be furnished.

The relief operations of the American Red Cross in the government general area of Poland were undertaken on the basis of an agreement reached between representatives of the Red Cross and the German government in December of last year. Since that time a supplementary ngreement has been entered into, the terms of which are as follows:

The German government agrees to the relief work among the civil population in the government general whirh the American Red Cross is carrying out or intends to carry out. The German government is prepared to grant transportation facilities and exemption from customs duty for the shipments imported hy the American Red Cross for relief purposes. The Germnn government will grant, upon special application, permission for qualified representatives of the American Red Cross to enter the territory of the government general in order to receive the shipments for Polish relief, to regulate their distribution in agreement with the German Red Cross and to observe this distribution. It is understood that these American shipments are being forwarded to the civil population of the government general exclusively and that they will at no time be at the disposal of or claimed by the German authorities.

Supplies valued at over $150,000 have already been shipped to Poland under this agreement and cargo space is being arranged for additional shipments valued at $800,000.

For Lands' Sake!!!

That story in the Saturday Evening Post a week ago about the Los Angeles Realtor being so glum because he had an overdraft, had nothing on a Realtor in my family running around trying to look after some things for his clients and himself before a May Tax Sale. That was great sport the first part of the week!

For the balance of the week (or any week) it would be fine to show some of the most beautiful Lake Frontage I have For Sale on Lake Michigan and beautiful Lake Charlevoix. There is one piece that when the sun shines on the white birches making them like streaks of silver with the blue, blue water lake for a background . . . . . that certainly is a dream building site for a cottage. The price on this is only $500.00 for over 100 ft. frontage . . . . . .

Also, there is a lovely log cabin with frontage on Lake Michigan you should see. Ask Me ! !

STATE IS RENTING TAX REVERTED PROPERTIES

Nominal Fee Charged for Residence, Farm, Pasture Purposes

Issuance of use permit No. 100 by the lands division of the Michigan department of conservation marks the growth of the state's role as renter in the 47 northern counties.

Former owners remaining on lands whose title reverted to the state November 3, 1939, and other persons wishing to use such properties for residence, farming or grazing, are obtaining use permits from the state at fixed rental rates.

As the status of the more than 2,000,000 reverted northern acres is made clear on the record books, and pending applications for permits are investigated, the number of rentals is expected to increase considerably. These properties are being rented only until such times as they can be offered for sale.

The rental schedule requires payment of 50 cents an acre a year for agricultural lands, 10c an acre a year for grazing lands without available water, 15 cents an acre a year for grazing lands with available water. Yearly residence rentals are calculated at 10 per cent of the fair cash value of the buildings.

Gain in number of licensees over 1938 was 30,697 and increase in fees collected was $62,094. The 1939 figures are of March 31 and are nearly complete.

Gain of 3,265 in total of licensed fishermen in 1939 over 1938 is reported. The 1939 total was 858,302, for 1938 it was 855,037. Licensed hunters increased 27,432 in 1939 over 1938, the 1939 total being 710,288, and for 1938 it was 682,856. Totals include all classifications of licenses, resident and non-resident.

Trappers Take 200 Otter

More than 200 otters were taken by trappers in Michigan's first legal open season on these furbearers in 15 years, conservation department officials report.

Trappers were disappointed by prices of $10 to $15 paid for otter pelts, while beaver pelts averaged more than $20 each.

PIKE LAKES WILL BE OPENED 15TH OF MAY

Regular Lakes Fishing Season is Closed Until June 25th

Pike lakes of lower Michigan will be open to fishing two weeks later this year than last—on May 15, the date on which fishing begins in the pike lakes of the upper peninsula also.

Michigan has nearly n hundred designated pike lakes, scattered thru 38 counties. Because some fish are early spring spawners, fishing can begin in lakes where pike and perch and walleyes are the predominant species, while spawning bass and bluegills are protected by a closed season running to June 25.

U. S. IN WAR

Keep your feet on the ground when talking about or listening to someone else talk about the war abroad. It is said we can be driven into the conflict in less than 24 hours time (when it becomes necessary) so we had sure better be very careful this doesn't actually happen.

It is well to keep this question always before you, "Can we serve the cause of democracy by engaging in this war?"

The cost of the last war raised the per capita debt of every U. S. citizen twenty times. It was $12 per capita before the war and $250 per capita after it. Since then the national debt has raised the per capita rate to almost twice the $250. Is it possible to multiply that approximate $500 per person debt twenty times again for another war?

Can democracy survive the penalties which such indebtedness alone would impose upon our people?

When we talk about "saving democracy", if we really mean what we say, war is the greatest risk we could take!

End Results of Syphilis

With the recent removal of ancient taboos, much information relative to the nature and treatment of syphilis is being made available to the general public for the first time. However, there has been a notable failure to stress the fact that in about one-third of the men and two-thirds of the women who fall victims to the disease, often innocently, there are no primary symptoms. Pregnancy, especially tends to submerge the initial signs.

Absence of symptoms must not be taken to mean that the disease has appeared in a "light" form and that it will quickly subside of itself. Only a few of the organisms are necessary to cause a flare-up and the onset of later stages which are controlled with difficulty it at all.

Untreated in the first stage, syphilis will send from 10 per cent to 15 percent of its victims to a mental hospital with a disease of the central nervous system. A similar number will succumb to heart trouble and degeneration of the larger blood vessels. Another 25 to 35 per cent will experience changes in the tissues which are not the less fatal because they are not acute or actively inflammatory.

Physicians recommend a blood test every five years regardless of the improbability of exposure and many have such a test made on themselves as a routine procedure.

If the disease is discovered, treatment should be started at once and continue until a sufficient number of negative tests indicate a cure. Correct treatment will insure a cure in nearly all early cases. If the disease is allowed to progress for a period, only 70 to 80 per cent of the victims can be cured. At a still later stage, when the organism of syphilis has invaded the brain, heart, liver, bones and other structures, no treatment will repair the damage.

Early diagnosis and a complete course of medication alone will produce satisfactory results.

CHILDREN NEED ENERGY IN FOOD

When children are growing fast and playing hard, they need foods that will produce strong bones and teeth, build tissue, make red blood and furnish energy. But children's "tummies" are small and quickly filled. So every bite they eat must be as full of food value as possible.

Milk is the most economical source of the materials needed for growth, say home economists at Michigan State College. Eggs are also excellent body builders rich in protein, vitamins, and minerals. Some include from three to four glasses of milk a day, and from four to five eggs a week.

Fruits and vegetables are also important, and at least four servings are needed for every member of the family during the day. Cereals are another "must" in the well-planned diet. Whole-grain cereals are especially important for their vitamin and mineral content.

Lean meats are suitable for children once a day. The meat dish can be liver or kidney sometime during the week.

If sweets do not take the place of more important foods, they may be served as a special treat at the end of the meal. Desserts that the entire family will enjoy are custards, puddings, ice cream, fruit sherbets, plain cookies and plain cake. Dried, canned or fresh fruit also makes a wholesome dessert.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 12.

The Golden Text (John 3:6) is: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Genesis 1:26): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 267): "The offspring of God start not from matter or ephemeral dust. They are in and of Spirit, divine Mind, and so forever continue."

THIS NUT WEARS A HAT

This is the time of year most of us can derive keen pleasure from going out into the country for a drive during our leisure hours. But there's one thing that usually mars our pleasure—and that is the constant fear of suddenly meeting a "stunt car."

A stunt car is one which appears to be very dextrous in cutting between the car it is passing and the one it is meeting with only inches to spare. Of course, it needs the cooperation of the other two automobiles. They must apply their brakes instantly in order to make the trick possible.

And not all cars can be stunt cars. A stunt car has to be equipped with a special kind of nut—the kind that holds down the accelerator, the horn button and the front seat all at the same time. There is a head on this type of nut, but evidently it is without a purpose, for it is never used. Such a machine would be particularly helpful in war as an instrument of death which works without the aid of the human mind.

Luckily, stunt cars are the exception rather than the rule. Most cars, even though they also are death dealing machines, are kept under control by intelligent human beings who have a sense of the sacredness of life. A person who drives such a car can prove beyond doubt that he has at least an average intelligence by staying behind the car in front as long as it is risky to try to pass.—Times Record, Aledo, Ill.

upon his previous criticisms of Mr. Dickinson, releasing such barbed epithets as "Michigan's chief bartender", "inflated egotist" and "conscious hypocrite." Osborn concluded with a tart plea for Dickinson to step aside.

Intimates of the governor are smiling. If anything was needed to induce the governor that he should run again, Osborn's front page statement was regarded as removing any doubt. Of course, Dickinson seldom if ever is a candidate. He merely has been nominated with regularity and has been elected much in the same way.

Threat to Harmony?

In the judgment of one Lansing newspaper correspondent, Osborn's heckling attitude is "somewhat of a threat to the peace and harmony of the Republican party."

Joseph H. Creighton, a veteran observer of the capital scene, interviewed a number of the "top notch Republican leaders" and reported that one of them remarked caustically: "Why must the old man run, after all?" This same person informed Creighton that "one strong candidate could defeat Dickinson in the primaries.

Offsetting these statements was Creighton's personal conclusion that "Dickinson probably couldn't be stopped with a baseball bat and that he'd win the Republican primary just as he won seven others when running for lieutenant governor."

The latter analysis was prompted by a feeling that Dickinson's lieutenants in his official cabinet and party leaders generally could not agree among themselves upon a candidate other than Dickinson.

Thus, the administration aspirants for the governorship having largely neutralized each other's chances for the nomination, Dickinson is forecast as an easy winner in the September primary. At least, that's the prevailing thought at Lansing today—not prompted by favoritism for one candidate or another, being solely but a cool summary of the political situation as it exists at the moment.

Osborn for Murphy

In connection with the former governor's blast against Dickinson, it is recalled that Chase Osborn has been noted for his political independence, having been a Bull Mooser in the 1912 campaign and as late as two years ago having jumped upon the Democratic bandwagon to support Frank Murphy for re-election as governor.

This spring, Osborn remains in the same seat, the only change being that he is against Dickinson instead of the late Governor Fitzgerald and that he favors a Democrat "of the type of Murray D. Van Wagoner" instead of Mr. Murphy.

But the Osborn attitude of political independence is a disturbing sign, to say the least. Whether it represents the viewpoint of a large number of voters is quite another matter which time will reveal in its inevitable way.

If Fitzgerald's election was due more to an anti-Murphy reaction following the sit-down strike in 1937 than to a positive action in behalf of Fitzgerald — and such a conclusion has been voiced privately by leading Republicans—then what will be the popular trend in Michigan next November if Dickinson is the Republican nominee and Van Wagoner is the Democrats' choice?

Party leaders are scanning the skies hopefully for a sign.

The answer will depend to a large degree upon whom the Republicans and Democrats nominate for President. For 1940 is a national campaign year—don't forget!

Dewey Movement

More than a year ago two Michigan-born Republicans, Thomas E. Dewey and Arthur Vandenberg, agreed to stay out of each other's home field—Dewey out of Michigan and Vandenberg out of New York.

Regarding Vandenberg as the state's favorite son for the presidency the state republican organization has been plumping enthusiastically for the Grand Rapids senator, and it is a foregone conclusion that Vandenberg will receive Michigan's support on the first vote at the Philadelphia convention next month.

Howard Lawrence, former state treasurer succeeding Frank D. McKay, launched a Vandenberg boom a year ago. Leslie Butler, personal secretary of the governor, has been active in behalf of the Vandenberg-for-president movement. But when the Michigan senator declined to leave Washington to compete in person with Dewey in western states and the state primary verdicts showed a definite trend towards the New York racket-busting prosecutor, certain Republican leaders began to get nervous.

Melville B. McPherson of Lowell, who was a candidate against former Governor Fitzgerald two years ago, and Senator Herman H. Dignan of Owosso seized upon the opportunity to launch a Dewey movement in Michigan.

Dignan was careful to explain that the Dewey organization is being formed without Mr. Dewey's permission because of the Dewey-Vandenberg agreement.

He said: "His campaign is gathering momentum in Michigan as well as elsewhere and it seems advisable that something be done to organize the sentiment here."

McPherson is chairman of the state tax commission. Dignan is an independent hardware dealer at Owosso.

And so it goes. Michigan's political pot is beginning to boil.

There is something strongly akin to Elysian grandeur in growing vegetation. Grass that springs up under stimulus of moisture and sunshine, and trees that put on draperies of green take one aloof from human conflict and lift tired spirits to catch the breath of eternity. Nothing thrills like the miracle of spring—the richly green landscape, the returning foliage and flowers.

while they "gas" with their chums, maybe they'd park at the curb like other people do. After all, the streets are public highways and I haven't been able to figure out why one person should monopolize them.

The Myron Culvers have bought the Mrs. Will Hampton bungalow on Nettleton street and have moved in for the summer.

Lake Charlevoix's fighting steelhead, fondly dubbed the "fresh water tarpon" were lauded for their gamey qualities by L. L. "Red" Paul, Chicago commentator broadcasting over Miami, Fla., station WIOD. Paul said: "Besides a white marlin (weight 118 pounds) I caught off the Florida coast, the most fighting fish I ever took was a steelhead from Lake Charlevoix while fishing from the Clothier Fishing Camp." Nice going, Red!

Hay! Hay! That's what Glen Ikens chortled when someone upset a trailer load of baled hay into the driveway of his station while turning the corner at the junction of State and Antrim streets.

Ernie Kibbe and "Cy" Marshall have sure got all the other local fishin' guys green with envy! They knocked off another limit catch of German browns at Boyne Falls pond last Sunday, right out from under the noses of fellows who, despite the fact they claim to know every trout in the pond by name, can't catch 'em. It must be the way Ernie and "Cy" live. And don't let anyone tell you they didn't actually get them for I saw the 30 fish ranging in size from 8 inches up to 2 pounds. It was a beautiful catch. Am sure glad someone is having some luck, because as far as I'm personally concerned, I haven't caught a day's limit in the four times I've been out put together.

A 57th wedding anniversary and the 57 products of the H. J. Heinz Company have a very definite connection providing your marital bliss lasts 57 years and some friend drops the Heinz Company a line informing them of the event. As proof, was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bedford in receiving last Friday a case of 57 full-size cans of Heinz products as a gift in honor of their 57th wedding anniversary which occurred last March. A friend had informed the Heinz Company and the gift followed the call of a company representative who checked the authenticity of the information. Such a gift is available to any couple having a 57th wedding anniversary providing the Heinz Company is given notification.

The Cartier—Fred and the Missus have gone to New York for a two weeks' visit with their sons, Harold and Stan. Taking his first real vacation in the 40 years he's been in business in Charlevoix, Fred just turned the key in the lock and closed the shop. Torn britches, missing buttons, and discussion of city affairs—commonplace and every day happenings at Fred's—will just have to wait. Personally, I hope they have the best time in their lives.

Perch fishing is "tops" at the present time—just as if everybody didn't know it. This information is for the out-of-towners.

Landscaping is greatly improving appearance of grounds surrounding the new city hall.

And in closing, I want to say that my idea of a great executive is one who hires able men and then goes fishing instead of sticking around in the way to show he's boss.

DISTRICT SPEECH CONTESTS HELD TUESDAY

Cheboygan, Bellaire Entrants Won Titles at Traverse City

Helen France, of Cheboygan, and Wray Prince, of Bellaire, are district champions in declamation and oratory as the result of victories Tuesday evening at Traverse City. Competition had been postponed from last Friday.

Mary Willis, representing Charlevoix high school in declamations, placed fourth, and Amy Pederson, competing in oratory, was fifth.

ERADICATION RAG WEED AND IVY IN CITY PLAN OF LOCAL GARDEN CLUB

Members of the Charlevoix Garden Club, meeting with Miss Wilma See on Tuesday, May 7, made plans for a campaign for extermination of ragweed and poison ivy in the city this summer, and discussed various civic improvements.

A feature of the refreshments served following the business meeting were individual lemon chiffon pies, each decorated with the club flower, the lady's-slipper, made of tinted whipped cream.

A special meeting is scheduled at the home of Mrs. Myron Culver, 306 Nettleton street, for next Tuesday, May 14, at which Mrs. Allen Campbell will give a lesson on "Wildflowers of Northern Michigan."

SALESMANSHIP THEME OF FRIDAY'S MEETING

Charlevoix County State Bank Sponsored Public Relations Instruction

Salesmanship, as it pertains to better customer relations, was presented to a large group of local business representatives at a public relations meeting in the community room of the city hall last Friday evening.

The meeting was the second and along similar lines to that sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank a year ago, when the plan to provide instruction for the bank's personnel was broadened to include its patrons.

The sound movie, "The Face in the Mirror," dealt with salesmanship by portraying proper and improper methods of meeting and handling customers.

Robert Bridge, president of the institution, explained the purpose of the meeting and introduced guests including Roscoe Todd, of the American National Bank, and Victor Dixon, of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., both of Chicago, also Ray O. Brundage, of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Bankers' Association, who presented the speaker, William Otto, secretary of the Lansing chamber of commerce.

Mr. Otto's address on the topic, "How Much Am I Worth," did not adhere closely to public relations, but was a most entertaining and interesting discourse on human nature. From a standpoint of salesmanship, the speaker "sold" himself to an appreciative audience.

Mr. Otto's talk was preceded by entertainment by Fred Maher, Detroit ventriloquist, an outstanding feature.

HARBOR WINNER OF OPENING BALL GAME

Nosed Out Charlevoix Aggregation by 9 to 8 Score Monday

Opening their conference baseball schedule Monday afternoon at Harbor Springs, Coach Ray Kipke's Charlevoix team was nosed out by a 9 to 8 count. The contest, initial one for both schools, had been postponed from last Friday.

Scoring two runs in each of the first and second innings and four in the 4th frame on Nowland's home run with the bases loaded, Charlevoix had an 8 to 3 advantage to enter the 5th. It looked like a safe margin until Carey walked four in a row to start a scoring spree that netted Harbor three runs. They added three more in the 7th frame to gain a one-run margin.

McBride, Harbor hurler, struck out 15 Charlevoix batters and walked 1. Carey struck out 6, walked 7 and struck 3. Good fielding support held the Harbor score down. Allerding hit two singles, was hit by a pitched ball twice and grounded out in five times at bat. Wilson received a walk and hit two singles in three times at the plate. Charlevoix was charged with 3 errors, Harbor 2.

The box score:

Team									R	H	E
Charlevoix	2	2	0	4	0	0	0		8	8	3
Harbor	0	1	2	0	3	0	3		9	7	2

Charlevoix plays their first home game against East Jordan at south side athletic field Friday afternoon.

OBSERVE NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY NEXT SUNDAY

Special Program and Tea is Planned at Charlevoix Hospital

Sunday, May 12, is National Hospital Day. Charlevoix Hospital joins with hospitals all over the United States, Canada, and the rest of the world, in holding open house to encourage the public to know their hospitals better.

A special program and tea are planned at Charlevoix Hospital for this occasion. Everyone is invited to visit the hospital and learn first hand about the service it gives. Too few people are acquainted with the services of the modern hospital—a service represented by more than half a million men and women, hospital trustees, medical staffs, auxiliaries and personnel of hospitals. This staff of workers fights for health and happiness 24 hours a day, every day.

May 12 was universally approved as National Hospital Day when such a "day" was suggested, for on that date in 1820 was born Florence Nightingale, immortal for her contribution to the elevation of nursing, but equally important for her work for the improvement of hospitals.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Fred Yettaw of Atwood was admitted Thursday for two days treatment of a fractured leg.

Billy Byer was admitted Sunday for treatment.

Miss Alice McElroy submitted to a major operation Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holstad of Mancelona are the parents of a son, Richard Earl, born Tuesday, April 30.

WM. GREGORY, HAYES PIONEER, HONORED ON NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

William Gregory, pioneer resident of this region, was honored Sunday at a dinner celebrating his ninetieth birth anniversary, which was on Saturday, May 4.

Thirty-eight members of the Gregory family were served dinner at the Min-Eva Cafe at two tables decorated in carnations and snapdragons, and centered with large decorated birthday cakes. Born in Chatham, Ontario, Canada, May 4, 1850, Mr. Gregory came to Detroit at the age of fourteen, and to this community at sixteen. He married Ellu Baker on January 13, 1876. They took up a homestead at Cross Village, where Mr. Gregory farmed and worked in the lumber woods until they came to Hayes township thirty-two years ago. Mrs. Gregory died in February, 1927.

The fourth birthday of a great-grandson, Clyde Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lovel Banks of Harbor Springs, and the eleventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Wagley of Charlevoix, were also honored. Another great-grandchild, Hazen Williams, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clare Gregory at the Walker farm on Saturday.

Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Crites and daughter, Madelyn, Mrs. Charles Spare and daughter, Geraldine, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gregory and son, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Houck and two children, and Mrs. Ethel Weldon, all of Detroit; Mrs. Mary Newson, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gregory and son, Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. Lovel Banks and two children, of Harbor Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Strader, of Levering; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Gregory and two children, Wilma Jean Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. William Gregory and daughter, Winifred, and Mr. and Mrs. William Wagley, all of Charlevoix. PERCH FISHING DREW BIG WEEK END CROWD

Facilities of Trolling Camp Taxed to Accommodate Anglers

Perch fishing brought hundreds of out-of-town and southern Michigan anglers to Charlevoix last week end.

Closely approaching the influx brought by last season's perch festival, the visitors taxed the facilities of all local trolling camps to provide boats, bait and tackle. Limit catches rewarded a great portion of the visiting anglers.

With the steelhead fishing about to begin and with good perch fishing, anticipated for at least two weeks, the week ends of May 25-26 and June 1-2 are expected to bring equally large or larger crowds.

FINAL AAA REPORT REVEALS 76% COOPERATION

Total of 41,057 Acres in County to Be Farmed Under Program

Final summary of the AAA farm plans signed in Charlevoix county this spring shows that 873 farmers intend to cooperate with the 1940 program. May 1 was the deadline for completing and signing the farm plans.

The sign-up this year indicates that about 41,057 acres, or 76% of Charlevoix county cropland, will be farmed under the provisions of the agricultural conservation program.

The farm plan includes the acreage allotments for the farm, the soil-building practices which will be carried out on the farm, and an estimate of the maximum payment which the farmer may earn through his cooperation with the 1940 AAA program.

Farmers who have signed their farm plans and who cooperate in the program this year will be eligible for (1) 1940 agricultural conservation payments, (2) price adjustment payments, and (3) crop loans, if offered.

OAKLEY HAMMOND TAKEN BY DEATH

VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK FRIDAY NIGHT

Was Deputy City Clerk, City Assessor, Active in Civic Affairs—Funeral Held Monday

The death from heart attack Friday night of Oakley J. Hammond, 39, depnty city clerk and for many years active in civic affairs, has brought deep sorrow to this community.

His sudden passing was a severe shock to his family and many friends. He had been in poor health for some time, but was active at his office through the day of his death.

Oakley J. Hammond was born in Charlevoix on April 21, 1901. He attended local schools and studied two years at Ferris Institute. He was married October 2, 1921, to Nelle Allen of this city.

He was bookkeeper for several local business concerns and was an insurance agent. He became deputy city clerk in the fall of 1933, a position he held at his death, also was city assessor, a position he held several terms. Exercises by Boy and Girl Scouts Addresses by Judge Gilbert and Attorneys is Planned

A "Citizens' Day" program is planned at the court house at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, May 20, opening day of the May term of circuit court which convenes the same morning before Judge Parm C. Gilbert.

According to Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk, who is arranging the program, while a state-wide "Citizens' Day" has been designated as May 19th, Charlevoix county's observance will be held in connection with the opening of circuit court.

The duties of American citizenship will be stressed through exercises by the Boy and Girl Scout groups of this city, an address by Judge Gilbert and talks by members of the Charlevoix county bar. Arthur L. Fitch, prominent local attorney, is scheduled to talk.

Coincident with the day's observance is the fact that a class of thirteen petitioners for citizenship papers will be heard Monday morning. This group will be invited to the afternoon program which will stress the duties they will assume as citizens. An especial invitation is extended young men and women who have attained their 21st birthday and will at the September primary election be privileged to vote for the first time.

Arthur Bergeon Named to Succeed Prescott Adams, Resigned, As Second Ward Supervisor

Two vacancies in city offices, one elective and one appointive, were filled by appointment of Mayor Robert Bridge and confirmation by the city council Monday night.

Arthur Bergeon, former Charlevoix mayor and alderman, was named second ward supervisor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prescott Adams, who has taken a position with the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

Don F. Herrick, city superintendent, was named to succeed the late Oakley J. Hammond as city assessor. It is understood Mr. Herrick is to serve without compensation in addition to his present salary, and that the appointment probably was temporary and made to prevent interruption of the pending meetings of the board of review which open next Monday.

Salaries of city officials were included in a payroll aggregating $8,087.62. The payroll also showed a duplication, in itemized form, of a special payroll drawn April 29 on the contingent and advertising funds for insurance and board of commerce expenses, bringing the actual payroll of Monday evening down to $4,934.81.

Opticians say that only about 10 per cent of the people have perfect vision. The other 90 per cent constitute the cock-eyed world, I suppose.

There is a possibility that a coast guard cutter, the purpose of which would be to serve the 18 lighthouses under jurisdiction of the Charlevoix coast guard station, may be located here. If the proposal goes through, it is estimated 15 new families will be added to our population. Let's keep our fingers crossed.

Action of the conservation committee of the board of commerce in not holding a spring perch festival as a means of saving the spawning perch was merely an idle gesture in view of the fact that over 70 boatloads of fishermen, as many as on any single day last year, were out on Round lake Sunday. It was a noble gesture, though.

A charming personality with 4 billion dollars to spend, matched against a public so engrossed in its own private affairs that it does not take time to think of the future, means just one thing — a third term for President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Because that 4 billion dollars means

Democratic government is like "Alice in Wanderland."

It is marked by conditions both contradictory and inconsistent.

Little wonder that the average citizen becomes confused!

For example:

The state of Michigan collected $124,037,881 in twelve months ending last June 30 which it promptly turned over to 83 counties. Whose money was this: state or county?

State payrolls totaled $2,372,681 more in the past fifteen months than in the same period of 1937-38, yet the increase in payrolls can be traced largely to state functions which receive substantial federal aid. Were it not for federal aid requirements, the state payroll would show a decline for 1939 compared with 1938. The increase of payrolls in federal aid departments in this period was

Our Membership in the F.D.I.C.

What does that now-familiar phrase "Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation" mean to you? It means that your bank is one of 13,600 of the country's 15,000 banks which have qualified for F.D.I.C., membership. Each depositor in an insured bank is protected against loss to a maximum of $5,000 of his total deposits.

The federal government itself does not guarantee bank deposits. The government contributed $150,000,000 to the capital of the F.D.I.C., but is not under agreement or obligation to contribute anything further. The banks themselves pay the entire cost of deposit insurance, being assessed one-twelfth of one per cent of their average total deposits each year.

Deposit insurance does not make all banks equally safe. Sound management will always be a vitally important factor.

Bert Marks and the Norton Pearl families are back to their resorts at Torch Lake and Eastport, and the resort business is getting underway again.

Wm. Nickola and family have moved into the Stella Brouwer home again.

Rev. Paul DeHaan's little boy, James, is about the same yet. He was recently taken to Traverse City Hospital for a check-up. He is suffering with rheumatic fever and heart trouble.

Edward Dawson has been busy fixing up the Bay View cemetery. The ground was leveled last year and seeded, and head stones reset in cement, and it is now being mowed and otherwise repaired, and presents a much more pleasant appearance. Zibe DeForest, 84 years of age, has been fixing graves of relatives there, and at Central Lake cemetery.

Ben Powell, 84 years of age, passed away at the home of Alfred Brooks, Norwood, last Thursday. He had been an oldtime resident of west of Bellaire, and used to run a threshing machine in that neighborhood.

Clement Heydenburk drove the writer's car to Ann Arbor last week where we had a check-up on our throat and was pronounced "O. K." for another six months. We were accompanied by Mrs. Walter Anderson and children and Agnes Dewey, who spent the day visiting a sister, Mrs. Genevieve McGuire and family at Ortonville, and a brother, Jasper Dawson and family at Pontiac. Crops in southern Michigan did not appear to be any farther along in growth there than up here. We noticed the super highway being built from near Ann Arbor north from Fenton.

RAILS OF VALUE IN COUNTY

The economic value of Michigan's railroads to Charlevoix county is graphically pictured in posters now being installed in all railroad stations in the county. The posters were prepared by the Railroad Co-Operative League of Michigan.

According to the poster there are 45 miles of railroad in this county, with 57 persons in local rail service earning an average of $88,265.44 a year. The county in 1939 also collected $17,433.98 of the taxes the railroads pay into the state treasury, the money coming into the county through the primary school fund.

The railroad league in issuing the poster declares that the lines are, with the automobile industry and farming, one of the state's three largest industries, but are its greatest single taxpayer and surpass every other industry in the universal fashion in which they serve the state. Only two counties in Michigan are without railroad mileage, but "railroad taxes", the league asserts, "enter into even those counties in which they do not operate, and constitute the greatest tax revenue of many of the other counties. No other transport agency approaches the railroads as an economic, labor-creating, tax-producing or transportation factor throughout Michigan. They are the most vital item in the transportation industry."

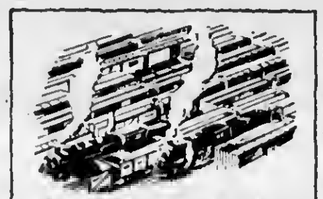
INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT BEER AND BREWING

THIS IS WHAT BEER IS MADE OF . . . Sunshine, water, malted grain—and hops for flavor. Converted into beer by a simple natural process. Mother Nature brews beer—that is why it is so wholesome.



PROVIDED BY U. S. FARMERS—25 BILLION POUNDS OF FARM PRODUCTS NEEDED BY BEER AND ALE. Since re-legalization, the brewing industry has bought this enormous quantity of produce from American farmers.

BEER AND ALE CONTRIBUTE $1,000,000 A DAY IN TAXES TO LOCAL, STATE, AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENTS. Or $400,000,000 a year! What would happen if there were no beer or ale to carry this enormous tax burden?

"THANKS FOR THE JOB!"... say 1,000,000 people put to work by beer and ale since their return. More than 100 other industries benefit from the making and sale of beer and ale.

BEER CAME OVER ON THE MAYFLOWER—Pilgrim records tell how the landing of the Mayflower was hastened because the Pilgrims ran short of supplies, "especially beer."

A NEW PLAN TO COOPERATE WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS. You will want to know about beer's new plan to "clean-up or close-up" retail establishments that permit abuses. This plan is in effect in a number of states. It is being extended. Ask us for free booklet. Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

MILD, WHOLESOME BEVERAGES FOR HOME ENTERTAINMENT. Always easy to serve, beer and ale are favored by many hosts and hostesses for home entertainment. Tasty, mild and wholesome—they are ideal beverages for moderation parties.

MOTHER BEAR KILLS CUB CAUGHT IN COYOTE TRAP

A forest tragedy is reported by Conservation Officer Walter Nelms who came upon a coyote trap in which was pinioned a 10-day-old cub bear, dead from a blow on the neck. The evidence was plain, to one who could read it. The mother had come upon her offspring, had remained by its side two or three days while she made ineffectunl efforts to release it, then had freed it from its suffering.

Dr. H. Truman Gordon

Dr. H. Truman Gordon of Chicago, nationally known chautauqua lecturer, minister and advocate of the Townsend National Recovery Plan for the past four years, will be the principal speaker at a public mass meeting in Charlevoix, Mich. at the City Hall at 8 p. m., Saturday, May 18, it was announced from Townsend National Headquarters in Chicago.

Speaking on the subject "Why I Prefer to Be An American," Dr. Gordon will tell of a six months tour of Europe he took a few years ago for the purpose of studying economic, social and political conditions of Great Britain, France, Russia and the Scandinavian countries. During his tour he talked with Britain's former premier, Ramsey MacDonald, Von Hindenberg in Germany and economic and political leaders in France, Russia and Sweden.

Because of his clear understanding of conditions which produced liberty-destroying dictatorships in three European nations, and his comparisons with present trends in America, Dr. Gordon's address is expected to hold considerable public interest.—Adv.

FEARS

Everybody fears somebody or something. For we are crentures of fear. Too often we meekly bow to it and its twin, worry, when we should be fighting it. And this despite the fact thnt if we do fight, we invarinbly find the fear to be greater than the danger.—Grit.

It may be that only the brnve deserve the fair, but it is only the rich who can support them.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON
By Your Congressmnn
Fred Bradley
11th District Michigan

The deluge of letters demanding action on the Townsend old-age pension plan has forced the relaxation of a rule my office has been proud to maintain, and that is answering promptly each and every communication received. The same policy wns maintnined for several weeks with the Townsend correspondence, but each acknowledgment brought forth more letters advancing the same arguments in favor of the plan.

Perhaps the most difficult decisions a legislator must make while holding public office involves the turning down of the pleas of those who feel that they have a panacea which will put an end to all our troubles and make our world a better place in which to live. The Townsendites feel that way about their old-age pension plan.

Upside Down World

In this period when all the world seems to be upside down, it behooves all of us to give respectful attention to every proposal that gives promise of bettering conditions. Perhaps it was due to this sympathetic attitude that our law-makers accepted too readily some of the relief schemes proposed in the last few years. Conceding good intent, the record is nevertheless there to prove that the measures adopted have been ineffective. Public money has been spent lavishly, but there are more today "ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed". This after more than 25 billions has been ndded to the public debt, an expenditure which added to other sums spent for the curing of the depression troubles is more than it took to finance the Civil and World Wars.

Recognizing our failures to meet the problem up to this stage, it seems to me all the more important that our country does not embark on another experiment which can end only in disappointment to all those who are victims of the unsettled economic times. We cannot help those who need it by destroying those who are managing to get along.

Not Fighting Plan

Now, I am not fighting the Townsend Plan, even though I have not brought myself to support it. Despite the claims made in some of the letters I am receiving to the effect that a majority of the people believe in it, I know that the supporters are still nothing more than a comparatively small minority, a well-organized one carrying on a very aggressive enmpaign. Now I am not against their doing that, for that is clearly within their rights as eitizens, so long as they confine themselves to methods that are fair. And while I make no contention that unfairness has been resorted to, I do say that some of the proponents carry their aggressiveness pretty far.

What the Record Shows

Now just a few lines of explanation, to give everybody the information they should have and to answer some of the arguments that have been presented.

The most frequent "demand" is that a petition be signed to take the present Townsend Bill—H. R. 8264—away from the Ways and Means Committee on the plea that the members of that committee are prejudiced and unfair. The record will show that extensive hearings were provided in the first session nnd that the committee reported the bill out, without recommendations because the majority was against its passage. But even in the face of this, it will be noted that the committee did not submit "unfavorable" recommendations. The bill was beaten by a large majority, only 101 out of 435 voting for it, and mnny of those told me they even then did not believe in the plan.

The plan has now been changed somewhat it is true, mostly in the name of the tax which it is proposed to levy in order to provide the pensions. First it was called a "transaction tax", now it is a "gross income" tax. Because it might be hnrd to explnin that there is really little if any fundamental difference in the two, it might be well to have the committee study and report the changes proposed. With this in mind, I have joined in a Republican recommendation made to the chairman of the committee, Hon. Robert Doughton, that a hearing be held at this session and the bill reported to the floor and again a vote demanded.

But I have not consented to sign the discharge petition because such a step might be understood as an endorsement of the bill and it is positively n protest against the committee hnndling of the bill, and I nm one of those who contend that the committee hns been entirely fair in dealing with the legislation.

European War Spreads

As this is written Congress is understnndably disturbed by events abroad. There is no dodging the seriousness of developments, and I am of the opinion that the session should be continued to be prepared to deal with any crisis that might threaten to involve us. My advice is that our citizens continue to beware of all propaganda spread by those who have desire to get our country in the war. I think we ought to keep out because we are not a party to the causes that have bred the war.

THE PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Professor H. L. Seaton, Specialist in Horticulture, to Speak on Refrigeration of Fruits, Vegetables

Professor H. L. Seaton, of the Michigan State College extension staff, has been secured to talk on freezing fruits and vegetables in the Boyne City library on Tuesday night, May 21st, beginning at eight o'clock promptly. Professor Seaton is an authority on refrigeration and will discuss all subjects in connection with this important development.

A cordial invitation is extended to all folks interested to attend this meeting and discuss the benefits and dividends of quick freezing. Fortunately, Charlevoix county has such a plant in operation at the present time. It is owned by Shaw-Naylor and is located in Boyne City. Already its facilities have been taxed to the limit by a big demand for space. Briefly, by using their facilities a person can enjoy fruits and vegetables out of season. You are assured of quality products as your own products can be used. Each locker, being about twenty by thirty by eighteen inches, will hold approximately three hundred pounds of meat or fifty quarts of fruits. Among other subjects, Professor Seaton will discuss the preparation, care and freezing of fruits and vegetables, the proper processes to use, the selection of the better varieties of fruits and vegetables, and the types of syrups and brines to use.

Mr. Naylor has promised that samples of products recommended for freezing will be shown those present. Also, literature, covering the entire field, will be distributed. Certainly the facilities of the plant should be utilized by a good many people. Bring your friends with you and attend this meeting in the Boyne City library on Tuesday night, May 21st.

D. H. I. A. Proves Testing Pays

In the face of possible surpluses, there is no goal in Michigan to increase milk production. But one goal that continues to be foremost in Michigan dairy herd improvement association work is that it is better to keep a few good cows than many poor ones.

To prove that point to Charlevoix county dairymen, are some state average figures recently compiled by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College.

Highest association average in the state last year was the South Berrien D. H. I. A. with an average per cow of 387 pounds of butterfat. Contrast this, suggests Baltzer, with the estimated state average of all cows of 185 pounds of fat. The difference is 202 pounds.

The Berrien association, says Baltzer, shows the value of maintaining a plan. Originally organized in 1912, the association lapsed during the war years but was revived in 1921 and has been continuous since.

No herd in the Berrien association had less than a 331 pound butterfat average among the 29 herds. Top was the herd of Doan K. Straub, Galien, with 527 pound average on 13 cows.

To continue with what Baltzer believes is a creditable association, members show these reports: 28 of the 29 grow alfalfa, 21 raise soybeans, 17 have recommended bull pens, 3 have proved sires, 26 have approved milk houses, there are 177 registered and 116 grades in the herds.

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 19th. The Golden Text (1 Corinthians 15:53) is: "This corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Hebrews 12:1): "Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

AT THE MOVIES

Power, Lamour Are Co-Stars of "Johnny Apollo"

Not since "Jesse James" has Tyrone Power had a role like that of "Johnny Apollo" in the 20th Century-Fox drama of that title which co-stars him with Dorothy Lamour at the Palace Theatre May 18-20.

"Johnny Apollo" is the alias of a young college man, a banker's son, who turns mobster when the father he idolized is sent to prison and his wealthy friends turn against him.

Dorothy Lamour is more alluring than ever as "Lucky" Dubarry, the hard-boiled night club entertainer who understands and loves the boy, no matter what he does.

Thrill-Packed Action and Mystery in "Raffles"

David Niven plays the title role and Olivia de Havilland provides the romantic interest in the new Samuel Goldwyn production, "Raffles," which will be presented for its first showing May 21-22 at the Palace Theatre through United Artists release. "Raffles" is an exciting and fast-moving mystery melodrama about the famous Amateur Cracksman, a society "smoothie" who leads a secret life of crime.

A strong supporting cast which includes Dudley Digges, Dame May Whitty, Lionel Pape, Douglas Walton, E. E. Clive, Peter Godfrey and Keith Hitchcock surrounds the principal players.

"Knights of the Range" Fine Tale of Gallantry

A punch-packed, honest-to-goodness outdoor action romance, one which does not belie its title will open on May 23, at the Palace Theatre, where Zane Grey's "Knights of the Range," featuring Russell "Lucky" Hayden, Victor Jory, Jean Parker, J. Farrell MacDonald and Britt Wood will be offered for the entertainment of that large host of followers of the western film.

Will Fyffe Grand in Mystery Film

Will Fyffe, the world-famous star, gives a grand performance in a thrilling mystery hit, "They Came by Night," the 20th Century-Fox release which comes to the Palace Theatre May 23-24.

The lovable old Scot gets mixed up with a gang of murdering thieves and steals from the crooks when they make a haul. When they plan their biggest job, he joins the gang, and what a surprise he gives them—and you, in the most startling climax the screen has shown in many a month!

PLAN TESTS ON ROAD '41 LICENSE PLATES

Dozen or More Samples Will be Tried Out on Automobiles

The 1941 model of Michigan's automobile license plate will be a "road-tested" job. In his effort to arrive at a proper combination of size, color and design, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, has ordered the production of a dozen or more sample plates, all of which will be used on the road, to be studied under actual driving conditions.

State police and automobile manufacturers will join in giving scientific tests. Their conclusions will determine just what kind of plate will adorn the 1941 car of the Michigan motorist.

"Visibility is a chief consideration of the law-enforcement officers," says Kelly. "They want to be able to see the license numbers at long distances. The manufacturers are interested also because they desire a plate that will harmonize with the streamlining of the cars they produce, and one which will be easily fitted to the car.

"The automobile engineers have joined with us in producing various designs. The suggestions of those who favor a smaller plate are being thoroughly considered. We certainly would favor a smaller one, so long as visibility were not sacrificed, because the state saves money in reducing the size, less steel being required.

"When the police officers and the automotive research men get through testing the different samples on the roads, we'll study their findings. The final selection will be based on actual driving experience, not on any personal preference for this or that color combination, size, or any other factor entering into the problem."

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

X-Ray Clinics to be Held Soon

Tuberculosis x-ray clinics will be held in each county of District Health Unit No. 3 on the following dates:

May 20 in the afternoon at the Gaylord gymnasium; May 21 in the morning at the Court House in Bellaire; May 22 in the morning at the High School gymnasium in Boyne City; May 23 in the morning at the High School gymnasium in Petoskey.

The purpose of making these x-rays is to locate early cases of tuberculosis, to check up on those who may have healed tuberculous areas in their lungs, and to determine the condition of those who have had contact with tuberculous individuals.

Since using the x-ray on all who come under this classification would be an impossible task in the time allotted, only those who have had positive tuberculin skin tests will be given appointments.

In preparation for the clinic, members of the health department staff, with the help of interested individuals in the various communities, have spent the past month in an extensive skin testing program. The testing was confined to those groups in which early tuberculosis is most likely to be found. Such groups are of two types, those who have a history of continuous contact with tuberculosis, and all young adults.

The presence of a persistant cough or of a "run down condition" is not necessarily present in early tuberculosis. The slogans on a recent poster describe the situation in a few words: "Healthy Looks can hide tuberculosis" and "The X-ray will show it before you know it." There is no excuse for waiting to make x-rays until individuals think they have tuberculosis—by then it is usually advancing, and they spread the infection to their friends as well.

Further information regarding the clinics may be obtained from the nearest District Health Unit office.

Boy Bites Dog

Harrison—That classic example of what makes news really happened here recently. When Mr. and Mrs. Clare Ecklin's year old son was playing with his puppy, and it playfully nipped him too hard, the baby retaliated by biting the dog's foot.

Pays Old Debt

Bangor—Voluntary payment of a debt of 48 years standing has been made to Jim Hope. Although he had forgotten any such sum due him, Hope found in an envelope left at his store, $2.82 with an explanation that it was in payment of a 48-year-old debt, plus interest.

Pictures F.D.R. in Wood

Richmond—Ray Ball, who makes a hobby of inlay wood pictures, has completed a copy of the likeness of President Roosevelt. The picture is made of eight different woods, and pieces are so well put together, it is hard to tell where they are joined.

Has Slave Sale Bill

Belleville—Eldon Leonard possesses an auction handbill reflecting gold rush days of 1849. Advertising a sale in Kentucky by a man "leaving for Oregon territory by ox team", the bill offers six slaves, along with other items, for sale in one group, not to be separated.

Duplicate Operations

Milan — Shortly after Carleton Murray returned from a hospital following an appendectomy, he learned he had a double at least in name and events. The "double" was Carleton Murray of Detroit, who suffered an appendicitis attack the same day as his Milan namesake and underwent an operation on approximately the same day. Neither knew the other.

Sow Has Record

St. Johns—A sow owned by Harry Ballinger of Bingham recently had a litter of 20 pigs. Last August she gave birth to 16, making a total of 36 pigs in two litters in less than a year, thus tying a previous record set by a brood sow in Lapeer county.

Surmounts Obstacle

Davison—In 1930, Robert Cox of near Goodrich suffered loss of both his legs, which were amputated below the hips. Despite this handicap, he has established a successful mail order business. He is now looking forward to purchase of a motor chair so he can travel more.

Storm Plays Pranks

Bangor—During a recent storm, a charge of lightning ripped through a light switch and receptacle cover in a Bangor township farm home, then traveled outside where it blew a board off the end of the barn and burned out one bulb of a two-bulb yard light. No serious damage was done.

LANSING LETTER

$504,011; unemployment compensation alone was responsible for $1,250,000 of the $2,372,581 payroll increase in the past fifteen months, while employment service added $1,178,000. Only retrenchments in non-federal aid departments kept the increase from being more than it was.

Real Estate Relief

The situation whereby the state returns to local governments such a staggering large sum of money did not develop overnight.

According to Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, the 15-mill tax limitation amendment, adopted in the depression year 1932, is largely responsible for the trend to shift tax responsibility from counties to the state. Convinced that home owners were deserving of tax relief, the legislature enacted a moratorium on foreclosure of mortgages and upon passage of the tax limitation amendment withdrew all claims to real estate taxation.

A sales tax was adopted as a substitute.

This little tax on transactions became a "hidden tax" because it was merely added to the consumer's purchase price. The consumer paid it in small, dribbling amounts, a few pennies here and a few pennies there. The tax total was never apparent, and not one person in 100,000 ever took the trouble to ascertain how much these tax payments meant to his budget in a year.

Obviously unfair because it imposed an equal burden on all consumers regardless of their ability to pay, the sales tax nevertheless has become popular with public officials because it has been productive of high revenue, fairly painless to the consumer, and reasonably simple to compute and to collect.

"Most Serious Problem"

In the judgment of the auditor general whose department has an outstanding record for economy, "the most serious problem which the 1941 legislature must face will be that of either curtailing these grants, . . or to seek some new source of revenue for support of the ordinary functions of the state, leaving present revenue to be distributed to local units of government."

In Ingham county alone, the home county of the capital city, the state turned over to local governments the astounding total of $3,281,000 in the following allocations: Schools, $1,203,000; welfare, $1,193,000; highways, $681,000; health $171,000; liquor license revenue (ostensibly for enforcement use) $29,000.

The obvious difficulty arises when pressure groups cry for more money to be returned to local governments for local services and when the state government seeks more funds to meet growing needs.

Thus, the state builds additions to hospitals but permits the additions to stand idle and unused because it lacks money to buy equipment, employ more attendants and pay higher operation expenses.

And then there is the familiar case of old age pensions for which state officials propose to add a minimum of 25,000 deserving persons to the assistance roll.

If more money could be spared, additional sales taxes could be collected by the state, so recent experiments have showed. Uncollected tax claims totaled $6,950,000 on March 1 for all state departments, and only a lack of enough auditors to investigate the cases prevents the state from getting more of this revenue for public use. Figure that one out!

Crippled Children

In 1939 the state legislature, motivated by a belief that a lower ceiling had to be placed on medical expenditures for crippled children (probate judges having formerly had the power to authorize bills which the state was to pay), curtailed appropriations for this purpose.

Immediately the cry was raised that the administration was pursuing economy at the cost of children's lives.

The governor's office for months defended the legislative action. Only this month was a change of heart evidenced following an annual report of the Couzens-endowed Children's Fund of Michigan in which the legislature was charged with "failure to appropriate adequate funds for the treatment of indigent afflicted and crippled children."

Here was another illustration which Auditor General Vernon J. Brown probably had in mind when he declared that the 1941 legislature must either resist demands of local governments for more tax money or must tap new sources for additional public revenue to meet its own pressing needs.

With a bookkeeping deficit of around $30,000,000 (the state having borrowed this amount from its own special funds in order to pay operating bills), the situation at Lansing is complicated further. No matter what is done, someone is sure to complain.

probably 4 million persons or more on the federal payroll and just that many votes. Vice President Garner once remarked "You can't beat a man with 4 billion dollars." He spoke an awful lot in a very few words. And don't forget that you and I—every man, woman and child in this country in fact—owes nearly $500, our share of the national debt!

Inasmuch as newspapers are very frequently guilty of making typographical errors, I can sympathize thoroughly with the fellow who left the second "e" out of the word Venetian when assembling the neon sign now occupying a prominent position on the roof of the board of commerce information bureau. It's a darn good sign, anyway.

All the trout in the Memorial park pool turned up their toes and died Saturday afternoon. It's a mystery nobody has yet been able to solve. They were fed the same food as those in the East Park pool which today are lively and healthy, thus comes the conclusion someone may have dropped them something poison. If it had been the fish in the East Park pool that died, and if it didn't bring the incident so close to home, I'd suspicion a certain Irish setter dog from Grand Rapids that thought the fish pool was a swimming pool.

The seaplane buzzing around here Monday afternoon was a Conservation Department patrol plane. The plane itself typified the growing efficiency of the department's forest fire fighting equipment and a two-way telephone with which it was equipped is one of the latest and most up-to-date wrinkles. Through the telephone, the plane and fire towermen can talk back and forth and when a fire is spotted on observation trips, it is only a matter of minutes until word is relayed to headquarters and fire-fighters are on their way. Incidentally, Michigan Patrol Boat No. 1, in port here, was equipped Monday with two-way telephone facilities, keeping it in constant touch with shore points. It's a very modern age we live in!

Here's something to shout about! The conservation department announces that both Pa and Ma can go fishing while vacationing in some Michigan state parks this year, because they've institnted a service whereby Junior and Susie can be checked in with park attendants for supervised attention while Ma's away. Now what do you think of that?

COUNTY SS CONVENTION AT NORWOOD MAY 10TH

Need for Christian Education Was Stressed Before Delegates

The County Sunday School convention, held last Friday in the Norwood Methodist church, was attended by about twenty-five local people.

Speakers at the afternoon session were Rev. J. Burt Bowman of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Council of Churches and Christian Education, Miss Marion Norris of Petoskey, an authority on Sunday school methods, and Rev. Stanley Buck, pastor of the Boyne City Methodist church. Rev. W. L. Cruthers, pastor of the Charlevoix Baptist church, gave the evening address.

The need of more Christian education to stay the moral collapse of the nation was the theme of every talk. "Unwittingly the public school system has been thrown on the side of paganism," Nicholas Murray Butler was quoted as saying. The principle of religious freedom was not meant to destroy religion, but to protect it.

The ladies of the Norwood church were much complimented on the supper arrangements.

The county council has not been affiliated with the state council for many years, but steps were taken at the business session towards re-association with this organization.

GAYLORD DISTRICT OF CATHOLIC GROUP SELECTS OFFICERS

The Gaylord District of the National Council of Catholic Women held their annual election at the St. Mary's School Hall on Wednesday evening, May 8. Mrs. Ruth Bennett, president of the Diocesean Council of Catholic Women, of Grand Rapids, presided over the meeting.

The Rev. Fr. Neubecker opened the meeting with a prayer. Roll call was then taken with each parish council giving a report on their activities of the past year. Seven parish councils, East Jordan, Boyne City, Mancelona, Elmira, Petoskey and Grayling, were represented. This was followed by the reading of the minutes of the last district meeting and the giving of the treasurer's report. Election of officers was held by the group and they were as follows: president, Mrs. Niles Smith, Mancelona; first vice president, Mrs. Ole Hagerberg, East Jordan; second vice president, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton, Charlevoix; secretary, Miss Monica Kondratowicz, Gaylord; and treasurer, Mrs. Frank Oleksy, Charlevoix.

A program was presented with each group giving a 10 minute entertainment. Mrs. Finnigan, of Gaylord, sang two numbers, "The Rosary" and the "Cradle Song." Miss Marion Lanowski, of East Jordan played a flute solo; Eugene and Bonnie Barber of Charlevoix sang a duet, "Little Skipper" and Ruth Hoffman gave a tap dance; Raymond Kondratowicz, of Gaylord, played two piano solos, "Jack O' Lantern" and his own arrangement of "Deep Purple."

The priests from each of the parishes which were represented, responded with short talks and were: Rev. Fr. Francis Kaminski, of Gaylord; Rev. Fr. Adalbert Radowski, of Mancelona; Rev. Fr. Francis Kupinski, of Boyne City; Rev. Fr. James Maloney, of Grayling; Rev. Fr. Austin Monaghan O. F. M., of Petoskey, and Rev. Fr. Neubecker, of Charlevoix.

After the business session lovely refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Earl Miller. The lunch was served from a large table decorated in spring boquets and lighted yellow tapers. Mrs. Joseph Foster and Mrs. Frank Supernaw poured. One hundred thirty-five members were present and Miss Mary Margaret Orlowski introduced the speakers.

COUNTY'S SHARE IS OVER HALF MILLION

STATE RETURNS BIG SUM FOR COUNTY PURPOSES

Report of Auditor General Vernon J. Brown Reveals Sums Given County for Various Purposes

A report issued by Auditor General Vernon J. Brown covering grants in aid to Charlevoix county units of government by the state for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, itemized by purposes, discloses the fact that Charlevoix county received back from the state $516,828.89.

A sum exceeding $124,000,000 was collected by the state of Michigan and distributed directly to counties, townships, cities, villages and school districts last year as compared with 89 millions of dollars during the 1936-37 fiscal year and 110 millions during the 1937-38 fiscal year.

Charlevoix county received a total allocation of $201,891.27 for general government back from the state, according to the report. Other amounts back to the county from the state's aid to local units were $141,318.49 for highways, $67,283.39 from the primary school interest fund, $62,148.77 from the primary supplement fund, $36,173.73 from the school equalization fund, $1,376.91 from vocational education fund, $811.35 from special vocational education fund, $1,089.78 from library fund, $136.70 from steamship tonnage tax fund, $4,598.50 from liquor license fund.

Auditor General Brown points to this growing tendency on the part of the legislature to constantly become more generous in allocating state funds to local governments as the greatest contributing factor toward the disturbing 30 million dollar deficit faced by the administration at Lansing.

"It would appear," stated the auditor general, "that perhaps the most serious fiscal problem which the 1941 legislature will face will be that of either curtailing these grants in aid to local governments or to seek some new source of revenue for support of the ordinary functions of the state, leaving present revenues to be distributed to local units of government."

How electricity can profitably be put to work on the farm, cutting production costs and chore-drudgery, and bringing ease and economy to household tasks, are central demonstrations of the big REA Farm Electric Equipment Show coming to this area June 20 and 21st, through the cooperation of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company, the Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative, the State Extension Service, and the Rural Electrification Administration.

The spreading lines of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative are bringing big benefits to poultrymen. Poultry lights and running water alone lead to healthier birds, lowered costs, better eggs, and more of them in the season of short days. The REA show not only demonstrates these facts, but also has a small brooder house and live chickens in a specially designed trailer. Ultraviolet lights, water warmers, electric hovers and new scalding and waxing devices that are revolutionizing farm poultry dressing are included in the display.

Power demonstrations conducted outside the tent by Tour Director Daniel W. Teare and R. A. Dell of REA, include shelling, grinding and cutting of local grains and feed crops. A small automatic mill with an overhead bin is set up to show how a farmer can grind a day's feed by pushing a button.

The various demonstrations include the widest variety of electric farm equipment as well as household appliances ever assembled in a traveling exhibit. Trailer and booth exhibits include water pumps, irrigation systems, motors, dairy and poultry equipment, a farm workshop, homemade equipment, and hundreds of small appliances.

Meals big enough to fill half a dozen harvest hands will be turned out in the electric range demonstrations put on by Mrs. Enola Retherford, REA Regional Home Economist for Michigan, assisted by Miss Evelyn Bloome, home electrification specialist of the tour. Farm homemakers will have their eyes opened to an easy way of spending the afternoon away from home and still have a complete hot meal ready to serve at supper time.

Good nature, coupled with a smile, starts the day off right and wins success.

Don Meggison, Sam Alexander, Charles Harter and Robert Wexstaff Will Go to Lansing

Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, and the Kiwanis Club will each send two representatives to the third annual Wolverine Boys' State to be held at Lansing, June 20 to 28.

Delegates, with expenses paid, are Don Meggison and Sam Alexander, sent by the American Legion, and Charles Harter and Robert Wexstaff, sent by the Kiwanis.

These four youths will join 900 other boys from every Michigan county to establish and conduct the mythical 49th state on the Michigan State College campus in East Lansing.

On the first day, boys will be organized into cities and counties and will elect local officials. Nomination and election of state officers will follow. Boys' State citizens will be divided into two political parties which will not be similar to any existing political party.

For eight days youthful legislators, mayors, police, justices and other officials will conduct their own model government receiving advice and guidance from a picked staff of technical counsellors. The State will give boys the opportunity to learn good citizenship and ways of meeting governmental problems through setting up their own government and conducting it themselves.

All boys attending will be 16 and 17 years old, and will not have attended previous Boys' States. Shortly after their return home, delegates will make reports on their experiences to sponsoring organizations.

Boys' State citizens will conduct their own daily newspaper, post office and band and will have a large share in producing the regular evening assembly programs. Senior students from Michigan's four law schools will serve as counsellors to the young government officials, and Legionnaires will comprise the official staff and organization of county advisors.

Every boy attending will be an office holder. In addition a recreation program including swimming, volley ball, softball and tennis will be set up. Several tours are also planned, and the Boys' State Legislature will hold its final session in the State Capitol at Lansing.

Commenting on the pending advertising campaign in 250 Michigan newspapers, C. W. Hungerford, advertising manager, said: "There is no question in our minds that what benefits the state as a whole benefits each concern and individual in it, either directly or indirectly. We are confident our company has benefited from the promotion of Michigan as a summer playground, and hope all others have so benefited."

Right on the heels of the house in Washington reporting out a $1,111,751,916 relief bill, providing $975,650,000 for WPA to spend in eight months beginning July 1, comes the report of a house committee investigation which reveals that the federal relief program has been a vehicle of Communism, waste, politics and private benefit. A smaller crop of fruit is in prospect for Michigan.

That news from Verne H. Church, statistician in charge of the Michigan cooperative crop reporting service, together with a warning that rainfall has been only 60 to 70 per cent of normal over the past 10 months, has created an air of uncertainty about Michigan agriculture income for 1940.

Only 88,000 acres of the 152,000 acres sown to rye last fall are expected to be harvested for grain—the smallest rye crop for the state in more than 50 years.

"Prospects for hay and pasture were not as good on May 1 as in other recent years," stated Church. "Not only has growth been retarded by cold weather but rains have been insufficient in many sections. Furthermore, there is a considerable deficien-

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees — and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit — enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years — thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family — for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

'Bird Man' Kept Busy on 'Blue Bird'

The busiest man on the set of Maurice Macterlinck's "The Blue Bird" at 20th Century-Fox was Bird-Expert C. B. Glick.

Glick was in charge of the 2,000 birds used in the screen version of the beautiful and human Macterlinck story, filmed in the new Technicolor and showing at the Palace Theatre with a cast boasting a score of Hollywood favorites on May 25, 26, 27.

Most of the birds were kept in a large cage, but a few were loose. Glick's job after each take was to climb up on the parallels and recapture the birds which had left their perches.

When he couldn't reach them with a net or pole, he employed "hypnosis," which provided endless delight for Shirley Temple, Johnny Russell and the other youngsters working in the film.

Glick's method is to approach the bird slowly, methodically waving his hands from side to side. The bird remains perfectly still until the bird-expert is close enough to pick him up with the net.

He explains the success of the trick as due to a fault in the vision of birds. It seems that each of a bird's two eyes is focused on a separate point. When the bird sees Glick's hands waving from side to side, it cannot decide from which angle it is being approached and, in its confusion, remains absolutely still.

Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck entrusted featured roles in this magnificent production to Shirley, Johnny, Spring Byington, Nigel Bruce, Gale Sondergaard, Eddie Collins, Sybil Jason and many other important cinema names. Walter Lang directed.

RECORD SEASON AT CAMP CHARLEVOIX

PRESENT ENROLLMENT IN EXCESS OF LAST YEAR

Preparations Now Under Way for Opening of Season July 2nd—New Features Announced

Signifying the approaching 1940 season at Camp Charlevoix was the presence last week end of Lewis C. Reimann, director, to supervise preparations at the camp for the summer.

Jerry Haggerty, caretaker, is getting the camp cleaned up, the dock installed, flower beds prepared and other work incident to opening under way.

Director Reimann announced that the 1940 season would be the biggest on record. More campers are already signed than were present last year and it is believed the year of 1937, when 108 boys were at the camp, will be exceeded.

Harold Steele, head coach and athletic director of Grand Rapids Junior College, has been signed as camp athletic director. Steele was all-western guard when he played for U. of M., has been director of activities in other camps, and has had a very successful athletic and coaching career.

Increased interest in sailing is expected with the addition of several boats of the Snipe class. One of the water features will be participation by campers in the Venetian night parade, an annual board of commerce summer event, by staging parts of "The Pirates of Penzance" on board a yacht in the harbor, with campers and counsellors in pirate costume singing the best songs of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera.

The camp opens July 2 and closes August 27. Post-season for hay fever sufferers continues until September 15th.

4-H School Forestry Clubs Plant 58,000 Trees in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, Cheboygan Counties

During the past two weeks approximately 600 club members, enrolled in fifteen 4-H school forestry clubs, have been busy planting pine trees in their various school forests which at the present time cover 1361 acres of land. In practically all cases, the land has been obtained from the Conservation Department for the sum of one dollar. The Conservation Department also supplies up to 5,000 trees for each club.

Ira Hull, extension forester, spent nearly one week working with the groups and demonstrating the latest methods to be used in planting. Mr. Bull was very much pleased with the large number of trees that are living from the past two years' plantings. In all except one or two cases, the per cent of live ranges from 75 to 94. Some of the five inch seedlings that were planted two years ago are now twenty inches tall. After the trees were planted, many of the clubs held a picnic or weiner roast. It is very gratifying to see the amount of interest that is being shown by the boys and girls as well as many adults in the various communities.

Later in the year delegates from each of the clubs will be chosen to represent the various clubs at the conservation camp which will be held across the Straits at Chatham. This camp is held the week of September 14th.

The following schools are now carrying on the 4-H tree planting projects: Mancelona, Alba, Elk Rapids, Bellaire, Central Lake, Ellsworth, East Jordan, Boyne Falls, Melrose Township, Alanson, Pellston, Harbor Springs, Wolverine, Mackinaw City, and Aftnn.

NO MONEY, THEN WHAT?

There are many priceless things beyond the reach of money. A symphony cannot be purchased. A great essay, a poem, a song, a literary heart appeal cannot be bought. Honesty and trustworthiness are not products of the market-place. Trust in God and faith in fellowman cannot be bought. If we do not have all that we want, we can develop a contentment so that we shall want what we have.

Men who are honest, who will not buy or sell their vote, are wanted. Men who can be trusted, whose word is as good as their note, are wanted. The quality of being agreeable and courteous, good-natured and polite—money cannot buy any of these requisites for a happy, useful, indispensable way of living.

The capacity to do, the willingness to work, the fondness for service are all treasures of the mind and spirit. They are not purchasable with money and he is rich who knows that he loses only what he keeps and keeps only what he gives away. The real benefactor of mankind always counts his store in what is spent, not in what is saved.—Grit.

Survives Death Blow

Mt. Pleasant — Henry Jennings, Lincoln township farmer, decided he would have to put a deformed calf born on his farm outs of its misery. A blow on the animal's head from a three-pound hammer was thought to have done the deed. Later, children returning from school found tthe calf in good health, with the deformity apparently remedied.

City Has Triple Fires

Holly — Although fires in Holly aren't numerous, they seem to come in groups of threes when they do occur. For more than a year now, whenever a fire broke out, two more would follow in prompt succession within a week. Residents thought the spell was broken by two fires one week-end recently, but the third turned up on Wednesday.

Checks on Dad

Trenton — Freddie Bjork, three years old, thought it would be a good idea to visit the plant where his father works, so he walked into a local grocery and bought a loaf of bread and a sack of potato chips, charging them to his father. When police found the youngster, bound for the factory, he had eaten the potato chips and part of the bread.

Largest cat he has shot weighed 34 pounds, and one he got last winter had only three feet, one having been lost in a trap.

CONTINENTAL OIL CO. INTRODUCES GASOLINE MILEAGE TEST SURVEY

A device by which motorists can quickly and accurately measure their gasoline mileage is being introduced today by Continental Oil Company in a nationwide newspaper advertising campaign which includes the Charlevoix Courier.

The "Mile-Dial" is a simple device which keeps count of the number of gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline purchased and the number of miles traveled during the test, and automatically calculates the miles per gallon by a simple turn of the dial.

The dial, which can be obtained free at service stations selling Continental Oil Company products, can be attached to the dash without marring the surface or can be carried in the glove compartment of the car

LEGAL ADVERTISING PROVIDES PUBLIC AID

Offers Positive Protection Against Unscrupulous Officials

Newspaper advertising performs a "very important function" in the Michigan legal system of providing public accounting notices to taxpayers and warning notices to individuals, according to Henry L. Woolfenden Jr., executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan, state organization for attorneys.

As for the public accounting notice which is a published report of governmental bodies or individuals who are discharging public trust, Mr. Woolfenden says: "This type of notice is the best protection which the taxpayer has against incompetent or unscrupulous public officials.

"The value of the public accounting type of legal advertising is usually readily apparent to anyone whose attention is directed to it. Such notices are city commission proceedings, supervisors' proceedings, bank statements of condition, treasurer's reports, etc.

"No public official will spend money like a drunken sailor if a list of his expenditures is going to be published at the end of the month for all of his constituents to look over, and no dealer 'on the inside track' is going to sell the county a bill of goods at an exorbitant price when every competitor he's got will go over the list of county purchases with a fine tooth comb the minute it is published.

Cheapest Effective Insurance

"A second-story man is not as apt to break into a house under an arc-light as he is one on a dark street; and a racketeer is not apt to loot the public treasury if the spotlight of publicity is turned on his act as he is if he knows he can do it in the dark.

"I do not mean to say that the published accountings required by law of public officials have completely stamped out incompetency and malfeasance in public office, but I do say that such legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can buy on the ability and integrity of their elected officials.

"If there is any fault to be found with legal advertisements of this type, it is that there are too few of them. Many offices of public or quasi-public nature—which are not now required to publish reports of their activities—might very well be required to do so. Some of the reports now required might well be required in more detail with additional benefit to the taxpayers.

"And if anyone says that 'nobody ever reads' these notices, I challenge him to attend a taxpayers' association meeting in your town or mine and see how many legal news clippings are taken out and quoted during the discussion. The citizens who are sincerely interested in governmental economy are sincerely interested in 'legal news'."

Guarantees Security

In the opinion of the executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan legal advertising is "just as important in the effective preservation of our constitutional guaranties of security as the work of the fire department is in the preservation of our homes."

Mr. Woolfenden warned, however, that "the whole purpose of legal advertising is prostituted unless it is placed in a legitimate newspaper with a bona fide general circulation in the community where it is published. The proper use of legal advertising and the lawyers who draft and place it for publication.

"It is squarely up to the Michigan Press Association and the State Bar of Michigan to stamp out any legal advertising racket run by means of handbills under the name of newspapers."

The Golden Text (Psalms 84:2) is: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Romans 12:1, 2): "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be ye not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

The Preschool Child

The preschool age in a child represents the transition from baby-hood to that period of adjustment to environment and to other individuals which gradually adapts him to fulfilling his function in life.

Infancy is the period of most rapid growth, whereas the preschool age is the period of the most rapid mental development.

The growth of the preschool child is relatively slow, the average gain during the third, fourth and fifth year being only 12 to 16 pounds, and the increase in height only 8 to 10 inches. Growth during this period is apt to take place in spurts, alternating with periods of little growth. At this age the peculiarities of body build become apparent, the chest grows more in the transverse diameter and becomes less barrel shaped, the abdomen less prominent, the muscles and bones grow for increased strength and coordination. This age denotes too an increase in stabilization of the nervous system. The farther the child gets along in the pre-school age the more perfectly he masters his accomplishments and initiates new ones.

It has been said that the preschool age is the neglected age of childhood. This is not literally true but there are certain facts which suggest it. From birth to two years of age he has been under the constant supervision of his mother or nurse and has been examined every month or two by his physician. He has been weighed regularly and the feeding formula changed as needed. He has received the proper vitamins; has been immunized against diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough, and his routine has been regularly carried out. If he has had the proper supervision, he has been graduated into the preschool age physicolly fit in every way. At this time he has reached the runabout age and month by month is becoming more and more independent. As a general rule the greater his independence the less the health supervision. He does not often become sick because the preschool age is a healthy age. Consequently he does not have even an occasional check by his doctor. All too often faulty food and health habits are formed, as for instance eating between meals, especially candy, going to bed late and having no rest periods. As a result of this lack of health supervision just as many physical defects will be found in these children at spring "round ups" this year as were found 20 years ago. Their average physical condition however will be better.

The common physical abnormalities encountered are: Defective vision, enlarged tonsils or adenoids, or diseased tonsils, decayed teeth, and undernutrition.

Two other conditions which should be especially mentioned are tuberculosis and orthopedic defects. If our recent marriage law is enforced here hereditary syphilis will not be a problem.

The City of Coldwater—Its Past and Present

The story of Coldwater's progress is told by a two-page photo-feature by Ray S. Ayer. If you've wondered how this city got its name or what it offers in recreational advantages, see the Pictorial Rotogravure Section of next Sunday's Detroit News.

Rings Strange Alarm

Fenton—At 10 a. m. one day, an alarm clock suddenly woke Vince Yeager, fireman, who had dozed in his chair. Looking at his watch, Yeager pushed the button which blows the fire whistle every noon. He was quite surprised when volunteer firemen arrived at the station and asked, "Where's the fire?"

REA BULLETIN BOARD

Hundreds of ways of putting electricity to productive work on the farm will be demonstrated at the big REA farm equipment tour at the C. N. Powell farm, near Torch Lake village, on Highway US-31, Thursday and Friday, June 20 and 21.

This traveling exhibit sets up its demonstration with a huge tent, electrical lunch stand, demonstration equipment, and trailer and stationary exhibits. It is brought here through the cooperation of the local project, the State Extension Service, the neighboring cooperative in Grand Traverse county, and the Rural Electrification Administration. The program will start Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m., with talks and demonstrations in the big tent. Demonstrations of feed grinders, milking machines, ensilage cutters, cream separators, cream coolers, water systems, household refrigerators, ranges and small home appliances, will be held the next afternoon and evening.

R. A. Dell and Mrs. Enola Retherford, REA representatives, will share the program with State Extension Service representative, D. G. Ebinger who will present much educational material at these meetings on costs of electric power and its use in farm operations. Until rural electric lines were constructed through the enterprise of the members of the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company and the Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative, work-saving electric dairy equipment and household appliances could not be utilized by local farm people. Now they may effectively modernize their homes and farms.

More stringent regulations governing the distribution of fluid milk, and more strict requirements of dairy produce processors, compel improvements in the farm dairy. In any case, cleanliness in the dairy brings a bigger cream check. Small sterilizers such as will be shown in the demonstration provide a quick, easy way to sterilize utensils and at the same time supply hot water for washing. The old hand-turned cream separator is no longer a slave driver when electricity takes over the job. Also, you get more cream and a higher test, because the separator works better with a constant-speed motor.

If you get less for sour cream than for sweet cream, a cream cooler will add money to your cream checks. Coolers varying in capacity from five gallons up to twenty will be demonstrated at the show. The small five-gallon cooler can be used in conjunction with cream storage in a household refrigerator.

Mrs. Retherford, REA home economist, will show in her demonstrations how the household refrigerator has become a year-around necessity. The demonstrations will include points on the care and operation of the refrigerator, how to select a refrigerator, and its use to meal preparation.

cy in sub-soil moisture in many counties of southern Michigan."

As for fruit outlook, he says: "Fruit growers are looking for a somewhat smaller crop of fruits this year, a usual sequency in years following a large production such as that of 1939. Cold weather has held back the opening of the fruit buds; and blooming which has just begun, is week or two days later than in normal seasons. The recent cold weather was not severe enough to cause any damage apparently to buds.

"Low temperatures in January thinned peach buds in some sections but prospects are favorable for a fairly good crop in all districts except an area in southern Michigan extending from the eastern part of Berrien county eastward and northward to the southern part of Ingham county. In that area, temperatures of 15 to 18 degrees below zero occurred which is a little frigid for peach buds ordinarily to withstand."

Affect of War

Prof. E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, Michigan State College, points out that with the exception of bean and pork products, prices of agricultural commodities are about the same as one year ago before war was declared. So far, the new European conflict has not put millions into the American farmers' pocketbooks, as optimistic forecasters loudly proclaimed last September.

"The prices of beans and pork products have increased in recent months," said Dean Anthony, "and there is some basis for speculation that Canada is buying supplies here for shipment overseas now that England has been shut off from Denmark as a leading source of butter, pork and lard.

"The hog people believe that pork prices will continue strong due to Canadian demands. You will recall that prices jumped after declaration of war last September only to slump again in December, January and February. Pork prices are up again, however. Certainly if the war continues another year the result will be an increased demand for American war munitions which in turn will help to stimulate domestic consumption of food and will tend to raise food prices.

"However, it is only wishful thinking to believe that the war is going to benefit the farmer of Michigan in 1940."

Oats, Rye, Beet Sugar

While the deficiency in rainfall remains a threat to 1940 crop yields, it has put the ground in fine condition for early spring plowing.

Oats and rye conditions are miserably poor, but winter wheat looks fairly good and the wheat acreage abandoned due to winter injury is estimated at only 12,000 acres which is the smallest loss in many years. A yield of 20.5 bushels per acre is indicated which compared with 21.0 bushels per acre obtained last year.

Beet sugar people report that the war is not expected to affect sugar prices in this country. At present a large surplus of sugar stocks remains on hand. Indirectly through improved industrial conditions the sugar industry may benefit through better prices, but this will be a long-range development, certainly not in the present picture for 1940.

Canned fruits rely on domestic consumption largely, while dried fruits have been exported heavily. Consequently, little change is anticipated in Michigan on fruit prices with regard to the war. California, on the other hand, may suffer considerably from loss of export trade.

Capitol Notes

Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly reports that departmental savings will reach $250,000 for the 1939-40 biennial.

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown favors a separate budget for state aid funds (those which are returned to local governments for local spending) and another budget for state funds.

Robert Riley, state purchasing director, ridicules alleged claims of special favoritism to Frank McKay. Declaring that he had only met McKay once, Riley added: "He asked no special favors then nor since of the purchasing department."

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, says surveys show that automobile traffic in Michigan will double in the next 20 years. "We are faced with this staggering realization of what the future holds, knowing full well that our present highway facilities are inadequate," he told the American Road Builders' Association upon being honored at the conclusion of a second term as national president.

Luren D. Dickinson forecasts a Republican victory next November.

Headquarters for O. L. Smith as a possible candidate for governor have been opened in Detroit in the Book building. The Lansing headquarters will be opened before June 1 in charge of Leigh H. Thomas, Ann Arbor, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate.

Mel McPherson, state tax commission chairman, is taking advantage of the Dewey boom movement (for which he was named manager) to put out feelers again as a candidate for the governorship.

Passage of the civil service constitutional amendment is being privately conceded by some state politicians, most of whom are scared over the possibilities at the ballot box.

for a fair grounds at Del Mar, Calif., which ended up as a race track run by the radio and movie crooner Bing Crosby; excessive traveling expenses incurred by high-up officials who seemed to time their trips opportunely to take in the Kentucky derby at Louisville, holidays, football and baseball games; tickets to political rallies sold WPA workers in Pennsylvania during working hours by "pressure methods"; evidence that the federal writers' project in southern California "has been described as a training school for Communists." It reminds us of that old saying: "Easy come, easy go."

Believe it or not, the Dent Newvilles had the arrival of that new daughter figured out pretty well. They spent a week camping over east, arrived home at 10 o'clock Sunday night and the stork winged in at 8 the next morning. Didn't lose a minute of their vacation. That's what I'd call coordination.

The officers of our Charlevoix Sportsman's Club not only know their conservation, but also their fishin'. Earl Miller, the president, had a limit catch of German browns in the window at Wood Bros. on Monday, and "Cy" Marshall, the vice-president, had another limit catch at Staley Hardware Co. Despite the rotten weather, Sunday produced some of the best trout catches of the year. In addition to those mentioned above, George Whitley displayed a nice bunch of 12 brook trout running from 7 to 12½ inches. I would have had a limit catch, too, but I broke my pole out on Horton creek when the fish jumped so thick after the can of bait I had in my fish basket that I had to stab them off and busted the pole in two on an especially big one. Course, I had to quit then and sat in the car while my partner filled up.

Maybe the Dies committee didn't come up to expectations in its investigation of un-American activities, but Martin Dies, the Texan chairman of the committee, uttered a lot of truth Friday when he told the house in Washington that it would waste money spent on national defense until it dealt effectively with "fifth column" activities of the Communists, Nazis and Fascists in the United States. We in this country are in no different position than were the Norwegians, Hollanders and Belgians, whose very foundations of defense tottered through traitorous betrayal into German hands. The fate of these countries should be a warning to other nations that treachery within their borders is equally as dangerous as attack from without.

The younger school kiddies have begun a new fad—playing "jacks." It is an interesting sight to see them seated in groups on the sidewalk around the school grounds and, incidentally the new game explains why they come home with their britches black as tar, which you probably have noticed.

Seems good to see the summer business places opening up. The Poly-Kay Shop and L. P. Adams & Son are open and the Charlevoix Fruit Market is getting ready.

If you've had trouble with your water lately, it is probably because of the cleaning and repair work being done on the standpipe.

Probably limit catches of large perch are no exception during the past two weeks of spawning run fishing, but I had an opportunity Saturday to see one which was exceptional as far as I'm concerned. A Grand Rapids group composed of E. J., Harold and William Wolters, and Leon Madsen of Kalamazoo, brought in limits of perch, many of which would weigh over a pound, at Don Clothier's place. They were among many down-staters Charlevoix has sent home happy.

Here's some more fish news! George R. Hemingway reports that Glenn Williams, Ironton guide, brought in a party Tuesday with four mackinaw trout weighing 49 pounds. They were caught in Lake Charlevoix, the largest a 16-pounder.

And in closing, here's what Scribner's Commentator Magazine says about the average woman: She marries at twenty-four years; has a baby weighing six pounds, four ounces; quarrels with her husband at least twice a month; is five feet, three inches tall; weighs one hundred and twenty-eight pounds; gossips for five years; wastes six months trying to reform her husband; buys 350 hats and 425 dresses and talks for ten years. If I dared, I'd say they put it mildly.

YOUNG STATE PARK IS NOW OPEN FOR SEASON

Park Near Boyne City is One of Michigan's Outstanding

Superintendent Al Swanson, Young State Park, annouoces that popular recreation grouod is now open to the public for the season of 1940.

In recent years, this has come to be regarded as one of the most pleasant places for trailer-camps to spend part of the summer months. Many of the campers who have been forced to leave because of the time-limit have returoed later during the samo season declaring this park to be the finest they have found. The bathing beach, because of the fine, white sand, is coming to be known as one of the best in northern Michigan.

The park is located on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix a few miles out from Boyne City.—Boyne Citizen.

SPORTSMAN'S CLUB PROGRAM STARTED

STOVER CREEK PONDS FILLED TO CAPACITY

Ninety-Six Thousand Fish Are Being Reared This Year—Burns Pond Project is Under Way

The summer fish propagation program of the Charlevoix Sportsman's club is under way at their Stover creek rearing ponds.

Following completion of pond improvements, which included drainage and elimination of large predator trout, installation of new screens, etc., 97,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout have been released for rearing to fingerling stage.

The fry, furnished by the Oden hatchery through James T. Wilkinson, supervisor of fisheries operations in district 3, included 30,000 brook trout, 30,000 German brown trout and 37,000 fall spawning rainbows. The ordinary rainbow trout frequenting Michigan waters are spring spawners. The ponds are filled to a capacity deemed advisable for good rearing results without over-crowding.

In cooperation with the city council through Don Herrick, superintendent, preliminary work toward reestablishing the Burns pond on McGeagh creek, near Barnard, has been started. The site has been surveyed and contemplated dood land staked out. As soon as cost of required fill is ascertained, it is expected actual work will be begun. It is planned to place brook and German brown trout reared at the Stover creek system into this new pond.

Releases of brook trout and bass by state and government hatcheries for direct planting in nearby waters are expected in the near future.

Hilda Roen, daughter of Mrs. G. W. Trayte, and Robert Emrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Emrey, are among the 780 Michigan State College seniors, the largest class in the college's history, who will receive degrees in the 82nd commencement program Monday, June 10.

Their photos, made available thru the college's publications department, appear in adjoining columns.

Dr. Allen Arthur Stockdale, of the National Manufacturers' Association, will make the commencement address, and Dr. Henry Hitt Crane, Detroit pastor, will give the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday afternoon, June 9.

The baccalaureate and commencement programs will be held at the college handshell if weather is favorable or in the new auditorium in case of rain.

Besides the 780 seniors who will receive degrees at the commencement program, the college graduated 66 students who completed their work at the close of fall term and 76 students who completed requirements for degrees at the close of winter term.

About 160 others will complete work for degrees at the close of the 1940 summer session. Approximately 40 graduate degrees also will be granted at the June Commencement ceremony.

Traditional senior activities prior to the commencement ceremony will include the annual water carnival on the Red Cedar river on Friday and Saturday evenings, June 7 and 8 and the Senior play, to be presented in the bandshell on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 5 and 6.

Alumni will return to the campus for class reunions and luncheons on Saturday, June 8, to be followed on Saturday evening with an informal dance in the Union.

The writer of the Boyne Citizen's "Down the Avenue" column comes out with the best meaning of the TP on Charlevoix county auto license plates I've heard of yet. He says the Lansing ABC artists who initialed Charlevoix county's plates "TP" meant "Tourists' Paradise." Not so bad, at that!

Perhaps Gogebic and Ontonagon counties have found the answer to the game law violation problem in offering a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest of persons using explosives or illegal nets to capture fish, and a reward of $25 for arrest and conviction of persons killing deer in closed season or possessing illegal veolson. Other districts of the state will watch the results with interest.

Yep, I've got some sure-fire fishin' news this week! Charlie Heise and "Morrie" Dixon inaugurated the macklnaw trolling season in Lake Michigan with 12 and 3 pounders Sunday, and the way both macklnaws and steelhead are "hitting" in Lake Charlevoix is something to write home about. Mrs. L. S. Bisbee, Belvedere Club, took 10, 12 and 15 pound macklnaws Sunday, and Monday morning J. W. Thompson and Michigan industrial plants geared to meet sudden demands of America's new preparedness program, are reported suffering from a shortage of skilled labor.

At Washington where a vast aviation program is being rushed to legislative completion, military experts decry the lack of trained ground mechanics as a serious barrier to immediate realization of the world's foremost air force as recommended by President Roosevelt.

In this situation of national emergency it is a sad commentary on government, and democracy in particular, that with all this feverish appeal for trained workers—men who incidentally command good pay—government has done comparatively little to rehabilitate the idle thousands on

NYA IMPROVES TROUT STREAMS

With trout season in full swing the perennial argument of "Which is best—flies or worms?" crops up again. These youth workers of the Michigan National Youth Administration might easily add a new wrinkle to this age-old question, for their work is concerned with bait too. While anglers polished tackle and defended their favorite baits, these young men were busy getting the streams in good shape, luring the speckled beauties to eddying pools so fishermen would have something to catch. In cooperation with local sponsors and the state department of conservation, the NYA has carried out a number of projects in stream improvement, installing deflectors, stocking streams with fish and building cover for trout.

BOY SCOUTS URGE CAMPERS COME TO MICHIGAN

Slogan Adopted is "America Plays Within Our Council Borders"

Two hundred und fifty Boy Scout Councils from the Rockies to the Alleghnnies, with a Scout population of some 400,000 boys, will be informed of the advantnges of this section of Michigan as a summer camp and touring site through the medium of a book containing maps and information on this nrea.

Chas. A. Boyer, Scout Executive of the Scenic Trails Council, today announced the plan which is expected to attract numerous Scout groups to this territory this summer and undoubtedly influence many families in coming here for their vacations. The project is being sponsored by the Council and the Chambers of Commerce of the various communities located within the Council area.

Inquiries Received

Arrangements have been made whereby a 22-page book is being prepared by the Michigan division of the Federal Writers Project which will contain detailed maps and descriptions of the possible locations of camp sites and tours, including canoe trips, which will appeal to Scouts. Eleven counties are included in the Scenic Trails Council, all of whom will have material incorporated in the book. The counties are Antrim, Benzie, Leelnnau, Grand Traverse, Manistee, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Emmet, Kalkaska, Missaukee and Wexford.

The material is now being compiled and the book will be ready for distribution to councils in the middle west around June 1st.

Already several inquiries have been received here from outstate Scout groups concerning locations for base camps and tours in this area. One of these inquiries is directly traceable to the slogan which appears on every envelope sent out from Council headquarters here, which reads, "America Plays Within Our Council Borders."

FISHING AND FESTIVALS HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN WEST MICHIGAN JUNE PROGRAM

Fishing and festivals hold the spotlight in the West Michigan tourist entertainment program for June. Opening of the bass season on thousands of Michigan's inland lakes will call for bass and bluegill festivals to focus attention on the fine fishing in many communities.

Outstanding among the June festivals is the Swedish Midsummer Festival at Whitehall on June 21 and 22. Descendents of the Swedish lumberjacks who helped log off the Muskegon and White River country of Michigan, celebrate in traditional old country style, with costumed dancers on the streets, pageantry and parades.

The Pancake Festival at Glenn, commemorating a snowstorm a few years ago when marooned motorists were forced to live on pancakes for several days, will be celebrated June 21, 22 and 23.

The detailed entertainment program shows:

May 26—Traverse City—Blessing of the Blossoms.

June 7 to 9—Grand Rapids—Iris Festival.

June 20 to 22—St. Joseph—Tri-County Tennis Center Championship tournament for boys, girls and juniors.

June 21 to 23—Glenn—Pancake Festival.

June 21 and 22 — Whitehall — Swedish Midsummer Festival.

June 24—Elk Rapids—Bass roundup.

June 28 and 29—Hastings—Bluegill Festival.

June 29—Fountain—Bass Festival.

June 30 — Interlochen — Opening concert at National Music Camp followed by Sunday and midweek concerts during the summer.

TAHQUAMENON FALLS AREA BEING IMPROVED

Drives, Trails and Sanitary Facilities Are Provided

Improvement of Tahquamenon falls area with drives, trails, sanitary facilities, picnic and camp grounds, headlines the new state parks development authorized by the conservation commission in allocating parks improvement funds for the second half of the current biennium.

The money is half of the appropriation voted by the 1939 legislature, and is being used in cooperation with the CCC and WPA in a program of more than two years' duration amounting to more than $2,000,000.

RURAL KITCHENS ADOPT CITY AIRS

Rural women throughout Michigan are proving that modernized kitchens with their energy and time-saving dividends can be obtained without great expenditure.

In projects conducted by Julia Pond, home economics specialist at Michigan State College, it was discovered that in the majority of homes the housewife devotes full time to the job. Of this time the kitchen takes 45 per cent of the working day.

Old type race track kitchens arranged on four sides of a large square room are no longer popular even in the country. It's stylish and efficient, instead, to group the equipment on one side or end of a room and to make certain there is a working space perhaps 24 to 36 inches on each side of the sink.

Food preparation, a cooking and serving center and a cleaning up and dishwashing center are three essentials in minimizing kitchen work.

In Branch county six kitchens are being modernized after a successful project was completed by Mrs. C. C. Moore of that county. In Calhoun county the husband used his carpentry to advantage and modernized a kitchen for his wife at a cost of $24. One in Menominee county cost $48 to bring up-to-date.

One kitchen lost three of its seven doors in a project in Barry county. A service and laundry room which gives a wash-up place for the farm men was walled off from the original room and a pantry was converted into a wood room. Cupboards were set up to keep supplies nearest where they would be needed and a new refrigerator added another modern note.

Rural women are adopting the college slogan, "Use your head to save your heels."

MACHINES

A Portland, Ore., man writing for an eastern publication, disputes the notion that new machines have taken more jobs than they have created. The proposed idea of putting a special tax on inventions would be designed to slow up machine competition with human labor. The automotive industry has created innumerable jobs and a steadily rising demand for raw materials. Motorized production and transportation have given speed to comparatively slow processes. On the farm and in town new machines have facilitated work and increased output. They have taken the drudgery out of human tasks. A special tax would tend to penalize inventive genius, whereas in the old days, new ideas, made practical, were liberally rewarded. A new thing that won't serve advantageously, will not last long, but a thing that contributes to production, while making life easier, fires individualism and fits into the plan of eternal progress. It is doubtful if, in satisfying all demands, too much could be produced. It is doubtful if there would be any enforced idleness, due to machines or other causes, if normal consumption were restored. —Wayne (Nebr.) Herald.

Creswell young people met last week at the Gribi home for practicing for Children's day. This week they meet at the Garret Drought home at Creswell.

Mrs. Grace Hoper and children are now residing at the Thomas Gnyer home on the Bay shore north of Eastport, her parent's home.

Mrs. James Dawson is quite improved in health since returning from Lansing. The local doctor, who will be away for two weeks, pronounces the malady, diabetis.

The recent rains are holding back the planting of corn by the farmers. Some have planted in between rains. Word comes that the Traverse City Cherry Growers Association has paid off the last year cherry bill at two and a half cents per pound. The independents received, last year, two cents per pound.

John Sherman, a bachelor recluse living near Bass lake, north end of Elk Rapids, was found dead Saturday at his home where he lived alone. He had been dead for quite a while, it is said.

Elk Rapids is preparing in a big way to celebrate it's 100th anniversary of the settlement of Antrim county. Briggs Carol of that place, supervisor of the township, is chairman, and a livewire. It has been found that Sidney Swift, living east of Central Lake, is the only living relative of Abraham Wadsworth, first settler in the county. Elk Rapids is a beautiful summer resort, and has many livewire business men, and the venture should go over big. We want to thank Thomas Hogan, a business man there, for his display of our recent editorial in tthe Grand Rapids Herald.

Mrs. Fern Burns of Lake View school attended Antrim county eighth grade graduation exercises at Bellaire last Saturday afternoon, and says there was good attendance and good program.

Central Lake baccalaureate exercises were held last Sunday evening at the high school auditorium. There is quite a large class graduating this year. An interesting high school play was given at the Elk Rapids town hall last Thursday evening by the graduates there. Miss Florence Fox and Richard Gribl were the North Milton participants.

FSA AID MANY CHARLEVOIX COUNTY FARMERS

Report Reveals 190 Families Helped During Past 5 Years

During the last five years the Farm Security Administration has assisted a total of 190 farm families in Charlevoix county, according to Edward E. LaBerge, FSA supervisor for the county.

Supervisor LaBerge pointed out that the last agricultural census showed that there were 1,342 farms in the county. On this basis, he pointed out, the Farm Security Administration has extended loans and other forms of rehabilitation assistance to one out of every eight of the county's farm families.

The financial assistance given by the FSA has taken three general forms, the supervisor explained.

First, there are the rehabilitation loans to enable borrowers to carry out improved farm plans.

Second, are emergency loans made to farmers in need of small amounts for immediate use in saving their crops or providing food for their families and feed for their livestock.

Finally there are grants, made to supply urgent living needs to families whose farms are not capable of producing income enough to pay both farm operating costs and family living expenses.

In Charlevoix county since 1935 the FSA has made 74 standard rehabilitation loans, 36 emergency loans, and grants to 80 families. Both standard and emergency loans are self-liquidating.

In Charlevoix county a total of $50,799.26 has been loaned in the past five years. Repayments to date total $21,832.18 or 42.97 per cent.

Garage to be Open Week Ends to Provide Emergency Service

Michigan State Highway Department maintenance garages will be kept open over weekends in future to provide emergency highway service, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner announced this week.

"Because of the heavy traffic on week ends, which would suffer by any failure of highway conditions, it was decided to have the maintenance garages open and ready to answer emergency calls," the commissioner said.

Crews and quipment will be ready to make emergency repairs to state highways. It is expected that most of the work will include repairing washouts, dmmages to bridges, guard rails and directional or warning signs.

Motorists who discover state highway conditions which call for immediate repair are asked to telephone their nearest State Highway Department maintenance garage.

USE AIRPLANE ENFORCE FISHING REGULATIONS

Pontoon Plane With Radio Patrols Lake Michigan Waters

Enforcement of regulations which are intended to control the operations of commercial fishermen on Great Lakes waters inside Michigan's boundaries is being stepped up with the perfecting of short wave communication linking a pontoon-equipped airplane and the shore stations and patrol boats operated by the conservation department.

Pontoons were fitted recently to the airplane which is operated jointly by the state police, highway and conservation departments. Tests are being made now of radio equipment which will allow enforcement officers to work in unison.

Illegally placed nets can be seen from the air and movements of patrol boats can be directed by observers in the airplane. The airplane, when occasion arises, can be landed alongside the boats of commercial fishermen.

CARE WITH WOOL WILL PAY LARGE DIVIDENDS

Michigan State College Gives Advise to Farmers

Wool can be held for a considerable time without serious loss or damage, is the advice of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College. Safe wool storage, however, it is pointed out, depends upon having it fully protected against moisture, dirt, moths, and in some cases against rats and mice.

Damp or moist wool deteriorates rapidly, so every building where wool is stored needs to be proof against rain and other moisture. Even the floors need to be dry. To avoid floor moisture, a good plan is to pile the wool on a platform not less than six inches above the floor, under which the air can circulate. If wool does become wet or damp, it must be dried promptly.

By Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District Michigan

The American people have no reason to suffer from the war jitters. It is my thought that too many of our leaders in places of responsibility have been the worst offenders in spreading war hysteria.

Some of the public pronouncements concerning our danger could be justified perhaps as a means of driving home to the people a realization of our present state of unpreparedness. But the record fails to disclose that this was at all necessary. Our nation depended on its leaders to take the precautions that seemed necessary and Congress has voted all the money requested by the President for the army and navy. Partisanship was not involved in this vote.

Billions for Defense

Starting with 1933 and including 1940, Congress has approved more than an average of a billion for each of these eight years for the army and navy. Including the emergency funds allotted to defense purposes, the total appropriated amounts to $8,219,393,233. That is a lot of money. Whether it was used effectively must be left in the final analysis to the judgment of those who have knowledge of what constitutes proper national defense.

Most everybody realizes that this is a time for preparedness, and this calls for the formulation of a good program and the placing in charge of this program those leaders who are competent to handle it. The President has asked for appropriations larger than any ever found necessary during peace time. No one questions the wisdom of this course, and Congress is losing no time in granting the requests, covering over three billions of dollars.

With the world in turmoil, defense is good insurance. If we are never called upon to make use of the implements of war we are forced to provide, so much the better. Let us plan well, build wisely, conscious of our own greatness, with every confidence in the future of our nation. And, while doing this, why would it not be a good idea to tend to our own national affairs, quit scolding other nations and their leaders, and completely divorce our nation from the racial and other prejudices which are no direct concern of ours?

I have little patience with those who one day shout to high heaven that we are unprepared to defend our liberties and the very next day demand that we send overseas what little defense weapons we have.

Home Front Needs Attention

And while taking insurance against foreign invasion and interference, we must not forget that we have domestic problems that remain unsolved. The debate that marked passage of the WPA appropriation bill emphasizes how serious our unemployment situation remains.

The House approved a bill which provides the continuation of this work relief setup pretty much as it has operated in the last year. Because of the debt limitation, the amount allowed was only two-thirds of that for the last 12 months, but, by presidential request, permission is given to spend the entire appropriation during the next eight months.

That is simply evading the issue. Either there will need to be a special session right after the November election to provide more money, or the next Congress will have to find some way of raising more money by taxation, or raising the stututory debt limit and pass the buck to future generations, just as has been done in the last 10 years.

The changes approved by the house were few. The limitation on construction, now set at $50,000, was lifted. Another amendment bars Nazis and Communists from the WPA. An effort to remove the provision for a 25 per cent sponsor contribution was defeated, as well as the attempt to provide more money for administration.

No Need for Coalition

This talk about coalition government is both premature and unnecessary. The President now says he never had such a thing in mind. That makes it agreed all around. If he wants to strengthen his cabinet, there are many Democrats available who would, in my estimation, add much that is now lacking in the official family. Viewing the matter as an outsider, it has always appeared to me that Mr. Roosevelt does not seek advice, but that he has surrounded himself with "yes" men who approve everything he undertakes. That makes for one-man government.

In the handling of war preparedness problem there is every reason why an industrial board, completely divorced from politics should be set up.

The United States has the resources, the patriotism, the will to do the job that needs to be done. All we lack is the organization to carry on the program. We can afford to leave to the historians the recording of who is to get the credit for whatever is accomplished. There is no room for selfish devotion to partisan politicians and personal ambitions. The way to sell "democracy" to the world is to make it work, right here in America.

YOUR MICHIGAN—AND MINE

Michigan Press Association

Steal Arabian Pipes

Dearborn—City police are wondering what burglars are going to do with the loot taken in a recent robbery. Said Nassar reported someone had broken into his home and taken two Arabian pipes four feet high, fitted with long hoses. They are valued at $100.

Honey Goes Abroad

Grandville—Two carlonds of Michigan honey, 100,000 pounds in all, were recently shipped from here for an undisclosed foreign port. Duty on the honey, which was packed in 60-pound boxes, amounted to more than $1,000.

Lambs Set Record

Bad Axe—For the fourth successive year, the same ewe on the Phillip Neesz farm near here has given birth to triplet lambs. Each year the three lambs from this ewe have lived. One of the original trio had twins last year and again in 1940. In addition, Neesz had three different ewes bearing three lambs each last year.

Finds Dated Stone

Addison—According to local histories, Addison was first settled about 1834, but a recently found stone indicates an earlier date. A slate formation seven by five inches and 1¾ inches thick, the stone bears the date 1882 and initials "J. A."

Three Brothers Graduate

St. Johns—Probably for the first time in history of the local high school, three brothers will receive their diplomas at the same time when seniors are graduated this June. They are Jack, 17; Merrill, 18; and Harry, 19; sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Carpenter.

Squirrell is Friendly

Ithaca—Theodore Bloss, who has been feeding fox squirrels from his back porch for several years, now has one of them trained to rap on the window when she wants a little attention. A pail of nuts is kept handy in the kitchen for her. The squirrel will eat from Bloss' hand.

Dog is Condemned

St. Louis—"Laddie", a valued collie dog owned by Miss Martha Carlton was "condemned" to death by Justice J. L. Smith recently after testimony on the dog's deportment was taken in his court. The collie was "paroled" at a similar hearing last year.

Swan Gets New Mate

Eaton Rapids—This city's swan, which has led a lone life on the Grand River since its mate was electrocuted last fall by flying against a high tension wire, now has a new mate. Dr. C. A. Winder, formerly of Charlevoix, recently presented the city with a second swan.

SCIENCE BETTERS OUR VEGETABLES

Two attacks by science are improving America's vegetable supply, a trend applauded by home economists on the staff of Michigan State College.

One of these advances is in the refrigeration which holds quality while the supplies come to consuming centers or quick freezes the supplies so that year around fresh supplies tempt appetites. The other is in streamlining the types and qualities of the most popular vegetables.

In the latter process, the plant breeders have taken the strings off the string bean, making it a snap bean. Even the carrot has taken new shape, with round tops that taper down to the roots.

The tomato has undergone some interior decoration. Firmness and meatiness are new qualities.

A head of lettuce of the iceberg or New York type is far different from olden day lettuce style. Even celery is gaining crispness and losing some of its stringiness in fiber.

Why is the vegetable getting so much attention?

Dieticians approve. They point to the "greens" with their calcium and iron.

They also approve of the vitamin content available in many vegetables. For vitamin A one can turn to the green vegetables especially those with green leaves and to the yellow kinds such as carrots, sweet potatoes, squash and yellow corn and rutabagas. These also supply vitamin C and tomatoes as well do this. Some vegetables offer vitamin B-1 and even supplies of vitamin G.

Common Defects of Pre-school Children

Defective Vision: There are approximately 30 million children in the public, private and parochial schools of the country. About 10% of these are in need of eye help. The percentage of preschool children having defective vision is practically the same as in school children. The defects however, are more pronounced in the school child in the higher grades than in the preschool child.

Symptoms of defective vision: (1) inattention, (2) nervousness, (3) headache, (4) holding the book too far or too near, (5) frowning, (6) letters running into each other, (7) backwardness, and a low I. Q. rating.

It is important to remember that it takes longer to see with poor than with good light and consequently children with defective vision are greatly helped by proper illuminating of the school room. School nurses and school teachers should know the code of school lighting, which information may be obtained from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Enlarged tonsils and adenoids when not in any way interfering with the child's growth and development are not usually removed. The tendency is for tonsillar and adenoid tissue to get smaller as time goes on. But when they do interfere with health by causing obstruction to breathing then removal is imperative if normal growth and development is to be hoped for. Accompanying them, there is often a narrow funnel chest or the "adenoid faces" or susceptibility to respiratory infections, also undernutrition and at times deafness. Between 10 and 15 per cent of children of this age group will show tonsils and adenoids or both which are pathological to the extent of interfering with their health. Chronically inflamed anterior cervical glands suggest the presence of diseased tonsils. Undernutrition and secondary anemia may be a part of the picture. This diseased tissue should be promptly removed.

Decayed teeth: 85 per cent of children of the preschool age have decayed teeth. The causes are probably deficient calcium absorption either through a diet not containing milk or the calcium in the milk not being absorbed, due to lack of sufficient vitamins A and D. Another cause is thought to be excessive ingestion of sweets, especially candy. Keeping the teeth clean by properly brushing them will do much in conjunction with a proper and well regulated diet, to prevent further decay.

Undernutrition may be caused by any of the conditions described above, especially abnormal tonsils or adenoids, or both, or by faulty food and health habits. Over-fatigue due to inadequate rest or sleep or to a younger or weaker child attempting to keep up in his physical activities with an older or stronger one frequently accounts for the undernourished child. Therefore the treatment of these children as gauged by the weight for age and height is far more comprehensive than the mere removal of a physical defect.

Tuberculosis is occasionally found in these children. Less than 5 per cent of preschool children will show a positive tuberculin test. Where the test is positive an x-ray examination of the chest should be made in order to be sure that no active tuberculosis exists. If this examination is negative one need not worry about a positive skin test, but a careful search should be made for an infected person who may have caused the test to become positive. Only about one in a hundred of children showing a positive tuberculin test will be found to have tuberculosis.

Orthopedic defects such as lameness from infantile paralysis, congenital club foot or spinal curvature should receive treatment as soon as possible.

Tragic Plight of Europe's War Babies

Writing in The American Weekly with the June 2 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, Europe's most noted exile and cousin of the Czar who, with his family, was murdered by Russian Communists, tells—in her own words—why there is only one woe ahead for tiny heirs to the thrones broken or threatened by the lightning of invading armies. Be sure to get Sunday's Detroit Times.

FARMERS ARE ADVISED NOT TO RUSH PASTURES

Should et Growth Start Before Allowing Animals to Graze

There's no sense in an early pasture "blitzkrieg."

The word blitzkrieg, for those who haven't bothered with European conflicts of late, means a lightning invasinn.

Advice frnm a Michigan State College dairyman in the extension service, E., C. Scheidenhelm, explains that permitting n dairy herd to get out into the pasture hefore the grnss is getting a good stnrt not only fnils to help the herd in prnduction but actnally cripples the possible output of the pasture for the rest of the season.

At least four to five inches growth ought to be npparent before grazing is permitted.

Seeding summer temporary pastures is another suggestion offered by Scheidenhelm.

Soybeans can serve either of twn purposes. If the crop is not needed for hay, the beans can be harvested for grain. In some of Michignn's 85 dairy herd improvement associations the percentage of dairymen raising soybeans is ns high as 40 with nddiional dairymen planning plantings this spring.

TEN BASS LIMIT APPLIES ONLY TO LAKE MICHIGAN

Change by 1939 Legislature Does Not Affect Inland Lakes

Action of the 1939 legislature in raising the creel limit on smallmouth black bass from five to 10 applies, as the law states, only to "smallmouth bass caught in the waters of the Great Lakes" the law enforcement divisinn of the conservation department announces.

Fishermen on connecting waters, particularly Lake St. Clair, have been inquiring abnut the higher bass creel limit. As classified by law, Lake St. Clair is part of the "connecting waters" of the Great Lakes, like the St. Marys, St. Clair and Detroit rivers. "On connecting waters" the inland-waters limit of five black bass a day prevails.

Bass fishing season opens June 25.

DESTRUCTIVE FOREST FIRES IN YEAR OF 1871 RECALLED

In 1871 forest fires hurned over almost the entire Grand Traverse region and left 18,000 persons homeless. In 1908 the Metz fire burned over 2,369,000 acres in northeastern lower Michigan.

DO NOT DISTURB FAWNS, CONSERVATION ADVISES

Mid-May to Mid-June is Period When Fawn Deer Are Born

From mid-May to mid-June is the month in which most fawns nf Michigan's whitetnil deer herd are born, and game men of the conservation department are again warning the nninitiated not to pick up any they think are "nrphans" in the woods.

While the little spotted fawns may appear deserted and helpless, they should be left wherever they are seen, for the doe is usually only concealed not far away, nwaiting the departure of the intruder to return to her ynung.

In two to fnur wecks the fawns begin to follow the doe nbout, and it is then that motorists in deer country are advised to be particularly careful.

Among Michigan's whitetail deer, twins are more common than single births, and occasionally there are triplets.

Located at Scenic Spots Along Michigan Trunk Lines

Some 3,000 picnic tables, strategically placed at roadside beauty spots along Michigan, are heing placed now to make ready for the thousands of recreation bound visitors who will come to Michigan this summer.

Facilities for handling these picnic parties has long heen a feature that has impressed the tourists to the Playground of the Nation.

Becnuse of the many requests received each year from all over the country the highway department has included on the reverse side of the latest issue of the highway map a drawing of the picnic table, tngether with complete instructions on how they are made.

KROGER EMPLOYES TO GET VACATIONS WITH FULL PAY THIS YEAR

Nearly 17,000 employes of the Kroger company will receive vacations with pay this year, L. O. Griffin, branch manager in charge of Krnger stores in this area, announced today.

This represents an increase of 2,000 over the number eligible for vacations in 1939, due to further liberalization nf the firm's pnlicy, Griffin explained.

Approximately 780 Grand Rapids hranch employes are included in the list of those eligible for one to twn weeks of vncation for 1940, he said.

INSECT BATTLE HAS STARTED IN STATE

196,000 Farms Face Annual Struggle Against Insect Invaders

Bugs!

Little ones, big ones, same harmless and some with such voracious appetites that gardeners will be goaded into battle—that is the annual campaign that faces every operator of Michigan's 196,000 farms and as well those who plan backyard floral or vegetable gardens.

And the bible of preventinns, protections or cures for many a gnrdener is the Michigan State College Extensinn bulletin 180, "Chewing Insects Affectiog Garden Crops."

Even the rhubarb is not invincible, says Professor E. I. McDaniel of the college entomology depnrtment. The rhubarh snoutheetle nr curculio lives in dnck, hurdock, sunflower and thistles—comes om and places its eggs after stinging the rhubarb. The rhubarh literally weeps with rosin. The control is to rid the area nf the weeds harboring the pest.

Weevils, worms, beetles, borers, lnopers, moths, cutworms, hnppers, slugs and gruhs are all garden pnssibilities included in treatments listed in the bulletin.

Gardeners rendy to put ont peas or heans ought to gunrd agniost planting weevil infested seed. Even easnnl inspectinn will determine if any of the seed has been riddled by the weevils. If the seed is not good, get snme that is, recommends Professor McDaniel.

Control of insects has progressed. In addition to crop practices for controlling inseets, there are modern methods and materials—far different from olden days when a beetle infestation was fought hy driving the pests into straw windrows nnd then burning the straw.

After games, pictures and food, our president, Carl Smith, called the meeting to order and a roll-call was taken by each member giving the name of his favorite farm paper. The Michigan Farmer was first hut others, Cappers Farmer, Farm Journal, Country Gentleman, nnd the Farm Bureau News, were mentloned.

About 75% of the group were in favor of a box social, also n price limit of 50c to 75c a box. The money we plan tn use for an educationnl trip ahout the county.

As Mr. Walker could not be at the meeting, but promised to send some pictures over for some other meeting, Earl Young showed us some pictures that he hnd taken of Charlevoix.

At the next meeting Ray Cunningham and Ed. Vratinina are supposed to be able to answer nny questions concerning horses, while Elsie Hilton and Freda Willis nre to help the girls get started on nne of their projects.

Very favorable comment was made of the Junior Farm Bureau newspaper "Over the State." Almost all members received a copy.

public relief and the idle thousands inside prison walls to fill jobs such as these.

The state social welfnre commission is reported to be fully cngnizant of the need of rehabilitation for family heads in those areas of nnrthern Michigan, outside the industrial belt. Bnt the state has a deficit nf npproximately 30 millions; the legislature reduced the relief appropriation, and you can't spend money you haven't got.

The prison situation nppears to be somewhnt different.

Therein lies an interesting story—one that is off the beaten track. It is the story of Michigan's "forgntten men"—the 7,500 inmates of our prisons.

5,000 Prisoners Idle

When citizens commit a wrong against their fellows, justice decrees they must be punished. Minor offenses bring a jail sentence or a fine; major offenses bring incarceration inside prison walls.

In Michigan's three prisons—Jnckson, Ionia and Marquette—nre 7,500 men.

They are serving time ranging from a yenr to life.

Approximately 950 ont of the 7,500 are "lifers."

What do these 7,500 men do? Are they kepn lnsy nt useful tasks? Are they given nn npportunity to rehabilitate themselves, to mnintain their vocational skill?

Here is the answer:

Out of the approximately 6,500 prisoners who may he eligible to nltimate parole or release, only 1,500 are given enployment in prison industries.

Today there nre 200 prison inmates, already parolled hy the state for good behavinr and conduct, who are denied the privilege of freedom because they cannot find a job outside.

An Old Question

The question of prison-made goods and where they should be sold has beset many state legislatures.

Until 1935 the state of Michigan permitted prisons to sell products of state industries in the open market. It was what the Michignn furniture industry considered to be competition with private industry—sale of prison-made furniture to state institutions—that led to adoption in the legislature of n new law. This law permitted the state tn purchase its prodncts anywhere, presumably at the lowest price according tn specifications. Only binder twine can be sold in the open market for private use.

In New York and 12 other states it is compulsnry for state departments and institutions to purchase such equipment, as could he manufactured to meet specification, from state prisons. The argument is that the state should use its own agencies to reduce its own costs, and all this in the interest of the taxpayer of course.

Michigan prisons maintnin the following industries:

Jackson prison—Binder twine fnctory, brush shop, canning factory, metal stamp plant (license plates, heds, etc.), print shop, tailored gnrment fnctory, textile plnnt and shoe factory.

Ionia prison — Cottnn garment plant, furniture factory and soap factory.

Marquette prison—Tobacco plant, brick plant, and snow fence factory.

Training Men

William H. Burke, manager of the Michigan state industries, points out that Michigan is nne of three states which confines prison industrial activities to a small field such as state institutions and departments on a non-compulsory basis.

"Ont of the 490 men who hnve heen employed at the Jackson prison textile mill, 200 hnve just been laid off due to lack of state orders," said Mr. Burke whose nffices are at Jackson. "These men go back into their cells, idle and unproductive. In the meanwhile, state purchasing agents are buying textile goods elsewhere.

"The law requiring men to have jobs hefore being paroled is sound. But at the same time it fails to provide that these men prepare themselves while in prison to assume their places again in society. Our prisnn program has been negligent in this regard. Require prison inmates to do something that will teach them the habits nf industry; mnke them self-supporting and you will improve their attitude toward society."

Burke lauded the state corrections commission for establishment recently of a trade school at Ionin reformatory in cooperation with private Industry.

Industry Critical

Michigan manufacturers have been critical of prison industry. The low cost of prison labor, 10 to 25 cents a day, is an emblem of "unfnir competition," they say.

Bnt in the meanwhile thousnnds of prisoners are in idleness, supported hy society itself and denied the privilege of learning and practicing a useful trade.

Here is the old problem. Shortage of skilled labor in peivate industry and the constant rise in cost of government merely puts it into shnrp focus once again.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

The Logic of Service Charges

A BANK has two commodities to sell — credit and services — and compensation for these is essential if the bank is to operate soundly.

Every service rendered costs the bank money. There are direct expenses such as the cost of the actual time spent in handling checks — examining them to guard against forgery and alteration, sending those deposited to other banks for collection, bookkeeping entries, filing, postage, stationery, forms and records. There are indirect costs such as rent, light, heat, depreciation, salaries, insurance, taxes.

If a depositor's loannble balance is not large enough to produce sufficient earnings to offset the costs of services rendered, then a charge is necessary. This you will agree, is simply sound business practice.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING

That newspapers of Michigan are going to put a damper on the political practice of flooding newspapers with free publicity while spending most of advertising funds with other media is indicated in a bulletin received by The Courier from the Michigan Press Association, Inc., an organization of 42 daily and 274 weekly papers.

This newspaper is supporting the following pledge:

"We join with all Michigan newspapers in considering it an unfriendly act on the part of candidates for political office in Michigan to use other paid advertising media to the exclusion of newspapers, and at the same time request free publicity from newspapers."

Information on advertising rates may be obtained either from this newspaper or from the Michigan Press Association, East Lansing, Mich.

William Hayward, Sequanota summer residents, brought in three with the biggest 11 pounds 2 ounces. Glen Williams' 9 pound 15 ounce steelhead, taken Sunday, is about the largest reported hereabouts in several years. Don Clothier caught two, one small one in the channel Saturday and a 4-pounder Sunday. And here's real news—I coaxed 15 brookies out of the Jordan for my first limit of the season Sunday afternoon.

Mind you, I'm not intending to talk salesmanship for the Charlevoix Oil Co., but it wouldn't be a bad idea if we all had one of those "Charlevoix-the-Beautiful" signs they're selling for two-bits put on our car. Let everyone know you're a Charlevoixan, and proud of it, too!

A timely warning comes out of an incident last week near Petoskey, which, because of children playing with matches, resulted in a family of 11 losing their home by fire.

If a person were to leap that new fence of Pete Timmer's they would want to be sure and make it in one jump, for those spikes on top are mighty sharp. It's an attractive looking fence, too.

And of all things! They say those log Memorial Park pool trout that died so suddenly were electrocuted when a bare wire from the new information bureau neon sign was dropped into the water. That incident might give punk fishermen like myself an idea.

No lilacs for Memorial Day this year!

Traverse City isn't missing any bets! They hit the top in publicity appeal by naming Miss Barbara Brown, daughter of U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown and Mrs. Brown, as the 1940 queen of the National Cherry festival. Are they smart, or aren't they?

Don't crab about all the rain we're having to "Bill" Wallace. A fellow did one day last week and Bill told him: "You haven't got anything to kick about. How'd you like to be over where it rains bombs and bullets instead of rain?"

We are not interested in that million-dollar reward offered for the capture of Hitler alive. Uncle Sam would take two-thirds of the amount in income tax, then arrest us for violation of neutrality.

And while you're waiting for next week's blurb, you might try to figure this one out: The scientists say a wink is an operation of the eye which requires one-fifth of a second and occurs twenty-five times a minute. If you're driving at an average of 25 miles an hour for five hours, you will drive a total of about ten and a half miles with your eyes shut. Be careful if you try to put the theory in practice!

RED CROSS RALLIES TO WAR SUFFERERS

TEN MILLION DOLLAR GOAL SET FOR UNITED STATES

Charlevoix County Quota in Current Campaign is $420—Contributions Are Urged

As its share of the ten million dollars being raised by the American Red Cross, the Charlevoix county chapter has been given a quota of $420 of that amount for the relief of sufferers in war-torn European countries.

In his instructions to the local chapters, Norman H. Davis, chairman of the National Red Cross, said:

"With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxemburg the war has entered a phase which will inevitably and at once bring wide-spread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children. In order to inaugurate widespread relief measures, the American Red Cross is at once launching a campaign for a minimum war relief fund of ten million dollars. Your chapter quota is $420. Please at once mobilize the entire leadership of your chapter and community in order that your quota may be raised and exceeded without delay. Chapters may retain 15 per cent of collections to cover their local war relief expenses.

H. S. Locations

"We in America live in comparative health and happiness in relative safety and security. Those in sorrowed lands whom we must help are being stripped of all. The war is not just between those who wear a uniform. It strikes down civilians, the aged, defenseless women and little children. They are being stripped of even the dignity given them by their creator."

It was also announced that the International Red Cross, upon proper application, will attempt to provide information for residents of this country regarding relatives in the war-affected areas.

Mrs. R. F. Sloan is in charge of the campaign in Charlevoix and will receive donations at her office.

DEATH LURKS IN SOME MUSHROOM VARIETIES

Person Should Exercise Great Care in Spring Picking

In gathering mushrooms, botanists at Michigan State College advise, one should use nine parts care to one part of observation. During May and Early June dozens of persons become ill, and some die, because what they thought was a meadow mushroom was the deadly amanita.

The only safe course in mushroom gathering is to know a few safe varieties well, and stick to them. If a mushroom looks only slightly different, it is not safe. It is still too early for the common meadow mushroom to appear, and anyone who thinks he has found such a fungus growing in the woods should leave it growing and seek elsewhere.

Inky caps and morels are the only mushrooms growing at this time of the year which may be gathered and eaten safely, and even the inky cap has near relations that are treacherous.

The morel, which resembles a yellowish, gray sponge, can never be mistaken for any other variety. It has a stout stalk; is hollow, has a rough, ridgy surface, and grows in open woods, in old orchards, along stream banks, or under pines and firs. It appears in Michigan sometimes until June.

Later in the summer the giant puffball and the meadow mushrooms appear. The meadow mushroom is the variety seen in the market, often grown commercially.

Just now, the botanists say, if in doubt about a mushroom, don't.

COURT PLAINTIFFS CAN THANK PAPERS

Notices by Publication Important Means of Information

Plaintiffs in court proceedings should be "most thankful" for the Michigan statutory provision for service of notice by newspaper publication, in the judgment of Henry L. Woolfenden Jr., executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan, state organization for attorneys.

"The person who usually 'kicks' about the necessity for the 'legal advertisements' and its costs is the plaintiff," states Mr. Woolfenden.

"Too infrequently does he realize that if it were not for the substituted service of notice which is made available to him by the legal advertisement, his hands would be tied when he care to prosecute his right of action against a defendant unless he could find the defendant and serve him personally.

"In many cases this would be impossible — in others very slow and very expensive. The plaintiff should be most thankful for the statutory provision for service by publication.

"In the recent era of mortgage foreclosures under the statute, I heard several mortgagees 'kick' about the length of notice required and the number of times it must be run. In the first place the mortgagee is fortunate to have this means of foreclosure without having to go to court with the increased cost and usually greater delay of a chancery suit. He should be thankful for it, not critical of it.

"In the second place any reduction in the number of publications reducing the cost of the publication would facilitate still more the foreclosure of mortgages, and that is contrary to the whole trend of legislation which is aimed to help not the mortgagee but the man on the other side of the fence, the mortgagor.

"The wise mortgagee will be content to retail the present mortgage law, rather than commence a change which will probably result in a law less favorable to himself.

Mr. Woolfenden points out that newspaper advertising of legal notices "furnishes the only means of fulfilling in a practical way the constitutional guaranty of security to every citizen."

FAREWELL PARTY GIVEN WEDNESDAY NIGHT FOR FR. EDWARD NEUBECKER

Two hundred and twenty-five members of St. Mary's Parish and their friends gathered at St. Mary's school hall last Wednesday evening for a party honoring Rev. Fr. Edward F. Neubecker, who left Thursday for his new pastorate at Lake Leelanau.

The guest of honor, members of the church board, four visiting priests from near-by towns and several invited guests sat at a large table decorated with jonquils and yellow candles.

The program included "God Bless America", sung by a group of school children; a boxing match by Tommy Hamlin and Billy Barber; a piano solo by David Hamilton; a duet, "Little Skipper", by Eugene and Bonnie Barber; a tap dance by Ruth Hoffman; a vocal solo, "Our Father", by Miss Mary Margaret Orlawski, and a duet sung by Miss Charlene McFarland and Miss Clair Left.

Presentation of a purse from the congregation was followed by speeches by the visiting priests and several of the congregation. Refreshments were served buffet style from tables decorated in spring flowers and candles.

Fr. Neubecker's successor, Fr. John W. Collins of Grand Rapids, is at present ill with pneumonia. Fr. Powers of Grand Rapids preached last Sunday in the absence of the new pastor.

A carpenter may have the finest set of tools in town, but that doesn't make him a good carpenter unless he knows how to use them. So it is with life. It isn't so much what we know, but how well we know how to use what we do know that counts for us in the end.

CITY PAID HOMAGE TO ITS WAR HEROES

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM THURSDAY

William E. Hampton, Ann Arbor, Gave Address During Services Held at Brookside Cemetery

Charlevoix paid homage to its soldier and sailor dead with ceremonies at Memorial Park and Brookside cemetery as veterans of past wars and the public participated in a solemn observance of Memorial Day last Thursday.

While missing from the ranks were veterans of the Civil War, the parade was an impressive sight led by Floyd Black, mounted, the colors and firing squad, Legion drum and bugle corps, Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Legion Auxiliary, Boy and Girl Scouts and school children marching in order to music by the school band.

The ceremonial of casting a wreath upon the water for the sailor dead was observed at Memorial park. A salute and taps were sounded and the parade resumed to Brookside cemetery.

Numbers on the impressive program at the cemetery included "Star Spangled Banner" by the school band; invocation by Rev. W. L. Cruthers; floral tribute; "Gettysburg Address" by Amy Pederson; address by William E. Hampton of Ann Arbor; salute and taps; "America" by school band; benediction by Rev. John W. Alexander.

Mr. Hampton, long identified with Charlevoix as a former resident and frequent visitor, held the attention of the large assemblage during an impressive half hour address. He dwelt upon old associations with friends in Charlevoix, paid tribute to war veterans who had gone from this city on the call of their country, and concluded with a plea to do away with "isms" of all sorts and a suggestion of sending advocates of un-American systems of government to countries where their governmental creed is practiced or in force. It was a timely message, delivered at a time when the United States is being forced into war preparations as a bulwark of protection against spread of the present European conflict to our shores.

GRADUATION ACTIVITY NEAR CLOSE

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES TONIGHT AT SCHOOL GYM

Senior Baoquet and Prom Event of Last Wednesday; Capacity Crowd at Baccalaureate Sunday

Commencement exercises tonight (Wednesday) at the school gymnasium will bring to a close graduation activities of the Charlevoix high school senior class of '40.

Last Wednesday evening the senior banquet and prom was enjoyed by sixty-one class members and their friends at the Petoskey-Bay View Country Club. Opening with the class giftatory, at which each senior was presented an appropriate, often humorous, gift, the program included several readings: "What the Janitor Overheard" by Betty Willis and Olga Jancha; "Thus Endeth the First Lesson" by Frances Meggison, and "The Optimist" by Elsie Hilton.

Thirty-nine of the group attended the theater, while the others danced until 1 o'clock to music of Wexstaff's orchestra. Chaperons for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Clair S. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carey and Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bingham.

The gymnasium was filled to capacity Sunday evening for the baccalaureate service. Rev. H. J. Pulsipher delivered the sermon on the topic, "Success, and How to Attain It." In brief, his timely message emphasized that success consists not of financial gain, but type of character each individual builds. Rev. Pulsipher used Bible references to illustrate his theme.

Diplomas will be presented the 46 graduates tonight by Henry Partridge, treasurer of the board of education, thus closing the scholastic careers in Charlevoix for this group. The salutatory will be given by Louise Young, and valedictory by Betty Willis. William Rainey Bennett, of Elgin, Ill., will deliver the address.

W. E. FLYNN TAKES OVER BEACH HOTEL

COMPLETED LEASE WITH PURCHASE OPTION FRIDAY

Large Crew of Workmen Making Alterations and Improvements for Opening July 1st

Of great interest in northern Michigan resort circles, and more particularly to Charlevoix and its summer residents, is the announcement that W. E. Flynn, for over 30 years associated with the management of Charlevoix summer hotels, has leased, with purchase option, the Charlevoix Beach Hotel from the Detroit Trust Company.

The transaction was completed Friday, June 1, through Earl A. Young beal realtor, and Monday a large crew of workmen under Mr. Flynn's direction started alterations and improvements in preparation for opening July 1.

Of perhaps greatest significance is the fact that the Beach Hotel, ideally located and at one time Charlevoix's finest appointed hotel, comes into the hands of one whose record in hotel management in Charlevoix is a successful one over a long period of years—a guarantee of efficient handling of this important property.

Mr. Flynn stated Tuesday morning that plans to be carried out call for complete rebuilding and new equipment for the kitchen, redecoration and re-furnishing of all of the 100 rooms, in fact, renovation of the entire structure. The entrance porch is being torn down and will be replaced with a new canopy. A portion of the present kitchen and the laundry will be removed and a storage room, refrigerator room and loading dock will be built on the east side.

Many of those associated with Mr. Flynn in the management of The Inn hotel, will be with him at the Beach. Jack Ament, of Grand Rapids, will be assistant manager, Roy Perry returns as chef-steward, Harry Bliss and his orchestra return for the summer and Eddie Anderson and partner are coming from the Arthur Murray Dance Studio in Detroit.

The hotel will be officially opened with the 1940 season on Monday, July 1.

BOY SCOUT CAMP PROGRAM STARTS JUNE 9TH

Charlevoix Troop Members Among Those Registered for First Period

Program for Camp Greilick, official camp of the Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council, has been announced by Charles A. Boyer, director.

Camp Greilick starts the first week of a four-period season on Sunday, June 9th. Forty Scouts are registered from Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Boyne City, Frankfort, Manistee, Lake City and Traverse City. The staff for this season has been enlarged to take care of the increased number of Scouts who will attend.

This is the second year the Scenic Trails Council has operated Camp Greilick. Last year 109 boys attended and already over 150 applications have been received. According to Mr. Boyer, over 200 Scouts will take part in the program this season. The last week of camp, which will run from June 30 to July 7, will be called "Old Timers" week, and many features of interest to Scouts who have attended camp in the past will be on the program.

TOUR TO REPLACE ACHIEVEMENT DAY

EVENT SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19TH

Extension Leaders and Group Members to Participate—Program Details Being Arranged

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Plans are being perfected for a county-wide tour on Wednesday, June 19th. This tour will replace the achievement day which has always been held in May following the conclusion of the Home Economics project. The ladies are unanimous in the opinion that a tour will be more attractive than the old style achievement dny.

While the schedule has not been completed as yet, several stops will be made where the interested women can see modern, up to date kitchens. Also, visits will be made to show the results of landscaping. With the availability of electricity, considerable interest will center around correct appliances which are grent time and labor savers. It is planned to have our potluck dinner at the Charlevoix County Nursery, which is one of the beauty spots of northern Michigan. It is expected that a short, snappy program will be enjoyed during the noon hour.

While this tour is sponsored by the leaders and members of our Home Management Project completed this spring, a cordial invitation is extended to all folks in the county to enjoy this one day outing. Can you think of a more enjoyable way to spend the day than to visit some of the many beauty spots in the county? Why not mark the date of Wednesday, June 19th, on your calendar and be assured of a wonderful time? Complete details, in regard to the itinerary, will be published next week.

Infants and Children of Pre-School Age Will be Examined for Physical Defects

A series of child health conferences will be held in Charlevoix county throughout the summer.

The first of these in Charlevoix is scheduled for June 11th from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 1:30 to 4 p. m. at the Charlevoix grade school. Others will be announced later.

During the conferences infants and children of preschool age will be examined for physical defects. Also immunizations against diphtheria and smallpox will be available.

With the beginning of life in school near at hand for many of these children, it is necessary to answer the question, "Are they ready for school?" The number of children entering school each year with defects which could have been corrected, is very large. Also in this group are those with faulty health habits, and those who have neglected receiving protection against communicable diseases.

Any of these deficiencies may cause loss of time in school later, with resulting poor classroom work. One example of how this may happen is seen in whooping cough. Any child living in a house with a case of whooping cough must be excluded from school for at least three weeks, even though he himself is apparently well. However, those children who have been protected by the pertussis vaccine are relieved of this obligation, and may continue school. In this way a little effort expended early will prevent a lot of trouble later.

The problem of preparing for school is more than the spasmodic correction of abnormal conditions a few months before school begins; it is the problem of health supervision from the earliest moment of life. The biggest job is bringing children up to school age without the anxiety and need for hurried correction of physical defects. An examination by a physician just before the child enters school should find him free from remediable defects.

Ho, hum! I suppose Adolph Hitler is sleeping better nights now that the offer of a million dollars for his capture has expired.

A good thought for the week: "Get the habit, if you work on Bridge street, of parking your car on a back street so that the fellow who wants to put a nickle in your cash register has a chance."

Oh, boy! If a fellow could just hook and land a fish like the one Willis Cross brought in last Thursday. It was a mackinaw trout weighing 42 pounds dressed, one of the largest taken by a commercial fisherman in many a moon. Understand Don Clothier bought the monster, so chances are we'll see it mounted soon. Such a fish would be the answer to many a troller's dream.

If there is any person who has a justifiable complaint to make against all the rain we've had, it is Roy Hamilton with a yard full of boats he's trying to get ready for owners who all want them at once, despite the fact you can't paint during damp weather.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Germany's blitzkrieg thrent of European domination and America's belated awakening from pipe dreams of peaceful isolation have just about put Michigan politics and state affairs into near-total eclipse.

Verily, these are days of confusion and fears.

The fast-changing situation is bewildering, to put it mildly.

History is being written with lightning speed. Issues are reshaping in similar tempo. How the voter will react to such issues as economy, deficits, isolationism, unemployment, social reforms, business recovery and "keep out of war" when the British empire appears tottering, France has its back to the wall, and Roosevelt is being criticized for not spending

BOUNTIES COYOTES ARE SHOWING BIG DECLINE

Success of Predator Control Campaign Cited as Reason

Steady decline in the number of complaints of coyote damage to the department of conservation indicates less coyotes are being bountied because there are less of them.

Compared with the 268 coyotes bountied in the first four months of 1940, there were 353 bountied in the first four months of 1939, 334 in the first four months of 1938, and 335 in the first four months of 1937.

The conservation department paid $1,030 in bounties on 59 coyotes and coyote pups taken in April. As in April of the three previous years, no wolves were taken.

$250 IN PRIZES FOR BEST PHOTOS TAKEN IN STATE

Courier Sponsors Amateur Camera Contest for '40 Fair Exhibit

Attention, camera enthusiasts!

Under local sponsorship of The Charlevoix Courier, amateur photographers of Charlevoix and Charlevoix county have an opportunity to win cash ranging from $100 to $1.00.

The Michigan Press Association of which this newspaper is a member announces the opening of the second annual amateur camera contest with $250 in prizes in addition to ribbons and state-wide recognition. An exhibit of winning photographs and those receiving honorable mention will be held at the 1940 Michigan State Fair, contest co-sponsor.

Last year's competition attracted more than 130 entries. The $100 first prize went to a Kalamazoo man who used an inexpensive Michigan-made camera. The $50-second prize went to a Highland Park hobbyist whose camera was an inexpensive Brownie. Chief photographers of the three Detroit newspapers served as judges together with two publishers; Philip T. Rich, Midland Daily News, and George R. Averill, Birmingham Eccentric, both camera enthusiasts.

"Here is an opportunity for everyone to participate in a Michigan amateur camera contest and perhaps win a valuable prize," stated Floyd J. Miller, general manager of the Daily Tribune at Royal Oak, who is president of the state newspaper association. "Michigan offers a wealth of scenic beauty spots. Children and animals make interesting camera subjects."

Professional photographers and employees of the State Fair are ineligible to compete. Further details will be announced later.

COMMERCIAL FISHING LICENSE EXPIRE SOON

Deadline for Renewal by 1400 Operators is July 1st

Michigan's 1,400 commercial fishing operators all need new licenses July 1, when most of them will feel for the first time the effect of changes made in the license law by the last legislature.

Fishing boats are now licensed to operate not more than 50 miles from the port for which the license is issued. Once a boat is licensed for a certain port, it cannot be used in fishing out of any other Michigan port until the period for which it is licensed expires.

Fishermen's attention is called to a ruling of the attorney general defining a port as an established place where boats are loaded or unloaded, which does not permit a fisherman to designate a point of land or other location not used as a regular dock, in order to increase a boat's operating radius.

Maximum resident license fee for any one boat has been cut from $75 to $60. Power boats or rowboats more than 16 feet long pay $1 per foot of overall length, and vessels of more than 10 gross tons also pay $1 a ton for each ton over 10, up to the $60 maximum.

Minimum commercial fishing license fee is $10, which permits operation of nets or set hook lines under the ice or with a rowboat 16 feet or less in length.

Conservation officials, in notifying fishermen of the close checkup to follow expiration of present licenses, warn that the law provides for no days of grace after the July 1 deadline.

The panel discussion planned for this meeting is to be held at the next meeting. "Chuck" Cellner and Ed. Vratinina are to lead the boys while Elsie Hilton and Freda Willis the girls.

NEW HAY FEVER AID NOW CONTEMPLATED

Northern Cities Invited to Participate in Pollen Count

The state health department has invited 40 northern Michigan communities, including Charlevoix, to participate in a new type of service to hay fever sufferers, Dr. H. Allen Moyer, health commissioner, has announced.

The program, as outlined by Moyer, contemplates establishment of pollen count stations throughout the resort region. The health department will publish weekly reports designating the cities and areas that are relatively pollen-free.

The information will be assembled on a cooperative basis and at the cost of the communities, Moyer said. Since hay fever is not a specific communicable disease, health department funds cannot be used to finance the program. Cities will be asked to contribute $25 a month for the salary of a botanist and other expenses.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

How to Draw a Check

To HELP you avoid serious loss through fraudulent use, theft, forgery, or alteration, the following suggestions for drawing checks are made by the American Bankers Association, of which we are a member:

Never write a check with pencil. Use pen, ink, typewriter, or check protector. • Write amount of the check as far to the left as possible and fill in all blank spaces with a heavy line. • Be sure numerals and written amounts agree. • Don't erase an error; write a new check and destroy the old one. • Avoid making checks payable to "cash" or "bearer." Never sign blank checks. • Be careful how and where you sign or exhibit your banking signature. • Guard your bank checks and your cancelled checks, leaving none where they can be taken.

"Magnificent imperturbability" is the way a good-looking girl put it when she had to stop her car to keep from running over our Chow dog when he was napping in the road. Now, if you would ASK ME, and I had a gift for words like that, I would be able to explain why right now some of the Beach Hotel cottages that are not yet sold are such wonderful buys—ask me to show you anyway, and see for yourself.

Must Like Flowers

Athens—O. P. Stancer, local gladioli specialist, must like flowers, for he expects to set out about 1,500,000 gladioli bulbs this year. There will be about 600 named varieties and 50,000 seedlings.

Gets Twins, Triplets

Colon — Animals on Lynn Whitmore's farm had a field day recently. Two of his prized ewes gave birth to six lambs, two sets of triplets. In addition, a three-year-old Jersey cow presented Whitmore with twin calves, one a heifer and the other a bull.

Well-Posted Chicken

Reading—A chicken that may be considered well-posted indeed was hatched recently at a local hatchery. Instead of the usual two legs, this chick had four. This is the second such fowl to be hatched in the 14 years that present owners have operated the hatchery.

Surprises Salesman

Parthami—A local hardware salesman was surprised no end when he waited on eight-year-old Tommy Buck. Looking at a bicycle display, Tommy, pointing to a shiny blue one, said, "I'll take that one." In payment he poured forth a flood of 300 dimes he had been saving.

No Taxes Levied

Tustin—For the first time since its incorporation in 1893, this village will not levy any taxes this year, having enough funds on hand and anticipated in revenues to run the town. Only a few years ago the village had obligations of more than $1,000 and no money to meet them.

City Selects Flower

Eaton Rapids—Following a city-wide poll, this community has selected the petunia as its official flower. A day was set aside to plant the flowers, and city council appointed a committee to publicize Eaton Rapids as "The Petania City" of Michigan.

Boy Helps Out

Dearborn—A couple of adults were having difficulty trying to turn in a fire alarm when nine-year-old Bobby Girardin came along and volunteered, "Hey, I know how to pull that box!" Somewhat skeptical, the two persons lifted Bobby up so he could read the box, and the lad turned in the alarm. His father is a fireman.

Likes to See Fires

Allegan—His liking to watch burning forest fires brought trouble to Lewis O'Hara, Jr., who confessed recently to setting 11 blazes in one day. All were put out without much damage. After the first fire, fire fighting equipment followed O'Hara from one blaze to another.

IT'S A GOOD TIP

(From the Michigan Taxpayer)

The Michigan Taxpayer is glad to join with the State Bar of Michigan and the Michigan Press Association in recommending to the heads of taxpayers' associations that they arm themselves with copies of the official proceedings of all governmental units in their communities when attending meetings of boards, commissions, councils, etc. Inquiries and complaints must be based on the record.

Many a taxpayer would be wiser, and less sad, if he had sought the information that is contained in legal advertising publications or other papers officially designated for the publication of such material. That the extent to which present statutes require publication of such proceedings might well be broadened is also the contention of the State Bar secretary and this point should be explored thoroughly.

That there can be the aspects of a "racket" connected with contracts for publication of legal notices and other advertising required by statute, is of course true, but vigilance will wipe this out and the greatest good to the whole public will be done if publication of official proceedings is carefully and regularly scrutinized.

S'MATTER POP— Quiet Please, Everybody!

By C. M. PAYNE

enough money on armaments is one of those dizzy gyrations that nobody foresaw a month ago.

A Republican bigwig remarked the other day: "The issues are changing so fast it's impossible today to tell what will be needed to win the election in November." And it looks like he was right.

Michigan to Benefit

Exports have been declining and farm products particularly are being hard hit, but Michigan remains a bright spot on the nation's economic map.

For several months we have enjoyed business "better than average."

Because of our high development of mass production methods in industry, Michigan stands to receive major benefits from the sudden spurt in rearmament orders from Washington. Steel, motors, machinery, retooling, army trucks, artillery guns, shell forgings, cartridge cases, and other military items will all be manufactured in Michigan.

Michigan industrial centers will be an important hub in this feverish rush to arm ourselves on lines of modern blitzkrieg warfare. Motor companies are gearing to turn out machine guns, cannons, gunsights, tanks, airplane engine parts and even torpedo boats. Among the products which Ford will probably turn out are submarine chasers and airplanes, both on assembly line schedules.

Thousands of other parts come from motor company supply firms, many of which are located in small towns in Michigan and other Middle-Western states.

Be Thankful!

At a time when Hitler is outdoing Napoleon and when democracy is falling back before the grim march of dictatorship, we should be devoutly thankful that we live in the United States.

One of the most enlightening word portraits of the American democracy of free initiative and liberty which we have ever read was voiced recently by a Michigan educator — Dr. James Thomas, president of Chrysler Institute of Engineering, Detroit.

"In 1790 we took a country that had 400 millions of income and in 140 years we raised that to 80 billions," he said.

"We took a country that had a new wealth of 500 millions, and in 140 years we raised that to 375 billions.

"We took a country that had three millions of population and raised that to 125 millions.

"We took a country with no roads at all and built 600,000 miles of paved roads, 3,000,000 miles of roads, and we put 25,000,000 automobiles on those roads in our anxiety to get somewhere, only exceeded by our anxiety to get back to where we started that we might start somewhere else.

Wealth of America

"We produce 85 per cent of all the automobiles produced in the world. And did you know that we have more radios than all of the rest of the world combined? We have more bathtubs than all the rest of the world.

"They say that 7 per cent of the population of the planet, living here in the United States, tilling 5 per cent of the tillable acreage of the world, produce half of the food crops produced on earth. One English authority said that we had created and owned half of the wealth of the world since the Revolutionary war. Whether that is true, 60 per cent of all the minerals extracted from this planet are taken out of the ground of the United States.

"And I know this—that half of the world's communication facilities are here in America and that nearly half of all the railways and nearly half of all the electrical energy on the planet and this 7 per cent of the population of the planet enjoys such high standards of living that we drink half of the world's coffee, one-half of the world's tin, a little over half of the world's rubber, three-fourths of the world's silk, one-third of the world's coal, and two-thirds of the world's crude oil."

Education, Too.

And if you hastily conclude that we Americans have gone sled-length for crass materialistic culture, then listen to these facts:

"That in the 140 years we built three times as many colleges and endowed them with nearly five times as much money as all the rest of the world in any period of 140 years.

"We built three times as many libraries and put nearly five times as many books in those libraries as all the rest of the world in any period of 140 years.

"In 1933, when we were right at the bottom of that other depression, we found we had 29,500,000 boys and girls and young people in schools and colleges in this country and employed 1,000,000 teachers to teach them. That is 30,500,000 people working at this thing we call idealistic culture.

"Between 1870 and 1940 our population increased 218 per cent and in spite of that, the gainfully employed increased 291 per cent right at a period when we were making our most rapid technological development."

More Persons Employed

And here's one for the books!

"Would it surprise you if I told you that more people are gainfully employed in 1930 than was true in 1870, 1880, 1890, and 1910? That is what our census shows.

"Would it surprise you if I told you that in 1875 only 324 people out of each thousand were gainfully employed, and in 1900, only 100 out of every thousand, and that between 1900 and 1930, that is, the 30-year period of our most rapid technological development, we created 20,000,000 new jobs, and that now one workman out of seven is making things his father never saw if he is past 55, and one man out of every four is making things his grandfather never saw if he is past 60?"

Yes, we should be thankful!

Fascism's Failure

Fascism's triumphs on the battle fields, paid at a staggering toll of human blood, are in sorrowful contrast to the lowered standards of living which fascism has imposed on the peoples of Germany and Italy.

According to official Italian statistics, the wages of farm laborers have declined from an average of 14 lire per day in 1927, 13 in 1929, 10.30 in 1931, 9.25 in 1932 and only 8.30 in 1935—a slump of 37 per cent in eight years. Because the prices of consumption goods have fallen only slowly, the actual purchasing power of wages in Italy has dropped to a level at least 15 per cent below the level prior to advent of fascism.

Since 1930 both the quantity and quality of food available in Italy has fallen, so the records show. Average wheat consumption is less today than it was before the first World war. Two-thirds of farm land are held by a tenth of all farmers; sharecropping has increased; labor unions have been abolished; even the eight-hour day has been forgotten.

All this, too, is on the record.

Yes, we in Michigan should be thankful!

Germany's Price

German industrial wages are only a fraction of those paid in Michigan.

Here is a table of hour rates for Germany workmen compared with average rates for American workmen:

General building labor — German 22.5c; American 95c.

Skilled metal worker — German 22.2c; American 65-95c.

Paper processing, skilled, male—German 23.2c; American 62c.

General steel labor — German 13.9c; American 48c.

Approximately 10 per cent of the German worker's pay is deducted at the source for insurance paymeats—unemployment and old age pension. Wage and poll taxes exact another 3.5 per cent. So-called "voluntary" contributions for the labor front and winter relief fund amount to 8 or 9 per cent.

Germany workers and white collar employees therefore receive net wages and salaries averaging only 77.4 to 81.5 per cent of their gross earnings, according to competent authorities.

It is a costly price to pay for loss of personal liberty and freedom and for lowered living conditions.

Here in Michigan, blessed generously by nature and molded by man into a mighty industrial empire, we can be truly thankful.

At this moment when the future seems uncertain and discouraging, thank God that you live in the U.S.A.

Before you go to bed tonight, get down on your knees and thank God that you live in Michigan — first among all states in industrial hourly pay, first in recreational income, eighth in per capita income and high up in the column for per capita retail sales — a state whose technological achievement makes it stand out this June, 1940, as "better than average" on the economic map of the world's greatest democracy.

Color Comic Book Proves A Sensational Success

Seldom has a newspaper feature been acclaimed such an outstanding success with readers as the 16-page Color Comic Book which comes FREE with the Sunday Detroit News. If you did not get a copy last Sunday, watch for this exciting adventure-book next Sunday. It contains three complete stories in picture form, the thrilling adventures of The Spirit, The Mystic and Lady Luck.

AT THE MOVIES

Laurence Olivier Scores Triumph in Leading Role of Selznick's "Rebecca"

An exciting event in the history of motion pictures will take place June 8-10 at the Palace Theatre where David O. Selznick's production of "Rebecca," based on the best selling Daphne du Maurier novel, was unreeled in all its moving brilliance and dramatic impact. Directed by the brilliant and gifted Alfred Hitchcock, "Rebecca" is one of the most exciting and suspenseful pictures to reach the screen this season.

Heading the cast are Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine, who play the starring roles, while in their support are Judith Anderson, C. Aubrey Smith, George Sanders, Nigel Bruce, Florence Bates and Gladys Cooper.

Great Kipling Novel Becomes Masterful Motion Picture Film

The motion picture treatment of Rudyard Kipling's greatest novel, "The Light That Failed," which comes June 11-12 to the Palace Theatre, is an unqualified success.

With Ronald Colman in the starring role, supported by Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus, Dudley Digges, and over four hundred others, it is painted on heroic canvas, has plenty of thrills and reaches dramatic heights which have been equalled seldom in motion pictures.

Raft and Bennett Superb in Dramatic Hit!

The average actress in a modern picture is in much the same situation as Joan Bennett, co-starred with George Raft in Walter Wanger's "The House Across the Bay," which comes June 13-14 to the Palace Theatre. Miss Bennett, for instance, not only acts in the film, both comedy and dramatic scenes, but also sings and dances—and must accomplish the latter with the ability of a professional because that is expected today of a movie star.

"Free, Blonde and 21"

They share their stockings, lipstick and frocks—but not their men.

It's all part of the code of the exciting new lovelies at the Sherrington, swank metropolitan hotel for women, whose thrilling adventures come to the screen of the Palace Theatre on June 13-14 in the new 20th Century-Fox film, "Free, Blonde and 21."

Lynn Bari, Mary Beth Hughes, Joan Davis, Henry Wilcoxon, Robert Lowery, Alan Baxter, Katharine Aldridge, Helen Ericson and Chick Chandler are featured in "Free, Blonde and 21."

Ricardo Cortez directed and Sol M. Wurtzel was executive producer.

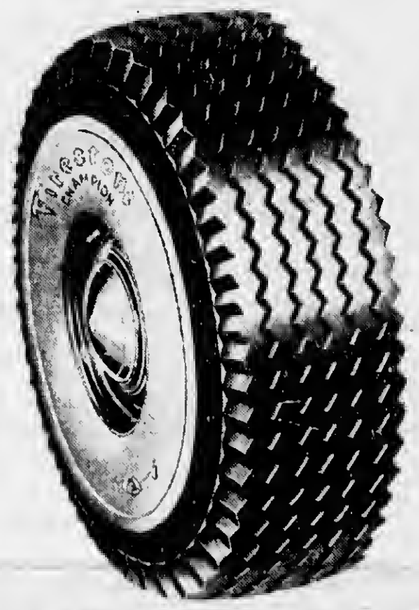
What the Indianapolis Speedway Means to Safety on the Highway



Drive 180 miles an hour? Of course you don't! Take curves at 110? Certainly not! But motors, brakes, axles and tires that withstand such terrific strains on the SPEEDWAY give you super-safety on the HIGHWAY. Discoveries made here have saved thousands of lives — perhaps even yours! That's the real reason for the Indianapolis Speedway.

Just think! 500 miles here is equal to 50,000 miles of ordinary driving. Tire failure may cost a life! But these drivers KNOW tire construction. That's why all the winners for 20 consecutive years have used Firestone Tires.

The same patented construction features used in these tires are built into Firestone Champion Tires for your car. The safety-Lock Gum-Dipped cord body is bonded inseparably to the tread. It gives greater protection against blowouts than any other tire I know. The silent Gear-Grip tread has 3,456 sharp-edged angles for greater protection against skidding and gives much longer non-skid mileage.

For greater safety and economy I use Firestone Champion Tires. You can get them on your new car—or put a set on your present car at no extra cost!

within a few feet of the little fellow before seeing it. Probably most impressive was the realization through actual encounter, of nature's measures for protection of such animals. After watching the fawn for perhaps 15 minutes, the only perceptible movement was the tip of its little black nose. Had also read that a fawn deer left no scent and had it proven to my satisfaction. We had a dog with us, one which unless restrained, would chase deer. The dog approached the fawn as close as ourselves, did not see it, nor was aware of its presence. Normally the dog would smell a deer for hundreds of feet. The lack of scent is probably nature's protection against dogs and predator animals until the fawns reach an age when they are fleet afoot. Otherwise the day provided 15 trout between the pardner and myself, about a hundred frogs and a million mosquito bites. Boy, are the "huzzers" thick!

Fishin' news kinda dropped off after Thursday's Memorial holiday, maybe because of the hot weather. Charlie Heise and Maurie Dixon knocked off three nice mackinaws in Lake Michigan again and about every boat was towing one or more out in Lake Charlevoix. Heard about four more were caught Sunday. Bill Bellinger took one in about water off Bell's Bay in Lake Michigan, one landed and one (almost) landed by Mrs. Fitch (Margaret) Tooley, and one brought into Ironton. Probably were more, but fishermen aren't such hot reporters, or else they're keeping their catches a secret. There is a whole lot of satisfaction in the fact that more lake fish have been taken so far this summer than a year ago by a wide margin.

It's a right smart looking water tower we now have with its shiny new coat of silver paint. And the word "Charlevoix" painted on the side in big black letters ought to let everybody know where they (or we) are at.

Haven't announced anything in a long time that gave me more genuine pleasure than this week's item on "Bill" Flynn taking over the Charlevoix Beach Hotel. Looking over Bill's past record, we can be assured this valuable property—so important as a summer resort asset—is in good hands.

They tell me Glenn See was outsmarted by a duck! He had been making daily visits to a mallard nest nearby for pictures and, with 10 little ones finally hatched and the prospect of a photo at hand, found the duck and little ones vanished on his last trip Tuesday morning.

We darn near lost Alderman Charles Bellinger and Police Chief Clarence Heise by accident Wednesday morning. As I understand the incident, they were installing one of those gadgets supposed to gas a burglar at Bellinger's jewelry store, when the darn thing burst and released the gas right into their faces. It is said the boys were nearly overcome, but knowing the Police Chief as I do, I'm surprised a little tear gas would bother him at all.

As I hurry along to close this column just before press time I'm reminded that haste sometimes makes waste and is liable to cause such errors as I recently read in an exchange newspaper which went something like this: "The dog came bounding down the path emitting 'whelps' at every jump." Some dog!

ARMSTRONGS RETURN AFTER YEAR'S STAY IN WAR-TORN EUROPE

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Armstrong arrived in Charlevoix Sunday night, after more than a year's absence from the United States. Since early in January, they had been attempting to secure passage back to this country.

Sailing on the liner "Manhattan" in May, 1939, Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong spent last summer in Switzerland, Germany, and Hungary, then went to Dublin, Ireland, where, in Rotunda Hospital, Dr. Armstrong began studies and clinical work which took them to Belfast, Ireland, in which city they were at the time the war began in September; to Glasgow and Edinboro in Scotland, and to London, then back to Lausanne, Switzerland, for the winter. Much of his work was done at Nestle Hospital in Lausanne. Upon completion of these studies early in May, the Armstrongs took the last international train out of Switzerland into Italy, and after ten days' tour of Venice, Florence, and Rome, sailed from Genoa on May 19, once more aboard the "Manhattan." Most of the eleven hundred passengers on the ship were refugees, bound for America. At Gibraltar, the liner was held up at the British contraband station for inspection.

Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong will return soon to their home in Rockford, Ill.

AUTO PLATES FOR 1941 SELECTED AFTER TESTS

Color White on Maroon, and Same Size as Last Year Chosen

Michigan's 1941 automobile license plate, first in the country to be designed according to the findings of science, will sport a maroon and white color combination, and will be of the same size as this year's plate.

This decision was reached by law-enforcement officers of the state, meeting with Secretary of State H. F. Kelley at the General Motors proving grounds near Milford. It was based on exhaustive tests made on the proving grounds by automotive experts, assisted by state police and representatives of the Department of State.

For the full-year plate, white letters will be used on a maroon background. For the half-year edition, the combination will be reversed—maroon letters on a white background.

If the average person has the same feeling towards Mussolini's involvement of Italy into the present European struggle as I do, they'll appreciate the same as I did a cartoon which showed Il Duce standing atop a fence with a sword in his hand about to jump off and captioned as follows: "Just as soon as Hitler gets 'em down, I'll jump in and stab 'em in the back!" Most of us were brought up to believe only a coward picks on the fallen.

An estimated crowd of 2000 persons attended the summer season's first free movie sponsored by Central Lake merchants last Thursday evening at Central Lake. That's showing good will to a lot of people at one time!

More money for bullets; less for books.

That, in a nutshell, may be the 1941 legislative picture for Michigan, and pressure group lobbyists today are giving it serious thought.

While the next state administration will still be wrestling with a large deficit, currently estimated at $30,000,000, there will be no letup by numerous pressure groups in their effort to obtain more state funds.

Ever since the highway people were successful in putting over a constitutional amendment to curb juggling of highway revenues, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott and public school teachers have been looking enviously at the state treasury.

The four tourist associations have been hopeful, too, that the legislature

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

Building Individual Credit Standing

CREDIT standing is a person's financial reputation. In determining this credit standing as a basis for a loan a bank considers these factors:

Has he a good job?
Has he held it for some time?
Does it seem permanent?
Has he been able to keep continuously employed?
Is he industrious?
Does he take advantage of opportunities?
Does he seem stable, or is he constantly switching from one job to another?
Has he a steady income?
Is he thrifty?
Is he building up a reserve in the form of savings, life insurance, etc.?
Is he honest, trustworthy, reliable?
Does he pay his debts and obligations promptly?
Is he always in debt?
Does he overdraw his bank account?
Does he study to improve himself in his work?
Is he looking forward and planning for the future?

A study of these factors will indicate the course you should follow to strengthen your personal credit standing. Always keep this question in mind, "Will the bank be justified – on the basis of my record – in entrusting its depositors' funds to me?".

June Beetles Buzz Over State

June beetles, the adult of the white grub, are busy at jobs that spell consternation in Michigan.

The pests are laying eggs in grass sod, insuring a crop of white grubs that by 1942 will be eating up bluegrass roots in great style.

Lawn treatment now will be good insurance against further damage in the future. The treatment for old lawns is to make an application of 2½ pounds of lead arsenate to 1,000 square feet, repeating this next fall and in the spring of 1941.

For new lawns, an application of 10 pounds of arsenate of lead will provide protection for the next four to five years.

On shade trees where there is apt to be too much defoliation, an arsenate of lead spray is suggested.

T. A. Merrill, Specialist in Horticulture, to Meet With Fruit Growers on June 20

We are glad to announce that T. A. Merrill, specialist in horticulture, will spend Thursday, June 20th, in this county and will meet with all fruit growers in the East Jordan community room at two o'clock that afternoon.

Right now fruit growers are concerned with their spraying operations, with the types of materials to use, and the correct time for greatest control. Recently there has been made available a good many different types of spraying materials. Some of them are so new that our experiment station has had insufficient time to try them out properly. With our cherry leaf spot apt to be serious again, it would seem that every fruit grower should spend an hour or so Thursday afternoon, June 20th, to discuss the spraying program which usually means profit or loss in the business.

HERE THEY ARE

Here's how the new proposed increases in income taxation for national defense would affect groups earning up to $4,000 a year.

In the following unofficial tables it is assumed, for simplicity, that total income is net income. The figures also allow the present 10 per cent earned income credit deduction but would be subject to possible change on the basis of new normal or surtax rates. The new tax includes the proposed 10 per cent super tax already agreed upon for all brackets.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"God the Preserver of Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 16.

The Golden Text (Psalms 18:2) is: "The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 91:1): "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 15): "The Father in secret is unseen to the physical senses; but He knows all things and rewards according to motives, not according to speech."

Dipping After Shearing

There's no economy in dipping sheep and lambs immediately after shearing the ewe mothers, explains E. L. Benton, animal husbandry specialist in extension service at Michigan State College. Without sufficient wool, the dip solution cannot be retained sufficiently. Result, says Benton, is that the animals become re-infested and the lambs as well. By letting the new wool grow for a time before dipping, the effectiveness of the dip continues for several weeks. A million ewes in Michigan are involved in this problem.

Seventeen species of snakes and one lizard, the blue-tailed skink, are residents in Michigan.

HENRY DEAR IS EATING CROW since I got him a MILE-DIAL...FREE

"Just like a man—with his superior air—he'd keep telling me any gasoline is the same as any other. But I argued there couldn't be much to lose, as long as they give you the Conoco Mile-Dial perfectly free.

"They certainly wouldn't tease you to take a thing that strictly counts up the mileage from their own gasoline, unless they're awfully sure of themselves. So I steered to the first Conoco station and in half a second the Mile-Dial was on the dash. Looks smart. Free, too.

"The total mileage on your speedometer goes on the Mile-Dial, so you know the start of your test. And you know the amount of your gasoline, by starting with just a full tank of Bronz-z-z. Then going along buying your 10 gallons more, or maybe 8, or 15 let's say, your Mile-Dial keeps count.

"Let's look. I'm at 53 gallons. And... wait a second... it's 928 miles since starting this test of Conoco Bronz-z-z. Now watch this flip of the Mile-Dial. There! —it says better than 17½ miles from a gallon of Bronz-z-z, with a car this big. And do I hear any pooh-pooh?

"Even Henry won't say it's just luck any more, after all the different driving tests he's kept doing with this Mile-Dial... Luck?... It's just bad luck using mixed breeds of gasoline when Conoco Bronz-z-z is game to let you dial its true mileage. A smaller car like yours might even beat 17½.

"If you're a consumer that wants 36 inches in a yard, and real facts on everything, you certainly want the true count of mileage from your open-face Conoco Mile-Dial..."

TWO ESCAPED INJURY WHEN BOAT EXPLODED

"Bud" Bergmann, David Howard Jr. in Accident Saturday Afternoon

Robert "Bud" Bergmann and his cousin, Dave Howard Jr., of Muskegon, were rescued Saturday afternoon by coast guardsmen when their trolling boat exploded and burned in Lake Michigan mid-way between North and South Points.

That the young men showed remarkable coolness is indicated by the fact they equipped themselves, as well as the Bergmann family dog with life preservers, and tied their fishing tackle to preservers before being forced to abandon the boat by the intense heat. The explosion threw the engine hatch cover 30 feet into the air and the flames following soon enveloped the entire craft.

They had been in the water about 10 minutes when coast guardsmen reached the scene. The boat, towed to shore, was burned to the water's edge. The accident occurred around 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

For Lands' Sake!!!

That good buy of the little Cody house at 604 Park Avenue is gone—sold it Tuesday! I'm afraid several people are going to be disappointed about this.

Have another exceptional location for sale — 223 Clinton Street. A most attractive price. If you buy this place at once the owner will paint it any color you want, otherwise it will be painted anyway. This is a good one to ask me about.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Milk and Vitamin A

With dairy herds returning to fresh pasture, the Vitamin A content of a quart of commercial milk will be virtually double that found in the same volume of milk during the winter season, when cows are on dry feed.

Yet, according to Wisconsin scientists who have recently studied the problem, the average of 1,906 units of the vitamin found in a quart of milk between June nnd October represents not quite half that required by the growing child. Mothers are therefore advised to supplement the daily milk rution with cod-liver oil in winter, exposure to sunlight in summer and with an abundance of leafy vegetables throughout the year.

The importance of including between 3,000 and 4,000 units of Vitamin A in the daily diet of the child cannot be exaggerated. It constitutes a first line of defense against infection by protecting the mucous membrunes and it fosters sturdy development of the body. Adults may not require as great a daily dosage as children but if the Vitamin A intake falls below the minimal level, serious defects of vision as well as disorders of the skin may result.

The first clinical symptom of Vitamin A deficiency is usually "nyctalopin" or night blindness. Severe deficiency is manifested by "xerophthulmia", or atrophy of the delicate membrane which lines the eyes and covers the eyeball in front. This is easily recognized by the peculiarly dry, lustreless appearance of the eyeball. A similar atrophy, neeting the layers of the skin is called "hyperkeratosis."

The average mother may not immediately perceive the relationship of milk, leafy vegetables and fish liver oil as sources of vitamin A. Leafy vegetables, even though green to the eye, produce a yellow-red pigment known as carotene. The body converts this into Vitamin A. But, similarly, having made the conversion, is able to infuse the vitamin into its milk. Certain fish, like the cod, halibut and even the shark, more than other species are able to store up their Vitamin A in the liver.

The cow derives its raw material, carotene, from the grass on which it feeds while the fish obtain their supply from aquatic and other plant life or, less directly, by consuming small species which do feed on vegetable matter.

It was found by the investigators thnt Guernsey milk contains about one per cent more fat than average market milk and slightly less than the certified milk samples analyzed in Wisconsin. The actual fat content of milk is something of an indicator of both vitamin A and D content since both are soluble in fat.

QUIZ QUESTIONS USED BY M. S. C.

This is the first of a series of questions and answers, typical of those being used throughout Michigan in agricultural meetings conducted by those in the extension service of Michigan State College.

1. A man has five acres of potatoes. Which would you recommend as spray material to be used for chewing insects: arsenate of lead, Paris green, calcium arsenate or nicotine sulphate?

2. Cattle lice go to a cow's nose every day to get a drink. True or false?

3. If chickens roost where cows are stabled the cattle cannot catch lice from them. True or false?

4. Plowing alfalfa just before planting beans prevents baldheaded plants. True or false?

5. The safest satisfactory material for fumigating grain for weevils in Michigan is the propalene-dichloride mixture. True or false?

6. For cutworms, we suggest poison bran bait, should it be used morning, noon or night?

Answers, as prepared by C. B. Dibble, extension specialist in insect control at Michigan State College:

1. Calcium arsenate.

2. False, although sometimes the sucking blue lice collect around an animal's nose as well as other places where the hair is short.

3. True. Chicken lice and cattle lice are different types.

4. False. Plowing at this time probably will nggravnte the maggot situation.

5. True. Results are satisfactory without danger from explosion or fire.

6. Night, or rather, early evening.

ART BEATS LUCK AT JELLY TIME

At jelly-making time, women used to cross their fingers and hope they would have good luck. Today home economics authorities at Michigan State College explain that there are definite rules to follow for each step in the jelly-making process.

Select good quality fruit that is fresh and firm. A mixture of ripe and slightly underripe fruit is usually best. Overripe fruits, especially raspberries and blackberries, are often low in acid. But they will make jelly if one tablespoon of strained lemon juice is added to each cup of fruit juice.

To know when the sirup forms jelly is important in cooking it the right length of time. The jelly test most commonly used is called "sheeting off." To make the test, dip a large spoon into the boiling sirup and lift the spoon so that the sirup runs off the side. Stop cooking when the sirup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two distinct lines of drops which "sheet" together.

If the jelly is not cooked long enough, it will be soft and runny. And if it is cooked beyond the point of jelly formation, it will become a gummy mass.

Sterilized jars, a perfect paraffin seal, nnd a cool and dry storage spnce will keep the jelly from molding or fermenting.

Michigan Fortunate

A situation in a land of "milk and honey", experienced by residents of Michigan is a fortunate one. Michigan is nble to grow so mnny of its own products, the following estimate is not so typical within this state as it is nationnlly. Statisticians say the nverage railwny haul of fresh fruits und vegetables to supply consumers is about 1,400 miles. The average haul of all commodities by rail is 350 miles.

PERIOD ENDING JUNE HAS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Report 542 Fires Burned Over 11,263 Acres in Michigan

The first seven weeks of the 1940 forest fire season, ended early in June, had more fires and burned more nereage than any comparable season since 1934.

To date this year 512 fires burned over 11,263 acres. Last year 513 fires burned over 43,213 acres by this date, but since most of this loss was caused by three large incendiary fires set in Montmorency county, the period is scarcely comparable.

In earlier years, the forest fire losses to the same date were: 1938, 334 fires, 3,691 acres burned; 1937, 411 fires, 10,652 acres burned; 1936, 501 fires, 2,823 acres burned; 1935, 966 fires, 9,856 acres burned; 1934, 1,193 fires, 15,838 acres burned; 1933, 1,094 fires, 19,280 acres burned; 1932, 1,166 fires, 21,097 acres burned.

While the fire huzard has decreased with the "greening up" of vegetation, greater numbers of visitors and vacationists in the woods increase the likelihood of fires starting.

Notice the Michigan department of agriculture reports production and consumption of soft drinks had increased one hundred per cent in Michigan during the past five years, and will venture that the consumption went up another hundred in the heat of Monday and Tuesday.

"The Grapes of Wrath" Brings Fearless Novel to Screen

Most important screen news of the year is the announcement that Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Grapes of Wrath" will be presented by 20th Century-Fox at the Palace Theatre on June 15, 16, 17.

Henry Fonda, whose portrayals of humble, real people have won him plaudits in the past, stepped naturally into the shoes of dogged, fighting Tom Joad. That unconquerable woman of the soil, Ma Joad, who battled to hold her homeless family together, was found in the person of Jane Darwell. Lanky, tall John Carradine became Casy, the courageous, crusading preacher, Grampa, that tough, cantankerous old man, took form in Charley Grapewin. Dorris Bowdon, the Louisiana State University co-ed, who was discovered only two years ago by a 20th Century-Fox scout, won the role which every young actress in Hollywood coveted, that of Rosasharn.

Russell Simpson became Pa Joad. O. Z. Whitehead, a protege of Katharine Hepburn, was brought on from New York to play the part of Al, John Qualen became Muley, while Eddie Quillan was given the role of Connie, Rosasharn's deserting husband. Grandma, the acidulous, carping old woman, who won for the Joads entry into what appeared to be a promised land, came to life in the person of Zeffie Tilbury, long noted in Hollywood for her many excellent characterizations.

Jane Withers and Gene Autry in "Shooting High"

With loud "Yippees!" ringing in the air, Jane Withers and Gene Autry gallop into town in "Shooting High," the colorful action-romance of the west, which 20th Century-Fox will bring to the Palace Theatre on June 18-19.

In this gay film Hollywood's favorite comedienne and the screen's No. 1 Cowboy Star ride like demons and shoot like sixty to corral a desperate band of bank-robbers, break up a family feud, arrange a love match for Gene and sing as only they can.

'Over The Moon' Ranks as Gay Color Romance with Top Starring Cast

First showing of Alexander Korda's comedy romance, "Over The Moon," at the Palace Theatre, on June 18-19, provides motion picture fans with one of the brightest and liveliest screen productions of the new season. Filmed beautifully in technicolor, the new picture stars Merle Oberon in one of her finest roles to date in a story that is packed with thrills and excitement, with high comedy and stirring drama, with crisp dialogue and laugh-filled episodes.

That "Kildare" Hospital Gets Larger and Larger

Recreating a great hospital for a motion picture and reproducing doctors in the persons of actors is almost as much of a task as originating the real thing. So declare the technicians and scientists who drop their real-life vocations to help present them on the screen in the "Dr. Kildare" medical-detective pictures, the fourth of which, "Dr. Kildare's Strange Case," opens June 20 at the Palace Theatre.

Vegetables in Pre-School Children's Diet

The consumption of vegetables in the United States has trebled during the last 10 years and this remarkable revision of the national dietary is reflected in the food habits of the pre-school child. A survey of the Iowa State College shows that the child between three and five years of age is receiving a wide variety of vegetables from the family table, and further studies reveal several interesting things about the likes and dislikes of children in this respect. It is still an unsettled question as to the age when a child can best utilize such a variety of foods, but the modern mother begins the use of strained vegetables of several kinds at six months, and when the teeth are cut the child is taking banana and a surprisingly large list of vegetables with apparent relish.

For instance, in 1913, mothers were advised not to give children between the ages of three and seven years such things as carrots, parsnips, squash, tomatoes, turnips, cabbage, cauliflower and celery. Most of these are now common foods in the child's diet and mothers pride themselves both upon the variety of vegetables used and the early age at which they are given.

The survey showed that between three and five years, 42 children were taking more than two of a list of 17 vegetables per day not including potatoes. Lettuce, carrots, and tomatoes were most commonly used, with peas and snap beans next.

Groups of representative nursery school children were selected and their diet studied to determine what contribution vegetables make to the diet, especially in minerals. It was found that vegetables constituted one-seventh of the total mass of food, milk three-sevenths, and all other foods three-sevenths. The results emphasized the value of combining vegetables with milk because milk furnished only 10 per cent of the iron, while vegetables provided 17 per cent of this important element. On the other hand, milk gave the child 65 per cent of his calcium while the vegetables furnished only six per cent.

The vegetables furnished 10 per cent of the total fuel for these children and they served as means of adding more butter and cream to the diet. Likewise, the vegetables provided most of the vitamin needs, especially that which protects the child against scurvy. This disease may easily occur in children who do not receive vegetables at an early age, and besides, these foods supplement the milk and provide extra minerals for the child's future growth. The child during the preschool age must have milk, but a liberal quantity of vegetables also is needed, and these two food groups combine to furnish energy, minerals and vitamins.

Eight species of fish make up 97 per cent of the total take of Great Lakes commercial fishermen.

will smile upon them next year with an increase in the tourist advertising appropriation. Nearby states are competing vigorously for Michigan's tourist business, rated in 1939 at $325,000,000. Last year the tourist managers staged a luncheon at Lansing to stress the need for more state aid.

County road commissions through their Lansing representative, Dr. Louis Webber, maintain that they are under-nourished financially and that they merit a better proportion of the tax dollar. A legislative drive will be made in 1941 to reach this objective, perhaps at the cost of highway department funds.

Federal Taxes

Merit of these causes is one thing. Chance of getting more money is something else.

The Washington rush to re-arm ourselves at a staggering cost of new taxes is an unknown factor in the 1941 legislative situation.

Here is how one legislative observer put it:

"This year's national rearmament bill has reached approximately five billion dollars and it is expected to hit the ten billion mark by 1942 and thereafter. These defense expenditures cannot be financed solely out of additional treasury deficit which is now at the federal limit of 45 billion dollars. To do so would merely invite ruinous inflation. The only alternative is more federal taxes, such as a 2 per cent manufacturers' sales tax as recommended by Senator Prentiss Brown, a member of the senate finance committee, or broadening of the federal income tax.

"You recall that President Roosevelt last week called in Harold Smith, national budget director, to outline plans for a reduction in other federal expenditures.

"We are resigned to the prospect of additional taxes from Washington. The national defense crisis has changed the rules overnight. Washington merely beat us to the tax punch. The state legislature isn't going to add more burdens on Michigan taxpayers just after Congress gets through piling 'em sky high."

State Aid Trend

Since the legislature turned to the state sales tax and abolished the state property tax, local government has looked increasingly to Lansing for solution of financial problems.

In two years, from the fiscal 1936-37 to 1938-39 years, state aid to local governments has jumped approximately $35,000,000—a sum greater than the current state deficit.

To give you an idea of how Michigan has been spending money—and all for good and worthy causes, we hasten to add—here is how the $124,037,881 total of state aid in 1938-39 was expended:

Education	$45,726,894
Relief	38,153,015
Roads	30,006,941
Other grants	10,151,031

To attempt an increase of these expenditures would be political dynamite, so the argument goes, in the face of new blitzkrieg army and navy levies which are expected to affect every pocketbook directly or indirectly. The taxpayer is likely to foot the military bill almost cheerfully, but he can be counted on balking loudly if local politicos even hint about upping state spending.

To phrase it bluntly—democracy can't fight dictatorship now with books; it will have to rely on bullets and lots of them.

Defense Problems

Europe's lessons in Hitler-style military tactics, however, may influence us to make concessions on state expenditures if they are linked directly to national defense needs.

Take for example, express highways.

Since modern warfare is largely dependent upon motorized equipment, trucks and tanks, to transport men and guns not only to the battle front but into enemy ranks at lightning speed, military roads are of paramount importance.

It may seem far-fetched at the moment, but even Winston Churchill hinted the other day that the British Empire may move its capital to Canada in the event of defeat on the continent and on the English isles. Instead of the Yanks going overseas this time to fight a war, the war may move right into our front yard—Canada!

Across the Canadian border at Detroit is Fort Wayne; at Sault Ste. Marie is Fort Brady. Military roads to Sault Ste. Marie and Detroit may be considered vital. In the Van Wagoner program for highway spending in the next ten years are Detroit-to-Toledo and Detroit-to-Chicago military roads at a total cost of $177,720,000.

Also imagine trying to ferry over thousands of men and trucks at the Straits of Mackinac, and you will get a faint idea of possible transportation complications.

The European war will have a far-reaching effect on Michigan in many ways other than payrolls. These are a few possibilities which are receiving serious thought at Lansing today.

inaw trout Willis Cross caught and Dan Clothier is having mounted. They found a 24-inch Sturgeon and two other fish about 18 inches long in its stomach when it was opened in preparation for mounting.

Thanks for the sunshine Tuesday! After two solid days of fog, sometimes the thickest I've ever seen, a change was very welcome. It was sure "soupy" Monday night. Rolled in off the lake like a blanket, so darn thick you couldn't see across the street.

Gosh, the fishin' news is scarce this week. Four steelhead taken from Lake Charlevoix last Saturday is all I could dig out of the boys. A Lake Charlevoix mackinaw trout weighing 16¾ pounds, caught by Sherman Wildey, of Grand Haven, was displayed Friday at Wool Bros. Otherwise, guess the mackinaw fishermen went empty-handed. Hope to be able to report some better steelhead news right quick. Trollers hooked a lot of smallmouth bass in Lake Charlevoix, but seeings how the season isn't open until June 25th, they all put them back—we hope.

New petunia beds on the State street boulevards should prove very attractive. Horseshoe shaped beds have been made and planted on both ends of each boulevard.

Observation has shown that there are many able citizens in Charlevoix willing to take the lead and promote worthwhile ventures, but Charlevoix is weak in the unwillingness of its people to help those who lead. Anyone can help our town immeasurably by volunteering to help in any way possible each time some worthwhile venture is undertaken. Close contact with many boosters has shown they hesitate to start anything—because they know such leadership will mean all the work for themselves with little help and only criticism coming from those who remain on the sidelines. What we need is not more leaders, but better followers.

Thanks to Cong. Fred Bradley, and congratulations to Don Herrick for their efforts in obtaining a $3,100 claim for Charlevoix for damage to the lower water main during dredging operations last summer. Charlevoix has a big investment in that water main and in the past when it was damaged had to foot the bill. Nice work!

State highway department engineers who will have charge of the relocation and re-surfacing of M-66 between East Jordan and Charlevoix are establishing residence here preparatory to start of actual work, it is supposed. While we have not observed a contract award on this project as yet, a bulletin released this week by the highway department included the project in the federal aid program for 1940, on which jobs totaling $5,711,046 are under contract and a remainder aggregating $5,556,688 will be let.

DR. R. B. ARMSTRONG JR. SPEAKS BEFORE KIWANIS

Interesting Talk on European Travels Given Tuesday Night

Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong, Jr., was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, at the Hotel Charlevoix Tuesday evening.

Commencing with his travels thru Germany in July of last year, the speaker gave a graphic description of that country before the outbreak of war. He told of the singing, laughing crowds in the restaurants and public places, the large number of soldiers, "on vacation."

The club members were taken on a trip to Ireland and England, across France to Switzerland, and thence to Italy, where he and Mrs. Armstrong embarked for home. Vivid, indeed, was the picture of the blackouts in Ireland, England, and France. The stiff fines imposed upon anyone who allowed light to escape from windows at night.

Mrs. Armstrong exhibited numerous pictures taken during their trip, and explained the difficulties attendant upon securing censorship of the pictures, in order that they might be taken from the country.

MICHIGAN BASS SEASON OPENS TUESDAY

ALL INLAND WATERS ARE OPEN ON JUNE 25TH

Limit on Bass Raised to Ten From Lake Michigan and Connecting Waters This Year

Next Tuesday is that day which is awaited so eagerly every year by considerably more than a half million Michigan fishermea — the day on which the black bass, bluegill and sunfish season opens.

And this season, unless all present indicntions are upset, Michigan fishermen will be joined by a record number of outstaters.

June 25 is marked hy the lifting of restrictions on fishing on all inland waters of the state not now open to fishing and it will be legal to take all species of fish except grayling and sturgeon.

The fish division of the eonservation department reports that an unusual number of inquiries concerning places to fish and kinds of fishing in Michigan has been received to date from outside the state. Residents of eastern stntes, particularly, are displaying increased interest in what Michigan has to offer the fisherman.

More than eight hundred thousand fishing licenses may be sold in Michigan this year. Resident fishermen, for the first time, are buying $1 licenses which entitle holders and wives to fish for all legal species, including trout. Of the $1 license fee, 10 cents is earmarked for acquisition of lands which provide public access to fishing waters, for research and lake and strenm improvement. Non-resident anglers pay $2 for licenses good for one year, $1 for special 10-day licenses. In the case of non-resident fishermen, wives may obtain licenses upon payment of a 50-cent fee.

Michigan expects the biggest tourist business of record this season and the quality and type of fishing offered in the state is primarily responsible for attracting a large proportion of visitors.

As usual, the lowly bluegill will be the fish which lures most fishermen to Michigan's inland lakes.

SALARIES CITY OFFICIALS SET

ANNUAL ORDINANCE ADOPTED MONDAY NIGHT

Ordinance Regulating Production, Handling and Sale of Milk Is Passed by Council

Adoption of an ordinance fixing salaries of certain elective and appointive city officials, a resolution setting compensation of city employes, and an ordinance regulating the manufacture, handling and sale of milk, comprised major items of business disposed of by the city council Monday night.

Salaries of elective officials were left unchanged from last year. Among the appointive officers, the police chief was granted an increase of $10 per month, or a yearly salary of $1260, and the street commissioner an increase of $6.67 per month, or a yearly salary of $1380. Salary of the appointive deputy city clerk was set at $120 a year, and that of the accountant at $960 per year. Formerly combined, these two offices drew a salary of $1200 yearly.

Several employes of the electric light department were granted wage increases. The aggregate raise amounted to $106.67 per month, which averaged $5 monthly for those given increases. Full text of the ordinance and resolution appears on page 8 of this issue.

The council adopted the standard milk ordinance of the United States Public Health Service, which represents an effort to produce and maintain the safest possible milk supply. Grade A milk is specifically described and defined, and only this grade is allowed routinely. The ordinance requires anyone wishing to sell milk to obtain a permit, and controls milk which is sold by one dairyman to another for pasteurization.

It is believed vacationists will show a preference for those localities where safe milk is provided, and the standard ordinance is known throughout the country to maintain this safe supply. Full text of the ordinance is contained on pages 5 and 6 of this issue.

He came to the States from his birthplace, Quaker Hill, Whitchurch, Ontario, where he was born October 10, 1858, when a young man of 20, walking the corduroy trail from Petoskey when the stage coach was too crowded to accommodate his baggage. MACKINAW REARING IS PROGRESSING NICELY

Fine Growth of Healthy Fish Reported from Federal Hatchery

If rapidity of growth and healthful condition may be taken as an indication, the propagation of mackinaw fry to fingerling stage at the federal fish hatchery will be a successful project.

Nearly a million lake trout transferred to the hatchery as fry now average two inches in length. The growth up to the present time is greater than when those raised last year were released in July.

Lige Geer, hatchery foreman, stated Sunday that an early planting of several thousand will likely be made to eliminate over-crowding in the rearing troughs.

A large consignment of Pacific coast steelhead spawn sent upon request of the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club is now in the process of hatching.

Last Friday's nationnl observance of Flag Day was with impressed significance of the Americnn Flag. In a chaotic world, torn by strife and bloodshed, our Flag stood out as the emblem of freedom in a land of opportuniy. As never before, Americans reaffirmed their loyalty and allegiance to their country and the ideals for which it stands.

Two reports of deer venturing within the city limits provided unusual news this week. Mrs. Don Clothier saw two come from the woods behind Hallett Hotel, Monday morning. The animals crossed Belvedere avenue heading in a direction toward Round lake and were not seen after entering the Logan Thomson property. Charles Curtis saw a large doe cross the first hole of the Charlevoix Golf Club, Tuesday morning. It romped down the 14th hole, crossed US-31 and disappeared in the direction of the Waller farm.

The shadow of labor discord has appeared again in Michigan.

Coming at a crucial time when the United States government is leaning havily upon our industrinl plnnts for nrmament, a threat nt production output could easily become a national affair.

The situation is something like this:

(1) The C.I.O. is fearful that industrialists may seize upon the preparedness issue as a pretext to deay them the "right" of higher wages—and the "right" to strike for them.

(2) Industrialists recall the activity of communists in the 1937 sit-down strike, and they insist thnt unions shall give a five-dny notice of strike only as a last resort in nego-

Advice From an Expert

DON ECONOMY, 16, a pupil at the Mackenzie High School, Detroit, is one of the enthusiastic Michigan boys who has joined the Ford Good Drivers League and entered the League's $30,000 prize contest for championship high-school age drivers. Out to win one of the 48 free trips to the New York World's Fair and a chance for a university scholarship, Don seeks expert advice from Captain Walter Braznell of American Airlines, Inc. While Stewardess Gertrude Ackerman looks on, Captain Braznell and Don review the book on skilled driving which every boy receives free on joining the League. "Don't over-control . . . . skilled drivers are graceful drivers," says the book and Captain Braznell points out that this has long been a basic rule of safety in flying. Membership in the League is open to all boys between the ages of 14 and 18. There are no dues or fees and application blanks may be secured at any Ford dealers or by writing directly to the Ford Good Drivers League at Dearborn.

AT THE MOVIES

Faye, Ameche, Fonda Seen in "Lillian Russell"

Blonde and lovely Alice Faye portrays the first and greatest of America's glamor girls in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Lillian Russell," the 20th Century-Fox film which comes June 23-24 to the Palace Theatre, and features Don Ameche and Henry Fonda with her.

The colorful life and loves of the striking American beauty are revived in all their splendor and magnificance in "Lillian Russell," with the sparkling, dashing days of America's most fabulous era as a background.

Don Ameche has the role of Lillian's composer-husband, who struggled to author her greatest stage success. Henry Fonda is cast as Alexander Moore, the new-paperman who fell in love with the gorgeous Lillian when they were both young, but failed to tell her about it.

"The Story of Forty Little Mothers" Next Hit at Palace

Eddie Cantor comes to town June 25-26 on the screen for the first time in two years. The picture is "The Story of Forty Little Mothers," which opens at the Palace Theatre. Cantor, who heretofore was identified with choruses, ensembles, gags, gals and rhythm, changes his technique in this picture and emerges as an actor.

Also lending dignity to the production is the presence of Judith Anderson, Broadway stage star, in the cast. She plays the head of a girls' boarding school where most of Eddie's troubles transpire, and is in effect the heavy of the story.

Charlie Ruggles in Laugh-Mystery

"Opened by Mistake," Paramount's latest comic-melodrama, scheduled for June 25-26 at the Palace Theatre, brings back Charlie Ruggles in his favorite role as a woeful, woozy reporter.

1940's Greatest Romantic Team on Palace Screen

Vivien Leigh and Robert Taylor form the outstanding romantic team of 1940 in "Waterloo Bridge," their new starring film which comes June 27 to the Palace Theatre for an engagement of two days.

In her first American screen appearance since she won the Academy Award for her performance as Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind," Miss Leigh has a no less romantic, but more tender and sympathetic role in the new film as a ballet dancer who falls in love with a dashing young officer she meets on Waterloo Bridge during an air raid.

As the officer, Taylor has one of the finest roles of his career.

CURB CENTIPEDES BY FIXING HOUSES

Centipedes or "hundred-leggers" can prove to be nuisances in a home even though they often are miscalled thousand-leggers and actually have from 15 to 21 pairs of legs.

Home economics and entomology authorities at Michigan State College have collaborated for a brief description of the centipede, what he does and how a home can be rid of the pest.

For pest he is, although actual damage done by the insect is trivial.

Larger species are from 4 to 6 inches long but these normally live outdoors. They feed on insects and small animals and do not injure plants or house furnishings. They do get into homes occasionally and hide in the dark. Ordinarily they do not bite humans unless annoyed. The bite is painful but not dangerous unless a secondary infection follows.

The house centipede thrives in damp basements. He has a softer body about an inch long and has but 15 pairs of legs. He is a speedster, however, and can travel quite fast. His feed mainly consists of cockroaches, flies, moths, spiders.

Control is difficult. Outside varieties can be excluded by tightening up house foundations and removing rubbish from around the outside of the house. Once in the home the remedy seems to be to kill them when they are found. Poison baits, spraying outside foundation walls with creosote and scattering nephthalene flakes along the walls are controls. Bites should be treated with ammonia or baking sode to take the sting from the small wound.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

District Health Department Sanitation Activities

Adequate year round health protection is the constant aim of the District Health Department. To secure this aim routine inspections are made of dairies and milk producing farms, restaurants and other food handling establishments, cabin and trailer camps and schools. In addition a state-wide summer sanitation program is well under way which is designed to inform the traveling public of approved safe water supplies and sanitary toilet facilities. The initial visit consisting of sampling and inspection has been already completed in the district.

Tourists will be informed of approved sanitation both at roadside stops and at cabin and trailer camps by appropriate signs issued by the Michigan Department of Health.

At the present time milk produced for consumption as milk or milk products must be produced from approved sources which are licensed by the Bureau of Dairying, Department of Agriculture, which bureau works in cooperation with the District Health Department. Cities or communities desiring added measures of safety on their milk supplies may obtain these by passing their own local ordinances.

Establishments where foods, beverages or alcoholic drinks are handled, stored, prepared or served receive routine inspections and recommendations are made in accordance with standards designed to afford a maximum of health safety. The proprietor of these establishments is pleased to have his customers show interest in the conditions under which their food is prepared.

If you have a problem regarding the construction or location of a well, safe and sanitary sewage disposal or any other matter affecting your own or your neighbors health, your health department is pleased to help you find the answer.

GOVERNOR DICKINSON TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Announced Candidacy in Prepared Statement Issued Tuesday

Governor Dickinson in a prepared statement Tuesday, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the governorship.

Dickinson, who is 81 years old, said he had been assured by his physician that he was in the "pink of health" and that he had received tens of thousands of communications urging him to become a candidate for a second term. He, as lieutenant governor, acceded to the governorship in March, 1939, on the death of the late Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald.

"If the electors think I am the one to further administer the office, I will willingly continue the task and give every energy that I possess to further the work well," he said.

"In making this statement, I want it strictly understood that there is a statute of limitation of campaign expenses which must be lived up to. I want no issuing of campaign cards, no official headquarters, no requests for votes, no advertising nor circulation of literature, no propaganda other than the record itself shows."

The only other announced candidate for the Republican nomination is State Treasurer Miller Dunckel, 40 years younger than Dickinson. Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner is the likely Democratic opponent for the Republican nominee. It is believed Van Wagoner will lack formidable opposition for the Democratic nomination.

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER CANDIDATE GOVERNOR

Murray D. Van Wagoner Will be 1940 Democratic Color-Bearer

Murray Delos Van Wagoner, Michigan's highway commissioner since 1934, returned to his home city in Jackson, Friday, to announce formally his candidacy for the Democrat nomination for the governorship.

At a luncheon sponsored by the Oakland county Democratic committee Van Wagoner made the announcement which had been expected for several weeks. He may have no opposition in the September primary election, although there were rumors that Theodore I. Fry, former state treasurer, would get into the contest for the gubernatorial nomination at the state convention at Flint.

J. Homogenized milk.—Homogenized milk is milk which has been treated in such manner as to insure break-up of the fat globules to such an extent that after 48 hours storage no visible cream separation occurs on the milk and the fat percentage of the top 100 cc. of milk in a quart bottle, or of proportionate volumes in containers of other sizes, does not differ by more than 5 per cent of itself from the fat percentage of the remaining milk as determined after thorough mixing.

Violation of the grade requirement by the new average or by any subsequent average during the remainder of the current grading period shall call for immediate degrading or suspension of the permit, unless the last individual result is within the grade limit.

Sec. 7. The grading of milk and milk products.—At least once every 6 months the health officer shall announce the grades of all milk and milk products delivered by all producers or distributors and ultimately consumed within the city of Charlevoix, or its police jurisdiction. Item 20p. Capping.—Capping of milk and milk products shall be done by approved mechanical equipment. Hand capping is prohibited. The cap or cover shall cover the pouring lip to at least its largest diameter.

Item 21p. Personnel, health. — The health officer or a physician authorized by him shall examine and take a careful morbidity history of every person connected with a pasteurization plant, or about to be employed, whose work brings him in contact with the production, handling, storage, or transportation of milk, milk products, containers, or equipment. If such examination or history suggests that such person may be a carrier of or infected with the organisms of typhoid or paratyphoid fever or any other communicable diseases likely to be transmitted through milk, he shall secure appropriate specimens of body discharges and cause them to be examined in a laboratory approved by him or by the State health authorities for such examinations, and if the results justify such person shall be barred from such employment.

Such persons shall furnish such information, submit to such physical examinations, and submit such laboratory specimens as the health officer may require for the purpose of determining freedom from infection.

Item 22p. Personnel, cleanliness. —All persons coming in contact with milk, milk products, containers, or equipment shall wear clean outer garments and shall keep their hands clean at all times while thus engaged.

Item 23p. Miscellaneous.—All vehicles used for the transportation of milk or milk products shall be so constructed and operated as to protect their contents from the sun and from contamination. All vehicles used for the transportation of milk or milk products in their final delivery containers shall be constructed with permanent tops and with permanent or roll-down sides and back, provided that openings of the size necessary to pass the delivery man may be permitted in the sides or back for loading and unloading purposes. All vehicles shall be kept clean, and no substance capable of contaminating milk or milk products shall be transported with milk or milk products in such manner as to permit contamination. All vehicles used for the distribution of milk or milk-products shall have the name of the distributor prominently displayed.

The immediate surroundings of the milk plant shall be kept in a neat, clean condition.

Grade B pasteurized milk.—Grade B pasteurized milk is pasteurized milk which violates the bacterial standard for grade A pasteurized milk and/or the provision of lip-cover caps of item 20p and/or the requirement that grade A raw milk be used, but which conforms with all other requirements for grade A pasteurized milk, has been made from raw milk of not less than grade B quality, and has an average bacterial plate count after pasteurization and before delivery not exceeding 50,000 per cubic centimeter, as determined under sections 1 (S) and 6.

tiating grievances. They want authority also to dismiss employees, alien or otherwise, whom they believe to be involved in sabotage.

(3) Commissioner Oscar G. Olander of the state police says 100 additional men are needed to investigate "hundreds of reports of subversive activities in this state." While Olander did not divulge where the additional men would be detailed, it is understood that officials are apprehensive that sabotage may hinder production of important war orders.

(4) And, this being a democracy, don't forget this one: National and state elections are due to be held next November. That means votes and lots of them.

Dictatorship

With the European war possibly coming to our shores (this is believed inevitable should England move its capital to Canada), Michigan's automobile plants occupy key positions in the national defense of the United States.

Our involvement in the war would probably evoke a war-time dictatorship. Rights of management and labor could be limited drastically by federal decree, all in the interest of national security.

Hence the peace-time actions of industrial labor leaders and workers in the rank and file may prevent or invite stern war-time regulation.

The alternative would be to risk the price paid by France where production of necessary war supplies even two years ago was insufficient to meet urgent needs of national defense. In a remarkable report to the president of the French Republic on November 12, 1938, M. Deladier and Reynauld declared:

"The gravest failure, from which the others follow, has been the persistently low level of production. . . If production is insufficient it is primarily because its possibilities of development have been paralyzed.

"The idea of a reduction in the length of the working day had been entertained on the assumption that, as a result of increased efficiency of labor and more intensive use of machinery, the same output could be obtained with fewer hours of work.

"But the efficiency of labor has not increased and the hopes founded on technical improvement have not been realized. How could it have been otherwise, when the majority of factories and shops were closed two days out of seven?"

Joint Responsibility

In this new period of national emergency—and signs already point that it has arrived—special responsibilities rest upon management, capital and labor.

Mr. Reynauld, co-author of the 1938 report, is now Premier of France.

Like Winston Churchill, he is bearing a heavy task of trying to overcome the dreadful waste and lost time in the years prior to the war.

In the light of French experience, it is clear that every element of our population may be called upon for new sacrifices — perhaps by longer working hours, perhaps by heavier taxes, and perhaps by postponing the satisfaction of former wants in favor of present wants of a more urgent nature.

In a democracy such as the United States and in a state of advanced technological development such as Michigan, the challenge of 1940 is whether we can solve the problem of defense as efficiently as a totalitarian state. Cooperation of capital and labor will be put to a new test. Upon the success or failure of this teamwork depends the security of millions.

Ford, Peace Apostle

Henry Ford, America's outstanding genius of mass production, financed a "peace ship" to Europe in 1916.

When this nation entered the conflict, Ford swung his huge plants into the manufacture of tanks, submarine chasers and ambulances.

Still an apostle of peace, the Dearborn manufacturer a few weeks ago received world-wide attention when he declared in an interview that the Ford organization could produce 1,000 airplanes a day through mass production methods "if" he were guaranteed, of no governmental "meddling"—presumably by the National Labor Relations board.

The army department rushed one of its latest models to Dearborn for Ford engineers to examine.

Because Ford's management policies have always been liberal to labor, the C.I.O. has been unsuccessful to date in efforts to unionize Michigan plants. How popular the automobile maker is with labor was revealed recently by a Gallup public opinion survey which placed him high up on the list—along with John L. Lewis!

CCC Youths

Non-combatant military training in the CCC camps in Michigan appeared to be a probability as Congress rushes plans to integrate federal relief and national defense.

The youths would not be trained with guns for military combat, but they would be given instruction in bridge and road construction, cooking, first aid, radio, photography and mechanical work. The camps may help to train young men for industrial employment in an effort to break the present bottleneck due to lack of machines and skilled machinists.

The NYA camp at Cassidy Lake (between Ann Arbor and Jackson) is already training young men in vocational fields such as aviation and automobile engineering.

Michigan national guardsmen will train this summer at Sparta, Wisconsin, and at Grayling. The CCC camps would "prove valuable assets in case of mobilization", it was stated at Washington by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

G-Men in Michigan

Federal investigators of the department of justice have developed leads in Michigan "as challenging as those we received in Louisiana", so admitted O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general, in Detroit.

The Louisiana inquiry consumed eleven months before the lid blew off.

The Associated Press intimated that the federal grand jury was looking into charges of graft in connection with liquor dealings.

After Wayne county's mess involving the sheriff, prosecuting attorney, and a couple score of policemen, the prospect of a Louisiana-style scandal being uncovered in Michigan fairly takes your breath.

The Washington probe may end in indictments of a startling nature.

OUTDOOR MEALS REQUIRE BALANCE

Even when dinner or supper is served outdoor style or at a picnic, the meal requires balance, suggest home economics staff members at Michigan State College.

Despite summer temperatures one of the easiest methods is to plan the picnic meal around some hot dish. A vacuum jug will keep food either hot or cold for hours. If the family has such a jug, prepare soup, stew, chili or other foods at home and serve hot at the picnic. If not, take a covered casserole of scalloped potatoes, tomatoes, or mixed vegetables that will hold its heat for an hour or so.

The fireplaces in local, state, and national parks make it easy to cook at the picnic grounds. One can prepare meat and vegetables at home, and then reheat them over the picnic fire. Canned foods can be heated quickly at the picnic or steaks or hamburgers can be broiled.

Raw vegetables as a relish or salad should be included in the picnic menu. If greens are crisped in the refrigerator they will stay quite fresh wrapped in waxed paper. Pack carrot or cucumber sticks, celery, radishes, or green onions into a covered glass jar.

For the beverage, plan to have milk for the children at least. If there is no way to keep the bottles cold, the milk will keep best in a vacuum bottle.

Fruit is ideal for the picnic dessert. Apples, bananas, grapes, plums, fresh pineapple, melons or other fruit in season are suggested. Crunchy cookies, tarts, turnovers, or cup cakes also make good desserts for the outdoor meal.

Why the daughter of the world's richest woman is wrecking the old homestead. Just as her thrifty mother would have done, she orders her fabulous family's ancestral roost demolished to save a few hundred dollars a year in taxes. Read about this unusual "World's Richest Woman" in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Chicago Herald-American.

Final Check on Licenses

A next to final check of 1939 licenses sold by the department of conservation shows the total to be 1,602,517, with fishing licenses of all kinds at 859,878 leading game and trapping licenses of all kinds at 742,639.

LEGAL NOTICES

Ordinance No. 198

Grade C pasteurized milk.—Grade C pasteurized milk is pasteurized milk which violates any of the requirements for grade B pasteurized milk.

Sec. 8. Grades of milk and milk products which may be sold.—From and after 3 months from the date on which this ordinance takes effect no milk or milk products shall be sold to the final consumer or to restaurants, soda fountains, grocery stores, or similar establishments except grade A pasteurized, Certified and grade A raw: Provided, That when any milk distributor fails to qualify for one of the above grades the health officer is authorized to revoke his permit, or in lieu thereof to degrade his product and permit its sale during a temporary period not exceeding 30 days or in emergencies such longer period as he may deem necessary.

Sec. 9. Supplementary grading prescribed and regrading authorized. —If, at any time between the regular announcements of the grades of milk or milk products, a lower grade shall become justified, in accordance with sections 5, 6, and 7 of this ordinance, the health officer shall immediately lower the grade of such milk or milk products, and shall enforce proper labeling and placarding thereof.

Any producer or distributor of milk or milk products the grade of which has been lowered by the health officer, and who is properly labeling his milk and milk products, may at any time make application for the regrading of his product.

Upon receipt of a satisfactory application, in case the lowered grade is the result of an excessive average bacterial plate count, direct microscopic count, reduction time, or cooling temperature, the health officer shall take further samples of the applicant's output, at a rate of not more than two samples per week. The health officer shall regrade the milk or milk products upward whenever the average of the last four sample results indicates the necessary quality, but not before the lapse of 2 weeks from the date of degrading.

In case the lowered grade of the applicant's product is due to a violation of an item of the specifications prescribed in section 7, other than average bacterial plate count, direct microscopic count, reduction time, or cooling temperature, the said application must be accompanied by a statement signed by the applicant to the effect that the violated item of the specifications has been conformed with. Within 1 week of the receipt of such an application and statement the health officer shall make a reinspection of the applicant's establishment, and thereafter as many additional reinspections as he may deem necessary to assure himself that the applicant is again complying with the higher grade requirements, and, in case the findings justify, shall regrade the milk or milk products upward, but not before the lapse of 2 weeks from the date of degrading.

Sec. 10. Transferring or dipping milk; delivery containers; handling of more than one grade; delivery of milk at quarantined residences.—Except as permitted in this section, no milk producer or distributor shall transfer milk or milk products from one container to another on the street, or in any vehicle or store, or in any place except a bottling or milk room especially used for that purpose. The sale of dip milk is hereby prohibited.

All pasteurized milk and milk products shall be placed in their final delivery containers in the plant in which they are pasteurized, and all raw milk and milk products sold for consumption in the raw state shall be placed in their final delivery containers at the farm at which they are produced. Milk and milk products sold in the distributor's containers in quantities less than 1 gallon shall be delivered in standard milk bottles or in single-service containers. It shall be unlawful for hotels, soda fountains, restaurants, groceries, and similar establishments to sell or serve any milk or milk product except in the original container in which it was received from the distributor or from a bulk container equipped with an approved dispensing device: Provided, That this requirement shall not apply to cream consumed on the premises, which may be served from the original bottle or from a dispenser approved for such service.

It shall be unlawful for any hotel, soda fountain, restaurant, grocery, or similar establishment to sell or serve any milk or milk products which have not been maintained, while in its possession, at a temperature of 50° F. or less.

No milk or milk products shall be permitted to come in contact with equipment with which a lower grade of milk or milk products has been in contact unless such equipment has first been thoroughly cleaned and subjected to bactericidal treatment.

Bottled milk or milk products, if stored in water, shall be so stored that the tops of the bottles will not be submerged.

It shall be the duty of all persons to whom milk or milk products are delivered to clean thoroughly the containers in which such milk or milk products are delivered before returning such containers. Apparatus, containers, equipment, and utensils used in the handling, storage, processing, or transporting of milk or milk products shall not be used for any other purpose without the permission of the health officer.

The delivery of milk or milk products to and the collection of milk or milk-products containers from residences in which cases of communicable disease transmissible thru milk supplies exist shall be subject to the special requirements of the health officer.

Sec. 11. Milk and milk products from points beyond the limits of routine inspection.—Milk and milk products from points beyond the limits of routine inspection of the city of Charlevoix may not be sold in the city of Charlevoix, or its police jurisdiction, unless produced and/or pasteurized under provisions equivalent to the requirements of this ordinance: Provided, That the health officer shall satisfy himself that the health officer having jurisdiction over the production and processing is properly enforcing such provisions.

Sec. 12. Future dairies and milk plants.—All dairies and milk plants from which milk or milk products are supplied to the city of Charlevoix which are hereafter constructed, reconstructed, or extensively altered shall conform in their construction to the requirements of this ordinance for grade A dairy farm producing milk for consumption in the raw state, or for grade A pasteurization plants, respectively: Provided, That the requirement of a two-room milk house shall be waived in the case of dairies the milk from which is to be pasteurized. Properly prepared plans for all dairies and milk plants which are hereafter constructed, reconstructed, or extensively altered shall be submitted to the health officer for approval before work is begun. In the case of milk plants signed approval shall be obtained from the health officer and/or the State health department.

Sec. 13. Notification of disease.—Notice shall be sent to the health officer immediately by any producer or distributor of milk or milk products upon whose dairy farm or in whose milk plant any infectious, contagious, or communicable disease occurs.

Sec. 14. Procedure when infection suspected.—When suspicion arises as to the possibility of transmission of infection from any person concerned with the handling of milk or milk products, the health officer is authorized to require any or all of the following measures: (1) The immediate exclusion of that person from milk handling, (2) the immediate exclusion of the milk supply concerned from distribution and use, (3) adequate medical and bacteriological examination of the person, of his associates, and of his and their body discharges.

Sec. 15. Enforcement interpretation. — This ordinance shall be enforced by the health officer in accordance with the interpretations thereof contained in the 1939 edition of the United States Public Health Service Milk Code, a certified copy of which shall be on file in the city clerk's office.

Sec. 16. Penalty. — Any person who shall violate any provision of this ordinance shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars at the discretion of the court. Each and every violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a separate offense.

Sec. 17. Repeal and date of effect. —All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed; and this ordinance shall be in full force and effect three months from date of its adoption and its publication, as provided by law.

Sec. 18. Unconstitutionality clause. —Should any section, paragraph, sentence, clause, or phrase of this ordinance be declared unconstitutional or invalid for any reason, the remainder of said ordinance shall not be affected thereby.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council of the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, held in the council rooms in said city on the 17th day of June A. D. 1940.

Robert Bridge, Mayor.

Attest;
Ray S. Hamilton, Clerk.

Chevrolet Builds Its 900,000th 1940 Car

Here is the 900,000th car of Chevrolet's 1940 model production, as it left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., June 12, less than one month after No. 800,000 was completed. Beside the car are M. E. Coyle, general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Division (left), C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager (right), and Arnold Lenz, assistant manufacturing manager, who were present in the plant when the car was produced.

"Chevrolet has built 300,000 cars in less than three months," Mr. Coyle pointed out. "The 600,000th of these models was built on March 21, the 700,000th on April 16, the 800,000th on May 13, and the 900,000th on June 12. This production rate closely parallels the consistently heavy sales volume since the introduction of the 1940 models last October, sales during March, April and May alone totalling 307,345."

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

New Purebred Sires Reflect Greater Interest in Dairying

If good type, well bred, purebred sires and dairy herd improvement association records mean anything, then dairying in Charlevoix county is taking a new lease of life. From all records available, more new purebred sires have been purchased in the last six months than in any other period for years and years. This is a hopeful sign and means that the future development of dairy herds can be accurately forecast.

The dairy department of the Michigan State College recently developed a plan whereby these splendid young purebred calves, out of high producing stock, could be purchased at a reasonable price. In southern Michigan most of the dairymen do not raise their calves because they sell fluid milk. Quick to sense the value of arranging for local farmers to purchase these animals, Howard Lytle and Thomas Thacker, agricultural instructors in Boyne City and East Jordan, and the extension agent, initiated a movement to secure these animals. It is most gratifying to announce that, as a result of this activity, approximately twenty new sires will soon be improving the production in our county. The following farmers have purchased purebred Guernseys: L. J. Fincout, Everett Griffin, Wm. J. Petts, and Charles Shepard all of Boyne City, and Frank Russell, Clayton Healey, Joe Leu, and Ray Loomis, all from East Jordan, also Carl Stephens of Walloon Lake and Elden Jones of Charlevoix. Shorthorns have been purchased by Jesse Peters, Clarion; LeRoy Hardy, Bayn City; Emo Lick, Boyne Falls; Joe Whitfield, East Jordan; Fred Alm, East Jordan; and Clarence Reinhardt, Boyne City.

Efforts are now being made to obtain a larger number of local dairymen to join the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Nothing in the world will help a dairyman to have a more profitable herd than to have records of what the cows are doing and how much net profit is made per cow. Charlevoix county only has four dairymen interested sufficiently in their own welfare to test. We are going to be disappointed if we cannot get at least fifteen in the county to take this forward step. If you have not been contacted as yet, inform your county agent if you would like to join and all details will be fully explained.

Crop Prospects Exceedingly Bright Throughout County

With ample moisture up to the present time and no damage from [illegible] crops throughout the county are in excellent condition. One of the brightest features along this line is the fact that Charlevoix county farmers will have their barns filled with wonderful quality hay. If you don't believe that hay is excellent, take a trip around the county some day and note the number of hay fields that give every indication of cutting from one to two tons on the first cutting. Not alone this, but a wonderful spring for new seedings has rapidly developed the stands so that in many cases they are excellent and up to six inches in height at the present time.

Wheat on the average came thru the winter in good shape. All spring grown cereals are likewise making rapid progress. A cherry crop above average is very much in evidence. With our more or less mild winter, berries and small fruits have suffered very little from winter injury. Corn that was planted at the usual time is now coming along fine. The only disappointing feature in respect to corn is the fact that on some fields, that were too wet because of so much rain, the corn planting has had to be delayed. Potatoes are now being planted with plenty of moisture in the soil.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Is the Universe, including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches thruout the world on Sunday, June 23.

The Golden Text (Amos 4:13) is: "Lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 19:1): "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 295): "God creates and governs the universe, including man. The universe is filled with spiritual ideas, which He evolves, and they are obedient to the Mind that makes them."

QUIZ QUESTIONS USED BY M. S. C.

This is the second of a series of questions and answers, typical of those used throughout Michigan in agricultural meetings conducted by Michigan State College extension service specialists.

1. True or false? In selling alfalfa seed, the state seed law requires that it be aged a dozen days in addition to other information the month and year the germination test was made.

2. Which of the following, as defined by Michigan law, are noxious weeds: quackgrass, buckhorn, Canada thistle, bindweed, sorrel, wild carrot, perennial sow thistle, dodder, Indian mustard, ragweed, charlock mustard, black mustard?

3. True or false? When cows chew bones, boards, hair or pick up tin, they need more feed and water.

4. True or false? Warble flies are slow fliers but travel great distances.

Answers, according to C. B. Dibble in entomology, C. F. Huffman in animal nutrition, H. C. Rather in farm crops.

1. True.

2. All but buckhorn, bindweed, sorrel, perennial sow thistle and ragweed.

3. False. The cows show depraved appetites indicating a phosphorus deficiency which could be corrected by feeding small amounts of odorless steamed bonemeal.

4. False. Warble flies are fast fliers but apparently seldom leave their own pasture field. One herd separated from another herd by only one field may have many warbles while the other remains free.

MOSQUITO, FLY, MAY BE KILLED BY BORAX

Michigan State College Specialists Outline Control Measures

Those buzzing insects, the flies and the mosquitoes, are about to begin their seasonal hum unless a simple trick of scattering some borax is employed.

Entomologists at Michigan State College recommend the treatment. If the powder is used in the right places and early enough, most of the test population of these two insects will never grow wings.

Houseflies breed and feed in filth, which makes them dangerous. But if fly breeding material such as stable roanure is treated with borax, the maggots are killed before they escape to develop into flies. Eleven ounces of horax dissolved in from two to ten gallons of water is enough to treat eight bushels of manure.

For outdoor toilets, the use of powdered borax again is recommended as an important health measure. Lime does not kill the maggots.

The same powder will keep down mosquito populations, which thrive in any standing water, even in discarded tin cnns which may hold small amounts of water. Fish ponds should not have borax as the fish will eat the larvae but could not live with borax treatment. The borax also will kill vegetation.

A small handful of powdered borax to each bucket of water prevents mosquito trouble. In water stored for fire control, for washing clothes or dishes, the borax may be used. With water for drinking, the container should be screened to keep out the insects.

SOO LOCKS AGAIN OPEN TO TOURIST VISITORS

Restriction Imposed by War Department Last September Removed

The famous ship locks at the Soo, one of northern Michigan's major tourist attractions, will be open to the public again this summer beginning June 15, it has been announced by Capt. H. P. Wilcox, commandant at Fort Brady.

By permission from the war department, visitors will be permitted at the locks from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily from June 15 to September 15, without military escort.

At the outbreak of the war last September the locks were fenced off with high wire harriers and a military guard established.

Since that time access could be gained only by persons carrying military passes. A foot hridge below the powerhouse, leading to the lower rapids, was removed, and all normal nutumn flow of tourists to the locks was shut off.

EXPLOIT STATE'S MINERALS FOR WAR PURPOSES

Survey Planned for Summer by Department of Conservation

Spurred by wartime demand, the search for essential minerals in Michigan will he intensified this summer, with one field party surveying a possible new source of magnesium.

Strong as copper, a third lighter than aluminum, and malleable, magnesium alloys are now much in demand for airplane parts.

Under the direction of the conservation department's geological survey division, one party will trace the extent, quality and availability of deposits of dolomite, a rock underlying much of eastern upper Michigan. Dolomites in this region, with a metallic magnesium content of about 12 per cent, are richer in magnesium than any other known Michigan rock.

To date, magnesium has been produced in Michigan from natural brines pumped from 1,400 feet underground at Midland, but in foreign countries dolomite has become an important source of the light metal. Magnesium is present in minute quantities in the high calcium content Michigan limestone quarried for flux in steel making. In production of steel-making limestone, Michigan ranks second among the 48 states, and has immense reserves.

As in previous summers, there will be a field party in the copper country and another in Dickinson county in the Menominee iron range on "geological reconnaissance" for the conservation department, mapping the geology of the region in a broad way to discover the conditions most favorable to the location of new ore reserves.

MICHIGAN FARMERS BUY OVER 3½ MILLION TREES

Michigan State College Reports 46,700 in Charlevoix County

Trees enough to plant more than 3,000 acres of non-agricultural land were sold at cost this spring from the nursery operated by the forestry department of Michigan State College.

Another million trees or enough for another 1,000 acres for reforesting were sold by the Michigan State Conservation department.

In Charlevoix county the tree orders filled by the college numbered 19 for a total of 46,700 trees.

Three principal uses are being filled by farmers utilizing these seedlings, says W. Ira Bull, extension forester at the college.

Wind and water erosion control is one purpose. The others include eventual timber or pulpwood production on non-agricultural land, use as windbreaks, and for an ultimate Christmas tree crop.

Special allotment of as much as $30 a farm, earned by planting forest trees on farms, at the rate of $7.50 an acre, was an inducement this year from the federal Agricultural Soil Conservation program. This says Forester Bull, hnd some effect in boosting the recent planting to a 2,000,000 tree increase over the number of seedlings sold from the college nursery n year ago.

Some of the leading counties in the 3,586,000 totnl of trees purchased were Muskegon with 701,000 seedlings, Oceana with 260,000, Mecosta 185,780 and Vanburen with 140,000.

Price lists for reforestntion stock to be sold this fall and next spring will be available about August 1. Landownrs seeking supplies are advised to write to the forestry department a the college for cost price lists and to place their orders early in the fall before supplies of some of the species are exhausted.

LAKE MICHIGAN FISH OUTPUT MOST VALUED

Lake Erie Produces Greatest Poundage of Great Lakes

Michigan's leadership among the eight stntes engaged in commercial fishing on the Grent Lakes is confirmed by latest statistical bulletins of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries. For 1938, Michigan's 28,838,400 pound catch worth $2,265,178 was well over a third of the total American Great Lakes catch of 81,524,500 pounds worth $6,083,212.

Lake Erie was most productive for American commercial fishermen, yielding 27,619,100 pounds worth $1,981,202, but the 24,379,000 pound catch in Lake Michigan was worth more, at $2,293,985.

Ohio fishermen most closely approached the Michigan production, and Wisconsin ranked third, with Minnesota, Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois and Indiana following in that order.

Michigan eroploys the most fishermen, 2,741 out of 6,976 engaged in American Great Lakes waters, ranks first in the number of steam fish tugs, second in the number of large motor fishing vessels, first in small motor boats and first in other kinds of boats used in fishing. Michigan fishermen have the most gear of different kinds.

PERMIT IS NEEDED FOR WILDLIFE SANCTUARY

Application Must be Made to Department of Conservation

Persons wishing to establish wildlife snnctuaries in Michigan first make application to the conservation commission.

Tracts of less than 20 acres or more than 1,500 are not approved for this purpose, nor is any dedicated for less than five years. If on investigation the land is found suitable and the dedication approved, the tract is posted, and conservation officers look to the protection of wildlife on the area.

Interests of hunters and trappers of the locality are considered, so surplus wildlife moving to surrounding country will become available to sportsmen.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

The Birth of a Bank

Do you know how banks are organized? First a comprehensive analysis of the community is made. If the organizers are convinced that a new bank is feasible, an application for a charter is submitted showing the name of the bank, location, capital and surplus to be raised, and names of proposed incorporators and officers.

A national bank charter must be secured from the Comptroller of the Currency; a state bank or trust company charter must come from the state banking department.

The chartering authority makes an investigation to justify opening a new bank. If the decision is favorable, a permit to organize is issued, and stock may then be sold. When the stock has been successfully marketed, articles of association and an organization certificate are filed. The charter is then issued and the bank may commence business.

Stamp It Out!

Don't throw that lighted cigaret out of your car window! Maybe, if you do, another fire will be logged on the chart at conservation department headquarters. There have been too many fires, already, in 1940: 11,263 acres burned over in 542 fires in the first seven weeks of the forest fire season! If you are careless, you may destroy something which belongs to you. The state forests DO belong to you!

position at the present time in regard to the war. The conflict in Europe is almost the sole topic of conversation in all circles and heated arguments often develop.

"We should all try to keep calm in this regard and refrain from stirring up trouble among our friends and associates.

"Recently there has been a great deal of unfounded gossip passed around in Petoskey that will lead to 'witch burning' if it continues. We should all be extremely circumspect in remarks made about individuals whose views may not exactly agree with ours.

"Human beings enjoy passing on rumors, adding a few decorations and giving them a semblance of truth. A casual remark, by the time it has passed through several hands, may lead to serious consequences.

"Last evening the city council discussed, briefly, stories of un-American activities heard in street conversations recently. Chief of Police Patrick Sullivan said that to his knowledge no arrests or warnings had taken place here. No federal investigators have been in Petoskey ferretting out suspected backers of subversive interests as far as city officials could find out.

"Idle gossip can cause irreparable damage. In these hectic times we should be extremely careful of our utterances so that no injustices will be done."

The west end of Dixon avenue is a lousy place these days. You would hardly recognize the Beach Hotel since Bill Flynn's crew have their work well under way. Kit Carson is making a mighty fine looking place out of the old Faulkner cottage, and Ernie Howe is making some mighty fine improvements on the old Baker cottage on the corner of Michigan and Dixon.

Those parents who last Wednesday evening visited the Girl Scouts at their camp could not help but see the benefit of such training for their children and also acknowledge the spirit of personal sacrifice which prompted the three leaders to devote a week of their time to the welfare of those youngsters.

The familiar fishing partnership of Fechheimer & Lowenstein is up to its old tricks. Mr. Fechheimer last Friday landed a marked steelhead, one of the 5,000 released several years ago with adipose and dorsal fins removed. This, the fourth reported caught, was 18½ inches long and weighed 2¾ pounds.

And while on the fishin' topic, am glad to report my wish of last week to be able to give some good steelhead news has been granted. Don Clothier says the spring fishing is the best in three years. One Grand Rapids party went home with eight, Clarence Wood got three Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fechheimer landed two out of six strikes in a half hour Friday morning. That's some of the proof.

Charlevoix's summer season, in spite of the pessimists, is starting off well to end the month of June. There's the Central Conference of American Rabbis now in session 200 strong at The Inn, the Honorable Order of Blue Goose, International, and Michigan Fire Underwriters' Association with over 100 registrations at Belvedere Hotel, the Michigan County Treasurers' Association convenes at Belvedere on June 27th for a two-day stand, cottages are filling up rapidly—which all makes quite a paragraph and can't be termed anything else but good news.

Signing off until next week, whether you like it or not.

RELOCATION OF M-66 SLATED THIS SUMMER

Relocate 3.314 Miles, Resurface from East Jordan to Charlevoix

The relocation and oil aggregate surfacing of a section of M-66 beginning at Ironton and extending northwesterly toward Charlevoix is included among projects which the State Highway Department plans for construction this year, it was announced today.

"The project is one of more than 50, estimated to cost a total of $5,556,688, on which we plan to proceed this year," State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said. "These projects will be financed by federal aid and gas tax funds."

Relocation of 3.314 miles of M-66 beginning at Ironton and extending northwesterly toward Charlevoix, with grading, drainage and stabilized gravel for future blacktop surfacing are included in the project. South of this project into East Jordan the present road has been rebuilt by the department as a WPA job.

When the relocation is completed and the gravel stabilized, plans have been made to oil aggregate the entire 10.9 miles. It is estimated the relocation work will cost $92,000 and the oil aggregate surfacing $80,000.

The construction listed for this year in the state is of vital character, and includes the elimination of many existing highway inadequacies and hazards.

Spent Five Days Last Week at Tyrell's Vacation Camps

The annual Girl Scout camping trip, conducted from Sunday, June 9, to last Friday at Tyrell's Vacation Camp near old Antrim City, proved an enjoyable experience for a large group.

Forty-one girls under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Ludd and the Misses Muriel Tobin and Madelyn Eggert, members of the school faculty, went through the five-day training routine. A fine camp fire program was presented before a large group of parents and friends last Wednesday evening, the occasion of visitors' night.

KIWANIS HEAR HEMINGWAY ON BEAUTIFICATION

"Make 'Charlevoix-the-Beautiful' More Beautiful," Was Topic

Making 'Charlevoix-the-Beautiful' More Beautiful", was the subject of a talk given by George R. Hemingway, owner of Charlevoix County Nursery, to local Kiwanians at their meeting at the Hotel Charlevoix, Tuesday evening.

Using cuttings from a large variety of trees and shrubs, as specimens, the speaker took the audience through the detail required to produce plants and trees of beauty. With keen interest, the members listened as the story of a blue spruce, from seed to tree, was unfolded.

That Charlevoix county, its cities and country-side, is particularly adapted to beautification efforts, because of the natural beauty already here, was emphasized. Mr. Hemingway urged the members to help beautify Charlevoix with plantings and cleaning up of all prominent vacant spaces; and suggested the establishment of a community nursery where plants and shrubs for future public planting could be grown. He generously offered his help and advice in establishing such a project.

A Chinese Elm and American Elm, suitable for immediate planting, was presented to each member present with the compliments of Mr. Hemingway. He also presented each member with a quantity of Blue Spruce seed, and requested that it be planted and the trees be used to add to the beauty of the city and county, where, he said, he expects to spend the remainder of his life.

MICHIGAN CONSERVATION MEET HERE

COMMISSION SESSION AT BELVEDERE JULY 1

Board of Commerce and Sportsman's Club Join Members at Banquet Monday Evening

Interest in conservation in Michigan will center at Charlevoix on Monday, July 1, when the State Conservation Commission meets at Belvedere Hotel for one of its regular periodic sessions.

Announcement of Charlevoix's selection for a meeting site was announced recently by Hon. William J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, member of the commission, and plans were immediately started through the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club and Board of Commerce to provide a banquet as a gesture of good will and for an inspection trip of conservation projects in this area.

Accordingly, a banquet is scheduled for 7 o'clock Monday evening at Belvedere. Invitations have not only been extended local sportsmen and business men, but also those of the county and region. It is hoped to have an attendance of at least one hundred at the affair.

A local inspection trip to cover mackinaw trout rearing at the federal fish hatchery, the Stover Creek rearing ponds and site for the proposed re-establishment of Burns pond on McGeagh creek, is planned.

Members of the Conservation Commission are William Loutit, Grand Haven, chairman; William J. Pearson, Boyne Falls; Harold Titus, Traverse City; Thomas J. Masterson, Iron Mountain; Harry H. Whiteley, Dowagiac; Joseph P. Rahilly, Newberry; Alexander W. Blain, Detroit. P. J. Hoffmaster, director, and the numerous division heads, will also be present at the session.

NEW TRAIN, MAIL SCHEOULES START

FOUR TRAINS OPERATING DAILY ON PERE MARQUETTE

Change in Train Time Brings Alterations in Mail Deadlines from Local Postoffice

The summer schedule of train service over the Pere Marquette Railway went into effect Monday, June 24th. Subsequently mail schedules from the local postoffice changed to conform with the new train service.

Charlevoix now has two trains north and south daily except Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The resort special arrives northbound at 7:20 a. m. daily except Monday, and leaves southbound at 9:10 p. m. daily except Saturday.

Local No. 6 leaves southbound at 9:40 a. m., and Local No. 1 arrives northbound at 2:24 p. m., both daily except Sunday.

The new postal schedules provide for deadlines on outgoing mail at 6:45 and 8:10 a. m. and 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. Sorted mail will be available to patrons at the postoffice at 10 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. Two complete deliveries of first class mail will be made in the city daily during the summer. There is no train south on Saturday afternoons, thus mail intended to go out that day should be posted in the morning to go south, and by 1:30 in the afternoon to go north. CARAVAN PLAYERS OPENING JULY 2ND

"THREE MEN ON A HORSE" IS INITIAL PRODUCTION

Inaugurate Eight-Week Program at Ironton Playhouse With George Abbott's Rolicking Play

On Tuesday night, July 2nd, at 8:15 p. m., the Ironton Playhouse curtain will rise once more on a summer theatrical season of eight weeks' entertainment. The Caravan Players, a troupe of young St. Louis men and women, will present John Cecil Holm's and George Abbott's rollicking fast moving play, "Three Men On A Horse."

The Caravan Players, a semi-professional group, was organized about five months ago by a few young people attending Washington University at St. Louis, Mo. Norman Macdonald, technical director at the St. Louis Little Theater, was asked to join the group as director and plans were made for a barn-storming expedition through the Great Lakes summer resort regions. However, there developed the possibility of taking over the Ironton Playhouse and soon this troupe will commence what it hopes to be the initial successful attempt of many future seasons to come.

The actors and actresses have been, for the most part, seasoned and experienced in theatrical work in the Little Theater and Civic Theater work in St. Louis, Mo. For them this theater work this summer does not constitute merely a vacation from the waves of heat in St. Louis. Their life interests are in the theater and its allied fields, and they are intent upon making the coming season in their own theater an artistic and financial success. The group consists of 23 persons, including Harry Gibbs, whose one act play, "Chico" is now handled by the Samuel French Publishing Co., as president; Robert Pastene, who has just finished a very successful season at the St. Louis Little Theater, as vice-president, and

By Ken Usher

Had not his friends intervened, Calvin Supernaw, 93 years "young" and Charlevoix's oldest resident, would have walked to Petoskey and back last Saturday on a $25 wager. "Shorty" Sternberg, and Art Fagan tricked him into a car, after numerous others had failed, on the excuse of taking a rest after he had reached Bay Shore. Calvin was quite put out upon being prevented going thru with the venture.

To those summer residents who have complained to this writer personally about the miserable weather of the past week, will say I don't like it any better than they. Fact of the matter is, I had to stoke the furnace again Monday and nearly ran out of fingers trying to count the number of months it had been since we hadn't had a fire. As I told one fellow, if I were God Almighty, I'd see that the weather was made more pleasant, but unfortunately that's something we natives have no control over.

Fitch Tooley is always bragging about the number of fish they catch up around Boyne City and so just not to be out-done and have people think Boyne City's fishin' is better than ours, I want to say that I personally know there were 62 fish, 12

As European events unfold at a rapid tempo and the White House reveals plans for military conscription of youth, the Michigan state capital is concentrating more attention on our needs of national defense.

BIG CROWD SEES BEAUTY FROZEN AT THE ARGONNE

Miss Maryland of 1939 in Outstanding Attraction There

Tuesday night at The Argonne, popular night club located on US-31 north of Charlevoix, Miss Maryland, Venus of 1939 from Sally Rand's Village, World's Fair, attempted before a large crowd to break her own world's record of 26 minutes and 40 seconds sealed in a 1400 pound cake of ice.

Miss Maryland was in the ice 6 minutes, 40 seconds Tuesday night. In this outstanding attraction, she carried a flashlight in the ice with her and her manager, Ted Merriman, signals to her every minute with a flashlight from the outside and she answers with her light.

She will attempt again tonight (Wednesday) and tomorrow night (Thursday) to break the record. The Charlevoix Coal & Ice Co. is furnishing the natural ice for the attraction.

Wednesday and Thursday nights Miss Maryland will select Charlevoix's most handsome man in another feature attraction.

SALE MARKS COMPLETION AG STORE IMPROVEMENTS

Martin Block Has One of North's Most Modern Food Markets

Signaling the completion of an improvement program which has made Martin Block's AG store one of the most modern and up-to-date in northern Michigan, Mr. Mlock is advertising a remodeling sale for the week end.

Started several weeks ago, the improvements have included installation of air-conditioning in the meat cooler, a new meat case and Frigidaire dairy case and vegetable crisper.

Change to a semi self-serve plan resulted in all new equipment on the store floor. New shelves were installed, also pastry and coffee display racks and vegetable display bins. Grocery "islands" occupy the center floor space. The semi self-serve arrangement displays all lines in packages with prices marked, although differs from the regular self-serve in the respect that clerks are available to wait on patrons.

The latest piece of equipment installed is an electric meat cutter. The machine provides uniform slices, eliminates all chopping, thus dispensing with bone splinters. It will greatly facilitate service in the meat department and was installed for this reason. There is only one other of its kind in northern Michigan.

Mr. Block's improvement program entailed several thousand dollars and he is to be commended upon furnishing Charlevoix with such a modern store.

AT THE MOVIES

Preston and Lamour Teamed in Technicolor "Typhoon"

Teamed for the first time in films, lovely Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston supply the romance in Paramount's Technicolor South Seas adventure film, "Typhoon," which starts June 29 at the Palmer Theatre for a 3-day showing. Lynne Overman and J. Carrol Naish will be featured with them in supporting roles.

Zorina, Greene Score in "I Was An Adventuress"

Filled to the final fadeout with glamorous romance and exciting drama, "I Was An Adventuress" brings beautiful Zorina and handsome Richard Greene together on the screen of the Palace Theatre July 2 and 3, in a film of which Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief of the 20th Century-Fox studios, can well be proud.

"On Their Own"

The depression came late to the Jones Family, but it hit hard. Dad's laid up, their home is gone and they have only their trailer and family car in the 20th Century-Fox film, "On Their Own," which comes July 2-3 to the Palace Theatre.

Marjorie Rambeau and Beery Teamed for Roddy Laughs

A new character team makes its first appearance in "20 Mule Team" in the persons of Wallace Beery and Marjorie Rambeau, both thirty-year veterans of stage and screen. The film, saga of the Death Valley pioneers, opens July 4 at the Palace Theatre.

Completing the trio of principals is Leo Carrilo, a third such veteran, who joined with Beery sensationally in "Viva Villa!"

The production presents Noah Beery, Jr., in his first role with his uncle, as the young company paymaster, Mitch, and Anne Baxter, newcomer from the New York stage, as Josie's daughter who jilts Mitch and tries to elope with the gambler, Stag Roper, played by Douglas Fowley. Others in the cast include Clem Bevans as the prospector, Chuckawalla; Berton Churchill as "Jackass" Brown, head of the Desert Borax Company, and Arthur Hohl as the fake marshal.

A HISTORY OF THE CHARLEVOIX SCHOOL

Given before the Kiwunis Club by Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall, June 4th, 1940, at the request of M. A. Levinson.

For information about the early history of the Charlevoix schools we are largely indebted to Mrs. M. F. Stockman, who came here with her husband in 1857. In 1911, at the request of the Charlevoix Historical Society, Mrs. Stockman prepared her "Reminiscences of Pioneer Life", in which the schools were described at length. (This source material is available at the City Library.)

The first school house in Charlevoix, or Pine River as it was then called, was erected in the fall of 1861. It was sixteen feet square and built of logs chinked with moss and mud. It had a shake roof (that means oak staves two feet long fastened down by saplings) and split logs of basswood, split side up, for the floor.

There were three windows, each with 6 lights of 8x10 glass. There were benches on three sides for the large scholars, and two small benches for the smaller children. This building was located in the vicinity of the present Belvedere Hotel site.

Mrs. Stockman became the first teacher at a salary of $1.00 per week. She also taught again in the summer of 1862. She says in her Reminiscences: "Number of scholars enrolled; between 20 and 30. . . Ages from 3 to 20. Most of them had never been to school before, therefore did not know what school was except by name. . . Books of various kinds and dates were brought for use, books used by their fathers and mothers and some old enough to have been used by their grandparents. . .Parents thought the books they used were good enough for their children. There being no public money, each parent paid according to the number of children sent to school, the term being three months. . .Most of the parents paid me for their childrens' schooling. Some promised to pay, moved awny and are owing me yet."

A man named Crandall taught in the winter of 1862-3, but the school house was found to be too cold and open for winter use, and after that there was summer school only. Miss Celia Moses, Miss Greenman, Miss Newell and Miss Davis were among the summer teachers in the first school house. Miss Davis was only 14 years old when she taught.

By 1867 it was conceded the old log school house had had its day and should be replaced by a larger and better one. Mrs. Stockman says: "As the men were busy and not disposed to take it in hand, the ladies got together, appointed a committee and decided that we would hold a fair with supper as the best means to make a beginning."

The weather was unpropitious on the date set for the fair, but it was held just the same and the settlers came from far and near. Articles for sale were auctioned off. There was a grab-bag, 5c a grab, and a post office. Almost everyone received one or two letters at 5c each and the public reading of these missives caused much merriment. An oyster supper was served at $2.00 a couple and the affair ended with a dance.

Seventy-five dollars was realized and expended in the spring of 1868 toward a new school house, which was a frame building erected near the corner of State and Antrim streets. It was afterwards sold and made into a dwelling. (The house occupied by the Radle family at 403 Mason street is said to be the remodeled school building.)

That fall E. H. Green was the first teacher in the building just mentioned. He had located here to practice law, but needed to piece out his income in other ways. He received $4.00 a week for his services, a portion of which was paid in flour and potatoes. Miss Lottie Ainsley and Byron See were other teachers of this period.

In June, 1872, the district purchased the easterly six lots of the present school site, and the next year a third and larger school house was built with four rooms, two above and two below. At first only the lower rooms were used and A. R. Upright and F. W. Mayne were the teachers.

Both the Methodist and Congregational people used this building as a meeting-place until their churches were erected. (This is the last mention of the schools in Mrs. Stockman's Reminiscences and brings the story down to 1885.)

While not a part of the public school system, it is of interest to know that a kindergarten was conducted in 1886 and 1887 by Mrs. George Guyles and Miss Rose M. Cody in a house on the south side of Park avenue near Bridge street.

The school house built in 1873 on the present site was burend down, probably in 1887. Until another building could be erected, the High School assembled in the court house and the grades were taught in various places, among which was the basement of the new Baptist church.

The fourth school house, erected in 1889, was built of white brick. It was first called Union School, but somewhere along the way the name was changed to Central Building. This is no longer used except for band practice and storage.

November 28, 1899 (according to the Sentinel) a social was advertised to be held at the home of Myron Geer to raise money to buy a bell for the school. We do not know how successful this venture was, but we do know the first bell developed a crack and was replaced. About 10 years ago the second bell was removed as the old tower had become too weak to support it.

In the summer of 1895 the district purchased sites for the Washington school on the north side of Petoskey avenue, and the Lincoln school on the south side of Garfield avenue, and erected on them identical 2-room one-story buildings. These were used for school purposes until 1928, and have since been given over to the Health Unit and American Legion respectively.

In 1901 the building known as the McKinley High School was erected south of the Central Building and is still used as the high school.

St. Mary's Parochial School was built in 1902, and provides secular and religious education for Catholic children from the first to eighth grades inclusive. It is supervised by the County School Commissioner.

October 12, 1912, the athletic field adjacent to the Lincoln school site was purchased.

In the spring of 1920 the Board of Education began to acquire title to the six lots west of the valley school site. The last purchase was that of the Stewart property, made March 22, 1926. This gave the district 12 lots with frontage on Mason, Grant and Clinton streets.

The need for more room, and especially a gymnasium and auditorium, had been apparent for several years, and it was by vote of the people at an annual school meeting that the additional ground was purchased with a building project in view, and the board was authorized to establish a sinking fund to be available when the time was ripe to build.

Two different building propositions were submitted and voted down in 1926, but finally on April 12, 1927, a bond issue for $125,000, payable over a period of 15 years, was authorized. There are still two payments to be met on the bonds, $10,500 on January 1, 1941 and $10,500 on January 1, 1942. A citizens committee had worked with the Board of Education to help crystalize public opinion.

A grade building and combined gymnasium and auditorium had been agreed upon as best suited to the needs of the district. The Washington and Lincoln schools would be discontinued, and transportation furnished during the winter months for the pupils living in the outskirts.

The new building was completed in the spring of 1928, and dedication exercises were held May 3 and 4 under the joint auspices of the Board of Education and the Parent-Teacher Association. Webster H. Pearce, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was the speaker on the occasion.

The cost of the new building, exclusive of furniture, was about $165,000. The assessed valuation of the district at that time was $3,643,375.00. The present valuation is $2,731,716.00, almost a million dollars less.

The school enrollment when the new building was opened was 621 and 23 teachers were employed. The present enrollment is 592 and there are 19 teachers on the staff.

Charlevoix City and Township School District No. 1 is a graded school district. The first class of five graduated in 1888. This year's class numbered 48.

Many of the graduates through the years have gone on to higher institutions of learning, and Charlevoix High School has its full contingent of professional people out in the world.

Graduates of Charlevoix High are accepted without examination in the North Central Association of Colleges. An examiner comes here every three years and checks up on the preparation and training of the teachers, also on the library, laboratory, and instructional equipment, and gives a certificate that the school is entitled to be on the accredited list.

For 30 years the Charlevoix County Normal Training School was a part of our school system. It opened November 2, 1903, and was discontinued in 1933 when the state and county withdrew their support. There had come to be an over-supply of teachers in the state and a shortage of funds, so it was wise and necessary to discontinue some of the county normals. The state had been paying $3,000 per annum toward maintenance, and the county and district shared the balance equally, making the cost to the district light.

As County Normal credits were good toward a college degree, this training school gave the young people of this vicinity an opportunity for one year of higher education in addition to a certificate to teach. And about 30 of the elementary grade pupils were taught by the critic teacher, or under her supervision. Miss Pearl Bigge was principal, and Mrs. Gertrude Dick critic teacher for the last several years of the normal's existence. Mrs. Dick remained to take over the 3rd grade, which she still teaches.

The Carnegie Library, built about 1910, is controlled by the Board of Education and serves both the schools and the public. Miss Minnie E. Payton has been librarian since 1917.

In the fall of 1926, the school band was organized with John TerWee as instructor. A. W. Rider, Robert Magor and Max Smith, who is now in charge, have in turn headed this department.

A Parent-Teacher Association was organized in April 1927, with Mrs. E. E. Cross as president. It did good work for a long time, but ceased to function about four years ago when the president-elect failed to call a meeting in the fall.

It was in the winter of 1922-3 that a portion of the school grounds was first flooded for a skating rink. For two years previous to that time, Charles Marshall provided a rink for school children at the court house. The tennis courts were built in 1931.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District Michigan

Are We Heading for Peace—or War?

That is the most important question in the mind of the American public today, judging by the letters all of us are receiving here in Washington. It deserves a frank and a truthful answer. It deserves a non-partisan answer. The President answered that question last Thursday in a non-partisan manner. He has nominated two Republicans, former Secretary of State Stimson, to be Secretary of War, and former Vice Presidential candidate Col. Frank Knox, to be Secretary of the Navy. Both of these gentlemen are known interventionalists. Both are known interventionists. By their recent utterances, look must be called "war mongers." On June 18th, Mr. Stimson stated in a radio speech in effect this: "Give all aid possible to the Allies. If they have not the ships to come and get it, send American ships, and, if necessary, send an American Naval convoy to insure its safe arrival." Is there a doubt in your mind as to which way we are heading? Has there been a doubt in your mind as to which way we have been heading? Do not the President's own utterances give you the answer if you will look back over his speeches from the date of the famous "quarantine" speech in Chicago? Step by step, we have headed for war. I care not whether those steps have been taken with a third term in mind. The fact is, the steps have been taken. The handwriting is on the wall. According to my mail and according to my best information, the American public does not support this obvious program.

I know of no member of Congress who today wants war. I know of no member of Congress who does not share the nation's overwhelming sympathy with the Allies. I know of no member of congress who shares any love for Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin or their philosophies.

On the other hand, propaganda is clever—catch phrases such as "Stop Hitler Now", "Send Aid to the Allies" are diabolical. Incidentally, the phrase "Stop Hitler Now" originated when 18 prominent bankers, including Mr. Stimson, met secretly in New York City on the 29th of April to set up the "Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies." The meeting was called by the former legal adviser to the British Embassy in the last war. In other words, the same group of millionaires who helped get us into the last war are using the same propaganda and the same old slogans in their attempts to get us into this war. But the answer is —"What are you going to send?" The British Army abandoned far more first grade equipment in Norway than is possessed by the entire United States Army today. That is the testimony of our Army chieftains.

I hear someone say—"We will send them material and aircraft as fast as we can produce it." My readers, remember this! Both Hitler and our President came into power in 1933. Hitler started his re-armament program then. The whole world knew it. The wheels of industry buzzed in Germany and we have the word of our General Staff to the effect that it would cost this nation on our price basis 100 billions of dollars to duplicate his equipment. His entire nation went to work on war preparation. Let us hope we shall never have to do that in this country. But the fact remains, regardless of our industrial capabilities in this land, how can you expect to cope with a machine like that within any period of a few months? We talk about increasing our own armed forces of professional soldiers. We now talk about universal military training. With what shall these professional soldiers be equipped, and with what shall the youth be trained? How then can we be expected to furnish materials to anyone else if our first duty should be to prepare to defend this nation? Above all, in these trying days, let us be practical!

I personally fear no foreign invasion of these shores in the reasonably near future, but the best way to insure against invasion at any time in the future is to prepare ourselves on this side of the water, and do that FIRST. George Washington said "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

When we prepare this nation, let us look first to our aircraft and secondly to our mechanized forces. Wars now move on wings and wheels—not on foot. Let us have our man-power trained to mechanized warfare. I do not concur with the President's present demand for compulsory military training of boys and girls. I hope that we will expand our voluntary military training in all lines of preparedness for front-line and behind-the-line service, just as fast as the equipment for such training can be provided. If I gauge the American spirit correctly these days, I doubt that we shall find slackers in our youth — from whatever homes they come—when it comes to preparing themselves to defend these shores on this continent.

Meanwhile, if it should be found necessary later to have compulsory training of any kind, let us be careful whom we select to head such a program. Newspaper dispatches in Washington state that the President has now delegated this position to Sidney Hillman. To those interested, I refer you to the Congressional Record, page 11938, from which you will learn "He was born in Lithuania, but spent most of his days in promoting Marxism and radical labor unionism. He organized the Russian-American Industrial Corporation in New York City, of which he became president in 1922. This organization sent over one million dollars to Russia. Hillman also helped organize recently a campaign to raise funds in the United States in support of the Spanish Red government. x x x He was expelled from the American Federation of Labor in 1911. x x x Hillman received a wire from Rykoff in Moscow in 1932 in which he, as a representative of Lenin, expressed the satisfaction of the Soviet Government over the results of Hillman's actions." Do you want to trust your sons and daughters to a program under the leadership of such a man?

The Monroe Doctrine

On Tuesday of last week, I was one of eight members of the House who voted against a resolution writing into the law of this land the Monroe Doctrine. That Doctrine has been universally recognized for nearly 120 years. No foreign nation has ever successfully challenged it. No foreign nation ever will successfully challenge it as long as there is a drop of red blood in the United States. Why then should it be written into the law of the land at this moment? Why carry a chip on your shoulder, with a dead twig in your hand for armament? War hysteria has not gripped me to that degree yet.

Think it over. Write me your views. I shall continue to represent you to the best of my ability.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening of each month at 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 30.

The Golden Text (II Peter 1:21) is: "The prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Luke 17:20, 21): "And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation: Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (576): "This kingdom of God 'is within you,'—is within reach of man's consciousness here, and the spiritual idea reveals it. In divine Science, man possesses this recognition of harmony consciously in proportion to his understanding of God."

Be kind to your eyes this summer. The director of the Better Vision Institute explains how the wrong kind of sun glasses can get you into serious trouble and tells how you can play safe by heeding expert advice about tints and lenses. LANSING LETTER of the state administrative board. On Wednesday, July 3, the "little legislature", officially known as the Michigan emergency appropriations commission, will meet here to provide funds to construct an anti-aircraft armory in Detroit and possibly to enlarge the state police force. However, state officials cautioned the public against hysteria.

Thus the blitzkrieg triumphs of Herr Hitler are having reactions on the every-day life of Michigan people. Once again, our citizens find that it's a small world.

Leaders to Speak

National defense needs in Michigan will be outlined by the following speakers at the Port Huron conference to be held at the Gratiot Inn:

Army—Col. John S. Bersey, the adjutant general of Michigan.

Navy — Commander Brondhead, Michigan naval reserves.

Aviation—Col. Floyd Evans, director, state aeronautics board.

Highways—Murray D. Van Wagoner, commissioner, state highway department.

State police—Lieut. Harold Mulbar, deputy chief of detectives and in charge of a state police division for "fifth column" subversive vigilance.

The conference will be opened officially at a noon luncheon by Governor Luren Dickinson and will be closed at a dinner program by Everett DeRyke, American Legion state commander.

Invasion of Canada?

The jittery mental attitude of Canadian citizens—some of them at least — prompted Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario to declare the other day that Nazi forces in Michigan threatened an invasion of Canada!

He said fascists awaited only a word from Hitler to shoulder arms and institute a miniature blitzkrieg across the United States border.

Fantastic was this outright intimation that Canada was in jeopardy from a "fifth column" subversive plot hatched in Michigan. (The domestic politics underlying Hepburn's remarks are that the premier at Toronto differs from the dominion premier at Ottawa on the conduct of the war; Hepburn believes that Ontario needs more home defense units.)

An invitation to Premier Hepburn to address the Michigan editors at Sarnia, and thus possibly clarify the "Michigan invasion" situation, brot a letter of regret that Hepburn was ill and his personal physician had advised against further speech-making. A member of the premier's cabinet may bring a message from Toronto to the Sarnia dinner.

"Fifth Column"

Two incidents have been reported in the press which tend to bear out the request of Commissioner Oscar Olander for 100 more state police officers.

"Fifth column" activity was suspected this month in the blaze of a freight car, loaded with General Motors engines, as a train was entering the St. Clair river tunnel between Port Huron and Sarnia. The train was also carrying munitions, it was said.

During the first World war a small arsenal was uncovered in Detroit in connection with a German plot.

Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, in requesting Washington to add a mobile anti-aircraft regiment in Detroit, said: "The vital necessity of the presence of such troops in Michigan industrial area is most apparent."

While state officials generally were in agreement that Michigan should act to strengthen its national defense lines, they were not in accord as to the effectiveness of any action by the "little legislature" which is limited to unexpended funds. Officials said it may be necessary for the governor to call a special session of the legislature to revise 1940-41 appropriations.

Legionnaires

In the rank-and-file of Michigan citizens are thousands of World War veterans of 1917-18, many of whom went overseas in that well-intentioned crusade to "make the world safe for democracy."

Peace-loving in their daily life, the American Legionnaires this week exemplified a devotion to peace through sponsorship of a training school for democracy, the Wolverine Boys' State at Michigan State College in East Lansing.

Nearly 1,100 Michigan boys, each one 16 or 17 years old, have been studying first-hand the operations of democratic government. They organized a mythical 49th state, electing their own governor and members of the legislature and conducting other functions of state, county and city government.

Without a flash of the bayonet and without the snap of a military command, World War veterans have been devoting their time and talents in an idealistic effort. Training leaders of tomorrow in the cause of making democracy work is a far cry from the battle-field. It offers a refreshing contrast in America to the totalitarian regimentation of youth by Dictators Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini!

mackinaws and 50 steelhead, brought into one of our local fishing camps from Monday, June 17, throogh Sunday, June 23. Seven of the mackinaws were taken from Lake Michigan, 5 from Lake Charlevoix including the largest, a 16-pounder. And, of course, all the steelhead came from the west end of Lake Charlevoix. That's not a bad week's work! And then, if I was able to keep track of all the fish many other individuals have taken during the same period, the total would no dnubt jump a lot larger. The moral is: "Don't complain unless yoo have justification, then keep quiet."

Regular city employes took the oath of allegiance to the American flag and the city of Charlevoix at a ceremony conducted last Saturday in the city hall by Rev. W. L. Cruthers, chaplain of Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, before a Legion "guard of honor" of four members. This function was a reflection of the awakening loyalty of Americans generally to their duty of upholding American institutions in this time of world-wide conflict which threatens our nation. I would call attention also to the lusty singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" nightly at our local movie theater. I revel in this display of loyalty, but can feel nothing but sadness because it recalls World War days.

You would have had to look at the calendar to know that summer arrived last Friday, the 21st, for the temperature of 45 degrees at that particular time was far from summerlike. Fact of the matter is, the temperature was the lowest ever recorded for that date.

Just when a fellow thinks he's got things figured out pretty well, along comes someone to knock it all "into a cocked hat." Here I was laboring under the illusion blondes and redheads could get almost everything they wanted, then I find out a prejudice against these gals reduces their chances of landing jobs for the reason that department store executives "can't have the customers looking at the sales girls instead of the goods." Tsh! Ssh! Well, anyway, the blondes and red-heads can take some consolation from the knowledge they draw attention.

Those who have an appreciation of Nature's beauties should take time to drive around and see that English hawthorne tree in the yard of the F. W. Mayne residence, corner Michigan avenue and Ainslie street. I haven't the adequate words to describe it.

Scribner's Commentator Magazine's answer to "Why We're Not Armed" is given thusly: "With the money the New Deal has spent for public buildings throughout the country a total of 7,112 fighting aircraft could have been constructed." — a formidable armada itself.

And while waiting for next week's quibble, think this over: "Goodwill is the one and only asset that competition cannot undersell nor destroy."

GIRLS' TRAINING SCHOOL IS CLOSED TEMPORARILY

Period of June 25 to July 11 to be Used for House Decoration

The Charlevoix Girls' Resident Training Project is closing June 25 for redecoration of the residence. It will re-open July 11th with an enrollment of twenty-five girls.

Thirty-two of the thirty-eight girls enrolled since November 1st have been placed in good positions.

Careful selection of students, from NYA employables, is made by the district director of the National Youth Administration. No formal educational requirement for enrollment is established, but care is taken in selecting only those girls who possess aptitude and ability which enable them to profit to a marked degree by the training provided. Training in home management, hotel and clerical work gives students opportunities for placement at good wages.

Applications may be placed with Mrs. L. Pearl Meads, district director at Cheboygan, or Mrs. Lela Hallett, resident director at Charlevoix.

High praise has been given the project by Hugh Gray, president of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association. Credit is also due to the co-sponsors, the city of Charlevoix, and the board of education, for success of the project.

Credit for a $5 donation to the Girl Scouts mentioned in an article last week should have been to the Charles Dickens Club instead of the Shakespeare Study Club.

ALLARD-HERINGTON WEDDING WAS AN EVENT OF SATURDAY AT PETOSKEY

Miss Audrey Allard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Allard, and Robert Herington, son of Otto Herington of Detroit, and grandson of Mrs. Ella Brenner of this city, were united in marriage at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 22, by Fr. Mulcahy Cashman at St. Francis church in Petoskey.

Frederick Ager and Miss Margaret Chvatil were attendants to the bridal couple.

Pale blue net fashioned the bride's street-length gown, with which she wore blue accessories. Her flowers were pink sweet peas and blue forget-me-nots. The bridesmaid wore rose crepe, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

A reception for sixty guests was given at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony. Refreshments were served buffet style, from a table laid with white lace, and ornamented with tall white candles. The white three-tiered wedding cake, with a tiny bride and groom atop, was served, with ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Herington left Sunday for Detroit, where they will make their home.

HARRY F. KELLY HAS ANNOUNCED CANDIDACY

Will Seek Re-Election as Secretary of State This Fall

Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, has announced he will be a candidate at the fall state Republican convention for a second term in that office.

The announcement was made to 400 State Department employes and friends at an outing at Port Huron, and sets at rest rumors as to his political intentions.

Mr. Kelly told the Port Huron gathering that there is much important work that he would like to carry out during the next term in the Secretary of State's office. He pointed out that there will be additional duties because of the taxes imposed by the federal rearmament program and that further and drastic economies will be necessary in stute government.

SUPERVISORS CONCLUDE JUNE MEET

THREE-DAY SESSION ENDED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Scrap Over Road Commission Resulted in Turning Selection of Members to Vote of People

Completing a three-day session last Wednesday afternoon the Charlevoix county board of supervisors adjourned until the regular October meeting.

The county's assessed valuation was dropped from the 1939 figures of $8,871,965 to $8,586,318, a decrease of $285,647. Major portion of the decrease embodies $267,290 in lands reverted to the state because of tax delinquency and upon which the county previously derived no taxes, thus income will not be particularly effected. The city of Charlevoix was granted a valuation decrease of $29,780, largely through the efforts of Supervisor Arthur Bergeon.

Adjournment Wednesday afternoon was preceded hy a heated discussion in which broadsides charging inefficiency were hurled by some supervisors against the county road commission. By a 14 to 11 secret ballot, the board voted to return selection of road commission members back to vote of the people, reversing action taken at the last October session to name commissioners by board appointment.

An additional $10,100 was voted to the social welfare commission for relief to November 1. The appropriation makes a total of $25,000 for the current 12 months.

An appropriation of $375 was voted for the District Health Unit to augment Couzen's Fund grants, which, it is understood, are short of being sufficient for the year. The board had previously granted $425, making a total of $800 for the year.

The board voted to allow expenses of county officials to their various state conventions.

SEAPLANE FLOAT WAS DEDICATED

APPROPRIATE CEREMONY CONDUCTED THURSDAY

Project Cited as Sample of Increasing Civic Air-Mindedness by Orin W. Kaye, NYA Head

Charlevoix's city financed-NYA constructed seaplane float was dedicated Thursday morning with appropriate ceremony at Ferry avenue park.

In a dedicatory address, Orin W. Kaye, state NYA administrator, lauded the increasing civic air-mindedness as represented by Charlevoix's and 31 other such projects in Michigan. "Youth trained in aviation, in which NYA is playing a prominent role," he said, "will ultimately form the first line of defense in the United States the same as in Germany, where Adolph Hitler has built the world's greatest air power with youth as the foundation."

He cited that Michigan's National Youth Administration, in addition to the construction of seaplane floats, is assisting the development of aviation through construction of airport markers and the training of future aviation mechanics at six centers where youth are given exploratory work experience using obsolete motors, planes and equipment.

Mayor Robert Bridge introduced visiting officials following the christening by Jackie Herrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Herrick, in a ceremony in which the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts participated. The coast guard patrol boat met officials arriving in a Civil Aeronautic Authority plane from Traverse City. The city band, under direction of Max Smith, played selections preceding the program. Amplifying system was provided by the Michigan AAA sound car.

Speaking also were Capt. Robert Fogg, representative of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Washington, D. C., and Colonel Floyd E. Evans, director of the Michigan State Department of Aeronautics, who presented awards to five youths, winners of a model airplane contest conducted Wednesday.

STATE GAME LAWS TO BE UNCHANGED

EXTENSION GIVEN TRAPPERS IN MONROE COUNTY

Michigan Department of Conservation Guests Sportsman's Club at Banquet Dinner Monday

Existing small game laws, with one exception, were approved by the Michigan Department of Conservation at a meeting at the Belvedere Hotel, Monday.

The exception was a 30-day extension of the muskrat season to January 31 in a specially designated area of the Monroe county marshes. Trappers in this area had complained they were unable to compete with inland trappers because of changing water levels in Lake Erie.

The Otsego game refuge was opened to the hunting of all game except elk, but hunting in Seeney waterfowl refuge east of Driggs river was closed for one year.

In other rulings, the commission banned for one year the taking of sharp-tailed grouse on Beaver Island; renewed an order closing Emmet and Cheboygan counties to hunting of fox squirrels; refused a request for a closed season on pheasants in Wexford and Alcona counties; lifted an order prohibiting the taking of pheasants in Presque Isle and Benzie counties, and approved u 2 p. m. closing hour for duck hunting on Muskegon lake.

From funds set aside from fishing license fees the commission voted to purchase the following property: An area 300x3,000 feet at the mouth of the Au Sahle river at Oscoda; 228 feet on Paw Paw lake, Berrien county; 1,000 feet at the mouth of the Ford river, Delta county; 500 feet on Big lake, Allegan county; 150 feet on Round lake and 150 feet on Clear lake, Van Buren county.

The commission also voted to purchase 972 acres immediately south of Wilderness park, Emmet county, to be set aside for hunting purposes and accepted as a gift from the city of Muskegon a parcel of land near US-31 and M-60 for construction of an equipment building.

COLLECT NEW TAXES STARTING ON JULY 1

Cigarette and Liquor Levy Became Effective on Monday

Collection of the additional half cent federal tax on each package of cigarettes began Monday.

Giles Kavanagh, collector of internal revenue for Michigan, urges all cigarette dealers—manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers—to inventory their stocks as of June 30 so they will be able to fill out forms which were to he furnished them by the federal government.

A similar order went out to liquor retailers to facilitate collection of the additional levy on liquor.

Kavanagh said that in cases where the manufacturers had paid the old 6 cents per pack tax the additional levy would be collected from jobbers and retail stores.

Commenting on another phase of the defense taxes, Kavanagh said that he expected about 100,000 more Michigan citizens would be called upon to pay income tnxes next year.

SCHOOL MEETING MONDAY, JULY 8

ANNUAL SESSION IN ASSEMBLY ROOM AT 8 O'CLOCK

Election of Two Trustees and Reports of Secretary, Treasurer and Librarian Will be Given

The annual meeting of Charlevoix School District No. 1, city and township, one of the important civic affairs of the summer, will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening, July 8, in the assembly room of the senior high school.

There will be the election of two members of the hoard of trustees. The term of Clarence B. Meggison, secretary, expires with the annual meeting, and election of a trustee to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Carleton Dean, resigned, is scheduled.

In addition to the election of trustees, reports of the secretary and treasurer, also of the Charlevoix public library, will be given.

The meeting is open for the discussion of school affairs generally and the board of trustees extends an invitation to all interested persons to be present. Of especial interest will be the secretary's and treasurer's reports covering finances and conduct of the school system during the past year. It will be interesting to note that Charlevoix schools, quite contrary to the general condition for Michigan, have been operated on full schedule and still have u treasury balance.

ANNOUNCE SUMMER PROGRAM AT THE ARGONNE

Dancing Nightly Will Be Provided Next Week; Plan Special Features

STATE AMATEURS HERE NEXT WEEK

MICHIGAN CHAMPIONSHIPS AT BELVEDERE COURSE

Qualifying Round Thursday; Match Play Friday and Saturday; Final 36 Holes Sunday

Michigan's top-notch amateur golfers will converge upon Charlevoix next week for the Michigan State Golf League's 34th annual amateur golf championship of Michigan, scheduled July 11-14 at the Belvedere Golf Cluh course.

The tournament is returned to the Belvedere course, once acclaimed by Walter Hagen as the finest resort lay-out in the country, after a lapse of five years. Robert Babbish, of Detroit, copped the title in 1935. The event was first held here in 1930. "Chuck" Kocsis, 17-year-old Detroiter, leaped into golfing fame by winning the event. Kocsis recently turned professional. The tournament was also awarded to Charlevoix the following year, 1931. Rex Bigelow, of Jackson, out-played a brilliant field to win the title.

Ask Caddies Report

Ray Kipke, Belvedere Golf Club caddy master, has asked that all experienced caddies register for service during the tournament. In view of the fact no outside caddies will be allowed to serve, it is important all local caddies report to prevent a shortage during the tournamont.

According to advance reports from the metropolitan districts, a record entry is expected for this first playing of the tournament in the northern Michigan resort area since 1935. The event drew a field of 150, representing 43 clubs, in 1930. While little information on the players who will compete is available at this early date, the usual top-notch field is expected.

Qualifying round of 18 holes is scheduled Thursday, July 11. Match play starts Friday between championship flight qualifiers, and continues Saturday. The 36-hole championship match is scheduled Sunday, July 14. Plans call for 36 holes of medal play Friday for all who fail to qualify for the championship flight.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

It's no use boys! The fastest runner in the world recently got married.

Jay Metcalf, well known Grand Rapids sportsman, provided local outdoor lovers with a rare treat Thursday night. Two colored movies, one of a cruise from Charlevoix up thru St. Mary's river to the Soo and on up Lake Superior, the other a moose hunting expedition in Canada, were full of beautiful scenery, as well as fishing and hunting action which would thrill any sportsman. Perhaps most thrilling, and unusual as well, were actual "shots" of shooting a moose and a deer. The cruise trip views showed taking of mackinaw trout — 24-pounders and up. Metcalf certainly has a treasure in those action pictures of experiences during the years "when his waistline was not too large to enjoy them", as he put it. Many thanks, Jay!

Susie Hochandle, from out Toenail Hill way, once said: "While late hours may not be too good for one, they certainly can be made very enjoyable for two."

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

For a quick cooling off of emotional ardor that the United States should go to war, consider the Michigan national guard.

Six thousand sons of Michigan, who form half of the 32nd Division, are handicapped today by lack of the following modern equipment:

No new anti-tank guns.
No anti-aircraft guns.
No Garand automatic rifles.
No mechanization of cavalry.
Only 12 observation planes.

In the light of 1940 Hitler-style warfare, mechanized to the nth degree, the deficiency of the above material is serious. War has became a battle of machines on land and in air; its tempo has been speeded tremendously until the 16-mile infantry advance of a World war day has been multiplied tenfold by motorized transportation.

Air Patrol

Airplane operated jointly by department of conservation, Michigan state police and highway department has been fitted with pontoons and is being used to discourage illegal commercial fishing practices. Illegally-placed nets can be seen easily from the air and the pilot and observer are in constant touch with patrol boats by short wave radio. When necessary, the airplane can land alongside a fishing boat which is outrunning one of the conservation department's patrols.

What Becomes of Missing Spies?

In these days of "fifth column" and "Trojan Horse" activities, it is but natural to think of the part spies are playing in modern warfare. And what could be more interesting reading than a headline spy story by such an able writer as Augustus Muir, about one who gave up his seat to a lady spy, in the luckiest move he ever made? If you like thrills be sure to read "Wings in The Night," in This Week Magazine, with next Sunday's Detroit News.

Following the program, city officials entertained the visitors at luncheon at Hallett Hotel.

National interest in the event was evidenced by the mailing of 502 letters, affixed with a special dedication cachet, to nearly every state in the union, to Canada, England, Hawaii, Sweden and Haiti. The cacheted envelopes went largely to stamp collectors.

MISS IVA HOWE AND ADOLPH ECKLUND WED SATURDAY, JUNE 29TH

The wedding of Miss Iva Elizabeth Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howe, and Adolph Ecklund of East Lansing, son of Mrs. Margaret Ecklund of Chicago, was solemnized at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, June 29, at the Methodist church.

Rev. John W. Alexander officiated at the beautiful ceremony, assisted by Rev. Ellsworth Swanson of the Pilgrim church at Ellsworth. The altar of the church was decorated with ferns, and bouquets of peonies, iris, and hawthorn. Music for the ceremony was played by Mrs. A. C. Belding at the organ and Mrs. A. A. Swinton at the piano.

Traditional white satin was the bride's choice for her gown, which was made princess style, with v-neck, long fitted sleeves, and a short train. Her full-length veil fell from a cap held by a half-circle of tiny blue flowers. White roses, carnations, and snap-dragons made her bouquet.

Miss Ora Howe, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her fitted gown was of blue net. The bridesmaids, Miss Alice Ecklund, of East Lansing, and Miss Eleanor Ecklund, of Chicago, both sisters of the groom, wore peach lace. Bouquets for the maid of honor and bridesmaids were painted daisies, delphinium, carnations and white feverfew, tied with blue satin ribbons.

The charming little flower girl, Miss Ruth Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Howe, wore a frock of blue silk organdy..

Lawrence Ecklund, the groom's brother, was best man. Ushers were Philo Howe, brother of the bride, and Clare Beatty of East Lansing.

A reception was held in the League rooms of the church, following the ceremony. Punch and wafers were served to the guests, who numbered more than a hundred and fifty.

Mr. and Mrs. Ecklund left Sunday to make their home in East Lansing, where Mr. Ecklund is employed by the Federal Farm Bureau.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Charlevoix high school. Mr. Ecklund also graduated from Michigan State College school of agriculture, and Mrs. Ecklund from Cleary Business College, Ypsilanti.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN
Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

Boats and trains and autos brought together a fine group of boys for the 14th season of Camp Charlevoix on beautiful Lake Charlevoix, during the week. "Chief" Reimann and his staff were on band to greet all the new-comers and help in the warm welcoming of the oldsters. Some of the campers had to use both hands to count the number of years they have been Camp Charlevoix 'Braves'. Others are beginning their first year of fun and development.

The campers have been introduced to the various counsellors and their activities around the camp and have made their choices for morning activity periods. Sailing has maintained its great popularity with riding and swimming at the top of the list. CHARLEVOIX HAS POPULATION HIKE

INCREASE OF 19 PERSONS REVEALED SINCE 1930

Charlevoix County Has Total Population Increase of 962 Persons in Past Decade

Charlevoix county's population during the past decade has jumped from 11,981 persons to 12,943, an increase of 962 persons for the entire county, according to preliminary figures released by James W. Greenless, of Alpena, supervisor of the 11th congressional district.

These figures, it was stated, were preliminary and subject to correction.

The report further revealed that the population of the city of Charlevoix had increased between 1936 and 1940 from 2,247 persons to 2,266 persons, a total of 19.

An increase of 106 in the number of farms in Charlevoix county was reported during the past ten years. The total in 1930 was 1,209. The 1935 farm census showed a total of 1,342, thus a drop of 7 farms is recorded in the past five years.

Mr. Greenless' report showed the population figures for Presque Isle county, revealing an increase from 11,330 to 12,224, which is quite comparable to the increase in Charlevoix county.

Further reports of interest in regard to population figures and other statistics covering Charlevoix county will be released as enumerators report to district headquarters.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT COVERS BOAT CREWS

All Identification Numbers Must be Secured From State

This year, for the first time, members of the crews of yachts and pleasure boats, as well as those of the larger freight and passenger steamers on America's inland lakes and rivers, are covered by the Social Security Act. The owner of the ship is required to pay the same taxes as other employers in commerce or industry and workers' pay is subject to the usual deduction of one per cent for old-age and survivors insurance.

Employers operating such craft must get social security identification numbers and their employees must have account numbers.

This will affect many ship and yacht owners in this vicinity and will provide for unemployment compensation for many crew and boat members who are thrown out of work when the winter season starts. Both account and identification numbers may be obtained by applying to Sidney Laurens, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Traverse City. The account number may be used anywhere in the United States, and need not be obtained at the place of employment of the worker.

STATE WILL ADD TRUCK FERRY AT THE STRAITS

New Service to be Inaugurated July 1, Department Announces

The highway department has announced that a special summer truck service by state ferries at the Straits of Mackinac will be operated from July 1 to September 9.

Five round trips will be made daily, starting at 6 a. m. at St. Ignace and leaving Mackinaw City at 7:30. Crossing will be at 90 minute intervals, with the last trip from Mackinaw City at 7:30 p. m.

Trucks will use the steamer Ste. Marie which has been leased by the state highway department. Trucks will board the ferry boat at the Mackinac Transportation Co., railroad docks. Gasoline and other highly inflammable cargoes will not be handled. Truck service is resumed after being discontinued in 1939.

AT THE MOVIES

In the glamorous days of Imperial Austria, before the World War, there was a palace in Vienna occupied by horses. The unique palace was recreated on a Hollywood motion picture stage when the Imperial Stables, adjunct of the Imperial Riding School, were photographed in exact replica for "Florian," cavalcade of the fall of an empire, coming Saturday, July 6, to the Palace Theatre.

Not only the stables but the riding arena of the school was reproduced for the picture. In the latter set "Florian," the Lippizan stallion trained in the actual Vienna School and one of the four imported to America and owned by Winfield Sheehan, producer of the picture, performs the entire routine of the exhibition, ridden by Robert Young, who plays the male lead. The exhibition was staged as the Emperor's review, with Reginald Owen impersonating Franz Josef and a brilliant group of royalty and nobles in the Imperial box.

Spencer Tracy is living proof that most stars succeed because of talent, ability and sheer hard work rather than as the result of fantastic press-agentry and off-screen publicity stunts designed to get one's name in the newspapers. His latest and most noteworthy character role is that of "Edison, the Man" which is MGM's second half of the two-part biography of the famous inventor whose human qualities will endear him to millions of Americans not very familiar with his exciting life. The previous part of this biographical narrative featured Mickey Rooney as "Young Tom Edison." Each one is complete in itself and "Edison, the Man" is coming to the Palace Theatre for two days beginning next Sunday, July 7. Ritu Johnson, Lynne Overman, Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Henry Travers and Felix Bressart are starred in the cast.

Radio's "Henry Aldrich" Has First Screen Role

Ezra Stone, who has ridden to nationwide fame as "Henry Aldrich" in the radio serial, essays his first screen role in "Those Were the Days," Paramount's nostalgic comedy romance about "Good Old Siwash," based on George Fitch's Satevepost yarns. With William Holden and Bonita Granville co-featured, the picture opens on July 9 at the Palace Theatre.

Roach's "Saps at Sea" is Laugh Riot

In his latest laugh-filled comedy, "Saps At Sea," Hal Roach presents those master comics, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy as a pair of testers in a horn factory. This hilariously funny picture was directed by Gordon Douglas and will be released by United Artists for its local premiere at the Palace Theatre on Thursday, Friday, July 11-12.

FIND TURTLE WITH INITIALS CARVED ON BACK

A turtle on whose under shell are carved the date "1886" and the initials "R. M." was found recently by Howard Cole. Report of the find to conservation officers was almost coincidental with a similar experience reported to them by Grover Conklin of Hanover, who had found a turtle on his farm whose shell carried the legend "1887-W. H. Thompson."

First joint land purchase with deer hunting license and fishing license funds was approved by the conservation commission recently when it authorized buying of 1,000 acres in Montmorency county. The land offers good deer, snowshoe hare and partridge hunting and has frontage on Grass and Rush lakes and on the north branch of Thunder Bay river.

A HISTORY OF THE CHARLEVOIX SCHOOL

Given by Mrs. A. B. Saltonstall before the Kiwanis Club, June 4, 1940, at the request of M. A. Levinson.

In June, 1933, the district was faced with a financial shortage by reason of frozen bank assets and tax delinquencies. In order to complete the payment of salaries and short term loans, the Board of Education issued $10,000 in script, bearing 6% interest and payable September 28th of the same year.

The great depression was on, and it was found necessary the next year, 1933-4, to operate the schools on a greatly reduced budget. The reduction amounted to practically 50%. This was brought about by eliminating the ungraded room, also the domestic science, vocal music and physical education departments. All salaries were cut. The manual arts department was continued only because the teacher had no place to go and was willing to take an enormous cut. The office of superintendent and high school principal was combined. This combination alone effected a saving of $1400.

From the time the Washington and Lincoln schools were discontinued in 1928, the question of transportation of pupils in the outskirts was a cause of grievance aired at many annual school meetings. This was definitely settled in 1937, when the Board purchased a school bus, and one of the janitors has since brought the pupils in to school in the morning and returned them at night.

Previous to that time bus service for the winter months only was procured from the lowest bidder.

Among those who superintended the Charlevoix schools up to about 20 years ago were H. M. Enos, D. F. Wilson, J. M. Tice, F. W. Howe, W. F. Woodley, I. M. Devoe, H. A. Craig and one lady, Miss Minnie Goss. Miss Goss left to marry and the others to take better positions, so far as can be learned.

Then there was a period when Charlevoix gained an unenviable reputation for frequently changing superintendents. Mr. Rice, Charles Hamilton, George Coverdale, Mr. Otterbein, and Gerald Bush followed each other in rapid succession. The latter stayed only two years and left in 1933, when the office of superintendent and high school principal were combined, and O. P. North, who had been principal since 1925, took over both. Other teachers who have been a long time in the system are Mrs. Gertrude Dick, Miss Florenz Milner, Miss Clara Bittner, Stewart E. Coleman, Harry E. Bingham, and Ray Kipke. This list is incomplete without the name of Miss Sophia Manson, deceased, a much-loved teacher for many years.

The women teachers have had a tendency to marry and settle down here. Among these are Mrs. F. W. Mayne, Mrs. Jud Markham, Mrs. Archibald Buttars 1st, Mrs. W. H. Miller, Mrs. Robert O'Neil, Mrs. Lyle Shanahan, Mrs. Arthur Bergeon, Mrs. Rollie Lewis, Mrs. Walter Bergeon, Mrs. Harrison Trimble, Mrs. Arthur Fitch, Mrs. Will Bellinger, Mrs. Don Swinton, Mrs. Tony Novotny, Mrs. Karl Erber, Mrs. Louis O'Neill, Mrs. Clinton Cooper, Mrs. Irving Hallett, Mrs. Charles Heise, Mrs. E. J. Edwards, Mrs. E. J. Hiller. There may have been others.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Grasshopper Bait Available to All Farmers Week of July 8th

The committee in charge of the county grasshopper campaign definitely announced that bait will be available at the Boyne Falls mixing station the entire week beginning July 8th. While this opening date is somewhat later than usual, based upon our observations, it is about the proper time to most effectively kill the grasshoppers.

The cold spring, in addition to rain nearly every day, has kept the numbers down and their damage to crops at a minimum. However, with four or five days of clear, sunshiny weather, they develop very rapidly and then begin to move from hay and pasture fields into cultivated arens. Thus it would appear that effective control cnn be made if all farmers will get their poison bait any time during thnt week. The main thing to keep in mind is to bait your hay fields after you take the hny off and you will prevent future damage.

As usual there will be no charges for the bait but each farmer must bring his own sacks and secure his bait at the Boyne Falls mixing station. A half day spent in spreading bait on your hay fields and pasture fields will prevent future losses in your cultivated areas.

Spraying Cherries for Cherry Fruit Fly Must be Done Sooo

Notice has just arrived that the first spray to control cherry fruit fly should be applied by July third in Charlevoix county. In any case, apply it just as soon as possible.

Sour canning cherries, which are to be thoroughly washed, should receive a spray containing two pounds of lead arsenate in one hundred gallons of water. Remember, the lead arsenate can be added to the spray containing fungicide.

It is further recommended that the second spray be applied from ten days to two weeks after the first spray in case a period of two weeks elapses between the emergence of the fly and picking time. Additional sprays may be required if the poison is washed off by heavy rains. All other fruit trees, except peaches, inter-planted or in close proximity to the cherry trees, should likewise be sprayed along with the cherries.

It is of interest to learn that the cherry crop in this county is somewhat better than in the balance of the state.

Better Trained

And yet in spite of the appalling shortage of vital arms, the Michigan National Guard is "five thousand times" better equipped and better trained than it was in 1917.

The statement comes from Col. John S. Bersey, the ndjutnnt general of Michigan, whose full-time business is national defense.

It offers an insight into the relative unpreparedness of the Guard in 1917 as compared with 1940 when the German blitzkrieg, unorthodox in its methods, changed rules of the military manual.

For example, Michigan is one of 17 states authorized to maintain an aireraft arm. The 107th Observation Squadron is based at the Wayne county airport, Detroit. Its total equipment today is twelve planes. It was only in the past two months that the unit received nine new observation planes each of which carry a pilot, machine-gunner and an observer.

At a time when Germany's output of airplanes is estimated to be 100 a day, the dozen airplanes at Detroit would not begin to meet military needs for 30 seconds. (The federal government maintains a large corps north of Detroit at Selfridge field.)

Then there is the new automatic rifle of which the United States has about 75,000 to date. None of these has been distributed to Michigan guardsmen who rely upon the old Springfield rifle, firing five times semi-automatically from cartridge elips.

Horse Cavalry

The World War style of horse cavalry still prevails.

The 106th Cavalry depends on horses which are fine for polo games and whieh are still reliable for military use after the tanks, airplanes and trueks smash through enemy lines.

This is in contrast with mcehanized cavalry units in other states. The cavalry also has two riders for every horse.

The 182nd Field Artillery, a motorized unit, lacks some tractors and trucks. (Miehigan's guard is to get 42 trucks this year.).

From coast to coast Michigan is known as the foremost industrial state whose technological advance has been the marvel of engineers from nations of the world. This lack of arms is also contrast to the state's ability to manufacture them.

Congress has just authorized a four hillion dollar expenditure for armaments of all kinds. The regular army is to be almost doubled in size from 225,000 to 400,000. During the last year the Michigan guard was authorized to recruit 1,000 men, and today the state force is more than 6,000 strong.

Military Viewpoint

If Hitler overwhelms the English isles, military observers are convinced that this country will be forced to embark upon a military training program that would make the Michigan force of 6,000 men look like pygmies.

Instead of 6,000 soldiers, the state would probnbly have 60,000.

A national guard strength of three million men is being recommended by experts.

Likewise, Michigan's current effort to dig up $50,000 or so to provide some additional armories for expanding guard units will seem like matching for pennies. The explosion overseas has transformed our unemployment problem into a preparedness problem overnight. (Governor Luren D. Diekinson recently neceded to pressure of advisors and requested the United States government to authorize nn anti-aircraft unit for Detroit.)

The cost of modern military arms is fnirly staggering to the imagination. Eaeh of Michigan's new observation planes, for example, eost Uncle Sam nbout $60,000 each. It takes about $10,000,000 to equip one anti-aircraft regiment! That calls for a lot of blue ehips in the form of increased federal taxes.

Educational Orders

It was William Jennings Bryan who declared that a threat of war would find a million Americans springing to arms hetween sunset nnd sunrise.

The men might spring, all right, but they wouldn't have the arms.

As recently as two months ago the House at Washington pooh-poohed the need for educationnl orders for making of war needs in industrinl plants. The senate budget nppropriation of $16,000,000 was cut to $2,000,000.

This aroused the ire of Rep. Albert J. Engel, Michignn. He declared:

"We should have tools, dies nnd jibs mnde with which to produce the equipmeat necessary for equipping an army of one million men. If we hnve the tools, dies and jibs, we wjll have saved from three to five months nnd not be dependent upon taking these workers from ordinary production.

"We then should have enough educational orders in these factories to train sufficient men so that on short notice we can go into production of the required mnterial and equipment."

A Pressing Factor

After the United States entered the last war, the armies of Great Britain and France, together with those of Italy and Russia, engaged the Germans for nearly one year until we could train an army and transport them to France. Even Henry Ford in his remarkable offer to build 1,000 airplanes a day said that it would take him six months.

If we are given the time (and the right leadership) the country can properly equip its regular army and its nationnl guard.

Likewise, Ford can build his 1,000 airplanes every 24 hours.

Factories also can be ready to turn out war goods on a brief notice.

But the big factor, unforeseen six months ago, is time. Michigan's national guard is offered as exhibit A. Well trained as it is, the guard is not prepared for war this July 4, 1940.

Candidate for Congress

Oswald T. MeGinn, of Cheboygan, has announced his candidacy for the Demoerntic nomination for Congressman from the 11th distriet.

The Pittman-Robertson act, under which congress apportions among the states the proceeds of a 10 per cent tax on firearms and ammunition has supplied federal money for wildlife restoration in Michigan annually beginning with 1938.

a new swing bridge at Charlevoix, to bring it up to national defense requirements, reminds me that Mrs. Henrietta G. Steiner, our genial Belvedere Hotel maanger, was favored with a personal call last week by Murray D. VanWagoner, State Highway Commissioner, in response to a series of letters giving him 'h--l" over the condition of US-31 between Charlevoix und Bay Shore. Among other things she had pointed out to Van Wagoner the futility of spending thousands of dollars advertising to bring tourists to this section only to have them come once and never return because of the awful condition of this notorious piece of highway. Mrs. Steiner got enough of a "raise" out of Van Wagoner to cause him to pay a personal visit, so perhaps if enough of us adopted the same tactics our combined efforts might produce results. It ought to be worth a try, anyway.

No Corn Cnbs Today!

When the purchase of a roll of tissue is important enough to make news, as was the case with the Boyne Citizen recently, one can only draw their own conclusions.

Two "blitzkriegs" during the supervisors' session just closed — one against the sheriff's department because of nlleged high operating costs, and the other against the county road commission for various and sundry reasons—created some high blood pressure, but little else. The sheriff told the county solons he could cut down expenses by not enforcing the law, if they wanted things done that way; the road commission sat tight upon their statutory rights. So that's that!

Charlevoix sportsmen were given an opportunity Monday night to "rub shoulders" with members of the Michigan Department of Conservation, a group of men who are charged with one of the greatest responsibilities in Michigan—that of preserving for ourselves and future generations the outdoor resources of our great state. Everyone found them as intensely interested in their responsibility as we would have them be. Perhaps one of the most significant of many significant remarks made at the banquet was that of Willis Cross, local commercial fisherman and president of the Michigan Fish Producers' Association, District No. 2, who expressed the desire that the misunderstandings which have existed between commercial fishermen and the department be erased and that all join in an effort to replenish the fast diminishing supply of commercial fish in the Great Lakes. Cross' remarks were an indication that the commercial fishermen have nwakened to the fact the future of their industry depends upon cooperation with agencies which can and will help them. They will get some place with such a spirit!

Just a reminder that next Monday night, July 8, is time of the annual school meeting. It is the duty of each and every patron to attend this important function.

Tomorrow (Thursday) is July 4th. East Jordan's hnving the county celebrntion this year and, according to reports, they've arranged a fine program of entertainment.

If I happened to appear a little more emaciated Tuesday than usual, it was because I sat between Charlie and Clarence Heise at the conservation banquet Monday night and the darn cusses swiped all my food.

If the pink lemonade don't get me over the 4th, will be with you next week.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

Why Public Banking Hours are Short

MANY people wonder why banks are open for comparatively few hours each business day. This gives rise to a misconception that bankers' hours are also short.

The fact is that much of a bank's work must be done after it closes its doors in the afternoon — work which cannot be completed while the bank is serving the public. Checks received during the day must be posted to customers' accounts, or listed and sent to other banks for collection. The day's entire transactions must be entered, and the books balanced at the end of each day. If they don't balance, employees must remain until the error is corrected.

At times there are "peak loads" that require considerable work after public banking hours — such as periods when statements are being mailed to customers.

Clarence Meggison Re-Elected; Harold Withers Chosen Director to Succeed Dr. Carleton Dean

The annual meeting of Charlevoix school district No. 1, city and township, drew an attendance of around seventy persons Monday evening.

Two directors were elected for 3-year terms. Clarence B. Meggison was elected unanimnusly to succeed himself, and Harnld Withers was chosen over Oscar Strnud and Charles Humlin, other nominees, fnr 2 years to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Carleton Dean, resigned.

The treasurer's report showed a balance nf $5,809.13 in the schonl nperating and debt service funds at the close of the 1939-40 fiscal year, indicating a healthy financial condition.

The secretary's report, submitted by Clarence B. Meggison, is quoted, in part, as follows: "We are glad to be able to report that while expenditures were $550 mnre than income, that the operating cost was $1,300 less than the previous year. Considering that the schools were nperated the full term, and that the school had the entire cost of maintaining and operating the library, the financial report speaks well for economies in operation.

"Retirement of the schonl debt will be completed Jannury 1, 1942. For the past year the debt retirement rnte was reduced to 3.5 mills. It is anticipated this rate will be sufficient for the next two years."

The report also stated the school buildings to be in good condition. Projects under cnnsideration, accordi ing to the report, were a music nnd art instructor, band uniforms, establishment of a children's library in the basement of the library building.

Voters approved a motion giving authority to the board to raze the old, unused junior high building.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

It's the-Berries!

The slang remark: "It's the Berries," leaped into reality Friday when Will Knight, well known farmer residing near Atwood, presented this office with a quart nf strawberries. It required exactly 29 berries to fill the box heaping full and just to give an idea nf the size of the beauties, one measured 5½ inches in circumferance.

A down-state motor trip Thursday revealed a surprisingly small amount of nutomobile traffic fnr a hnliday period. Inquiries along the route brought the general response, "It's been too cold." Charlevoix, however, took on mid-summer appearances over the July 4th period. The holiday apparently wns the signal for many families to open summer homes, hotels had a general upturn in business and street traffic was a positive proof nf the fact that "the season is on."

The Boyne Citizen's "On the Avenue" column editor should know how that "silver hook" thing works, for it's given plenty of exercise during the smelt "run."

Michigan's amateur golfers are today "feeling" out the beautiful Belvedere Golf Club course in practice rounds preparatory to the 34th annual Michigan state amateur golf championship which opens with the qualifying round Thursday morning.

Over 70 players, vanguard of a field expected to number well over one hundred, had posted entries with Charles D. Bennett, nf Detroit, president of the Michigan State Golf League, up to noon Wednesday. Mr. Bennett stuted post entries would be accepted at the tee up to probably as late as Thursday noon, thus no estimate could be given on the number of players who will compete in this first jdaying of the tournament in northern Michigan since it was held at the Belvedere in 1935.

William Crawford Barclay, of Flint, former University of Michigan football star, the defending champion, is the favorite to repeat. Other favored entries are John W. Bailey, the youthful Battle Creek millionnaire, who was the runner-up last year; Arthur Thorner Jr., of Detroit, 1937 U. S. southpaw champion; Ed. Flowers, 1938 champion, annther Detroiter.

Questioned regarding the field Wednesday morning Mr. Bennett stated it was anynne's title and pointed to a long list of younger players capable of winning this most coveted of Michigan amateur gnlf prizes.

COAST GUARD AIR SURVEY UNDER WAY

HEADQUARTERS ESTABLISHED AT TRAVERSE CITY

Survey During Summer to Determine Need of Coast Guard Air Base on Great Lakes

Surveys to determine the necessity of a coast guard air station on the Great Lakes are now under way following arrival Wednesday at Traverse City of an air patrol detachment of the United States Coast Guard.

In command nf Lieut. A. E. Harned, a twn-motor Grumman amphibian, powered with two Pratt & Whitney 450 h. p. motors, arrived from Chicugn. In the crew are S. J. Brodnan, radio operatnr, William Rettig, chief mechnnic, and Ovie Tillis, mechanic.

The plane will be based at Traverse City until October 1 nnd will operate nt various points including Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Cheboygan, Rogers City and Bay City.

The coast guard is considering a base somewhere nn the Great Lakes which will be headquarters of a patrol to cover the entire lake area, guarding shipping, answering distress calls and nthernise serving shipping and yachting interests. Location of the base, providing the need is apparent, will be decided largely by the survey Lieut. Harned und his crew will make between now and October. When and if established, the base will have six planes and approximately 75 men, it is understood.

For the next few days Lieut. Harned will erulse the immediate region, making contacts with coast guard stations and arranging for a communication system.

Charlevoix, like several other locations, is hopeful of obtaining this proposed coast guard air base. The particular site being promoted here is a portion of the Loeb Farms, which provides excellent water and land airport facilities.

Establishment of survey headquarters at Traverse City was due to the lack of proper airport facilities elsewhere in this immediate district.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

"The 1940 issues have already been hand-made for us.

"We do not intend to personally criticize Governor Dickinson. It will be a clean campaign, based on important public issues."

These words from G. Donald Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department and deputy highway commissioner, give a clue to the policy which Murray D. Van Wagoner will pursue if he wins the Democratic nomination fnr governor.

As Mr. Kennedy is campaign manager for Van Wagnner, the reference to Michigan's octogenarian executive, nationally known for his religious utterances and condemnation of "high life", may be considered significant.

It could be an intimation that the Van Wagoner forces anticipate the Republican nomination of Dickinson.

SPORTS TROLLERS SEEK RENEWAL OF LICENSES

Increase in Applications Indicates Sports Growing Popularity

The thrill of hauling in a 10 to 20 pound Mackinaw trout from open lake waters as deep as 300 feet is being discovered anew by tourist anglers at 30 Lake Michigan and Lake Superior ports, as the 1940 sport trolling season reaches full tempo.

Fished with a short, stiff rod, as much as 1,000 feet of line, and large brass or nickel spoon hooks, lake trout require some skill of the angler, yet are not too difficult to land. Reels are large to hold plenty of line, which may be good quality linen, or copper or plano wire. Boats, with guides, are hired by parties for the day, or by the hour.

Though lake trout have been one of the principal commercial fishes of the Great Lakes for years, the exciting sport they furnish, particularly for visiting fishermen, has only recently become popular over a much wider territory.

Sport trolling licenses numbered 107 last season, as compared with 86 the year before, and are now being renewed for the 1940-41 season. Up for renewal are 20 trolling rigs licensed out of Traverse City, 17 out of Northport, 10 out of Munising, and lesser numbers out of Alanson, Allouez, Bessemer, Calumet, Charlevoix, Chatham, Chassell, Copper Harbor, Elk Rapids, Good Hart, Grand Marais, Hancock, Harbor Springs, Houghton, Ironwood, Kewadin, Lake Linden, Marquette, Ontonagon, Phoenix, Petoskey, Skanee, Suttons Bay, Verona, Wakefield, Whitefish Point and Williamsburg.

MICHIGAN BELL MEETS ENORMOUS TAX FOR '39

Cross Six Million Dollar Mark for First Time in History

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company's tax bill for 1939 crossed the six million dollar mark for the first time, it was revealed by Frank L. Hall, tax attorney for the company, as he handed Auditor General Vernon J. Brown a check for $1,550,289.13 representing half the company's state property levy, payable into the Primary School Fund.

An increase of 7.1 per cent over the 1938 total, the previous high, the 1939 tax bill totaled $6,179,000, of which $5,871,000 was charged to operating expenses. The latter amounted to $8.26 per average telephone in service during the year and was 13½ per cent of the company's operating revenue.

These operating taxes, Hall said, embraced the following levies: State property tax for payment into the Primary School Fund, $3,100,578.26; federal income and capital stock taxes, $2,157,000; Social Security taxes to the federal and state governments $569,000, and miscellaneous taxes, primarily municipal taxes on property not used in telephone operation, $45,000.

The company's state property tax is the largest single payment into the Primary School Fund. Under the statute, telephone, telegraph, railway, express and car-loaning companies pay state taxes, in lieu of local levies, on property used and useful for their business. From Primary School Fund these taxes are distributed to the 83 counties in proportion to their school population.

Final payment on the $3,100,578.26 property tax of company is due on or before October 31.

Wilbur Shaw Uses Second Gift Unit for Frozen Foods

The problem of what to do with two refrigerators has been solved by Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis Speedway king, according to Glen Ingalls, local Norge dealer.

The refrigerator which Norge Division Borg-Warner Corporation awards annually to the winner of the Memorial Day race went to Shaw this year for the second time.

"It's very simple," Shaw said. "I'll have plenty of use for it. Since the advent of frozen foods, I find too much refrigeration is a thing of the past. I plan on stocking one with frozen foods and using the other for regular refrigeration service."

Incidentally, Indianapolis drivers have developed a novel use for the refrigerators which Norge installs in each pit during the big race. In addition to chilling milk and soft drinks for pilots and pit men, the Norges this year were employed to cool the drivers' heavy crash helmets before the start of the race.

COAST GUARD FETE IS SLATED GRAND HAVEN

Observance of 150th Anniversary is Scheduled for August 3-4

Grand Haven has been officially designated by U. S. Coast Guard headquarters at Washington, D. C., as the port city on Lake Michigan where official ceremonies are to be held on August 3-4 in honor of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Coast Guard Service.

The U. S. Coast Guard Water Fete, held annually for the last three years, will be the festival which will mark this anniversary date also to be observed over the country, headquarters having appointed one city in each of the 13 districts where special ceremonies will be held, to mark the birth of the oldest military service in the United States.

DEATHS FROM TB ARE HIGHER THIS COUNTY

Six Fatalities in 1939 Three Higher Than Previous Year

Health records show Charlevoix county as having six tuberculosis deaths in 1939, three more than in 1938. Death rates in counties having a low number of fatalities tend to rise and fall suddenly, according to Dr. George Sherman, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, who stresses that such a change should not be alarming.

"Taking the state as a whole, which," he pointed out," is a good criterion for judging the situation, the increase of 13 tuberculosis deaths in 1939, over 1938 is small, indicating that Michigan is holding its own.

REPORT GIVEN ON RECENT LOCAL TB CLINIC

One Active Case Shown by X-Ray In Charlevoix County

Readings of the sixty-three x-ray films taken by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in the recent Charlevoix county clinic have been completed and forwarded to family physicians. One active, one suspect, and one inactive adult type cases of tuberculosis and six primary infections were revealed in this clinic which was sponsored by the association in cooperation with Dr. W. M. Chapman, local health director.

According to Dr. Chapman, a person having an active adult type case of tuberculosis is in need of hospitalization to protect not only himself but also others in the community. The suspect type classification indicates that further study is necessary to determine whether or not any damage has been done to lung tissues. Adequate rest, good food, and plenty of fresh air is the treatment usually prescribed for primary infections.

Chest x-rays taken by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association are made possible by the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals. Another clinic will be held for this county later in the year. Anyone desiring a check-up at that time is requested to make arrangements through his family doctor or Dr. Chapman.

A HISTORY OF THE CHARLEVOIX SCHOOL

Given by Mrs. A. B. Saltonstall before the Kiwanis Club, June 4, 1940, at the request of M. A. Levinson.

Usually school meetings are not very well attended, but in May, 1924, there was a large attendance at a citizens' mass meeting held in the high school assembly room.

Supt. Charles Hamilton, who had been here three years, had resigned following a series of difficulties with the Board of Education. The resignation had been accepted. Possibly Mr. Hamilton regretted what he had done, for it was late in the season to secure another position. At any rate, with the connivance of some of the teachers, a large body of high school pupils organized to stage a protest. They marched with banners to the office of the president of the board (Rollie Lewis). Not finding him there, they went to his home. They asked through a spokesman that Mr. Hamilton be reinstated. Then some of them circulated petitions favoring the re-hiring of the superintendent and asking for a public meeting on a given date. At the meeting a citizens' committee was appointed to try to iron out the difficulties.

But after an investigation, the committee concluded the superintendent had better go. They were willing to recommend him as a strong school man who would go far in his profession, but it was evident that he and the school board could no longer work together.

Almost immediately Mr. Hamilton secured another position with a better salary than he received here, and the board engaged Mr. Coverdale as superintendent.

The annual school meeting two months later was the largest ever held, according to the Charlevoix Courier. Nearly 300 votes were cast. Both the president of the board and Mr. Hamilton had an opportunity to tell their side of the recent troubles, and the incident was closed.

There was another contributing cause to the large attendance at that meeting. The following account is from the Courier:

"A peculiar feature of the election of board members was that the names of certain dark-horse candidates put forward by the chief instigator of a now well-known secret organization, whose members we assume were in attendance at the meeting in force, did not appear in the balloting. Whether the secret ticket was withdrawn at the last moment by imperial ukase or repudiated by its supporters we cannot say."

The reference was probably to the Ku Klux Klan, which had a membership here at the time.

It is an education in human nature to serve as a member of the Board of Education. Parents contact you about their children and about things they think should be corrected in the school system. The teachers come with their grievances if you will let them. You get to know the propensities of your fellow board members. Then there is the public, which sometimes takes the attitude that the board is trying to get the better of them. For instance, the need of a citizens' committee in 1927 to put across the building project, when the board members themselves had been elected by the people, and authorized by vote at an annual school meeting, to purchase additional land and start a sinking fund for building purposes.

Usually the annual school meetings are so poorly attended that a small group or faction can easily elect a candidate who has been agreed upon, in place of a candidate whose term expires. This has happened on several occasions.

Only six women have ever served on the board of education, and none at all since 1932. Many think there should be at least two women on the board. They have more time to give to it, are more interested in educational matters, and have more knowledge of the needs and welfare of children. And, too, the township should occasionally be represented on the board. They have never been able to elect a member, though they have frequently nominated one.

Among those who have served as school trustees in the past are H. D. Iddings, Archibald Buttars, A. F. Bridge, R. W. Kane, D. C. Nettleton, Fred Meech, W. H. Miller, Dr. R. B. Armstrong, Dr. Levi Lewis, Dr. Frank Wilkinson, Dr. Allen Wilkinson, Olaf Nordrum, E. L. Dawson, E. J. Hiller, Rollie Lewis, H. A. Craig, Alonzo Powers, Clarence Wood, Allen Campbell, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, Mrs. Peter Vandermade, Mrs. Arthur Bergeon, Mrs. Lyle Shanahan, Mrs. E. J. Hiller, Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall.

The present board members are: Clair S. Webster, president; Clarence B. Meggison, secretary; Henry Partridge, treasurer; Carl Kohler and Dr. Carlton Dean, trustees.

Some of the early members of the board served from 15 to 20 years. Originally the secretary and treasurer each received $50.00 per annum for the services, but the other members served without pay.

At the annual school meeting in 1931, it was voted to pay the secretary and treasurer each $100 and the other members each $50. More recently the salaries of the other members were increased to $75.

It is little enough, if one is to be paid at all, but on the other hand it is a real opportunity to render a worthwhile service to the community and help make a better world.

For what is taught in the schools, not only the contents of the textbooks, but by the teachers' attitude on every conceivable question, is reflected later in the manners, morals, beliefs, and customs of the people.

AT THE MOVIES

Pidgeon Now Established as Famed "Nick Carter"

Nick Carter, fictional detective who thrilled millions of readers over a period of thirty years, is now an established character on the screen. Walter Pidgeon, who played the part in the initial "Nick Carter, Master Detective," now brings the character again to the Palace screen on Saturday, July 20, in "Phantom Raiders," with Florence Rice playing the other leading role.

Broadway's Smash Stage Hit Now on Palace Screen

Joan Crawford, the star who with surprise hit of "The Women," joins forces again with the director, producer and scenarist of that production, George Cukor, Hunt Stromberg and Anita Loos, in "Susan and God," picturization of the celebrated Rachel Crothers' stage success, which co-stars Frederic March and opens July 21 at the Palace Theatre.

As Susan Trexel, rattlebrained social butterfly who adopts a new social movement as a fad, Miss Crawford has her most versatile role to date, with March, following his stage success in "The American Way," making an auspicious return to films as Barrie, her inebriate husband. Cast in support is an impressive group of players headed by Ruth Hussey as Charlotte, the family friend in love with Barrie. Rita Hayworth is seen as the young actress, Leanora, married to the older Hutchins Stubbs, portrayed by Nigel Bruce, but in love with the young actor Clyde Rochester, played by John Carroll.

Is There a Spy Menace?

Nations in Europe fell because they were not prepared against the menace of the Fifth Column. Millions of Americans want to know if this menace threatens the security of the United States. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tells how America can cope with the activities of foreign spies and saboteurs who are working to undermine our national defense. SHOT AT RANDOM er "Ramblings" column, said: "If you don't go to the movies, chew, drink or smoke (you can swear) or make $2,000 a year, then the newly imposed tax which started Monday doesn't affect you. Otherwise, you'll help pay the defense tax." This ought to be a good time to reform!

"Bill" Gibson's five mackinaw trout caught Saturday morning off South Point in Lake Michigan, tops the week's fish news. Other smaller catches were taken, Lake Charlevoix continued to produce an appreciable number of good ones and the first limit catch of smallmouth bass was reported taken Sunday off Breezy Point in the south arm of Lake Charlevoix. With cold weather prevalent, bass haven't come up on the usual feeding grounds yet. It shouldn't be long now!

It's a wonder as many motorists use the lake shore drive as do in view of its condition. The fact, however, that many local and summer residents do use the drive is mute evidence of its popularity and sound reasoning for its being placed in better condition. It will probably be recalled by many that the county road commission took over this highway under the McNitt Act not so long ago. It was generally understood at that time that work would be started at once to make repair of washed-out culverts and to place the drive in condition. Some small amount of work was done this spring, but all operations ceased for some unexplained reason. An excavation was made at Inwood creek to replace a wash-out, but little more. I've heard the reason nothing is being done is because some member of the commission doesn't like someone else, so Charlevoix can "go knit a hanky." If that is true, it's no wonder the board of supervisors "washed their hands" of the responsibility of appointing members of the road commission. It hardly seems such an important matter as road improvement should be subject to personal whims. Voters should keep this fact in mind when the selection of a road commissioner comes before them at the next election.

Jim Roe, of Harbor Springs, more generally known as a contractor for dock construction work, drives to Charlevoix every week to play with the city band during the Wednesday night concert programs. In case you didn't know it, Jim plays the bass horn and does a mighty neat job of it, too.

City Superintendent Don Herrick passed on some interesting information this week concerning the increased output of electricity from the municipal system, which, of course, means increase in consumption. In 1935, between January 1st and June 30th, 615,230 KWH was distributed. During the same period in 1940, the output jumped to 849,150 KWH, an increase of 233,920 KWH, or 38%. With the increasing popularity of electric appliances, this figure can be expected to go even higher.

Employes of Charlevoix's municipal utilities certainly look spic and span in their new uniforms.

There's no excuse for yachtsmen not knowing when is the proper time to hoist colors any more. A small cannun, donated by Ray S. Hamilton, has been installed at the water's edge in East Park. Joe Howard, harbormaster, fires the cannon twice daily, once in the morning and again at sunset, and all boat owners are asked to cooperate in raising and lowering colors with the cannon signal. A time table, nautically correct, has been worked out for the summer.

MISS RUTH TURPIN AND JOHN UHLAR WERE MARRIED WEDNESDAY

At a pretty wedding colomnized at 9:30 Wednesday evening, July 3, at the Baptist church, Miss Ruth Turpin, of Charlevoix and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Turpin, of Manistique, became the bride of John Uhlar, son of Mrs. Marion Uhlar, of Detroit. The ceremony was read by Rev. W. L. Cruthers in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The church was decorated with white peonies, lilies and ferns.

The bride chose for a wedding gown a pale green wool suit with which she wore white necessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias. Her only attendant, Miss Virginia Taylor, wore a light pink wool suit with white necessories and a corsage of white roses. Ray Kipke, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted as best man.

A reception for thirty guests was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kipke, following the service at the church. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and ornamented with white tapers, centered with a large wedding cake. Bouquets of mixed flowers were used about the rooms.

Following the ceremony the couple left on a short wedding trip. They will make their home in Detroit early in the fall.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN
Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

After a week, camp is in full swing and everything is rulling smoothly. All the campers have chosen their activities for morning groups and they all seem to be having a great time.

Saturday night the first council ring ceremony was held at the sacred Council Ring. The new campers were all accepted into the Tribe of Charlevoix and are now full fledged members of that brave band of warriors.

Tom Bennett and Dick LaFever finished in that order in a water builing contest held as one of the events in an obstacle race held on Saturday. The camp has been divided into two groups: the Greens and the Grays. The race was between the two and Tom helped win for the Grays. Another Green and Gray competition held was the huge tug-o-war held on Wednesday afternoon with the whole camp participating. The Greens built up an extra ounce of strength and won.

The captains of these two camp groups represent the three camp classes: Senior, Intermediate and Junior. The captains elected by the campers in each of these are: Dave Bennett, Gray, and Ken Vincent, Green, of the Seniors; Herb Dow, Green, and Jim Kendall, Gray, of the Intermediates; while Bernie Bernstan is Green captain and Jack Sample is Gray leader in the Junior section.

Saturday was declared "Cowboy Day" and the campers came forth in native cowboy style. Camp was a colorful place that day with the most elaborate outfits ever seen in these parts.

Bill Felts, our real cowboy from Arizona, helped in the selection of the boys who looked most like the boys in his country. He chose Charles McGuire as grand champion, with honorable mention given to Dave Bennett and Michael Davis.

Sunday afternoon each of the three sections were out on a trip. The intermediates hiked over to Mt. McSauba and had fun and a good supper out. The juniors went out in the truck to Whiting State Park and saw deer along the way. The seniors took the canoes and went down the lake for their supper-out.

The whole camp celebrated the Fourth of July in grand style. "Chief" Reimann was main chef at a delicious barbeque held in the late afternoon after a program of special activity, and then after the big feed a committee of counsellors and campers shot off the good array of fireworks.

Sunday morning saw the first of our chapel services in the woods. Most of the camp attended, and the natural beauty of the place had an inspiring effect. The camp choir sang a special hymn and the "Chief" spoke on the service's theme "World Brotherhood." Counsellor Joe Moran had charge of the service.

On Monday Jerry Wilson took his cabin on the first of the camp's overnight sailboat trips. The boys had a great time and a longer time than they anticipated, for they were becalmed for many hours on Tuesday morning. The attending sailors were Jim Curtis, Dick LaFever, Charles Kirsch, Jim Kendall, Herb Dow and Dick Tuthill. This trip was the first of many that individual cabin groups will take each day on horses, or in canoes and sailboat, or on just plain "foot."

Saturday night will see the first of the dramatic performances at camp. Two one-act plays will be done by the campers and counsellors including Wiley Hitchcock, Art Gannett, Joe Craig, Clark Bodwman, Joe and Ed. Moran and others. We hope it is better than the rehearsals!

How are you going to ear-tag a rabbit without ears? That is what Warren Shapton is thinking as he contemplates the funny looking bunny shown above. It was taken recently in one of the box traps at the Rose Lake wildlife experiment station maintained by the conservation department near East Lansing. About a year ago this animal must have got too close to a mower in one of the hayfields. The relationship of farming practices to wildlife is being studied at the experiment station. Since the beginning of the mowing season investigations of hayfield mortality of pheasants and rabbits has been in full swing

MICHIGAN SHARE OF GAME AID GREATEST

Tops All States in Pittman-Robinson Act Benefits

Michigan's share of the $2,500,000 appropriated by Congress for federal aid to wildlife restoration under the Pittman-Robertson act in the fiscal year 1940-41 is about $131,000—the most any state will receive.

New York and Penasylvania will receive the next largest shares of the fund derived from a federal excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, and distributed according to the area of the cooperating states and the number of hunting licenses sold.

Following the established policy of the conservation commission, the game division of the department of conservation will use 10 to 20 per cent of the money for investigations of game species and game management, while 10 to 20 per cent will be allotted to improvement of wildlife habitat and other improvements in game areas acquired by the department in southern Michigan.

The remaining 60 to 80 per cent will be used to acquire lands in areas approved by the conservation commission and the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service.

COMMERCIAL FISHING MEET AT NORTHPORT

Conference Michigan Operators is Scheduled Saturday, July 6th

Problems confronting the commercial fishing industry of Michigan will be discussed by commercial operators from northern Michigan ports in a special meeting of the Michigan Fish Producers Association, District No. 2 to be held in the Northport hall, Saturday evening, July 6.

The questions of closed seasons during the fall spawning periods of commercial species, and operation of additional hatcheries by state or federal agencies as a means of replenishing the stock of fish in Lake Michigan will be he main topics of discussion.

Commercial fishermen operating out of ports from Manistee northward to the Straits and including the Islands, are expected to participate in the meeting according to Willis Cross, Charlevoix producer and president of the Michigan District 2, M. F. P. A.

The Saturday meeting is a forerunner of a hearing being held in northern Michigan in the near future by the International Board of Inquiry, a committee composed of American and Canadian officials who are investigating conditions within the commercial fishing industry of the Great Lakes. The various ideas of the Michigan fishermen will be discussed and correlated for a later presentment to the Board of Inquiry.

Representatives of Government Agricultural Agencies Hold Conference

A very profitable discussion took place last Tuesday when representatives of all agencies and organizations associated with agriculture met for a little dinner and informal gathering afterwards. At lunch the group became acquainted with each other and then met in the Federal Building, Boyne City. The following people were present: Edward LaBerge, Farm Security Administration; Virginia Pierson, Farm Security Administration; Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes instructor; Ed. Starback, department of conservation; Howard Bedell, Federal Land Bank; William Tindall, county road commission; Roy Hardy, rural electrification administration; Charles Shepard, Production Credit Association; W. N. Henley, Agricultural Adjustment Administration; John Taylor, Agricultural Adjustment Administration; W. S. Harrison, assistant agricultural agent; and B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent.

The discussion began with a brief discussion by each agency represented, mainly as to their purpose and scope of activities within the county. After this a discussion took place in regard to the land planning project. The extension agents showed maps which proved to be of great interest and attracted considerable comment. In as much as this was the first get-together, very few suggestions and recommendations were made in regard to agricultural programs within the county, but it is hoped that the next time the group meets a more or less specific subject will be discussed. This would look like a move in the right direction to get all agricultural agencies somewhat closer together in their responsibilities.

College Cattle Eat Grass Silage

Completion of a second experiment in feeding alfalfa silage to fattening cattle has just been concluded at Michigan State College.

Results have been briefed by Professor George A. Brananan of the animal husbandry department. Heifer calves were fed 202 days on rations comparing alfalfa hay, alfalfa-molassea silage and corn silage.

It required six pounds of corn daily for each calf fed hay or alfalfa silage to gain as rapidly as one fed corn silage with one and a half pounds of cottonseed meal. Calves fed alfalfa silage headed to gain more slowly than those fed hay when receiving six pounds of corn. Later, when more corn was added to all lots, those fed the alfalfa silage gained more rapidly.

Comparing amounts of feed to produce gains on the calves, one ton of alfalfa silage was equivalent to 757 pounds of alfalfa hay. One ton of corn silage with 125 pounds of cottonseed meal, were equivalent to 632 pounds of hay and 585 pounds of corn. One ton of corn silage and 125 pounds of cottonseed meal with 174 pounds of alfalfa hay were equivalent to 2035 pounds of alfalfa silage and 583 pounds of corn.

Final feed lot weights for those fed corn silage, alfalfa-molasses silage and alfalfa hay, respectively, were: 754, 758 and 737 pounds; daily gains were 1.86, 1.83 and 1.80 pounds; costs of 100 pounds of gain were: $5.03, $6.12 and $6.40; and returns above cost of calf and feed were $14.46, $11.55 and $8.37 per head.

for governor. Also within the range of probability is an interpretation that Van Wagoner will avoid the thin ice of a personal frontal attack on Mr. Dickinson lest it be resented by temperance-loving, church-going citizens.

From an interview with the Democratic vote-getter, however, we did get a definite impression that Van Wagoner would have something to say about "boss control" in the Republican party. That would be meant for the Grand Rapids leader, Frank McKay, whose selection as Republican national committeeman from Michigan has placed him out in the open, either for praise or condemnation.

Survey of Issues

Wit hexacting care, Messrs. Van Wagoner and Kennedy have been making a survey of 1940 issues, months in advance of their leader's announcement of candidacy.

In the first phase of the campaign, Van Wagoner and Kennedy traveled throughout the state to ascertain the views of local politicos. Thus, possible issues have been determined on the basis of county recommendations.

"A primary contest would be a healthy thing for the Democratic party this year," said Mr. Kennedy. "It would concentrate attention on the candidates. And it might keep Democrats from going over the party fence to participate in the Republicans' primary."

National Defense

Just as Van Wagoner has capitalized on the dollars-and-cents benefit to Michigan in having a Democratic highway commissioner at Lansing while a Democratic president was at Washington, so he is expected to stress the value of a Democratic governor during these days of national defense preparations.

"Our need in handling national defense is to be in sympathy with the national administration in order that Michigan may receive full advantage of actions taken by a strong federal government," said Kennedy.

"It is pathetic what we have not done in other fields—such as agriculture. National-state activity with regard to social welfare, resettlement, rehabilitation work, civilian conservation camps and national parks also lie within the possibility of greater benefits to Michigan.

"In the field of national defense, the state program should be one of backing up the federal defense program both with regard to industrial production and use of the national guard."

State Finances

In the Van Wagoner declaration of candidacy are found some other "straws in the wind" as to his conception of issues for the fall campaign.

"Crippled state finances and muddled state purchasing must be among the first evils tackled by the next governor of Michigan," he said, referring to a state deficit of $31,500,000.

Warning that the national defense program would "necessarily" impose additional federal taxes, the highway commissioner declared: "We must initiate in Michigan a wise and thrifty state government. Home-spun economy and rigid business management must prevail."

Rather than pre-suppose what the public is thinking, the Van Wagoner formula is to "go directly to them (the people) for their opinions; giving them a chance to be heard—and heeding what they say."

With forthright frankness he is expected to condemn administrative practices without condemning Governor Dickinson. At least, such is his intention in mid-July.

National Issues

National issues—such as the administration's unofficial intervention in the European war—are to play a major role in Michigan's ballot drama.

"Michigan faces other issues which have a deeper significance even than political trends," said Van Wagoner at a Pontiac homecoming. "A war is threatening our American democracies. Our nation faces a critical period. The American people have watched and approved President Roosevelt's stalwart leadership in meeting the world crisis of the past months and endorse his now proven foresight of the past years in urging more adequate national defense for our country."

This came from a man who has never worshipped blindly at the altar of F.D.R. as has Frank Murphy. Van Wagoner has been more of a middle-of-the-road Democrat than an avowed New Dealer. His thinking has been that of a practical engineer; not social planner.

This open endorsement of Roosevelt is another indirect result of the current war crisis. It reflects the lengthening shadows of national issues over Michigan's state election in November.

Editor's Note: The Lansing Letter, a non-partisan state news letter, presented the Republican viewpoint in a series of interviews two months ago with James Thomson, then chairman of Republican State Central committee.

SECOND REFUGEE MEETING CALLED

SESSION AT CITY HALL, MONDAY NIGHT, JULY 22

Leaders in Local Civic Groups Urged to Attend—Discuss Bringing Refugees to Charlevoix

A group of people interested in the refugee problem met Monday evening in the community room of the city hall, to hear Miss Margaret Carey, of the Sequanota Club, give a resume of the work that is being done in this country to help exiles from Europe.

These refugees have been forced to flee from their native lands, because of racial, religious and political persecution in the dictator countries. There are twenty-five organizations in the United States, with headquarters in New York City, who are seeking to resettle these foreigners all over our country, in order that they may have a chance to become self-supporting.

Rev. W. L. Cruthers, presided at the meeting, which was also attended by Rev. John W. Alexander. Rev. G. R. Parker could not be present, because of illness. It was decided to call another meeting for next Monday, July 22, at 8 p. m., to be held again in the community room of the city hall.

It is hoped that leaders in the Kiwanis Club, Board of Commerce, American Legion, womens' study clubs and other organizations in the community, as well as representatives from the local churches, will attend the meeting on July 22 to discuss the possibility of bringing a refugee or a family of refugees to Charlevoix.

Refugee organizations in New York City are finding it increasingly difficult to support these exiles, many of whom are without friends or funds. They are making an urgent plea, appealing to cities and towns throughout the country for help in carrying out their resettlement work. If every community would undertake a project of this kind, the refugee problem would be well on the way toward a solution and American life would be greatly enriched at the same time.

A cordial invitation is extended to both the winter and summer residents of Charlevoix and the surrounding country to attend the meeting which is called for eight p. m. sharp, on July 22.

PLANE RESCUES TWO FROM SINKING BOAT

COAST GUARD PATROL SHIP PICKED UP EXHAUSTED PAIR

Leaking Boat Sank Off McGulpin Point in Straits Thirty Minutes After Men Taken Off

Joe Schley, Jr., Cheboygun, and Ernest Anderson, Acqueoc, both 30, today owe their lives to the vigilance of the crew of the U. S. coast guard amphibian patrol plane now operating out of Charlevoix on survey duty.

They were rescued shortly after noon Monday from their disabled and sinking 24-foot motor boat "Gypsie Girl" before it sank four miles off McGulpin's Point in the Straits of Mackinac. Mechanic Ovie Tillotson sighted the distressed craft. The plane, commanded by Lieut. A. E. Harned, of Chicago, was set down on rough water alongside the craft and the men, exhausted by a two-hour fight to keep the boat afloat in a heavy sea, were taken aboard. They had to be lifted from the water in their weakened condition. When the plane returned a half hour later from Mackinaw City, where the rescued pair were put ashore, the boat had disappeared. In the plane also was Steve Brodnan, radio operator.

The coast guard plane, which, contrary to reports in downstate newspapers, left its Lake Charlevoix anchorage at 8:30 Monday morning to make a patrol of the Port Huron-Mackinac sail boat race. It was returning to Charlevoix when the rescue was made. Radio contact with the Charlevoix coast guard station was maintained during the rescue, and patrol flight as well. Mackinaw City coast guards were notified by radio from Charlevoix of the inci-

RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS STARTED WORK PROGRAM

Will Meet Every Monday Afternoon at High School Building

Red Cross volunteer workers met Monday afternoon in the high school building to begin the work of making surgical dressings and sewing hospital garments for victims of the European war. About seventy-five ladies were present to organize the new group. Many of them were summer residents, who have responded well to the needs of the local Red Cross.

The group will meet every Monday afternoon, from 1:30 to 4:30, in the home economics and English rooms in the high school building. It is hoped that more local residents, as well as summer people, will be able to help with the work.

In addition to the making of surgical dressings and hospital garments, the work of knitting and sewing will continue as before.

Mrs. R. F. Sloan, volunteer chairman, has stated that the county is $300 short of its financial quota. Voluntary contributions will be welcomed, to help reach the goal of $840.

R. O. CRAM TAKEN BY DEATH LAST THURSDAY

Was Pioneer of Region in Lumber and Sawmill Business

Charlevoix lost a pioneer citizen last Thursday in the death of Rinaldo O. Cram, who succumbed following an illness of several months.

Mr. Cram was born January 1, 1864, at Muscoda, Wis. He was associated with Cram & Whitford Lumber Co., operating a sawmill at Undine, and followed the lumber and sawmill business for 45 years after coming to this region in 1884.

He married Lena Jenkins, of Harbor Springs, on December 31, 1889. The couple observed their golden wedding anniversary last year. Mr. Cram was a life member of the Masonic order which he joined in 1897.

Surviving him besides the widow is a son, Verl, of Port Huron, also six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. A son, Leland, died in 1928.

COUNCIL LOWERS ELECTRIC RATES

NON-COMMERCIAL USERS BENEFIT FROM REDUCTION

Seek Cooperation Owners of Vacant Property Owners in Removing Weeds, Tall Grass

Non-commercial patrons of the Charlevoix municipal electric light system were given a rate reduction through action Monday night of the city council in adopting a new rate schedule.

Long-term resident rate was reduced from 3c to 2½c per KW for over 60 killowatt hours. The short-term rate for a minimum of 160 KW was reduced likewise from 3c to 2½c per killowatt hour. Commercial rates, considerably reduced a year ago, were not changed. The resident rate reduction will result in a considerable savings to patrons.

Ask Citizens Aid

Receipt of a petition from the Charlevoix Garden Club asking the council take action in eliminating rag and other obnoxious weeds, tall grass and unsightly shrubs from vacant properties within the city, resulted in an appeal by the council to citizens owning vacant property to cooperate in such an effort.

The city has in recent weeks added employes specifically for this clean-up work. Grass and weeds have been, or will be cut from all vacant city property, but the council does not have the authority to carry out such work on private property. It was pointed out by Mayor Robert Bridge that cooperation of citizens generally in such an effort would be a great assistance in maintaining Charlevoix's slogan of "Charlevoix-the-Beautiful."

Request of Goldie Pant for a dance permit was referred to committee for report at the next meeting. Charlevoix Oil Co., low bidder for order of fuel oil, was awarded contract.

DETROITER WINS AMATEUR CROWN

ZYGMOND ZAWADSKI BEATS CHAMP, TAKES TITLE

First Public Links Player to Capture Championship in 34 Years' History of Event

Zygmond Zawadski, 26-year-old Detroiter, became the first public links golfer to win the state amateur championship when he defeated Fred Kammer, also of Detroit, in the 34th annual finals at the Belvedere Golf Club course Sunday afternoon.

Displaying a brand of golf in which consistency and excellent putting were the chief attributes, Zawadski scored five birdies and an eagle in the 17 holes the match lasted. He was one under par for the afternoon.

In the morning, Zuwadzki advanced to the finals by eliminating William Barclay, of Flint, the defending champion, 3 and 2. Kammer had scored a two up victory over Thomas Sheehan, of Detroit, former Notre Dame golf star.

The match was a ding-dong affair for six holes. Zawadzki won the first, Kammer the second, and the advantage alternated until the two were even up on the sixth. A 14-foot putt gave Zawadski the seventh with a birdie three. He won the eighth with a par three to go two up and scored an eagle three on the ninth to be three up at the turn. He won also the tenth hole, his last, but played steady enough golf to keep Kammer from overtaking him. The match would have ended on the sixteenth had not Zawadzki moved his ball before hitting a down-hill approach shot. The incident cost him the hole.

The cards:

Par	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	3	5	—36
Zawadzki	4	5	3	4	4	5	3	3	3	—34
Kammer	5	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	4	—37
Par	5	4	4	4	3	5	4	3	4	—36
Zawadzki	4	4	5	5	3	4	4	3		—32
Kammer	5	4	5	4	3	4	4	3		—32

Zawadzki is also the holder of the Michigan public links championship. He started playing golf 13 years ago when he became a caddy. He won three caddy championships. He plans to complete his college career at Wayne university in September.

The tournament which just closed was the fourth playing of the state amateur at the Belvedere. The event drew an entry of 139 players, seven more than competed in last year's meet at Gull Lake Country Club near Battle Creek.

Players and officials alike were greatly pleased with condition of the course and Charlevoix's player accommodations. Many who had played when the event was held here in 1935 expressed the opinion the course was in better condition now than then.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Charlevoix received a fine bit of free publicity in the July issue of Motor News with its circulation of better than 140,000 AAA members in Michigan. In addition, there was a 15-minute broadcast over WXYZ and, in time, an attractive folder for distribution through the 29 divisions within Michigan and through 900-odd AAA clubs throughout the country. The two-page article, penned by Jim Welsh, "The Old AAA Traveler," covers Charlevoix's history from its early India era, enumerates its many tourist attractions in a bang-up way which leaves no doubt in the readers' mind as to what is to be found here in the way of vacation pleasure. Four photographs are shown, the Lake Michigan bath house and nearby recreational facilities, yacht slips on Round lake, Belvedere Golf Club and municipal dock scenes. For our part—Many thanks!

Less than two weeks have elapsed since a U. S. coast guard amphibian plane began patrol and survey duty to determine the necessity of a coast guard base on the Great Lakes. Two lives have been saved as a result! This, not being Europe, where humans are considered the mere pawns of dictators, a definite service to humanity has been rendered. Had not

The "I told you so" prophets are still busy. Way back before the Republican party convened at Philadelphia, a few observers of public opinion were daring to raise their voices in advocacy of Wendell L. Willkie for the Republican nomination for president. They did so on the basis of several interesting assumptions. These include the following:

1. The war crisis demanded a man of mature judgment and practical experience who had demonstrated ability to get things done.

2. The party desperately needed a man with personality who could match the famous Roosevelt fireside magnetism.

3. The public was fed up on political ballyhoo and bosses. Old guard I-am would invite defeat.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

When the walrus to the carpenter said, "Let's speak of many things" he had nothing on this writer who is trying to list main activities at Camp Charlevoix for the past week.

Out of the walrus' words "ships and shoes and sealing wax" we have a good start with the words "ships"; for some of the intermediate sailors under the guidance of skipper Ken Vincent set sail last Monday for an overnight trip up the lake. Counsellor Jerry Wilson was captain of the crew with his sailors Jim Curtis, Dick LaFever, Charles Kirsch, Jim Kendall, Herb Dow and Dick Tuthill. The boys were out 5 hours longer than anticipated because of little wind and big sails.

On Monday the campers changed their activities, and new boys were with the counsellors in sailing, handicraft, photography, boating, boxing, baseball, tennis, riding, swimming and other group activities. We noticed that Charles McGuire, Jack Tanner, Jack Wooley, George Renick and Tommy Bennett started work immediately on their leather belts, metal trays, book covers and burned wood "trensure" chest that Andy Frostic supervises in the handicraft shop. Art Gannett, Bill Carr, Bob Kerr, Sargeant Harvey and Howard VanAntwerp were at the tennis courts polishing up their games. Bill Felts, our Arizona cowboy, had a group of fellows developing their horsemanship; they included Bob Armstrong, Ken Sands, Selmer Sands, Lee Bronson, Barney Golinvaux, Oliver Rohinson, Stuart Austin, David Bennett and Carey Bachman. The boys call horseback riding the activity with "20,000 jolts."

The big event on Wednesday was the arrival of Claude Snarey of Detroit, who has achieved fame as an expert bait caster. He is inventor and manufacturer of a particular kind of bait and is also track coach at Cooley High School. Mr. Snarey took all boys who were interested out fishing morning, noon and night for two days before he left. They always brought back a good catch and learned much about the sport in the process. Other expert fishermen will arrive later.

On Wednesday Joe Moran's All Camp Program Committee arranged a number of football games between the campers. They were divided into groups named after the University of Michigan, Illinois, Purdue, Iowa, Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota and others. The winning teams were Purdue and Wisconsin. These two will have a play-off this coming week. Lots of "college spirit" up here of late.

Saturday was a gala day with special "all camp" features. Michael Davis, Jack Tanner, Dave Bennett won awards for looking most like cowboys—or what a cowboy should look like on a Dude Ranch. Saturday has become our "Dude Ranch Day" and our campers have a sartorial craze for looking like "Pecos Bill" and his friends. In the evening the camp actors performed for the camp audience. Two plays were given with a music fest in between. Art Gannett, Wiley Hitchcock, Ed. Moran and Clark Bouwman had the leading roles.

Jerry Wilson, boxer from Oberlin College, had charge of the season's first boxing bout on Saturday afternoon. The boys gave a fine exhibition of the pointers they have gained at Charlevoix during the two weeks passed. Some of the "prize" fighters were Tom Bennett, Allen Hunting, Charles Marcus, Bud Gage, Bud Kampe, Art Buhl, Dick Abbott, Jock Craig, Ken Vincent and others.

Ed. and Joe Moran have been working with some of the swimmers in an effort to have them pass their Junior Life Saving tests. Seven of the campers have already made the grade. They are Allyn Wright, Grattan Gray, Fritz Steketee, Willard Kerr, John Mains, George Osborne and Charles Kirsch.

Ken Smith has been directing the boys for the performance of the "Pirates of Penzance", which will be given in the city of Charlevoix at the annual "Venetian Night" celebration. This promises to be a gala affair, and the singers are greatly enthused. The date for the affair is July 28th.

While we are mentioning dates we will throw in July 27th, which will be the date of the Dad's Day Celebration here in camp. Then on August 17th the Camp Carnival will be held to be followed the next day by the Rodeo and Horse Show. Parents and friends are invited to attend all of these celebrations.

Chief is anxious that the parents be informed that candy and gum are on the "forbidden list." The campers have the opportunity of buying candy here at camp twice a week, and in the interest of their stomachs any more candy can have devastating effect. We would also like to persuade our friends outside not to send comic books and the like to the campers. While we alone would not attempt to alter the great American culture, we do maintain a large library of good books for boys and hope that they are read. Comics interfere.

from a wedding tour. Congratulations.

Misses Marvelta and Marie Hubbell were visitors at the home of their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Waring, recently married, who are now residing in the tenant house on the Homer Waring place. Mr. Waring is now thinning peaches, of which there is a large crop this year.

About next week we expect to see the cherry business beginning operation. Early cherries will probably be picked this week, or early next week. The crop is very scarce this year. Only a few orchardists have a full crop, and it is said the best price in several years will be paid. A restaurant lady informs us that there is more call for cherry pie than for any other this year. The resorters are flocking in in larger numbers, it is said, than ever before. And, too, we don't think that we have ever seen vegetation greener or flowers more prevalent than this year. The insects have not worked on shade trees as here-to-fore, and fishing—well let "Ken" tell about that.

THE RECORD.... Facts That Concern You No. 20 of a series and how is it used in making beer and ale?

BARLEY

Answer: Brewers' malt is barley that has had its starches modified. The barley is first permitted to "sprout" by the addition of moisture. At the right instant, the growth is checked by heat and the sprouts are removed.

What remains is malt . . . the essential base of all good beer and ale.

Every step in the brewing of good beer and ale has been taught by centuries of experience. Today, amazingly expert brewers — using only the purest ingredients — make beer and ale the mild, tasty, wholesome beverages that they are.

Now the brewing industry is taking action to keep the retailing of beer as wholesome as beer itself. A plan to eliminate abuses is already in effect in a number of states. It is being extended. Ask us for an interesting free booklet.

Consumers nowadays are in more and more of a "show me" mood. That's a great thing for Conoco Bronz-z-z because its good mileage shows. That's why Bronz-z-z could afford to introduce the frank, impartial Mile-Dial . . . free, while Your Mileage Merchant's supply holds out.

Long Jumps Between Pumps

THE SCOTS, you know, had a grand old war song, "The Campbells Are Coming!" And the correct kilties for any of the Campbell clan from the Argyll region, for instance, would be green with wide blue and black "crossings" or stripings, plus secondary black crossings, plus a yellow and white overcheck. But now if you want to be pure "Scotch" at buying gasoline, the color that means most to your own self is Bronz-z-z . . . Conoco Bronz-z-z. Conoco Bronz-z-z is the Bronz-z-z that gives you long jumps between pumps. And that statement, you can prove, isn't the least bit colored, for Your Mileage Merchant will give you one of the fascinating Conoco Mile-Dials free. This certified instrument reports your own Conoco Bronz-z-z mileage —impartially—accurately—without effort. Ask Your Mileage Merchant.

MUST BRING IN HALF-YEAR AUTO LICENSES

Surrender Is Required of Applicants for New Plates

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, said today that holders of first half year auto license plates must surrender them at the time they apply for the full year tags.

This precaution is necessary, Mr. Kelly said to prevent the possibility of the first half plates, which are good until August 31st, falling into other hands and being illegally used.

"A great many applicants forget to bring their first half plates in when applying for the full year and are put to the inconvenience of making another trip," said Mr. Kelly. "I would therefore like to emphasize the fact that we cannot issue new plates until the old ones have been turned over to us and have been destroyed."

REPORT CHARLEVOIX'S POPULATION DECREASE

Late Figures Dispute Earlier Report from Alpena Office

Census figures released by Frank M. Cordero, Grand Rapids, census supervisor, show a general increase in northern Michigan, but a drop in Charlevoix.

The report, showing population figure of 2,226, a drop of 21 from 1930, is in contradiction with an earlier report from Alpena showing an increase of 19. In both instances the figures given are quoted as tentative, subject to correction.

O. L. Smith has called upon Republican and independent "friends of clean government" to support his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in September primary.

Elton R. Eaton, of Plymouth, announced candidacy for U. S. senator to replace Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, has withdrawn his candidacy and announced he would seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

In a telegram to Vandenberg, Eaton said he was convinced "that a Republican senatorial contest in these exceedingly grave times would be unwise, and I am therefore withdrawing.

This action is being taken by me because of a desire for a sweeping Republican victory that will insure peace and progress for our nation and a clean government in Michigan."

Eaton is a representative in the state legislature and a Plymouth publisher.

A beach party on the Lake Michigan beach, early in the evening, was enjoyed by the guests. The remainder of the evening was spent at the Livingston home, where refreshments were served and the honored guest opened her gifts. Other guests were Mrs. Carlton Ikens, Mrs. Joe Smith, Jr., the Misses Jeanne Zelley, Esther Kaye, and Ernestine Chew.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Struthers were honored Friday evening at a shower given by the members of the Church of God, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Palmer. Sixty of the church members, and other friends, were present. A program of musical selections was given, including the song "Because", sung by Rev. Mark Denton, of Richmond, Ind. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Besides numerous other gifts, the young couple were presented with a purse. The money is to be used next year, when they plan to go to Africa as missionaries.

Guests over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sternberg were the former's mother and brother, Mrs. Herman Sternberg and son Albert, of Bad Axe; also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pero and daughter Ann, of Detroit. FEDERAL TAX INCREASE EFFECTS

NEW LEVIES ARE REMINDER OF WORLD WAR DAYS

Financing of Preparedness Program Brings an Increased Tax on Numerous Luxury Items

Beginning July 1, through an act of Congress, a direct tax bill of $475,000,000 became effective in the United States, to help finance the vast preparedness program of the nation.

This tax is much like what we experienced following the world war to help pay the nation's debt, and was known as the E. C. of L. This phrase has been lost in recent years, by the traceable tax being lifted from commodities and charged back to us in hidden taxes.

However, out it comes again, but in no way are any of the hidden taxes removed, so Mr. and Mrs. John Public is asked to dig a little deeper to prepare our nation against any invasion, and our share has been set at about $3.00 per person.

New Taxes Start

For the sake of national defense, Uncle Sam asked for and is taking an additional penny or so on each pack of cigarettes, each bottle of beer and pint of liquor, and each gallon of gasoline. The tax applies, too, on many other things in a sufficient amount to raise an estimated $475,000,000 of the billion dollars of new revenue expected annually from the defense-tax bill.

Higher levies went into effect on the future manufacture of a score of products and "floor taxes", effecting the retail prices, went into effect on beer, liquor and cigarettes.

Stock on Hand Taxed

The "floor taxes" apply to stocks already on hand. Included is a half-cent tax on a package of cigarettes, 75 cents a gallon on liquor, and $1 a barrel on beer. Up to 100 gallons of liquor and all beer in the hands of retailers at midnight Sunday were exempt of "floor taxes", but the additional half-cent tax on each pack of cigarettes must be paid.

Levies on other products may not effect the consumer until existing stocks are sold, but movie patrons will pay the new taxes immediately. The tax of one cent on every 10 cents of an admission ticket will start with tickets costing 21 cents instead of 11.

Other Products Taxed

Some of the products on which an additional defense tax will be added include:

Toilet preparations, increased from 10 to 11 per cent; automobiles, increased from 3 to 3½ per cent; radios, from 5 to 5½ per cent; matches, 5 cents to 5½ cents a thousand; electrical energy, 3 to 3½ per cent; gasoline 1 to 1½ cents a gallon; lubricating oil, 4 to 4½ cents a gallon; playing cards, 10 to 11 cents a pack; club dues and initiation fees, 10 to 11 per cent.

Surtaxes Set

Most of the yield from income taxes, which are effective on 1940 income, will be derived from a flat 10 per cent net increase and higher surtaxes.

The new law will put 2,200,000 new income taxpayers on the federal lists, according to estimates, by lowering personal exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married couples and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons.

It has been estimated that lowered exemptions alone will bring in an extra $82,500,000, including $15,000,000 from new taxpayers and $67,100,000 from increased payments by present taxpayers.

Miss Rose Adelle and Tony, one of the smallest baby elephants in this country, and will be seen here with Lewis Bros. Big 3 Ring Circus when it will exhibit at Charlevoix one day only, Sunday, July 21, afternoon and evening, on Athletic Field.

TROUT ARE PLANTED ON BEAVER ISLAND

Legal Sized Fish Placed in Two of Streams on Island

Almost 400 legal size adult brook trout have recently been planted in two of the streams on historic Beaver Island, which is fast coming into its own as an isolated tourist mecca.

The streams, at the southern end of the island, are difficult to fish but abundant in natural cover and food for the "brooks" and have yielded a number of limit catches to the sturdy fishermen who try them out.

Exposing the Work of Saboteur

According to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the saboteur is one of the most dangerous members of the "fifth column" workers in the United States. Read what he says about the activities of these wreckers and how the Federal Government is coping with them in the second of a series of articles. It appears in This Week, the colorgravure magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News.

Several million dollars worth of porcelain and pottery products are manufactured annually in Michigan.

CONSERVATION MEN MEET STIFF EXAMS

Physical Condition Only One of Important Requirements

Famed Texas Rangers and the "Mounties" of Canada's great open spaces must meet no severer tests of fitness for their jobs than do the candidates who present themselves for examination nowadays when Michigan's conservation department recruits its fledgling officers.

Announcing examinations to be held next month, the department specifies that excellent physical condition, strength and agility, normal vision and hearing, are requisites. Also, accepted candidates must qualify under one of the following classifications: (1) a background of outdoor life and four years of experience as a hunter or trapper or in allied outdoor work and completion of the eighth school grade; or (2) a background of outdoor life and two years of experience as a hunter or trapper or in allied outdoor work and completion of the twelfth school grade; or (3) college graduation majoring in conservation subjects (forestry, wildlife management, biology) or in police administration; or (4) any combination of experience or training or of their respective equivalents, in which neither is below the minimum specified. Candidates must be between the ages of 23 and 45.

BUDGET PENNIES NOT IMPORTANT

It's proper for a budgeting housewife to practice with statistics but there is little use in being so definite with a budget that the accountant's search for the last penny must be made.

That is the deduction of Irma H. Gross, home management professor at Michigan State College.

According to this authority, the importance of keeping a budget is to be able to steer future financial plans of the family rather than to know where the last penny goes. Four goals for budgetmaking are offered by Professor Gross:

1. Do not bother with exact balances. As much as a five to ten per cent error is permissible.

2. Accounts should be kept in the same divisions in which the budget is made. If the family plans certain amounts for food, clothing, shelter, recreation, auto, house operation, house furnishings, savings, insurance and miscellaneous, then expenses should be kept in accounts under the same headings.

3. The form of the accounts should permit frequent comparisons with budget plans. If the family plans to spend $10 a week for food, the food column should indicate this, so that the difference between plan and actual spending is easily determined at the end of the week.

4. Monthly summary accounts are essential and in turn, monthly accounts should be used to determine annual totals. A final summary sheet for the year's findings is useful.

Clothes Moths Squeeze

It takes an opening only four thousandths of an inch to admit a newly hatched clothes moth larva. Tests by Wallace Coman of the federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine indicate why a larva can get into stored clothes when the cracks or open spaces are not large enough for the moth itself. Information received at Michigan State College from the new experimentation of Coman shows that a moth is smart enough to lay her eggs in a crack in a box when she can't get into the clothes. The larva hatches and crawls in to feed upon woolens. To keep clothes safe, all cracks should be sealed up with gummed tape and for extra precaution, a plentiful supply of moth flakes should be in with the clothes.

AT THE MOVIES

"One Million B. C." a Masterpiece

Put Hal Roach's new prehistoric film spectacle, "One Million B. C." down as the next picture you will run—not walk—to see. The new production will be shown July 20 at the Palace Theatre.

Co-starring Lon Chaney, Jr., Carole Landis and Victor Mature, "One Million B. C." tells a simple story of two prehistoric tribes — the Shell People and the Rock Tribe—who live their lives under the shadow of attack by huge dinosaurs, woolly mammoths, musk oxen, terrifying reptiles, as well as visitations of earthquakes and seething volcanoes.

"Bill of Divorcement" Maureen O'Hara Next Picture

Presenting the Irish sensation, Maureen O'Hara, in her first modern role, "A Bill of Divorcement" is scheduled July 21-22 at the Palace Theatre, with a brilliant assemblage of favorites in the cast. The vibrant Miss O'Hara, who scored as the gypsy heroine of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," enacts the powerful role of the heart-torn girl Sydney, while Adolphe Menjou, Fay Bainter, Herbert Marshall, Dame May Whitty, Patric Knowles, C. Aubrey Smith and other celebrities play important parts.

"The Captain is a Lady" at Palace

When a boy meets a girl, you can expect romance, and when a salty old tar invades an Old Ladies' Home, you can expect comedy. Both happen in "The Captain is a Lady," which opens July 23 for a run of two days at the Palace Theatre.

Two comparative newcomers to the screen are presented in the romantic roles. Virginia Grey, who first drew attention in "The Women" and later in "Thunder Afloat," is cast in the feminine lead, and Dan Dailey, Jr., a former musical comedy star, won the juvenile male lead on the strength of his first screen appearance in "The Mortal Storm."

Bob Hope Takes No Chances With Wits

Bob Hope knows from past experience that a professional comedian can't be too careful while making a motion picture. He is surrounded by actors who occasionally see a chance for a practical joke, just to even the score.

In Paramount's "The Ghost Breakers," the mirthful mystery which will be seen July 25 and 26 at the Palace Theatre, the script required him to be locked in a wardrobe trunk. Intuitively he sensed that something might go wrong and the end of the day would still find him locked in the trunk with no lunch, tea or dinner.

Once the world's chief source of fur supply, the United States is now the largest fur consuming market in the world and depends on imports for half its requirements, the federal Fish and Wildlife Service reports.

STORM RAISED HAVOC WITH YOUNG SQUIRREL

Large Number Found Dead After Deluge of Rain

Shaken from their nests by violent winds and apparently drowned in the deluge that followed, 58 young fox squirrels fell victims to one of Nature's unfriendly moods on a farm near Jonesville.

J. C. Fogg of Scipio township counted the dead young fox squirrels on a bit of woods on his farm when he went to see that his cattle were safe after a particularly hard thunderstorm. Previously he had been unaware of the high wildlife population of his woodlot.

Millionth 1940 Chevrolet to be Contest Award

Some conception of the demand for the 1940 Chevrolet may be gained from the fact that the one-millionth model of this year's production left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., on July 12. In celebration of the public appreciation reflected by this tremendous production record, M. E. Coyle, general manager of Chevrolet, shown (left) above with W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced that the one-millionth 1940 car, together with a trip to the New York World's Fair, would be awarded in a contest which is open now and will close Aug. 31. Details are obtainable at any of the company's dealers.

4. If the voter was willing to cross party lines, the party should be willing to cross them for its nominee.

Willkie, a life-long Democrat until four years ago, is proof to these prophets that political changes of a revolutionary kind are taking place in the United States.

Do they point the way to similar changes in Michigan? Let us examine the arguments.

Phenomenon

In these fast-moving blitzkrieg days, the nomination of Willkie has been widely proclaimed to be a phenomenon of first magnitude.

Out of the unknown the Hoosier comet suddenly appeared crossing our political skies.

To the amazement of old-timers, the Willkie candidacy was in utter contradiction and defiance of most established rules of politics.

The utility president declined to accept contributions, mailing back checks to donors. He spent only around $4,000 of his own funds. His hotel reservation for a headquarters was for two rooms. He declined to make deals with party bosses. He spoke frankly in favor of aiding the Allies with supplies at a time when Republican non-interventionists were labeling the Democrats as having a "war party."

Where some campaign promoters deemed it to be traditionally expedient to tempt delegates with free liquor at lavishly equipped bars, the Willkie technique scorned the device.

Was the Willkie abandon and disregard for conventional customs an astute analysis of the 1940 public mind? Here is what happened.

One by one the favorite sons—Dewey, Taft and Vandenberg—fell by the wayside before this strange combination of social forces. The alliterative Wendell L. Willkie, a college radical in his Indiana youth and a New Dealer from 1932 to 1936, became the 1940 nominee of the Republican party! Little wonder that commentators and writers have written profusely since the convention.

Parallel in Michigan?

That a parallel exists in Michigan public opinion is a contention advanced by many independent-thinking Republicans today.

—We present it solely as speculation in keeping with our policy of non-partisan writing.

Whether the parallel is true or untrue is for history to decide.

The national and state situations are not exactly the same. In the first place, a Democrat occupies the White House; a Republican is in Michigan's capitol executive office. Secondly, war responsibility is largely national. Wars are fought from Washington, not from Lansing.

Then where does the "parallel" begin?

The argument goes like this: The Willkie disregard for state bosses and ballot ballyhoo is a sign that Michigan voters want leaders who are "free" and "independent" from alliances and commitments.

In these days of labels, few voters will disagree with "free" and "independent" as being desirable qualifications for any public official. The difference arises when we try to define what we say.

Independents

Among the present Republican candidates in Michigan who are definitely known to be "anti-boss" independents are Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, running for lieutenant governor; O. L. Smith of Detroit, candidate for governor, and James Thomson of Jackson, aspirant for lieutenant governor.

The other candidates may be entitled also to this label, but so far they have not openly spurned assistance which Michigan's new national party committeeman, Frank D. McKay of Grand Rapids, might be able to give them. Hence their position is not a matter of record. Such is our distinction.

In this latter classifications are such candidates as Arthur Vandenberg, Luren D. Dickinson, Miller Dunckel and Felix Flynn. They are party organization leaders in the accepted sense.

To jump to the conclusion that Willkie's nomination is proof of new trend in Michigan politics and hence that Michigan voters are going to upset the proverbial applecart at the September primary are comforting thoughts, of course, to the supporters of Messrs. Eaton, Smith and Thomson.

Reminders

But then as you think you have everything nicely figured out, several disturbing reminders arise. You recall it was the Michigan delegation, officially led by McKay, which spectacularly accelerated the Willkie landslide in the sixth ballot.

However, despite what prophets may say and what analysists may deduce on paper, the only answer will come from the primary and convention in September. We do not venture even a surmise as to the outcome.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Rural Water Supplies

Water is a universal human requirement which may readily become a means of disease transmission. In rural areas or other sections where municipal supplies are not available it is therefore extremely important that the sources of water be satisfactory sources and that complete protection be given the water after it is removed from its source.

A well should be located as far as practicable from such sources of contamination as septic tanks, cesspools, barnyards, sewers, privies and similar structures. A safe distance depends on the type of soil and the direction of flow of the ground water. The following minimum distances are recommended by the Michigan Department of Health in a published bulletin on Well Water Supplies as a guide to the selection of a well site.

"The location of a ground water supply shall be such that the area which is within 75 feet of the casing or suction pipe shall be free from sources of possible contamination such as seepage pits, cesspools, outhouses, barnyards, septic tanks, disposal fields, county drains and other sources of contamination; except that sewers or pipes, when unexposed, through which sewage may back up, shall not be located within 30 feet of any casing or suction pipe. When such sewers or pipes are within 30 to 75 feet area they shall be constructed of extra heavy cast iron soil pipe or cast iron water pipe with lead joints tested for water-tightness. Such pipes, when unexposed, and accessible for inspection (i.e., such as in a basement above the floor, may be allowed within the 10 to 30 foot area."

No specific depth of well can be recommended as a safe depth. It is recommended that wells be at least 25 feet in depth.

Finally, in order to insure a safe water reaching the consumer, the well construction must be such as to prevent any contamination from entering the well by such means as following the outside of the casing into the ground, flooding the pump pits, entering the casing at the ground surface or by entering an improperly constructed pump.

Supervision and Examination of Banks

THE federal or state governmental body which charters and supervises a bank has power to examine it at regular intervals — usually twice a year. In addition to the examinations required by state law of state banks and by the National Bank Act of national banks, both the Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are authorized to examine their members.

The purposes of the examinations are (1) to ascertain that the bank is solvent, (2) to determine that it is operating within legal limitations, and (3) to ascertain that sound policies are being pursued. Through such examinations we obtain a review of our operations, and receive expert suggestions and advice on our policies and practices whereby we may improve our service to our customers.
